the general body of creditors. The property comes completely under the Insolvency Court and can only be disposed of under its direction. The property can only be distributed equally among all the creditors and no one creditor has got a right to appropriate the money of the insolvent to the exclusion of other creditors. Where the property is, by the order under S. 37, vested in the Official Receiver or other appointee in the interests of the general body of creditors, there is a statutory trust created by virtue of the order in favour of the creditors. 1941 M. W.N. 489=1941 Mad. 753. A vesting order under S. 37, to be valid, need not be passed simultaneously with the order annulling the adjudication. A vesting order passed subsequently is perfectly valid and cannot be attacked as being without jurisdiction. 47 L. W. 587=1938 Mad. 752=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 824. S. 37 gives the Court a wide discretion. The annulment of the adjudication does not mean that the debtor who is adjudicated is necessarily to be placed in possession of the property which is in the hands of the Official Receiver at the time the adjudication is set aside. The Insolvency Court retains full power to give directions as to the realization and disposal of the debtor's assets. Where it is found that after the adjudication and before the annulment the insolvent has paid moneys to a person fraudulently and that the insolvent and the person to whom he has paid were parties to a gross fraud, the Court on the application of the Official Receiver to direct the moneys to be refunded to the Official Receiver and to direct the latter, not as the Official Receiver but as a person appointed by the Court under S. 37, to direct the amount rateably among the creditors who have proved in the insolvency proceedings. I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 441=51 L.W. 231=1940 Mad. 375=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 228 (F.B.). See also 1940 Nag. 4.

"PROPERTY" — RIGHT TO COLLECT MONEY DUE TO INSOLVENT.—The word "property" is used in its widest sense, that is to say, it is used in the sense not only of the thing which is the subject-matter of ownership, but includes also the dominion or the right of ownership or of partial ownership. In this sense the right to collect the money which is found to be due to the insolvent is property within the meaning of S. 37 and it vests in the appointee. 1935 Rang. 328. The words "all acts theretofore done" mean all acts done with a view to making sales and dispositions of property, including the setting aside of transfers made by the insolvent with a view ultimately of making sale of the property so recovered for the benefit of the estate in his hands and therefore ultimately for the benefit of the creditors, even though the actual final disposal of the property has not been made on the date of the annulment of the adjudication and therefore the date on which the receiver in insolvency qua receiver caases to exist. Hence on annulment of adjudication, orders passed in proceedings instituted by receiver in insolvency under Ss. 53 and 54 do not become vacated. [Difference between the positions of the debtor and of the appointee made out.] 1935 Rang. 328. After the making of an order of adjudication, the insolvent has no right or title left to him in his property in view of the provisions of S. 28 (2), and a transfer by an undischarged insolvent is, therefore, void. Such a transfer cannot be made valid by the annulment of adjudication. When a transaction is void ab initio, nothing that can happen afterwards can validate or revive it. 1937 O.W.N. 94. See also 1938 Nag. 312 (extent and limit of validation of proceedings). Sec. 37 (1).—Court's duty to pass order under the section on annulment of adjudication. 1927 L. 914. Application for annulment of adjudication during pendency of application under S. 54. Held, that the judge ought to have made use of the provisions of S. 37 and ordered the debtor's property to vest in the O.R. and that the effect of an order vesting the property in the O. R, would be to entitle him to continue the proceeding instituted by him under S. 54. Per curiam—The word "acts" in S. 37 is wide enough to include O.R.'s act of avoidance under S. 54. 52 M. 648=57 M.L.J. 116. See also 1930 O. 474; 44 L.W. 719 (absence of vesting order, effect of). The word 'property' as used in S. 37 does not include the right to sue for cancellation of a transfer which had accrued to the O.R. This right to sue is a personal right and cannot be subject of transfer. Being a personal right specially granted by law, it cannot be an interest that devolves under O. 22, R. 10, C. P. Code. Therefore where an O.R. has become functus officio on account of the property of the insolvent having been vested in the trustees in consequence of which he withdraws from a suit for the cancellation of a transfer pending in a certain Court and the Court dismisses it under O. 9, R. 8, the trustees cannot apply to be made the legal representatives of the O.R. and ask for the restoration of the suit. 152 I.C. 380=1934 Pesh. 89.

ANNULMENT OF ADJUDICATION—EFFECT OF.—Except where there is an express provision in that behalf, the effect of an order annuling an order of adjudication is that there is no longer an insolvent before the Court and the Court subject to S. 37 is no longer entitled to pass orders in respect of the debtor's estate in its Ins. jurisdiction. 14 Rang. 254 1936 R. 284 (F.B.). See also 42 C.W.N. 34. S. 37 contemplates that, unless the Court has passed an order vesting the property of the insolvent, after the adjudication has been annulled, in a person appointed by the Court, it shall revert to the debtor. The mere fact that the property on passing of the adjudication order vested in the O.R. does not authorise the receiver to deal with it after the adjudication has been annulled, in the absence of an express order to that effect by the insolvency Judge. The effect of annulment of adjudication is that the condition with regard to the property which existed immediately before the passing of the adjudication order is restored unless, of course, an order under S. 37 vesting the property in a person appointed by the insolvency judge has been passed. 163 I.C. 1007=38 P.L.R. 273=1936 Lah. 568. Where the Court passes an order under S. 37 vesting the property of the insolvent in the Official Receiver or some one other than the debtor, there is no reversion of the debtor's property to the debtor. The only person entitled to represent the estate of the debtor after such an order is the appointee under S. 37. An execution sale of the debtor's property held thereafter without notice to and without impleading the appointee under S. 37, is therefore null and void, and the purchaser gets no title under the sale. 1942 M.W.N. 114=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 311. Where an order annulling an adjudication stated that 'adjudication is annulled subject to the property in the hands of the receiver which will be sold and assets will be distributed amongst the scheduled creditors' and there was neither a vesting order nor the appointment of an appointee, the order only means that the Court is annulling an insolvency, but is providing that there shall be no reverter of the property vested in the receiver under the receiving order to the debtors, but that the property is to be sold and the proceeds distributed amongst the creditors. If there was balance it would go to the insolvents. 1939 N.L.J. 186=1939 N. 203=I.L.R. (1941) Nag. 410. The order of discharge is not equivalent to annulment of adjudication so as to bring in the provisions of S. 37. The revesting of the property in the discharged debtor cannot take place through the operation of S. 37. I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 458=42 P.L.R. 754 1940 Lah. 304.

ANNULMENT—POSITION OF RECEIVER AND OF APPOINTEE.—From the moment of the annulment of an order of adjudication and onwards the receiver ceases to be receiver in insolvency, but if he is appointed to receive the property of the insolvent, he becomes a mere appointee with reference to such property and thus a mere custodian of the property which comes into his hands. (1933 Rang. 223, Applied). 1935 Rang. 152. The persons in whom property vests under S. 37 have full power to deal with the property vested in them and can proceed to distribute the estate. 43 P.L.R. 369=1941 Lah. 316. An appointee under S. 37 has no power to distribute debtor's assets; and unlike a Receiver is not a necessary party to a suit in respect of debts proved in insolvency before annulment. He is not even a proper party. His only duty is to be custodian of the property, so that it may be attached in his hands when decrees are obtained against the debtor (1933 Rang. 223, F. B. Rel. on.) Rang. 254=1936 Rang. 284 (F.B.). The unconditional annulment of the adjudication pending a creditor's application to set aside a sale of the insolvent's property by the O.R. does not deprive the Ins. Court of its jurisdiction to hear and determine the application. The effect of S. 37 is that the order of annulment will not invalidate the acts of the Court or of the O. R. theretofore done; but they do not acquire a degree of sacrosanctity or immunity from attack by way of appeal which they would not have possessed had there been no order of annulment. 156 I.C. 284=41 L.W. 461=1935 M. 433. As to scope and meaning of section, see 13 Pat.L.T. 775. It is not correct to say that after the order of annulment the insolvency proceeding comes to an end ipso facto. Though the effect of passing an order of annulment without any condition is to vest the property in the debtor, there is nothing in the Act to prevent the Court subsequently from giving suitable directions or vesting the property in the receiver for the protection of the creditors. Such an order is not a review of the order of annulment but is supplementary to it, and can be passed under the inherent powers of the Court under S. 151, C. P. Code, attracted by S. 5 (1) of this Act. No doubt, if subsequent to annulment and before the vesting order, the insolvent has transferred the property to a bona fide purchaser, such a purchaser perhaps may not be affected. But the parties to the insolvency proceeding will be bound by the order. 13 Pat.L.T. 775. See also 15 L. 698=1934 L. 468. On annulling an adjudication under S. 43 on the ground that the insolvent did not apply for discharge within time, Ins. Court has, under S. 37 ample jurisdiction to make an order vesting the property of the insolvent in the hands of the O. R. or any other person for distributing the assets among the creditors of the insolvent. Though the annulment of insolvency puts an end to the insolvency proceedings against the insolvent, the Ins. Court still has jurisdiction over the insolvent's assets to pass the necessary orders in favour of the creditors. 1930 M. 520=58 M.L.J. 658. Also 139 I.C. 574 (2)=63 M.L.J. 414. Effect of annulment without any further order is to vest property in insolvent unconditionally. 3 R. 201=56 I.C. 324. See also 1928 M. 265=54 M.L.J. 344; 1931 S.31. Annulment of adjudication order —Notice to interested creditor necessary. 1927 R. 273. When the insolvent fails to apply for order of discharge, the Court is bound to pass an order under S. 37 vesting the property in a person appointed by it. 100 I.C. 137. See also 19 S.L.R. 286; 112 I.C. 768. On annulment of adjudication, the O. R. can only take such amount as he has spent and his costs and commission, and the rest of the amount should be held for the insolvent's benefit. 1926 M.W.N. 950; 1928 L. 453. S. 37 does not allow an Ins. Court on annulling an insolvency to proceed to distribute the assets of the insolvent among any of the creditors. But the words "to vest in such person" do not mean distributing the property among the creditors. Such vesting is only for the purpose apparently of making the property available to creditors to proceed through the Civil Court. 1931 A.L.J. 18=1931 A. 71; 1932 A.L.J. 1095=1933 A. 117. As soon as an order of annulment coupled with a vesting order under S. 37 is made, all acts done by the receiver shall be valid and the property of the insolvent shall vest in such person as the Court may appoint. The consequences of the annulment are that the insolvent does not get back any property which has already been distributed amongst his creditors, and as to such property, as still remains in hand, the Court will, to protect the creditors, make an order vesting it in such person as the Court may appoint with a view to distribute the same. That person may proceed to sell and distribute the property among the creditors then existing and not call for any future claims. He should proceed to divide property in his hand amongst the creditors, whose claims have been admitted and entered in the schedule. 1931 S. 31. S. 37 is intended to vest the insolvent debtor's admitted properties in some third person for the purpose of making them available to the creditors while in the meanwhile avoiding the debtor being called an insolvent. Where, until the alienation is found bad, the property belongs to the alienee there cannot be an order vesting the property in the creditor. 1930 M.W,N. 670. The consequences of annulment of adjudication are different from those of a discharge. On the annulment of adjudication, there is nothing to prevent a creditor from pursuing his remedy in a Court of law if his debt has not been scheduled in the insolvency proceedings. So, where, after a composition scheme had been sanctioned the adjudication was annulled, a creditor in whose favour a cheque had been given by the insolvent and who could not cash it owing to the adjudication, is entitled to bring a suit against the debtor for recovery of the amount due under the cheque. 34 P.L.R. 135=1933 L. 187 (1). The provisions of S. 37 are applicable to composition schemes by virtue of S. 39. 35 P.L.R. 522=1934 L. 394. When an annulment is made, the debtor reverts to the position as he was before the insolvency. 9 P. 945. Where the debt due to the insolvent had been sold, it is only the proceeds of the sale and not the debt itself that vest in the receiver. 9 Pat. 945. There is no basis for the view that when the Court has passed a particular vesting order under S. 37 at the time of annulling an order of adjudication under S. 43, restricted in a particular way, it retains the power on some future date to pass a fresh order removing those restrictions and providing for an entirely new scheme for the distribution of the assets. That cannot be done under the Insolvency Act. There is no inherent power to rectify errors so as to justify the divesting of property which under the Act has already vested in the insolvent. The error may, however, be corrected, under O. 47, C. P. Code, if the matter can be brought within the purview of O. 47. 51 L.W. 612=1940 Mad. 724=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 932. The question whether one creditor is entitled to appropriate the money which is intended for the distribution among all creditors of the insolvent, in priority to other creditors, can only be adjudicated in the presence of the creditors by the Court which has jurisdiction in insolvency; the Official Receiver by himself cannot be said to represent the creditors in regard to the decision on the question of priority. An order of an executing Court that a decree obtained by an individual creditor against the Official Receiver and the insolvent after a vesting order under S. 37 is executable does not in any way affect the power of the Insolvency Court over the fund at its disposal. The fact that the Officiai Receiver is compelled by order of an executing Court to pay moneys in his hands cannot affect the power of the Insolvency Court to make orders regarding the money in the hands of the Receiver; and it is competent to the Insolvency Court to direct a refund of any sum of money taken away by a creditor, who is amenable to its jurisdiction, in excess of what he is justly entitled to. 1941 M. W.N. 489=1941 Mad. 753.

Secs. 37 and 43.—Where the Court passes an order annulling an adjudication for failure on the part of the insolvent to apply for his discharge it is not necessary that a vesting order under S. 37 should be made then and there. There is nothing in S. 37 or S. 43 of the Act which requires that the order vesting the property under S. 37 must be made at the time of the order of annulment. Such a vesting order may be made subsequently to the order of annulment and an order so made subsequently is neither illegal nor without jurisdiction. In any case, the Court omitting to pass a vesting order at the time of the annulment of the adjudication has power to supply the omission later on for the ends of justice or to prevent abuse of process of the Court and pass a vesting order under its inherent powers under S. 151, C. P. Code. The powers defined in S. 151, C. P. Code, have been conferred on the Insolvency Court by S. 5 (1) of this Act. 40 C.W.N. 1229=1936 C. 573. See also 43 P.L.R. 369=1941 Lah. 316; 1939 Lah. 275; 14 Luck. 404=1939 Oudh 55. Where the Insolvency Court annuls an adjudication under S. 43 and passes an order under S. 37 vesting the properties of the quondam insolvent in an appointee (Official Receiver or other person) the administration in insolvency can be continued for the realisation and distribution of the assets of the insolvent notwithstanding the annulment. The Insolvency Court will in such a case have full power to give directions to the appointee as to the realisation and disposal of the debtor's assets. That power, however, should not be used arbitrarily, and should be used not in the interests of this or that creditor, but in the interests of the whole body of creditors; in other words, the only proper order for the Court to pass is that the appointee should continue to realise and distribute the debtor's property in accordance with the provisions of the Act. Though a person appointed under S. 37 is competent to continue applications under Ss. 53 and 54, which are pending at the time the order of annulment is made under S. 43, he cannot initiate similar proceedings after the annulment. 69 M.L.J. 364 (F.B.).

Compositions and schemes of arrangement.

38. (1) Where a debtor, after the making of an order of adjudication, submits a proposal for a composition in satisfaction of his debts, or a proposal for a scheme of arrangement, of his affairs, the Court shall fix a date for the consideration of the proposal, and shall issue a notice to all creditors in such manner as may be prescribed.

(2) If, on the consideration of the proposal, a majority in number and three-fourths in value of all the creditors whose debts are proved and who are present in person or by pleader, resolve to accept the proposal, the same shall be deemed to be duly accepted by the creditors.

(3) The debtor may at the meeting amend the terms of his proposal if the amendment is, in the opinion of the Court, calculated to benefit the general body of creditors.

(4) Where the Court is of opinion, after hearing the report of the receiver, if a receiver has been appointed, and after considering any objections which may be made by or on behalf of any creditor, that the terms of the proposal are not reasonable or are not calculated to benefit the general body of creditors, the Court shall refuse to approve the proposal.

order of adjudication and the debt is sold by the Court not knowing the pendency of the insolvency proceedings, the sale. although it would protect a bona fide purchaser, will have absolutely no effect upon the rights of the creditors inter se, which would be governed by S. 51 and the creditor realizing money from the sale of the property must share it along with other creditiors, and under S. 28 read with S. 51, he must make over the benefit he has derived from the execution to the receiver when the receiver calls upon him to do so. S. 37 does not apply to such a case as it refers to the vesting of the property of the insolvent after an order of annulment has been made. 17 Pat. L.T, 313=1936 P. 112.

Secs. 32 and 75.—Any complaint as to absence of notice of order of annulment under S. 37 (2) can only be agitated by way of an appeal under S. 75 against the order of annulment and cannot be challenged in other proceedings. (1937) A.M.L.J. 101.

Any private arrangement between creditors and insolvent will not be recognised. The creditors can prove their claims notwithstanding the arrangement. 61 I.C. 904=25 C.W.N. 137. A composition in its essence is an agreement. Unless therefore a proposal is accepted by a majority in number and three-fourths in value of all the creditors, it cannot be deemed to be duly accepted; the proposal cannot be said to have reached the stage of agreement or a composition and there cannot therefore be a proposal for composition before the Court for its consideration or acceptance. 160 I.C. 994=1936 A.L.J. 44=1936 A.W.R. 41 =1936 A. 102. Secs. 38 (2) and 7.—Where a proposal for composition has not been duly accepted by the creditors under S. 38 (2). it is open to the Court to approve the proposal under S. 38 (7). The Provincial Insolvency Act seems to contemplate a possibility that public morality and the interests of the general body of creditors may both require that such a proposal be accepted. The Legislature has armed the Court with power to accept the proposal even though the creditors have not accepted it. An Insolvency Court

(6) No composition or scheme shall be approved by the Court which does not provide for the payment in priority to other debts of all debts directed to be so paid in the distribution of the property of an insolvent.

Power to re-adjudge debtor insolvent.

40. If default is made in the payment of any instalment due in pursuance of the composition or scheme, or if it appears to the Court that the composition or scheme cannot proceed without injustice or undue delay, or that the approval of the Court was obtained by fraud, the Court may, if it thinks fit, re-adjudge the debtor insolvent and annul the composition or scheme but without prejudice to the validity of any transfer or payment duly made or of anything duly done under or in pursuance of the composition or scheme. When a debtor is readjudged insolvent under this section, all debts provable in other respects which have been contracted before the date of such re-adjudication shall be provable in the insolvency.

Under the Provincial Insolvency Act of 1907, if a creditor did not prove his debt and was not included in the schedule, he could even after the discharge enforce his claim. The new Act of 1920 is the same except that an order of discharge under it does release the insolvent from all provable debts. But there is nothing in the Act to show that the order of annulment can prevent a creditor who has not proved his debt from proceeding to enforce it in a Civil Court. 1929 S. 204. The Court by approving of a scheme cannot impose an obligation upon one creditor to give up his claim against another creditor; S. 39 cannot cover the case of debts due to one creditor of the insolvent by another. Where in a scheme put forward by the insolvent there is a proposal that in consideration of the receipt of enhanced dividends certain creditors should give up their claims against the surety (another creditor) and this is not consented to by the creditors concerned, it cannot be binding upon them under S. 39, although the scheme has been assented to by the requisite number and value of the creditors. 1942 M.W.N. 140=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 316. See also 1941 Nag. 355. Parties absent—Order passed in default is no order of annulment. 1930 N. 34. An annulment under S. 39 does not put an end to the jurisdiction of the Insolvency Court over all the parties, and that Court does not, by reason of the annulment, become wholly functus officio so as to be incompetent to enforce a surety bond executed to it in the composition scheme. The Insolvency Court to which a surety bond is given must prima facie have power to enforce it, and that Court has therefore jurisdiction to grant relief to a creditor against the surety by summary orders notwithstanding the annulment of the adjudication under S. 39. The creditor is not bound to take an assignment of the bond and sue thereon. 1936 M. 424=71 M.L.J. 733.

Discharge.

41. (1) A debtor may, at any time after the order of adjudication and shall, within the period specified by the Court, apply to the Court for an order of discharge, and the Court shall fix a day, notice whereof shall be given in such manner as may be prescribed, for hearing such application, and any objections which may be made thereto.

Discharge.

NOTES.

Secs. 39 and 37.—Where a composition scheme sanctioned and embodied in the order provided for the deposit by the debtor of a certain sum in instalments and the latter defaults in complying with the order it is open to the Insolvency Court, on an application by the creditor, to proceed as in execution and enforce its own orders. There is no need in such a case to set aside the annulment. 1942 N.L.J. 313.

Sec. 41.—The wording of S. 41 shows that it is open to the insolvent to apply for his discharge at any time though it is obligatory for him to make an application in the first instance within such time as may have been fixed by the Court at the outest. 32 P.L.R. 476=1931 L. 672. Under S. 41 it is discretionary with the Court to pass one of three orders mentioned therein. The question whether the Courts would have exercised better discretion if they had acted in one manner rather than another is not one which can be properly raised in revision. 1931 L. 672. An order of discharge as contemplated by S. 41 could only be made in the interest of the general body of creditors of the insolvent, and the fact that one of them only raises objection to the discharge is not material for the purpose of the Courts making an order which is to affect the entire body of creditors. 39 C.W.N. 1292=1935 C. 644. In an application for discharge under S. 41, the Court has no power to annul the adjudication in insolvency, though it may be of opinion that the insolvent is dishonest. 68 M.L.J. 699. Ordinarily speaking insolvency proceedings would not terminate until there has been a discharge of the insolvent, but the matter is otherwise where the insolvent is dead. In such a case there is an automatic discharge of the insolvent and where the property has been distributed prior to his death, the proceedings must be held automatically terminated. 1933 L. 997. If a Court, on application by the insolvent for discharge, refuses an absolute discharge under S. 41(2) (a), it should then consider the possible application of Cl. (b) or (c) or both and pass an order accordingly. It is not proper for the Court to merely refuse to grant an absolute discharge without specifying any further conditions and without settling the future position of the insolvent. 193 I.C. 546 =1941 Pat. 285. A discharge under laws of a foreign country in respect of debts contracted therein is valid in British India, though the debt was intended to be paid in British India. 51 I.C. 38=9 L.W. 535. Where time for applying for discharge was contained in an addendum at the foot o fthe order of adjudication, it is not a part of the order. 1926 L. 24 The time limit—Meaning of "shall". 12 Luck. 75. Court has no power to extend the time stipulated for the insolvent applying for discharge. The remedy is to apply for fresh adjudication if there are justifiable circumstances. 5 O.W.N. 686=1928 O. 376. See 108 I.C. 803, contra. See also the cases cited on this point under S. 27; 1933 M.W.N. 1309. Discharge of firm—Liability of partner for separate debt incurred prior to adjudication. 25 S.L.R. 422. Per Mukerji, J.—The principle of Ins. law is that the debtor on giving up the whole of his property shall be a free man again, able to earn his livelihood and having the ordinary inducements to industry. It would be only in extreme cases that an insolvent will be refused a discharge either absolute or conditional or of any kind whatever. 1930 A.L.J. 316=1930 A. 471 (2). Per Mukerji, J.—Ordinarily no second application by the insolvent is contemplated by the law, the first application being sufficient. Per King, J.—The language of S. 41 (1) seems to be sufficiently wide to cover a fresh application made after the refusal of an application made within the period specified. 1930 All. 471. Where an insolvent who has applied for an order of discharge within the time specified by the Court has failed to file talbana, his failure to do so cannot be considered as a failure to apply for the discharge. 128 I.C. 273=7 O.W.N. 941=1930 O. 474. The order of discharge should state that the Judge was satisfied that the assets were not of the requisite value from circumstances for which the insolvent could not be held to be justly responsible. 1928 C. 843; 115 I. C. 584. Where the insolvent's assets were not found to be equal to eight annas in the rupee and the insolvent had failed to prove that his liabilities arose out of circumstances for which he could not justly be held responsible, held, that he could not legally be granted an order of discharge under S. 41. 8 O.W.N. 843=1931 O. 356 (1). Before passing an order of final discharge under S. 41 it is necessary for a Court to examine the insolvent and to be satisfied of certain facts which are to be found in S. 42. 1929 C. 576. An order under S. 41 does not put an end to the proceedings in insolvency. The discharge of the insolvent does not put an end to its power to give directions as to the distribution of the assets. 7 R. 126; 1929 M. 157; 1931 L. 725. Under S. 41 all that the Court can do is to suspend the operation of the order for a specified time or grant an order of discharge subject to any condition with respect to any earnings or income which may afterwards become due to the insolvent, or with respect to his after-acquired property; but an order stating that he shall remain a bankrupt until he pays a particular proportion in the rupee is a bad order. 1929 L. 461 (1); 55 C.L.J. 94=1932 C. 623. Where under S. 44 of the former Act III of 1907 and S. 41 of the pre-

(2) Subject to the provisions of this section, the Court may, after considering the objections of any creditor and, where a receiver has been appointed, the report of the receiver—

(a) grant or refuse an absolute order of discharge; or

(b) suspend the operation of the order for a specified time; or

(c) grant an order of discharge subject to any conditions with respect to any earnings or income which may afterwards become due to the insolvent, or with respect to his after-acquired property.

NOTES.

sent Act V of 1920, the Court passes an order of absolute discharge which is suspended for a specific time, that is, until the property of the insolvent has been sold and subsequently the property is sold, the insolvency proceeding is terminated, although, owing to a clercial error of the office, a formal order of discharge is not drawn up after the sale of the property and the insolvency proceeding cannot be revived at any later date at the instance of any creditor. 1935 A.L.J. 274=1935 A. 272.

Sec. 41 (2) (a).—The mere fact of a suit pending against the O. R. should not prevent an Ins. Court from granting an application for discharge. 1931 L. 725. Unconditional order of refusal to discharge—Subsequent applications for discharge maintainable. 1928 M.W.N. 175 =1928 M. 609. See also 5 O.W.N. 686=1928 O. 376; 1926 C. 529. S. 41 (2) (a) contemplates only an order either granting or refusing an absolute order of discharge as distinguished from an order of discharge subject to a condition. The section does not contemplate that there may be an order absolutely refusing to discharge an insolvent. Where the Judge passed an order in the following terms:—"It seems to me that nothing is to be gained from suspending the discharge or making a conditional order. The man is not fit to be given credit and that will be the result of his remaining an undischarged insolvent. I therefore refuse discharge absolutely." Held, that the order must be regarded as merely an order refusing to make an absolute order for discharge. Held, further, that if the order meant to preclude the insolvent from again applying for discharge, it was erroneous. 1931 C. 392=53 C.L.J. 44. See also 148 I.C. 971=1934 L. 109. An absolute refusal to grant an order of discharge is not justified by S. 41. 14Luck. 442=1939 Oudh 129. An order directing the insolvent to pay Rs. 15 a month and to apply for discharge after one year, imposes conditions but does not grant any discharge subject to those conditions, and hence does not come within any of the clauses of S. 41. 144 I.C. 247=1933 S. 151 (1). Creditors who have not proved their debts are not necessary parties to an application for discharge. Therefore, the failure to give talbona for such a creditor or to bring the representatives of such a deceased creditor on the record does not affect the proeedings. 39 P.L.R. 344=1937 Lah. 752. An order of discharge in the insolvency proceedings does not put an end to the proceedings and therefore a receiver can be appointed, without vacating the order of discharge, at any time when it is discovered that there is property of the insolvent which comes within the definition of property in S. 2 (1) (d), and to which S. 28 of the said Act is applicable. 1940 Rang. L.R. 392=1940 Rang. 156. An order of discharge is not invalidated in consequence of the omission to give notice of the application for discharge as required by S. 41 (1) in a case where none of the creditors had proved his debt for there is no irregularity at all. The notice is only required to be given to those creditors who prove their debts. I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 478=1939 Nag. 103.

Sec. 41, (2) (b) and (c).—S. 41 (2) (c) does not justify the Insolvency Court in passing an order discharging the insolvent but at the same time leaving him liable to debts incurred before insolvency. That would defeat the object of the adjudication in insolvency which is to free the debtor from the claims o his existing creditors, which are to be satisfied out of the property of the debtor which the Court takes possession of and distributes among the creditors. A condition imposed on the discharge to the effect that the creditors may recover their dues, if within time, until they become irrecoverable, is invalid in law. The order can only be taken to be a refusal to discharge. I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 493=41 Bom.L.R. 583=1939 Bom. 341. In the absence of evidence to show that since his insolvency the insolvent has, or is likely to have, any income or has acquired or is likely to acquire, any property a conditional discharge asking an insolvent to deposit all his subsequent earnings or his after-acquired property in Court is not good. Further an order vesting the whole of a man's earnings subsequent to insolvency and after-acquired property in the Court, is an order which ought not to be made because it destroys the very motive which moves a man to attempt to obtain income or to acquire property ; it has the effect that he has no incentive either to work or to acquire property. 1939 Rang. 58. See also 1937 Lah. 304=174 I.C. 878. Under S. 41 (a), (b) and (c) the discharge may be either absolute or suspended or conditional. If the discharge is absolute, it must obviously come into operation at once. If the discharge is suspended, then obviously it does not come into operation at once but it does automatically come into operation at the end of the specified time. A conditional discharge operates immediately but the insolvency proceedings are not terminated until the conditions imposed have been fulfilled. The Insolvency Court has power to vary the conditions which it has imposed, although it can not revoke the order of discharge. 42 P.L.R. 324. The Court has absolute discretion in the matter or suspension of discharge and in imposing conditions with respect to after earnings. 39 I.C. 916; 10 I.C. 698; 1928 O. 263. See 1930 C. 576 for the points to be considered by the Court in an application for discharge, conduct of the insolvent, etc. The intention of the legislature is that the debtor on giving up the whole of his property shall be a free man able to earn his livelihood. But sometimes it is necessary that he should pass through a period of probation. The civil rights of creditor must not be forgotten in such a case and a conditional order of discharge should be, as far as is reasonable, for the benefit of the creditors. What is exactly just to both parties is a matter dificult to determine. Insolvent directed to contribute Rs. 50 out of his monthly salary of Rs. 100 for a period of five years. The rate of Rs. 25 fixed by the lower Court held to be too low and the period of 25 years fixed described as amounting to a 'life sentence' which should not be directed. 32 P.L.R. 298 There is no provision for the adding of any other order to an order refusing a discharge under S. 41 (2) (a). S. 41 (2) (b) permits suspension of a discharge for a specified time only. Therefore, where the Court refuses an insolvent his discharge and at the same time directs him to pay certain amount to the receiver until he had paid all his debts, his order is illegal. 1930 R. 236. The Court is competent to grant an order of discharge to an insolvent subject to the condition that he shall hand over to the O.R. all the assets which he might inherit from his father. The possibility of the insolvent's father not dying for a long time or not leaving any property for his son, is no ground for making the discharge unconditional. 35 P.L.R. 786=1934 L. 659 (1). A conditional discharge under the provisions of S. 41 (2) (c) is just as much a discharge as an absolute order of discharge, and concludes the insolvency proceedings. The fact that a condition in regard to after-acquired property is imposed merely gives the creditors right to proceed against such property when it is acquired by the discharged insolvent. (1932 C. 623, Rel. on.) 161 I.C. 242=1936 R. 2. When an insolvent applies for discharge within the period specified in the order of adjudication and his application is refused, he is not precluded from making a further application for discharge and so remain undischarged for life. 1939 Lah. 432. Order granting absolute discharge to enable insolvent to take advantage of U.P. Encumbered Estates Act cannot be passed. 1937 O.W.N. 923=1937 Oudh 450.

Secs. 41 and 42: RIGHT TO DISCHARGE.—An order suspending an insolvent's discharge until such time as his scheduled debts are fully paid, is illegal. The Court must grant an absolute order of discharge, if the insolvent pays 8 annas in the rupee and is not guilty of the misconduct specified in S. 42 of the Provincial Insolvency Act. I.L.R. (1939) Lah. 429=41 P.L.R. 78=1939 Lah. 183. The only conditions that can be imposed under S. 41 (2) (c) of the Provincial Insolvency Act are conditions with respect to any earnings or income which may afterwards become due to the insolvent or with respect to his after-acquired property. It is not possible to impose a condition that the insolvent shall pay any specified proportion of his debts. Where an insolvent's debts exceeded Rs. 18,000 and his total assets realised were a little above Rs. 50 the Court was obliged under S. 42 (1) to refuse an absolute order of discharge, unless the insolvent satisfied the Court that the fact that the assets were not of a value equal to 8 annas in the rupee on the amount of his unsecured liabilities had arisen from circumstances for which he could not justly be held responsible. The operation of an order of discharge can only be suspended after the order has come into existence. 50 L.W. 632=1939 Mad. 890=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 555. Where through no fault of their own the assets of the insolvents have not been properly administered and the non-realisation of 8 as. in the rupee was not due to anything for which the insolvents can be held responsible and the insolvency proceedings have been dragging on for well-nigh 14 years and there was no reasonable prospect whatsoever of the insolvents coming into any property which can be taken over by the receiver for liquidating the debts due by the insolvents, an order granting discharge is right and proper. 38 P.L.R. 218=1936 L. 840. Where it is found that the debts shown by the insolvent are trade debts incurred in the course of a business carried on by the insolvent and his father, and that the insolvent is not guilty of any of the acts mentioned in Cls. (c) to (f) of S. 42, there being nothing to suggest that the insolvent continued to trade, knowing himself to be insolvent, or contracted any debt recklessly or brought on his insolvency by any sort of rash and hazardous speculation, the Court can properly grant him an absolute order of discharge, although his assets are not of a value equal to eight annas in the rupee, especially when the receiver reports recommending a discharge. 44 L.W. 284=1936 M. 800=71 M L.J. 371.

Secs. 41 and 44 : DISCHARGE—EFFECT OF.—An order of discharge does not revest property in the insolvent. 31 S.L.R. 506=1937 Sind 306.

Sec. 42.—As to grounds for refusing discharge see 146 I.C. 532=34 P.L.R. 991=1933 L. 812. The facts that at the time of the transactions the insolvent was a young man of about 20 years of age and was carrying on business with his father under his direction and control, is no ground for granting him an absolute discharge. 38 P.L.R. 1164. As to whether refusal of discharge terminates proceedings, see 3 R. 492. An insolvent is responsible for incurring debts when he had no assets at all and the purpose of keeping him an insolvent is to make plain to the world that his credit is gone so that he cannot cause loss to creditors in the future. His credit will return to him to some extent when he is discharged. That time will be postponed unless he pays 8 as. in the rupee or satisfies the Court that the absence of the requisite asset was due to circumstances for which he was not responsible. 1942 N.L.J. 246. Refusal of discharge though eight annas in the rupee was paid, see 1928 O. 263=5 O.W.N. 347. The onus is on the insolvent and when, he gives no evidence of

(a) that the insolvent's assets are not of a value equal to eight annas in the rupee on the amount of his unsecured liabilities, unless he satisfies the Court that the fact that the assets are not of a value equal to eight annas in the rupee on the amount of his unsecured liabilities has arisen from circumstances for which he cannot justly be held responsible;

(b) that the insolvent has omitted to keep such books of account as are usual and proper in the business carried on by him and as sufficiently disclose his business transactions and financial position within the three years immediately preceding his insolvency;

(c) that the insolvent has continued to trade after knowing himself to be insolvent;

(d) that the insolvent has contracted any debt provable under this Act without having at the time of contracting it any reasonable or probable ground of expectation (the burden of proving which shall lie on him) that he would be able to pay it;

(e) that the insolvent has failed to account satisfactorily for any loss of assets or for any deficiency of assets to meet his liabilities;

(f) that the insolvent has brought on, or contributed to, his insolvency by rash and hazardous speculations, or by unjustifiable extravagance in living, or by gambling, or by culpable neglect of his business affairs;

(g) that the insolvent has, within three months preceding the date of the presentation of the petition, when unable to pay his debts as they became due, given an undue preference to any of his creditors;

But where an insolvent applies for discharge and the report of the O.R. is in favour of granting a discharge to the insolvents, the onus of proving the contrary lies on the opposing creditors. 146 I.C. 532=34 P.L.R. 991=1933 L. 812. Whether notice to creditors is necessary. 131 I.C. 721 (1)=1931 R. 188. The expression "assets" in S. 42 (1) (a) is generally understood to mean the amount actually in existence available for division among the creditors and it does not include future assets. I.L.R. (1939) Lah. 429=41 P.L.R. 78=1939 Lah. 183. Where the assets of the insolvent do not realise eight annas in the rupee. S. 42 (1) (a) lays on the debtor the burden of satisfying the Court that that fact has arisen from circumstances for which he cannot justly he held responsible. It is for the debtor to discharge that burden. There is no burden on the creditors or on the Official Receiver to show that the debtor can justly be held responsible for the deficiency of assets. 47 L.W. 653=1938 Mad. 590=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 760. Delay on the part of the insolvent to apply for discharge is not a ground for refusing him absolute discharge, although it is a ground for annulling the order of adjudication. 193 I.C. 546=1941 Pat. 285.

Sec. 42 (1) (a): SCOPE—IF IMPERATIVE—BURDEN OF PROOF.—The provisions of S. 42 (1) (a) are imperative and the burden of proof lies on the insolvent; and in the event of failure on his part to satisfy the Court in this respect, the Ins. Court has no jurisdiction to pass an order of discharge. 166 I.C. 956 (2)=1937 N. 37; 160 I.C. 35=1936 N. 17. According to the Rules of the Lahore High Court, the licence of an insolvent legal practitioner is suspended only till his discharge, whether absolute or conditional. As Insolvency Court has no jurisdiction to impose a penalty on the insolvent in the shape of suspension from practice. The suspension is the result of the Rules framed by the High Court and the scope of the Rules cannot be extended either by the agreement of the parties or by the order of the Insolvency Court. 42 P.L.R. 92=1939 Lah. 495. The facts that at the time of the transactions the insolvent was a young man of about 20 years of age and was carrying on business with his father under his direction and control, is no ground for granting him an absolute discharge. 38 P.L.R. 1164=1936 Lah. 381. It is quite clear that, in view of the wide powers conferred upon the Court by S. 42 the Court has power generally to review any questionable transactions covered by that section which are in any way relevant to the insolvency even if such transactions could not be expressly avoided under Ss. 53 and 54 of the Act. 42 C.W.N. 1156=69 C.L.J. 229=1939 Cal. 490.

Sec. 42 (1) (f): SPECULATIVE TRANSACTIONS BY INSOLVENT—RIGHT TO DISCHARGE.—Mere speculation would not disentitle an insolvent from asking the Court for a discharge. Many people indulge in all kinds of speculations, but the thing which debars an insolvent from claiming his discharge is rash and hazardous speculation. 38 P.L.R. 218=1936 L. 840.

(h) that the insolvent has on any previous occasion been adjudged an insolvent or made a composition or arrangement with his creditors;

(i) that the insolvent has concealed or removed his property or any part thereof, or has been guilty of any other fraud or fraudulent breach of trust.

(2) For the purposes of this section, the report of the receiver shall be deemed to be evidence; and the Court may presume the correctness of any statement contained therein;

(3) The powers of suspending, and of attaching conditions, to an insolvent's discharge may be exercised concurrently.

Adjudication to be annulled on failure to apply for discharge.

43. (1) If the debtor does not appear on the day fixed for hearing his application for discharge or on such subsequent day as the Court may direct, or if the debtor does not apply for an order of discharge within the period specified by the Court, the order of adjudication shall be annulled, and the provisions of section 37 shall apply accordingly.

NOTES.

Sec. 42 (1) (b).—The words "previous occasion" in Cl. (h) of S. 42, sub-S. (1) cannot be read as applying only to the words "adjudicated an insolvent." The words govern also the "composition" following the words "adjudicated an insolvent or made" and they mean a composition previous to the adjudication in question. The clause means only that there should be no discharge of an insolvent who has done one of two things, both previous to the adjudication in insolvency, viz. a previous adjudication as insolvent, and a previous composition or arrangement with the creditors. Where a composition is entered into after the adjudication in question, but the insolvent fails to carry out the terms thereof by making the stipulated payments. S. 42 (1) (h) cannot come into operation so as to preclude discharge of the insolvent. 1937 A.L.J. 387=1937 A.L.R. 308=1937 All. 526.

Sec. 42 (1) (i). : FRAUDULENT TRANSFER—ONUS.—In an application by debtor for discharge, if the creditors allege that the debtor's case comes under S. 42 (1) (i) by reason of some fraudulent transfers effected by him, the onus of proving fraud in respect of those transactions is on the creditors. 42 C.W.N. 1153=69 C.L.J. 229 =1939 Cal. 490. S. 42 gives wide powers to Courts to examine the insolvent's conduct whether before or after insolvency and hence fraudulent transfers by the insolvent prior to invency come within the purview of S. 42 (1) (i). But there must be some time limit regarding the alleged fraudulent transfers upon which the order of discharge can be refused, and the Judge should not take into consideration conduct which could not have had anything to do with the bankruptcy either in producing it or affecting it in any way after its commencement. Where however the transfers effected by the insolvent have considerable effect upon the insolvency, then an order refusing discharge can be based on such transfers although they might have been effected long before the application for insolvency. 49 C.W.N. 1153=69 C.L.J. 229=1939 Cal. 490. In view of the wide powers conferred upon the Court by S. 42, the Court has power generally to review any questionable transactions covered by that section which are in any way relevant to the insolvency even if such transactions could not be expressly avoided under Ss. 53 and 54 of the Act. 42 C.W.N. 1153=69 C.L.J. 229=1939 Cal. 490.

Sec. 43.—There is no discretion in the Court to enlarge time after the expiry of the period fixed for an application for discharge. The provision of this rule is mandatory. 4 P. 51=88 I. C. 70. See also 1928 M. 265=54 M.L.J. 344. But see 132 I.C. 223 (L.); 11 R. 287=1933 R. 223=145 I.C. 320 (F.B.) and the cases cited on the point under S. 27 and S. 41. Though the provisions of this section are mandatory, still the annulment of adjudication does not occur as a matter of course, but has to be the subject of a specific order of the Court. 1933 R. 133=144 I.C. 869: 15 L. 698=1934 L. 468; 37 P.L.R. 144. Discretion to extend time—Proper exercise of. 1928 M.W.N. 441; 108 I.C. 803. But see contra 1928 O. 376. The Insolvency Court is not bound to pass an order annulling the adjudication under S. 43 when the insolvent fails to appear on the date fixed for hearing his application for discharge or at any of the times mentioned in that section. That section can be interpreted as allowing an Insolvency Court to postpone annulment after default either by extending the time in which the debtor is to apply for his discharge or by merely postponing the actual pronouncement after the default has occurred. On this view, there will be two courses open to the Court when an insolvent fails to appear on the date fixed. If there is still any considerable estate to be administered, and more particularly if there are any outstanding claims with regard to property transferred before adjudication, then it would be much simpler and also work for more efficient control if the Court postpones the order of adjudication instead of assuming control under S. 37. On the other hand, if there are no such outstanding disputes, the Court may find it more convenient to annul the adjudication at once, even though there is still some estate to be administered and in that case it would still have jurisdiction to exercise some control over the subsequent administration of the estate and any connected proceedings. 43 P.L.R. 369=1941 Lah. 316. The High Court will not interfere with such discretion in revision.

(2) Where a debtor has been released from custody under the provisions of this Act and the order of adjudication is annulled under sub-section (1), the Court may, if it thinks fit, re-commit the debtor to his former custody, and the officer in charge of the prison to whose custody such debtor is so re-committed shall receive such debtor into his custody according to such re-commitment, and thereupon all processes which were in force against the person of such debtor at the time of such release as aforesaid shall be deemed to be still in force against him as if no order of adjudication had been made.

The annulment of an adjudication under S. 43 does not operate so as to cause the abatement of proceedings already instituted under Ss. 53 and 54 of the Act. 43 P.L. R. 369=1941 Lah. 316. The insolvency proceedings do not automatically terminate with an order of annulment under S. 43 (1); nor does the Ins. Court lose seisin of the matter so as to preclude it from passing any order in those proceedings thereafter. A person appointed by the Court subsequently, in whom it vests the properties of the insolvent is in the position of a trustee for the creditors and in such a character has the power and is under the duty of administering the assets vested in him fairly and equally amongst all the creditors of the debtor according to the rules of administration contained in the Ins. Act. No creditor has the right, even after the annulment of the adjudication, to pursue his remedy for realising his money under the ordinary civil law. All the creditors are bound in law to reciover their dues through the dividends to be paid by the appointee in whom the Court has vested the properties of the debtor in the course of his administration. 40 C.W.N. 1229=1936 C. 573. See also 1939 N.L.J. 96; 1939 O.W.N. 32; 1939 All. 114. When an insolvency has been annulled under the provisions of S. 43 and the receiver has, before the order of annulment, applied to the Court to have a transfer of property set aside under the provisions of S. 53 or S. 54 of the Act, the Court has no jurisdiction after the order of annulment of the insolvency proceedings to continue the proceeding under S. 53 or S. 54 of the Act. 11 R. 287=1933 R. 223 (F.B.). The effect of an annulment of adjudication under S. 43, is that the provisions of S. 37 apply immediately an order of adjudication is annulled; and if on such annulment, no order is made vesting the properties in the O.R., the latter ceases to have any right or authority to deal with the properties of the insolvent after the date of the annulment. 44 L.W. 719=1936 M. 915. The provisions of S. 43 (1) are mandatory, there being no discretion to the Court to enlarge the time after the expiry of the period fixed by the Court for an application for an order of discharge. Unless the debtor applies for his discharge within the time fixed, the adjudication must be annulled. 8 R. 187=1930 R. 166. See also 166 I.C. 956= 1937 N. 37; 193 I.C. 546=1941 Pat. 288. Extension of time under S. 148, C. P. Code, cannot be granted in cases where the insolvent fails to apply for discharge within the time fixed by Court, since the provision of S. 43 (1) are mandatory and the powers given by S. 5 are to that extent limited. 1937 Nag. 37. In an application for discharge by an insolvent the Court directed him to pay certain amount every month and further to renew his application for discharge "six months hence," its order is under S. 32 (1) (a) and hence, if the insolvent neither pays any monthly amount nor renews application, his adjudication cannot be annulled under S. 43. 118 I.C. 332=1929 P. 184. The penalty of annulment under S. 43 it hardly appropriate in the case of an insolvent who comes before the Court in time and applies for extension of the time fixed for his application for discharge. 60 M.L. (a) any debt due to the Crown;

(b) any debt or liability incurred by means of any fraud or fraudulent breach of trust to which he was a party;

(c) any debt or liability in respect of which he has obtained forbearance by any fraud to which he was a party; or

(d) any liability under an order for maintenance made under section 488 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

(2) Save as otherwise provided by sub-section (1), an order of discharge shall release the insolvent from all debts provable under this Act.

Secs. 43 and 27.—Though the provisions of S. 43 are mandatory, still the annulment of adjudication does not occur as a matter of course, but has to be the subject of a specific order of the Court; in other words it does not operate as an automatic annulment on the failure of the debtor to apply for a discharge. 14 Luck. 22=1938 Oudh 122 (F.B.). Ss. 43 and 27 should be read in a manner so as not to contradict each other, and an Insolvency Court can extend the time for applying for discharge even after the expiry of the period fixed on the date of adjudication. A power to grant further time carries with it a power to grant extension even after the expiry of the term originally fixed, since annulment of adjudication is not automatic. 55 A. 241=1933 A.L.J. 117=1933 A. 233. See also 1937 A.L.J. 773=1937 All. 636.

Secs. 43 and 37: ORDER OF ANNULMENT—VESTING OF PROPERTY IN COURT AMIN—EFFECT.—An order of annulment is not same thing as an order of discharge and where in addition to that, the property was by order made to vest in the Court Amin, there is hardly any justification for the contention that annulment restores the asttus quo. 1938 A.L.J. (Supp.) 17=1938 O.W.N. 641. After the annulment of adjudication under S. 43 no further proceedings could be taken by the Official Receiver for the sale of the property of the insolvent. All that the Court could do on the annulment of the adjudication is to direct that the property of the insolvent should vest in a certain person. If it passes such a vesting order, the receiver could only hold the property for the benefit of the creditors, and the creditors would have to enforce their claim by a proper suit. The property cannot be sold in any case by the Insolvency Court. I.L.R. (1939) Lah. 275=41 P.L.R. 741=1939 Lah. 536.

Secs. 43 and 78.—The subsequent annulment of an adjudication cannot give validity to a suit filed by an insolvent or his legal representative during the pendency of the insolvency when the property is vested in the Official Receiver. Such a suit is not maintainable and must be dismissed. 52 L.W. 522=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 606=1941 Mad. 84.

Sec. 44.—There is nothing in S. 44 which would justify the view that an application for discharge when refused is refused for ever and that no later application can be made. (22 L.W. 202, Foll.) 33 P.L.R. 620=1932 L. 478. The fact that a person conceals an important circumstance but for which concealment another person would not have acted as he did and does so with the intention of causing him so to act is a fraud. It constitutes the offence of cheating as much as an actual untrue representation would. 1937 Mad. 677=1937 M.W.N. 404. Where an insolvent plays a fraud upon a creditor and deliberately conceals the existence of a debt due to that creditor in order that the insolvency proceedings may be decided to his advantage. preventing by his fraud the creditor from appearing in the Insolvency Court and obtaining his share of the assets, he cannot afterwards be permitted to plead the bar of those very insolvency proceedings in defence to a suit by the creditor to recover his debt. S. 44 (1) (c) of the Provincial Insolvency Act would apply to such a case; and an absolute discharge granted to the insolvent in face of the prohibition contained in S. 42 (1) (a) is no bar to a suit by the creditor. 52 L.W. 380=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 379=1941 Mad. 100.

Sec. 44 (2).—S. 44 (2) protects the Insolvent and not assets in the hands of the Official Receiver. 42 P.L.R. 243=1939 Lah 300. By reason of the provisions of S. 47 the debt of a secured creditor is not provable until he has realised his security or has abandoned it or valued it until one of these events has happened there is no debt provable in the insolvency proceedings during the pendency of those proceedings, and S. 44 (2) of the Act has therefore no application. If a secured creditor has not during the insolvency proceedings realized his security or surrendered or valued it, S. 44 (2) cannot affect him, as it applies only to debts provable in insolvency and he is entitled to get a personal decree against the insolvent after he has got an order of absolute discharge, in respect of the balance due to him after sale of the mortgaged property. If he has realized his security before the discharge of the insolvent, and there is a deficiency the balance of the debt constitutes a debt provable in the insolvency, and S. 44 (2) will operate to cancel it, and the creditor cannot afterwards obtain a personal decree in respect of such balance. (1942) 1 M.L.J. 11. See also 1940 Nag. 252. Surety's right of proof in respect of a contingent liability 26 A.L.J. 425=1928 A.

(3) An order of discharge shall not release any person who, at the date of the presentation of the petition, was a partner or co-trustee with the insolvent, or was jointly bound or had made any joint contract with him or any person who was surety for him.

PART III.

ADMINISTRATION OF PROPERTY.

Method of proof of debts.

Debt payable at a future time.

45. A creditor may prove for a debt not payable when the debtor is adjudged an insolvent as if it were payable presently, and may receive dividends equally with the other creditors, deducting therefrom only a rebate of interest at the rate of six per centum per annum computed from the declaration of a dividend to the time when the debt would have become payable, according to the terms on which it was contracted.

NOTES.

306. The effect of S. 44 (2) is that the order of discharge releases the insolvent from all debts provable under the Act. It is immaterial that a creditor deliberately chooses not to have his debts proved. 110 I.C. 893. See also 1936 C. 434. There is no provision that property, which is vested in the Ins. Court, should re-vest in the insolvent on the passing of the absolute discharge, and it was never contemplated that an insolvent should get an order of absolute discharge and yet retain part of his property. S. 44 (2) means that the order of discharge frees the insolvent from liability for all debts provable under the Act, but does not free his property from such liability. So, where after an absolute discharge of the insolvent, his property has vested in the Ins. Court, but remains unsold and if a creditor applies to Court for sale of the property, the Court is bound to allow the application. 1937 N. 171. Property inherited by insolvent some months before order of discharge —Report by O.R. under misapprehension that all assets of insolvent were disposed of—Order of discharge passed thereon—Right of O. R. to deal with the property inherited by insolvent. See 1937 L. 87. The rule of law, viz., an order of discharge, shall release the insolvent from all debts provable under this Act, is not qualified by any rule that the creditor should have notice of the proceedings. The rule is based on a policy of law and not any rule of constructive notice. Notice or no notice, S. 44 comes into play and releases the insolvent from the debt which could undoubtedly have been proved under the Act, even if the omission of the name of creditor be deliberate on the part of the insolvent, provided no question of fraud is involved. 55 A. 636=1932 A.L.J. 1340=1933 A. 600. An order of discharge under S. 44 releases an insolvent from his liability under a decree passed by a liquidator of a Co-operative Society against him either as a debtor to the Society or as a member liable to contribute to its assets, and the decree cannot, therefore, be executed against him thereafter. 43 P.L.R. 422=1941 Lah. 314. Where a creditor holding a mortgage decree against the insolvent, realises his security before the order of discharge is passed, but does not value his security and prove the balance personally due from the insolvent, the order of discharge releases the insolvent from personal liability under the mortgage as it is a debt provable under the Act and the creditor cannot subsequently claim a personal decree for the balance against the insolvent. 40 P.L.R. 514= 1938 Lah. 217; 54 L.W. 741; 1940 Nag. 252. Though an order of discharge releases the bankrupt from certain debts provable in the bankruptcy, its effect is not to destroy the debt as though it had never been. If a creditor can otherwise realize his debt, there is nothing in the Insolvency law which precludes him from doing so as the debt is not extinguished. 1937 Mad. 727. A mortgagor's personal liability under the mortgage deed is a debt provable in insolvency within the meaning of S. 44 (2) and such liability would be discharged by an order of absolute discharge. A mortgagee is not therefore entitled to apply under O. 34, R. 6, C. P. Code, for a personal decree against the mortgagor after an order of absolute discharge has been made in the mortgagor's insolvency. 54 L. W. 523=1941 M.W.N. 937=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 690. See also (1942) 1 M.L.J. 11=I.L.R. 1942 Mad. 448. Sec. 44 (3).—The discharge of an insolvent does not release his surety from liability to be proceeded against in execution of a decree passed jointly against him and the insolvent. 18 N.L. J. 145. Under S. 44 (2) the order of discharge has the effect of releasing the bankrupt from all debts provable in bankruptcy. But until the insolvency proceedings are terminated by a formal order or the order of adjudication is annulled, the property which vested in the Insolvency Court under S. 28 (1) of the Act could not revert to the insolvent. As an order of discharge does not terminate the proceedings, the creditors are precluded by S. 28 (2) from enforcing their remedy in any other Court or in any other manner except in the Insolvency Court and in the manner provided by that Act. I.L. R. (1939) Nag. 478=1939 N.L.J. 96=1939 Nag. 103; 1941 M. 620. Decree against debtor —Subsequent adjudication of debtor—Attachment of house in execution—Claim by wife—

Mutual dealings and set off.

46. Where there have been mutual dealings between an insolvent and a creditor proving or claiming to prove a debt under this Act, an account shall be taken of what is due from the one party to the other in respect of such mutual dealings, and the sum due from the one party shall be set off against any sum due from the other party, and the balance of the account, and no more, shall be claimed or paid on either side respectively.

Secured creditor.

47. (1) Where a secured creditor realises his security he may prove for the balance due to him, after deducting the net amount realised.

(2) Where a secured creditor relinquishes his security for the general benefit of the creditors, he may prove for his whole debt.

Secs. 44 and 34 (2).—Having regard to the express language of S. 34 (2) and the absence in the Act of a clause similar to S. 46 (2) of the Presy. T. Ins. Act, a debt contracted after the presentation of the petition in insolvency but before an order of adjudication is provable in insolvency. Sec. 46.—The O.R. has no right to set off against the creditor's claim a time-barred claim against the creditor. Per Reilly, J.—The word "due" in S. 46 means "legally recoverable" and not "justly due." 1930 M.W.N. 837. The term "mutual dealings" includes not only the case of a person who owes a debt to the insolvent but also the case of a claim for unliquidated damages. 60 C.L.J. 281=39 C.W.N. 106. The privileges and rights. which are given in S. 46 (which is made applicable to companies in liquidation by S. 229, Companies Act) are based upon equity and fair dealing. It would be very harsh if the Official Receiver or the Official Liquidator of a company could demand in full moneys due by a debtor and at the same time that person being a creditor, for an equal or a larger sum of the company must be content with a dividend dependent on the distribution which can be made from the assets. O. 8, R. 6, C. P. Code, is in no way referable to matters arising in insolvency or liquidation. 1939 M.W.N. 1231 =1940 Mad. 266.

Sec. 47.—A mortgagee without possession is secured creditor. 1928 A. 306. A secured creditor can realise from the security his principal and interest at contract rate up to date of payment. 41 A. 481=51 I.C. 192. S. 47 provides for various steps which could be taken by a mortgagee. If instead of taking one or the other of these courses he simply ignores the insolvency then he is limited to his security, the reason being that a mortgagee with a mortgage containing a personal covenant is a secured creditor so far as the mortgage transaction is concerned and an ordinary creditor so far as the personal covenant is concerned. If however a secured creditor does not assess under S. 47 and does not even ask the Court to say that the debt is of such a nature that its valuation is incapable of being fairly estimated and allows the insolvent to be discharged without any proof having been put in for the balance, he must be content with his security only. I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 512=1940 N.L.J. 221=1940 Nag. 252. See also (1941) 2 M.L.J. 690=54 L.W. 741. Where a secured creditor gives proof for the whole of his debt, he must be taken to have relinquished his security. (1929 B. 258, Rel. on.) 38 P.L.R. 414=1936 L. 690. A creditor who was appointed as agent to sell books of the debtor and pay himself for his debt out of the sale amount is a secured creditor. 37 A. 383=29 I.C. 263. An attaching creditor is not a secured creditor. 1933 N. 229=29 N.L.R. 303. The term "relinquish" is sufficient to cover an abandonment by conduct. Proof of debt in insolvency by a secured creditor amounts to relinquishment. 1929 B. 258=31 Bom.L.R. 463. A secured creditor has a right to prove for the balance of the decretal amount when the amount realised by him is less than it. 1930 O. 20. A secured creditor can if he so wishes obtain a decree under O. 34, R. 6 and utilise the same as proof of the balance. But it is not necessary for him to take such a course. Even if his application for a decree under O. 34, R. 6 is refused, it is still open to him under the special remedy provided by S. 47 of the Act to prove for the balance due. Under this special provision, no question of limitation arises under S. 47 ; he will be placed on the footing of an unsecured creditor. 1930 O. 20. An order under S. 41 does not put an end to the proceedings in insolvency. The discharge of the insolvent does not put an end to the court's power to give directions as to the distribution of the assets and as to the enforcing the right of the secured creditor. 7 R. 126 =1929 R. 168. Where a mortgagee does not consent to the sale of property free from his mortgage, an order that the property should be so sold would be in derogation of his rights and he can claim that it should be set aside. But if the mortgagee consents to such a course, such an order can be passed. 122 I.C. 374=1930 N. 196. Where a mortgagee decree-holder does not comply with the provisions of S. 47, he cannot apply to have his debt included in the schedule. 133 I.C. 876 (2)=32 P.L.R. 698. S. 47 does not empower the mortgagee to authorize the O. R. to sell property not vested in him. 1933 L. 1010.

(3) Where a secured creditor does not either realise or relinquish his security, he shall, before being entitled to have his debt entered in the schedule, state in his proof the particulars of his security, and the value at which he assesses it, and shall be entitled to receive a dividend only in respect of the balance due to him after deducting the value so assessed.

(4) Where a security is so valued, the Court may at any time before realisation redeem it on payment to the creditor of the assessed value.

(5) Where a creditor, after having valued his security, subsequently realises it, the net amount realised shall be substituted for the amount of any valuation previously made by the creditor, and shall be treated in all respects as an amended valuation made by the creditor.

(6) Where a secured creditor does not comply with the provisions of this section, he shall be excluded from all share in any dividend.

Interest.

48. (1) On any debt or sum certain whereon interest is not reserved or agreed for, and which is overdue when the debtor is adjudged an insolvent, and which is provable under this Act, the creditor may prove for interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum,—

(a) if the debt or sum is payable by virtue of a written instrument at a certain time, from the time when such debt or sum was payable to the date of such adjudication; or,

(b) if the debt or sum is payable otherwise, from the time when a demand in writing has been made giving the debtor notice that interest will be claimed from the date of the demand until the time of payment to the date of such adjudication.

(2) Where a debt which has been proved under this Act includes interest or any pecuniary consideration in lieu of interest, the interest or consideration shall, for the purposes of dividend, be calculated at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, without prejudice to the right of a creditor to receive out of the debtor's estate any higher rate of interest to which he may be entitled after all the debts proved have been paid in full.

Mode of proof.

49. (1) A debt may be proved under this Act by delivering, or sending by post in a registered letter, to the Court an affidavit verifying the debt.

(2) The affidavit shall contain or refer to a statement of account showing the particulars of the debt, and shall specify the vouchers (if any) by which the same can be substantiated. The Court may at any time call for the production of the vouchers.

from the list of creditors, see 90 I.C. 802. S. 50 governs the procedure of the Court during the insolvency, i.e., during the course of the administration of the debtor's assets in an insolvency. But, S. 50 can no longer apply after the insolvency has come to an end by annulment of adjudication. After the adjudication has been annulled it is not open to the Court to take action under S. 50 and to expunge or reduce the debt of a creditor. 16 Pat. 754=1938 Pat. 225. A creditor to whom a dividend has been paid cannot be directed to bring back the amount merely by reason of the fact that subsequently the name of the creditor is expunged from the list of creditors. Where after the payment of a dividend an application is made under S. 50 for expunging the name of the creditor from the list of creditors, if there are no other assets to be realized by the Official Receiver and no prospect of any further dividend, an inquiry into the merits of the application is wholly unnecessary. 55 L.W. 504=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 202. If any creditor wishes to have any amendment made of the schedule as framed by the Court under S. 33, he must cause notice to issue to all the other creditors who would thereby be affected, and their objections be heard before any alteration or amendment of the schedule can be ordered by the Court and in an application of appeal in connexion with this, the receiver is not a necessary party. 150 I.C. 690=1934 Rang. 112.

Sec. 51.—As to whether this section controls S. 28 (2), see 39 C.W.N. 424. What S. 51 means is that if a creditor has proceeded to execute a decree, he will not be entitled as against the receiver to the benefit of the execution, except in so far as he may have been able to realize the assets before the admission of the petition for insolvency. If he has derived any benefit from that execution when the application for insolvency was pending, he cannot keep that benefit to himself as agains the receiver 17 P.L.T. 313=1936 Pat. 112. See also 18 Pat L.T. 553. There is no scope under S. 51 for the passing of an order directing a decree-holder to restore to an Official Receiver property which he has purchased at an execution sale. Where a decree holder has purchased the judgment-debtor's property with leave to be bid and set off in execution of his decree against the judgment-debtor the intervention of insolvency can never bring about a cancellation o the execution proceedings including the sale. The benefit of the execution represents the bids made at a sale or assets realized otherwise in the execution. The decree-holder cannot therefore claim the right to hand back the property to the official Receiver instead of paying the bid amount into the hands of the Official Receiver. 1942 M.W.N. 176=55 L.W. 134=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 306. The effect of sub-S. (1) and (2) of S. 51 is that the Receiver in Insolvency is in any event entitled to the assets realised after the date of the admission of the petition and that he is entitled even to the property of the insolvent if he can successfully challenge the good faith of auction purchaser in a sale held subsequent to the presentation of the petition in insolvency. The only adverse effects whic i S. 51 has on the rights of the receiver are firstly, that if any assets have been realized in execution of a decree before the date or admission of the petition, the receiver will have no right to prevent the decree holder from getting the benefit of those assets even if they are in the hands of the Court and have not paid over to the decree-holder before the date of the admission of the petition by the Insolvency Court; and secondly that an auction purchaser who can establish good faith can acquire a good title against the receiver. I.L.R. 1942 A. 421=A.I.R. 1942 A. 263. In execution of a money decree obtained by the appellant against his judgment-debtors, he attached in December, 1926, in the Madras High Court, a preliminary decree for partition which had been passed by the High Court in favour of his judgment-debtors. In September, 1928, an order was made by the District Court at Secunderabad adjudicating as insolvents the said judgment-debtors. DATE OF ADMISSION OF PETITION—WHAT IS.—The Act nowhere states as to which is the date of the admission of the insolvency petition. But there are certain sections in the Act, that afford guidance in determining the date of admission. From a consideration of Ss. 18, 21 and 51, the date on which an applicant is asked to furnish security for his regular attendance in Court can be regarded as a date of admission of the insolvency petition. 1936 L. 885. In admitting an insolvency petition all that the Court is concerned with is to see wnether the petition itself complies with the requirements of the law. If it does, then it admits it. It cannot be said that such a petition must be deemed to have been admitted only on the date when the costs of publishing the notice of the petition are paid. Where properties are sold in execution in separate lots, the sale of each lot is complete when the whole of the balance of the purchase money of each lot is deposited in Court. There is no justification for holding that the assets cannot be deemed to be received by the Court until the purchase consideration for all the lots have actually been deposited into Court. The decree-holder is bound to return to the Official Receiver under S. 51 the purchase price for that lot in respect of which the balance has been paid only after the admission of the insolvency petition. He can, in so refunding, deduct from the amount merely the costs of the execution proceedings and not the costs of the suit out of which the proceedings arose. The Court can, in a case of this kind, direct the refund to be made with interest under its inherent powers. 55 L.W. 436= (1942) 2 M.L.J.178. See also (1941) 2 M.L.J. 918.

Secs. 51 and 52 : SCOPE AND EFFECT OF.—S. 51 qualifies S. 52 which must consequently be read in conjunction with S. 51. If no notice is received by the executing Court and that Court in ignorance of the insolvency proceedings holds an execution sale, the sale though held after the admission of the insolvency petition will not be void unless the purchaser in execution purchases the property with knowledge of the insolvency proceedings. But the benefit accruing from the sale, namely, the sale proceeds, will be entirely at the disposal of the Insolvency Court for distribution among the creditors, if they are real sed after the date of the admission of the insolvency petition. The Insolvency Court can call upon the decree-holder to deposit the sale-proceeds if he has drawn the same out of Court towards the decree-debt. I.L.R. (2) Nothing in this section shall affect the rights of a secured creditor in respect of the property against which the decree is executed.

(3) A person who in good faith purchases the property of a debtor under a sale in execution shall in all cases acquired a good title to it against the receiver.

S. 52 does not apply to a case, which dealt with property which has not been brought to sale; under S. 51, however, the words "benefit of the execution" referred to the net realisations after paying costs and charges and the decree-holder was entitled to the charge claimed by him. 38 L.W. 389=1933 M. 703=65 M.L.J. 402. The section applies to a case where the decree is against a person against whom insolvency proceedings are pending and who has subsequently been adjudicated an insolvent. So where no insolvency proceedings are pending against the judgment-debtor, and it is the decree-holder who is subsequently adjudicated an insolvent and there is a dispute not between the decree-holder and the judgment-debtor but between the original decree-holder and his assignee, the section is inapplicable. 1929 L. 805. Where an application by a creditor for adjudication as insolvent of his debtor, relying on sale in execution of his decree is dismissed, act of insolvency, namely, sale in execution of decree, having taken place subsequent to the filing of petition, and where after confirmation of sale second application is made and is granted, second insolvency proceeding can not be regarded as continuation of the first, but is an entirely fresh proceeding based on a different act of insolvency. 1930 R. 265 (1). Sec. 51 (3)—EFFECT ON EXECUTION SALE OF INSOLVENCY PETITION DECISIONS NOT UNIFORM. —The words "the property of a debtor" in S. 51 (3) read with the heading of the section, must mean only the property of a person which has been sold previous to adjudication, the "transaction" being the sale. All sales both before and after the presentation of a petition but before adjudication by the Court are protected so far as passing a good title to a purchaser is concerned. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 1060=1938 Mad. 449=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 471. See also 55 L.W. 119=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 283 ; 1938 Mad. 718=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 781. S. 51 (3) applies even to cases in which there have been auction sales and purchases of debtor's properties after their adjudication. The words 'in all cases' occurring in sub-S. (3) of S. 51 are wide and includes sales both before and after adjudication. 1940 N.L.J. 505=1940 Nag. 414, See also (1942) 1 M.L.J. 283. S. 51 (3) does not apply to a purchase in execution after adjudication which vests the property in the Official Receiver. Where subsequent to the final decree and order for sale in a mortgage suit the mortgagor is adjudicated insolvent but owing to ignorance of the insolvency the Official Receiver is not brought on the record in execution, and the property is purchased at the execution sale by a bona fide purchaser, the purchaser does not get a good title to the property as against the Official Receiver or a purchaser from the latter subsequent to the sale in execution. It makes no difference that the decree is a mortgage decree and not a money decree. The fact that the execution purchaser buys the property in good faith and without knowledge of the insolvency cannot protect his purchase under S. 51 (3), as this provision has reference to a stage prior to the adjudication. 49 L.W. 383=1939 Mad. 433=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 429. See also (1938) 1 M.L.J. 471. S. 51 (1) and (3) should not be restricted to sales in execution of decrees passed in "suits" in the technical sense, but should be held to apply to sales in execution in general including a sale in execution of an award by the Registrar or the Arbitrator under the Madras Co-operative Societies Act. A sale in execution of an award under the Co-operative Societies Act therefore gives a good title to the purchaser who in good faith purchases the property. 52 L.W. 454=1940 Mad. 932=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 388. See also 1938 Mad. 449. A purchaser at an execution sale of the debtor's property with knowledge that an insolvency petition for adjudication of the debtor has been admitted cannot be said to be acting otherwise than in good faith, when the sale was sanctioned by the Court. Where the executing Court with knowledge of the insolvency petition refuses to stay the sale and orders the sale to take place, the purchaser cannot be expected to doubt the correctness of the Court's order. A purchase made on the faith of a Court's order negatives any inference of bad faith, which knowledge of the debtor's insolvency standing alone might possibly justify. 59 M. 928=1936 M. 819=71 M.L.J. 170. See also 48 L.W. 279 =1938 Mad. 906=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 705. Duties of Court executing decree as to property taken in execution.

52. Where execution of a decree is issued against any property of a debtor which is saleable in execution and before the sale thereof notice is given to the Court executing the decree that an insolvency petition by or against the debtor has been admitted, the Court shall, on application, direct the property, if in the possession of the Court, to be delivered to the receiver, but the costs of the suit in which the decree was made and of the execution shall be a first charge on the property so delivered, and the receiver may sell the property or an adequate part thereof for the purpose of satisfying the charge.

Sec. 52.—Scope of, see 34 L.W. 908; 59 M. 928=71 M.L.J. 170. S. 52 applies to a state of affairs antecedent to what is contemplated by S. 51 (1). 14 L. 724=34 P.L.R. 1076. S. 52 will have no application when a receiver is not appointed of the insolvent's property and so an executing Court while executing a decree passed against the insolvent need not stay its hands. 1938 Cal. 503. In an application under S. 52, where the conditions laid down by the section are fulfilled, the executing Court has no other duty to perform than to direct the delivery of the property concerned to the O. R. It is not competent for the Court to investigate or decide questions of title as between the insolvent judgment-debtor and any other co-judgment-debtor (though he be his son) or stranger. 41 L.W. 698=68 M.L.J. 681. An application under S. 52 has got to be made to the Court which is executing the decree and it is that Court alone which can direct the property to be delivered to the receiver in order that a sale may be held. The Insolvency Court has no jurisdiction to make an order for sale under the section. 38 C.W.N. 1122. See also 1935 R. 317. Where the property has been sold before the order of adjudication and before the executing Court had knowledge of the insolvency proceedings, and there is no application to have the property delivered to the receiver, the executing Court has jurisdiction to continue the execution proceedings. The executing Court is not bound to stay its hand if no receiver to whom the attached property can be made over is in existence at the time of the sale. 39 C.W.N. 1289=1935 C. 612. The mere admission of an insolvency petition does not debar a creditor from executing his decree against the debtor. But where execution of a decree has issued against any property of a debtor and before a sale thereof notice is given to the executing Court that an insolvency petition has been admitted, the executing Court is bound under S. 52, on application, to direct the property attached to be delivered to the receiver. 39 C.W.N. 1289=1935 C. 612. See also 40 C.W.N. 336. attached by prohibitory order of Court under O. 21, R. 54, C. P. Code, does not fall within the purview of S. 52. "Receiver" in the section does not include interim receiver. See 1930 L. 851. But see 33 P.L.R. 790 and 34 P.L.R. 41 =1933 L. 192; 148 I.C. 417=1934 A. 444. 1932 Mad. 95=62 M.L.J. 68; 50 M.L.J. 665; 1932 Lah. 471=14 Lah. 63. S. 52 clearly contemplates the presentation of an application under that section before the adjudication of insolvency, and, therefore, it appears clear that the word 'Receiver' must in such a case include an interim receiver, who would be the only receiver in existence before adjudication. The interim receiver is, therefore, entitled to ask to be placed in possession of the property attached in execution of the decree-holder's decree and he is entitled to sell that property. 31 N.L.R. (Supp.) 212= 161 I.C. 661=1936 Nag. 120. S. 52 enables even an interim receiver to get possession of the property of the debtor which is subject to attachment, and when he applies to the executing Court, the latter is bound to direct the property of the debtor in the custody of the Court to be delivered over to him. And as necessary implication, the Court is likewise bound to stay the sale of the attached property in execution in view of the peremptory provisions of S. 52. But a sale in execution in defiance of S. 52 cannot be held to be null and void. The sale confers a good title on a purchaser in good faith, although the sale proceeds would have to go to the receiver for the benefit of creditors genecally and not merely for the benefit of executing creditor. There is nothing in S. 52 which qualifies the very emphatic language of S. 51 (3). 59 M. 928=1936 M. 819=71 M.L.J. 170. See also 1936 Nag. 120. S. 52 places on the executing Court the duty to deliver the property to the receiver if an application is made in that behalf. But if no such application is made, the executing Court is bound to proceed with the sale of the property, and its power to sell remains unaltered and unaffected. An application made by the judgment debtor insolvent for stay of sale is not in conformity with the requirements of S. 52 of the Act. 48 L.W. 279 =1938 Mad. 906=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 705. See also 1940 Lah. 37. "Cost of the execution" should have a liberal interpretation so as to include the costs of the suit brought under O. 21, R. 63 of the Code, in which the creditor succeeded in having the order under R. 60 releasing the property from attachment, set aside. 1929 C. 524. The true construction is that S. 52 refers to the case of attachment of all kinds of property and is not confined to movable property alone. 1929 C. 524. Before an executing Court can stay sale of judgment-debtor's property, under this section, two conditions must be satisfied. They are, firstly, that notice should have been given to the executing Court of the admission of the insolvency petition and secondly that the application should haue been made to that Court for delivery of the property to the receiver. 1930 L. 851; see also 1935 R. 317. Where a sale is held notwithstanding the apprisement of insolvency proceeding the sale is void. 60 C. 696= 37 C.W.N. 392=1933 C. 561. The object of this section is not to give an advantage to the insolvent but to prevent individual creditors deriving unfair advantage over other creditors and to place the property in the hands of a Receiver for equal distribution to the general body of creditors. Property attached in execution of decree is property in possession of the Court and the only order which the Court can make on an application under S. 52 is that such property be delivered to the receiver if such receiver has been already appointed; if no such receiver has been appointed, the Court should proceed with the execution but hold the sale proceeds subject to such orders as the Insolvency Court may pass in the matter. 1930 P. 406 (2). The receiver referred to in the section is not only the receiver appointed after adjudication; the term includes interim receivers. The section, as now amended, contemplates the presentation of an application, not, as it used to do, after adjudication, but at an earlier stage, i.e., after an insolvency petition has been admitted. At that stage, the only receiver that can be in existence for the purpose of applying is an interim receiver. (50 M.L.J. 665, Diss.) 34 L.W. 908=1934 M.W.N. 1251. See also 138 I.C. 821=1932 L. 471. Immovable property, which has not been attached and which is sought to be sold on the ground that the decree created a charge upon it, cannot be said to be property "in the possession of the Court" within the meaning of S. 52, and an interim receiver cannot apply to have the sale stopped. (62 M.L.J. 68, Cons.) 56 Mad. 453 =64 M.L.J. 119. Immovable property attached by an executing Court is in custodia legis and must, therefore, be deemed to be in possession of the Court within the meaning of S. 52. 31 N.L.R. (Supp.) 212=1936 Nag. 120. See also 39 P.L.R. 204. Under S. 52, a creditor is entitled to the costs of the suit as also the costs of the execution, and he has a first charge for the said amount on the property released by the executing Court to the receiver. If the receiver sells only a portion of such property or only some of the many items of such property, the whole of the sale proceeds or such portion as will be sufficient to discharge the charge will have to be paid to the creditor, and not merely a proportionate amount. 43 C.W.N. 421.

S. 53: SCOPE.—S. 53 does not deal with the jurisdiction of the Insolvency Court but only lays down certain rules of law affecting those transactions which fall within its scope; it does not control or restrict the jurisdiction conferred upon the Court by S. 4 to decide all questions of title. The insolvency Court has jurisdiction to decide a question of title raised on the basis of a transfer which took place more than two years prior to his adjudication. 15 Lah. 294= 1934 Lah. 365. See also 1937 Mad. 32; 1939 A. 431=182 I. C. 497. The words "any transfer" n S. 53 would include a transfer made by a decree, and such a transfer can, therefore, be annulled on the ground that it was fraudulent. 162 I.C. 659=38 Bom.L.R. 255=1936 Bom. 176. S. 53 applies not only to voluntary alienations, but also to transfers in invitum. 1940 M. W.N. 259=1940 Mad. 749. S. 53 makes it incumbent on the Court to annul every transfer of property by an insolvent if he is adjudged an insolvent within two years of the transfer, provided it finds that such transfer was not made in good faith or for valuable consideration. Where therefore the transfers by the insolvent are upheld as against some creditors in objection under O. 21, R. 58 or in a suit under O. 21, R. 63,the other creditors are not deprived of their right to move the Insolvency Court to proceed under S. 53. 1933 Nag. 365. It is doubtful whether an objection to a transfer based upon S. 64, C. P. Code, is properly within the scope of an application under either S. 53 or S. 4 of the Provincial Insolvency Act. 69 C.L.J. 329= 43 C.W.N. 575=1939 Col. 503. By virtue of the important words being exactly the same in S. 55, Presidency Towns Insolvency Act, as in S. 53, of this Act, if an hypothecation bond comes within the meaning of S. 55, Presidency Towns Insolvency Act, it would certainly be void under this section. 1933 R. 424. Section not controlled by S. 28 (7); 1928 L. 361 (F.B.). Section is wider than S. 53 of the T. P. Act. The latter requires proof of intent to defeat or delay creditors, which is not required by this section. 39 A. 95=37 I.C. 684. See also 1933 M.W.N. 1019. The Insolvency Court, under the terms of this Act, is the only appropriate tribunal which can determine the question raised under S. 53. 58 C. 1352. Section covers cases of transfers to persons other than creditors. 62 I.C. 924. But see 1933 M. 185 =64 M.L.J. 382; 1933 L. 43=33 P.L.R. 1058. S. 53 contemplates only such property as is available to the creditors or the Official Receiver for the purposes of insolvency, and as a colony land governed by the Punjab Act V of 1912 is excluded from that category, its transfer by the Government tenant could not be challenged by the O. R. 42 P.L.R. 144. Regarding conveyance to trustees, see 50 M. 815=53 M.L.J. 742. "Creditor," meaning of. 1928 R. 166. A British Court cannot annul transfer of property situate in a foreign country. 18 N.L.R. 93=1922 N. 221. The word "voluntary" in the marginal note to the section means gratuitous or without consideration. 30 Bom.L.R. 893=1928 B. 341. Section does not operate as a bar in the case of a fictitious transfer. 1933 L. 197 (1)=143 I. C. 630. Where a suit for specific performance of a contract entered previous to his insolvency is brought against an insolvent in a Court other than the Insolvency Court, such a Court has no jurisdiction to determine the question of fraudulent preference. 1928 M.W.N. 617= 1928 M. 860. See also 5 O.W.N. 776. As to what is voluntary transfer, see also 101 I.C. 742 =1928 L. 750. S. 53 does not impliedly deprive the debtor or the creditor of his right to have transfers set aside by instituting a suit before an ordinary tribunal within the longer period of limitation. 115 I.C. 330=1929 S. 94. Where the vendees are not shown to be connected in any way with the insolvent and prima facie from the evidence the transaction does not seem to be a colourable one, nor does any question of "fraudulent preference" arise, the sale not having taken place within three months before adjudication, the case comes under S. 53 and the sale should not be annulled. 1930 L. 135. S. 53 applies where the existence of transfer is admitted; on the other hand S. 4 applies if the transfer or the existence of right claimed by the objector is denied by receiver. 123 I.C. 539=1930 L. 180. A right of pre-emption is merely one of substitution and not of re-purchase and when the original transfer has been found to be fictitious and has been set aside, the title of pre-emptors cannot be sustained; 15 L. 319=148 I.C. 1013=1934 L. 101 (2). A partition among the members of a joint Hindu family is a transfer of property within the purview of S. 53: 31 P.L.R. 245= 123 I.C. 286. So also a transfer by a Court-sale in execution. 1931 M. 597 (1)=135 I.C. 544; 38 Bom.L.R. 255=162 I.C. 659=1936 B. 176. A deed of release accompanied by mutation and transfer of possession is a transfer. Where such transfer has been entered into by the insolvent more than two years before the adjudication, the Ins. Court has no power to annul the same. 123 I.C. 217=1930 O. 314. If a person tricks the would-be insolvent into giving him a mortgage by a representation that he would settle with his other creditors, the transfer can be annulled under S. 53: 1930 R. 315. If a creditor takes the whole, or substantially the whole, of the property of his debtor in payment of a past debt and knowing that there are other creditors, he cannot be said to be acting in good faith. 1933 L. 43=33 P.L.R. 1058. Where in a case of joint insolvency, one of the joint insolvents alone receives his discharge and not the other, the insolvency proceeding cannot be said to have come to an end, and an application for annulment of a transfer made by the discharged insolvent prior to his insolvency is, therefore, maintainable under S. 53. 14 Rang. 704=1937 Rang. 276. When there is want of good faith in respect of a transfer, the fact that valuable consideration has passed will not save the transaction. Such a transaction by an insolvent within two years of the presentation of the petition for adjudication is voidable as against the Official Receiver and may be annulled by the Court. 54 L.W. 173=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 212. See also 1941 A.L.J. 387=1941 All. 316. beyond the reach of the insolvent's son for the benefit of the insolvent's mistress does not make the transaction any the less a fraud on the creditors. In transferring the property the insolvent must be held to be really defeating his creditors. 1941 M.W.N. 818=54 L.W. 173=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 212.

TRANSFER TO CREDITOR— TRANSFEREE NOT AWARE OF OTHER CREDITORS—VALUE OF PROPERTY NOT GREATER THAN AMOUNT OF DEBTS—IF FOR VALUABLE CONSIDERATION AND BONA FIDE. —12 R. 625. Where a mortgage is effected by a debtor not only to secure debt already due to the mortgagee but also to secure a fresh loan, and the mortgagee is fully aware of the embarrassed condition of the debtor and does not act in good faith, the mortgage can be annulled even in respect of the fresh loan. To such a case though S. 54 may not be applicable, action can be taken under S. 53. 155 I.C. 611=1935 M. 246. In cases not falling under S. 54 a preferential transfer of property to one creditor in satisfaction of an existing debt due to him is not fraudulent as to other creditors, although the debtor in making the transfer intended to defeat the claims, and the transferee had knowledge of such intention, if the only purpose of the latter is to secure his own debt and the property not worth materially more than the amount of his debt. 183 I.C. 635=43 C.W.N. 575=1939 Cal. 503.

ENQUIRY.—The O.R. is not even a Court but a mere executive officer. He is not entitled to take evidence in an enquiry under S. 53 though ordered by the District Judge: So limited is his power and so subject to interference that any person can ask the Court to modify or reverse his decision. 1933 M. 471=38 L.W. 896. In an action to set aside a sale under S. 53, it is not enough to pick out a few circumstances and to find explanations for them and then deduce therefrom that the creditor has discharged his burden of proof. But it is essentially necessary that the Court should consider all the facts in relation to each other and weigh them as a whole and then come to a conclusion. 1938 Mad. 370. The Court ought to decide a challenged transfer and not derive the parties to a separate suit. 37 A. 252=28 I.C. 573. The District Judge cannot delegate an enquiry to a Subordinate Judge. 36 A. 549=26 I.C. 32 ; 33 I.C. 188. See also (1937) 1 M.L.J. 654; nor to the receiver, who in fact is a party to the proceedings. 35 I.C. 875. It is only the receiver who can set the Court in motion. If he refuses, the creditor can move in the matter. 42 M. 322=52 I.C. 519=1924 M. 345. Report of receiver —Question of annulment—Need for enquiry. 58 C. 1352. The enquiry must not commence on a mere report of the receiver, but must be preceded by a properly stamped petition. 52 I.C. 761. An enquiry under S. 53 begun prior to the annulment stops short where it is on the date of the annulment, but the Court has the power, at the time of annulling the adjudication, to give a direction to continue the enquiry. 1932 Mad. 731=63 M.L.J. 414. The fraudulent nature of the transaction in insolvency cases can scarcely ever be proved by direct evidence. The petitioning creditor or the receiver has to rely on circumstantial evidence in most cases, and usually that is to be found only in the conduct of the parties. It is therefore more than ever the duty of the Court carefully to examine all the surrounding circumstances, and in any case if a Judge considers that the burden of proof lies on a particular party it is incumbent on him at least to examine the facts on which that party's case is based. 175 I.C. 430=1938 Nag. 216. A transferee whose transfer is challenged by the receiver under S. 53 is entitled to raise defences pertinent to the enquiry. It could not be said that the plea that the sole creditor of the insolvent is a bogus one and that the insolvency proceedings are a nullity is not a pertinent defence by a transferee when his transfer is challenged under S. 53. The pleas have a direct bearing on the proceedings under S. 53 and the Court is bound to investigate the question. I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 564=1940 N.L.J. 420 =1940 Nag. 393.

A fresh order at the time of annulment vesting the property in the O. R. may imply a direction to him to continue an enquiry (under S. 53 or S. 54) on which he had already embarked, but it would certainly be more satisfactory from the legal point of view if such a freshdirection is given in express terms. Obiter.— 1932 M. 731=63 M.L.J. 414. Motive of insolvent not material. 42 M. 520. The proceedings are to be conducted in the name of the receiver and after his appointment only. Notice of the grounds of attack of the transfer must be given to the transferee. 42 I.C. 845 ; 44 I.C. 168 ; 42 M. 322. The enquiry should be conducted as in a regular suit and not be summarily disposed of. 39 A. 391=42 I.C. 841 ; 41 I.C. 411.

BURDEN OF PROOF.—The onus of proving the fraudulent nature of the transaction lies on the petitioner and not on the transferee. 58 I.A. 115=9 R. 170=60 M.L.J. 652=1931 P.C. 75 ; 12 R. 625 ; 1934 Pesh. 126; 14 Pat.L.T. 739=1933 P. 564 (1); 11 O.W.N. 601=1934 O. 368; 33 P.L.R. 1058=1933 L. 43; 1935 C. 650. To enjoy the protection under S. 53 the purchaser or an incumbrancer must not only show that the transfer was for valuable consideration but it must also be proved that it was made in good faith. Good faith is necessary only on the part of the transferee. It is not required that the transferor should act in good faith also. I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 275=42 C.W.N. 554=1938 Cal. 417; 1941 All. 316; 1938 B. 449. See also 1941 All. 603; (1941) 2 M.L.J. 212. The presumption under the English law as to the intent when the whole of property of the insolvent is transferred is not applicable under this Act, which specifically sets forth that a certain intent is necessary to bring the act within the meaning of the statute. 1933 R. 216; 1934 R. 208. Where the receiver seeks to set aside a transfer under S. 53, the onus is upon him to prove that it was not made in good faith and for valuable consideration. 37 C.W.N. 675=1933 C. 689 ; 159 I.C. 975; 1938 All. 555=1938 A.L.J. 878; 1937 Nag. 117; 39 P.L.R. 1025=1937 Lah. 801 ; 17 Pat. is such as to fall short of creating any serious doubt in the mind of the Court, then the burden of proof laid upon the O.R. is discharged. 14 R. 704. Where the burden of proving good faith and valuable consideration is wrongly placed on the mortgagee, though it is an erroneous and unjustifiable course, the appellate Court will not merely on that ground reverse the decision, when it is not satisfied that any case of prejudice has been made out as a result of the reversal of procedure in taking evidence. 40 C.W.N. 731. On an application in an insolvency proceeding to set aside a transfer made by the insolvent, the burden of proving want of consideration is on the person alleging it. 38 P.L.R. 965. Under S. 53 the burden of proving want of good faith on the part of the transferee is on the receiver seeking to set aside the transfer. 69 C.L.J. 329=43 C. W. N. 575=1939 Cal. 503. See also 1937 Rang. 276=14 Rang. 704; 39 P.L.R. 1025=1937 Lah. 801. The burden of proof in an application to set aside a fraudulent transfer under S. 53 is not on the transferee, but upon the Official Receiver to establish that the transfer was not bona fide and for value and was in consequence voidable as against him. It is clear that the receiver has to prove not that the insolvent was acting fraudulently or in bad faith, but he has to prove that the transfer gave no value or consideration for the transfer, and if there was consideration for the transfer, the receiver has then to prove absence of good faith on the part of the transferee. It is not necessary for the validity of the transfer that both parties to the transaction should act in good faith. Mere fraud on the part of the insolvent is not enough. What the section requires is fraud or want of good faith on the part of the transferee before the receiver can get the same annulled. In the case of a transfer in favour of a minor, the fraud if any, on the part of the guardian of the minor cannot be deemed to be the fraud of the minor under S. 53. A transferee cannot be fraudulent by deputy. The rule as to the onus is the same in the case of S. 55 of the Presidency Towns Insolvency Act, which is exactly similar in terms to S. 53 of this Act. I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 1=40 Bom.L.R. 884=1938 Bom. 449. See also 1937 Lah. 801. Where a Court holds that a creditor has no locus standi to present a petition for annulling a transaction under S. 53 because it violates the provisions of S. 54-A, the Court has no jurisdiction to give a decision on the application on merits and the decision given is ultra vires. 1930 Rang. 332 (1). For a man practically in a state of insolvency to alienate his last remaining property, and that only an expectancy to a relative for a sum only part of which was paid would indicate that there was bad, faith and the transaction must be set aside under S. 53. 41 P.L.R. 190=1939 Lah. 322. Where the sale by the insolvent sought to be set aside takes place only 11 months before the application for insolvency and the circumstances give rise to presumption as to want of good faith on the part of the vendee, it is for the vendee and the insolvent to rebut the presumption and prove that the insolvent's financial position was sound at the time of the sale and both of them acted in good faith. 173 I.C. 531=1937 Lah. 441. A deed is void against creditors when the debtor is in a state of insolvency or when the effect of the deed is to leave the debtor without the means of paying his present debts. 1933 Rang. 424. The fact that the creditor was not ignorant of the embarrassed circumstances of his debtor and that there may not be enough left after a transfer in his favour to meet the claims of the other creditors in the event of an adjudication is not sufficient to prove mala fides. The considerations that apply for determining mala fides under S. 54 are different from those that determine the question under S. 53.[50 Mad. 948, Dist.] 1933 M.W.N. 1049; 68 M.L.J. 57. 1935 M. 250. In the absence of a receiverappointed in the case, the scheduled creditor could apply for setting aside a transfer under Ss. 53 and 54 and when the Insolvency Court entertains such an application, it must be deemed that it had granted him the necessary leave. In the vicissitudes of business, firms do sometimes part with their property to get cash or satisfy old creditors and thus keep their credit in the market. But this does not necessarily imply that they are acting mala fide, nor does it lead to the conclusion that the transferees had become aware of their difficulties. 1934 Pesh. 126. Where a transfer is shown to have taken place directly after the insolvent had been served with a summons and is one of two transfers by which he got rid of all his immovable properties, and the other has been admitted by the transferee to be a fraudulent one, and the transfer was to a mere child, the circumstances certainly require a very full explanation to a void the inference of fraudulent transfer. 1936 Rang. 506. An insolvent owed to B certain sum of money. C who was agent of B and was in a dominating position obtained title-deeds from an employee of the insolvent by way of equitable mortgage regardless of the solvency of the debtor or the claims of other creditors whom C put off by a false assurance that their money was safe. Held, that the onus was in the first instance on B to prove his title to the properties transferred. Held, further, that the transaction was entirely devoid of the element of good faith which is a necessary ingredient of the provisions of S. 53. 190 I.C. 643=52 L.W. 757=1940 P. C. 211 (P.C.). Where the debtor executes a mortgage in favour of a creditor as a result of pressure which the mortgagee who is a bona fide creditor of the insolvent brings to bear upon him, there is no case of fraudulent preference. So long as there is a threat of legal proceedings to avoid which the debtor makes the alienation and so long as his dominant motive is not to fraudulently prefer a particular creditor the validity of the alienation cannot be challenged under Ss. 53 and 54 especially when the existence of the debt is not disputed. 50 L.W. 771=1940 Mad. 228=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 786.

RES JUDICATA.—A decision of an Insolvency Court setting aside insolvent's transfers for want of valuable consideration under S. 53 operates as res judicata and hence such transferees are not entitled to prove their debts before the Official Receiver as unsecured creditors as regards the unproved consideration. 41 P.L.R. 575=1939 Lah. 145. No doubt according to S. 5, Provincial Insolvency Act, the provisions of the C. P. Code, are applicable subject to the provisions of Provincial Insolvency Act. But the Insolvency Act provides for setting aside alienations under Ss. 53 and 54 on different grounds. Hence the dismissal of an application under S. 53 does not bar the subsequent application under S. 54 under C. P. Code, S. 11, Expl. 4, particularly when the Official Receiver is not proved to be aware of the grounds of his second application at the time when his first application was presented. 39 P.L.R. 914=1937 Lah. 668. See also 1937 Rang. 27.

TRANSFER BY A TRANSFEREE OF THE INSOLVENT cannot be attacked by O. R. under this section. 1927 Mad. 59=51 M.L.J. 228; 1930 Nag. 34. See also 1932 M.W.N. 821; 1935 All. 671; 52 I.C. 761; 1932 M.W.N. 821. Where a transfer by an insolvent is not bona fide, the sebsequent transfers by the transferees also fall. 1938 Mad. 370. A bona fide transferee who took a transfer for value from one whose transfer offends S. 53 may invoke the protection of the equitable rule in favour of transferee for value without notice, only if he parted with consideration subsequent to the date of the transfer by the insolvent to the intermediate transferor. 46 L.W. 39=1937 Mad. 872=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 378. See also 1937 O.W.N. 234=1937 Oudh 129. It cannot be said that a transferee from an insolvent can avoid the operation or S. 53 by merely passing on the property to some other person. The original transfer made by the insolvent is voidable under S. 53 and if once it is declared void as against the O. R., the subsequent transfer by the transferee cannot stand and can be annulled under S. 4 if not technically under S. 53. 1935 Lah. 368; 1935 All. 671; 38 Bom.L.R. 255=162 I.C. 659=1936 Bom. 176. B executed a sale-deed of his house in favour of his own brother. R, who in turn sold it to one S. B was subsequently adjudicated insolvent, and the receiver made an application to the Court under S. 53 of the Provincial Insolvency Act for avoidance of the transfers. The Court found that the sale by B in favour of R was fraudulent, but that the transfer by R in favour of S was not fraudulent, S not having been proved to have acted in collusion with R. Held, that as the fraud which was intended by the insolvent and his brother had been completely successful in respect of the house conveyed to S, the insolvent could not recover the property, nor could the receiver, who could not claim any better rights than the insolvent, recover the price of the house sold from the insolvent's brother. 166 I. C. 210=1937 O. 129.

"TWO YEARS."—A transfer within two years from presentation to a wrong Court but more than two years from presentation of insolvency petition to a proper Court does not come within the operation of the section. 5 L.W. 123=36 I. In the case of a mortgage executed by a debtor requiring registration, the date of transfer for purposes of Ss. 53 and 54 is the date of its registration, because without registration the transfer is inoperative. But in the case of document whose registration is refused in the first instance but ordered on appeal, the date of registration is not the date of the appellate order directing registration but the date on which it was first presented for registration, in view of S. 75 (3) of the Registration Act. 48 L.W. 522 =1938 Mad. 801=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 362. Quaere.—Whether, when the period of two years prescribed in S. 53 expires on a holiday, the petition can be presented on the next working day of the Court. 1933 M.W.N. 1049. But now the Amending Act X of 1930 has made it clear that transfers could be annulled if they are within two years prior to the date of the presentation of the petition. It has not introduced a new period of limitation but only clarified the meaning of the old section. But see 51 A. 550 (F.B.), which held that, under S. 53 of the Act, the insolvency Court can try a question of title raised on the basis of a transfer which took place more than two years prior to the adjudication. Ss. 51 to 55 do not restrict or purport to restrict the wide jurisdiction conferred by S. 4 (1). They merely enact rules which define the effect of insolvency upon antecedent transactions and which must be followed by Ins. Courts whenever the rules are applicable. See also 1933 M. 527=64 M.L.J. 397. NOTES.

The O.R. is not bound by the admission of the validity of a mortgage executed by the insolvent by some of his creditors ; nor is he precluded on that account from applying under S. 54 to have it annulled as a fraudulent preference. 1933 L. 354=34 P.L.R. 436. Insolvent owning property under contract to create wakf thereof—Invalid wakf created by him is liable to be annulled—Rights of receiver. 44 C.W.N. 718=1940 Cal. 417. On annulment, the receiver is entitled to take immediate possession of the property and appropriate the income therefrom for distribution among the creditors, although he is not entitled to sell the property. I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 189=44 C.W.N. 718=1940 Cal. 417.

PROCEDURE.—Where a transaction is ab initio a nullity, it cannot be formally 'annulled'. It can only be declared invalid. Annulment applied to voidable transactions such as those lying under S. 53 which are good until avoided and annulled. 161 I.C. 687=1936 R. 54. Application by receiver for annulment of transfer not found entertainable under the section as the transfer was more than two years old—Application may be treated as a suit under S. 53, T. P. Act, and orders passed. 24 A.L.J. 495=1926 A. 470. The proper course in a case where a suit on a mortgage is pending and where the O.R. applies to have the mortgage declared bad under the section is to have the proceedings in the suit stayed. 48 M. 750=49 M.L.J. 203. Where four separate applications under S. 53 are tried together with the consent of parties, it does not follow either that evidence otherwise irrelevant becomes relevant because the applications were heard together, or that because some alienations are found to be fraudulent as being not in good faith the other alienations must necessarily on that account partake of the same character. Therefore in spite of the joint trial of all the applications, the case as regards each alienation must be dealt with separately and the evidence relating to each considered separately. 181 I.C. 225=1938 Mad. 285. S. 53 has clearly no application where the allegation is not that the insolvent has transferred property but that he acquired certain property before his insolvency in the name of somebody else. But the Court can go into the facts and ascertain the true ownership of this property under the powers conferred by S. 4 and declare that the property, though standing in the name of another, is property which has vested in the O.R. and which can be distributed among the creditors. 1935 A. L.J. 1158=1935 A. 952. Where, in a case of joint insolvency, one of the joint insolvents alone receives his discharge and not the other, the insolvency proceeding cannot be said to have come to an end, and an application for annulment of a transfer made by the discharged insolvent prior to his insolvency is, therefore, maintainable under S. 53. 14 R. 704. Cash items of consideration in transfers set aside by the Insolvency Court advanced at the time of execution of a fraudulent transfer cannot be allowed to be proved as a debt as the same is advanced for the purpose of carrying out the fraud. 41 P.L.R. 575=1939 Lah. 145.

SECOND APPEAL.—No second appeal lies from a decision under S. 53. (51 M. 567 ; 52 M. 337 Rel. on.) 54 M. 989=1931 M. 745=61 M.L.J. 820 and 27 N.L.R. 179=1931 N. 153 (F.B.). See also 67 I.C. 887=1933 M. 653=65 M.L.J. 298 ; 41 Bom.L.R. 1258. LIMITATION.—Art. 181 of the Lim. Act does not apply to an application under this section to set aside an alienation. 60 I.C. 123=12 L. W. 535. In the N. W. F. Province, the law prior to the amendment by Act X of 1930 was that the period of limitation was to be considered from the date of adjudication. The amendment can therefore only affect transactions which came into existence after it and the transaction before the date of amendment and over two years old at the adjudication order is not within time. 150 I.C. 308=1934 P. 30.

Secs. 53 and 4.—Benami transfer by insolvent—Ins. Court can decide the real nature of transaction. S. 4 is controlled by S. 53 only in respect of real transfers made by insolvent. 136 I.C. 299=11 P. 9=1932 P. 129. Under S. 4 an Ins. Court can declare a transfer to be void, even though it was more than two years old on the date of adjudication. 142 I.C. 97=1933 Pesh. 46.

Secs. 53 and 33 (3).—When a transfer by way of sale by the insolvent is annulled as fraudulent under S. 53, but it is found that the alience paid a sum of money towards the satisfaction of a prior decretal debt, the alienee may be allowed to prove in the insolvency as an unsecured creditor to the extent of the prior debt discharged by him. 1933 L. 211=34 P.L. R. 127.

Secs. 53 and 54.—An order by the District Judge transferring an application under Ss. 53 and 54 of the Act for disposal to a Subordinate Judge is ultra vires when the insolvency matter originates outside the local limits of the jurisdiction of his Court. The Subordinate Judge in such a case has no jurisdiction to deal with the application. 40 L.W. 313=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 654. Suit by wife for maintenance against husband claiming charge—Subsequent application by husband in insolvency—Decree in suit creating charge—Subsequent order of adjudication—Application by Official Receiver to avoid charge—Decree not to be annulled—Principles. 1940 Mad. 749=1940 M.W.N. 259. Proceedings under—Annulment of adjudication —Person appointed and properties vested in him—If can start or continue proceedings, see 69 M.L.J. 364 (F. B.). Where an order of adjudication is based on fraudulent perference, the O.R. is at liberty to show that the transfer was without consideration, without affecting the order of adjudication and the transaction can be avoided under S. 53 instead of under S. 54. 14 R. 748=1937 R. 27. But where in challenging a transfer by the debtor, the receiver does not press his case under S. 53 and does not allow the transferee to adduce evidence as to the fairness of the price but confines his case to one of fraudulent preference under S. 54, he should not be allowed in appeal to adduce fresh evidence as to inadequacy of price. 1935 C. 650.

54. (1) Every transfer of property, every payment made, every obligation incurred, and every judicial proceeding taken or suffered by any person unable to pay his debts as they become due from his own money in favour of any creditor, with a view of giving that creditor a preference over the other creditors, shall, if such person is adjudged insolvent on a petition presented within three months after the date thereof, be deemed fraudulent and void as against the receiver, and shall be annulled by the Court.

Avoidance of preference in certain cases.

NOTES.

Secs. 53, 54 and 55.—Once an adjudication is annulled, the receiver or a creditor or the Insolvency Court cannot either institute or continue proceedings under S. 53 or S. 54 of the Act. Where therefore the creditors of an insolvent apply for an annulment of a transfer made by the insolvent during his insolvency and the adjudication of the insolvent is annulled without any opposition from the creditors during the pendency of the application, the creditors are not entitled to pursue the application and obtain an annulment of the transfer after the annulment of the adjudication. No question of validating the proceeding under S. 37, arises and the property transferred, having ceased to be the property of the debtor, the Court has no power to deal with it under S. 37. I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 204=1938 Nag. 312. In an appeal before the District Judge against an order dismissing an application by the Official Receiver in insolvency to annul transfers made by the insolvent debtor under Ss. 53 and 54, it is not open to the District Judge to annul the order of adjudication on the ground that the debtor had not applied for his discharge within the time allowed by the order of adjudication. The appeal being concerned merely with the validity of the order by the lower Court refusing to annul the transfers, the District Judge can only deal with it on the merits and cannot usurp the function of the Court having seisin of the insolvency proceedings unless that matter specifically comes before him in appeal. 55 L.W. 301=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 588. If a transfer in favour of a creditor cannot be annulled under S. 54, the prescribed period of three months having elapsed, that provision cannot be circumvented by recourse being had to S. 53, which allows the longer period of two years. But it does not follow from this that the fact that the transfer is in favour of a creditor necessarily takes it out of the reach o S. 53. S. 53. in addition to valuable consideration, insists upon good faith; if the creditor-transferee is shown not to have acted bona fide, the transfer can be annulled. But in considering the question of good faith under S. 53, that element, which relates to fraudulent preference, must be eliminated, that is to say, the knowledge, for instance on the part of the transferee-creditor that the other creditors are being defrauded does not by itself constitute bad faith. But if, for instance, it is found that the property transferred is worth more than the debt and that the creditor intends to get a larger benefit than to what he is entitled, or where, though the sale is ostensibly in favour of a creditor there is some benefit reserved to the debtor, or again, where a third party, a i.e., person other than the transferee is really intended to take the benefit, the sale will be annulled. Such cases of bad faith tainting the transfer, while being unconnected with the fraudulent preference which comes within the mischief of S. 54, are nevertheless within the ambit of S. 53. 41 L.W. 723=1935 M. 250=68 M. L.J. 57. See also 1933 M.W.N. 1049. Power of Ins. Sec. 54.—A creditor can make an application under S. 54 for annulment when the receiver refuses to act. 155 I.C. 611=1935 M. 246. In the case of a series of alienations, if the original alienation is challenged and the subsequent alienees are also made parties, the subsequent transfers also should be set aside if not under S. 53, at least, under S. 4. When the original transfer falls through, the subsequent transfers cannot have any greater validity than the original transfer. 15 L. 349=148 I.C. 1013 =1934 L. 101 (2). See also 1937 Mad. 32. The section applies even to a transaction by a company. 59 I.C. 977=2 L. 102. O. R. cannot object to execution of a decree by a transferee unless he has obtained an order of Court under this section. 38 I.C. 231. Where it is established by the O. R. that the object of the insolvent in making the transfer is to give preference to one of the creditors, the fraudulent character thereof is to be presumed, although the mere fact that preference incidentally resulted from the transfer is not enough to attract the application of S. 54. 1933 A.L.J. 504=1933 A. 431. Before S. 54 can be made to apply to any particular case, the following conditions are to be fulfilled: (i) the debtor must, at the date of the transaction, be unable pay his debts; (ii) the transaction must be in favour of a creditor; (iii) the debtor must have acted with a view to giving such creditor a preference over other creditors; and (iv) the debtor must be adjudicated insolvent on a petition presented within three months of the date of the transaction attacked. 1928 R. 166. A decree against judgment-debtor is not binding on the receiver in insolvency, since it might have been collusive. 1923 A. 33 (1). "Creditor" includes a person, a transfer in whose favour is impeached under this section. 43 A. 427. It includes a surety for the payment of a debt due by the insolvent. 40 M. 783=32 M.L.J. 253 (F.B.); 1923 R. 149=113 I.C. 813. See contra 32 I.C. 795. Where a Hindu father executes a mortgage of joint family property for himself and as guardian of his minor sons, and the transaction is found to be a fraudulent preference, it can be annulled under S. 54 not only as regards the insolvent father's share in the family property, but as a whole even in respect of the shares of the minor sons. 46 L.W. 391=1937 Mad. 791=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 427. A secured creditor does not come under "creditor." A sale in his favour is not fraudulent. 27 C.W.N. 816=1923 C. 689. See contra 1922 N. 235. The term "void" in the section means voidable. 38 I.C. 231. Where the period of three months prescribed by S. 54 expired during the vacation and the O. R. filed an application under S. 54 for the annulment of a mortgage on the re-opening day. Held, that the petition was in time and validly presented. S. 10 of the General Clauses Act did not apply but the same effect was achieved by virtue of S. 4 of the Lim. Act which, by S. 29 (2), was made applicable to proceedings under this Act. The period of three months in S. 9 (1) is a period of limitation and not a condition precedent and as such is capable of extension. The benefit of this rule is also available to a petition under S. 4. 1933 M.W.N. 1049. See also I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 377=1938 Nag. 454. There can be no valid mortgage without registration where the value is more than Rs. 100. So the period of three months should be calculated from the date of registration and not from the date of execution of a deed of mortgage. If it was registered within three months prior to the petition for adjudication, it can be attacked under S. 54, even though executed more than three months before the petition. 1933 M. 185 =64 M.L.J. 382 : 12 R. 263=1934 R. 216 ; 1934 M. 637 (2)=67 M.L.J. 380. Receiver objected to certain mortgages executed by the insolvent on the ground that the mortgages, although executed prior to presentation of petition, being registered subsequent to it by the insolvent, were invalid as the transferor had no transferable interest. Held, that the insolvency of executant who had executed a document requiring registration did not render registration impossible as he was deprived of transferable interest in the property involved subsequent to the execution of the deed but before its registration. 1935 R. 133.

FRAUDULENT PREFERENCE.—For test of fraudulent preference, and for an enumeration of the conditions for its operation, see 41 I.C. 399 ; 19 C.W.N. 157=29 I.C. 128; 92 I.C. 296= 1926 L. 231; 91 I.C. 522=1925 M. 1089; 1929 L. 159; 33 P.L.R. 464; 140 I.C. 463=1932 M. 459. Whether a transfer is fraudulent depends on the intention of transferor, real and not legal. 43 C. 640=33 I.C. 548; 19 C.W.N. 157=29 I. C. 128; 44 M. 810=40 M.L.J. 570; 10 L.W. 354=37 M.L.J. 246; 83 I.C. 440=1924 R. 308. See also 30 Bom.L.R. 893. When a conveyance is impeached as a fraudulent preference under S. 54, the test to be applied is, what is the dominant or operative motive of the debtor in making the transfer. The question is not whether several motives have not operated on the mind of the creditor (debtor); but what among them was the dominant or effectual motive. 46 L.W. 895=1938 Mad. 177=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 868. In deciding whether a conveyance by the insolvent is a fraudulent preference liable to be set aside under S. 54 the test is what is the dominant or operative motive of the debtor in making the transfer. It has to be considered whether the dominant motive of the debtor was to prefer a particular creditor, or whether it is more reasonable to hold that he acted with a view to protect himself from exposure or from any sort of proceedings. The fact that the debtor has present in his mind as one view among several, the giving of a preference to a particular creditor can hardly be decisive of the matter. The true test is: (1) had the debtor a view of giving a preference to the creditor? and (2) was that the operative effectual view ? 46 L.W. 895=1938 M. 177=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 868. Before an alienation by an insolvent can be set aside under S. 54 the dominant intention in the mind of the insolvent must be found to have been actually to prefer a creditor. The fact that a preference in favour of the alienee-creditor inevitably follows from the act of the insolvent does not warrant the inference that the insolvent's intention was to prefer, since under S. 54, the burden of proof is upon the Official Receiver. 52 L.W. 768=1940 M.W.N 1200=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 846=1941 Mad. 274; 1938 Cal. 417. See also as to burden of proof, 52 L.W. 768= (1940) 2 M.L.J. 846. In determining the question of good faith, it is necessary that the facts should be considered in relation to each other and weighed as a whole; it is a mistake to take each fact, which militates against the bona fides of the transfer, separated from the rest of the facts and to proceed to demonstrate that it was quite consistent with good faith. [36 N.L.J. 483 (P.C.), Ref.] 34 P.L.R. 647=1933 L. 931. The predominating motive of the insolvent is the guiding factor in cases under S. 54. Such intention must be clearly proved. 12 Lah.L.J. 316. See also 1932 M. 459; 142 I.C. 247= 1936 R. 170. It is not sufficient for the O.R. seeking to annul a transfer by the debtor that the result of the transfer was the preference of some creditors over others. I.L.R. (1937) N. 78=1937 N. 117. Court can infer fraudulent intention from circumstantial evidence. 8 O.W.N. 1126. See also 43 I.C. 286 (L.). Per Mukherjea, J.—The question whether the transfer in favour of a creditor was made by the debtor with a view to give him an undue preference over his other creditors, must be decided with reference to the dominant intention of the debtor. If a debtor transfers a valuable property on the eve of insolvency to a creditor of his, the consideration being the past debt due to the creditor, an inference of undue preference can legitimately be drawn. But if the debtor approaches a creditor for a loan and substantial advance is made by the latter who insists, as a part of the same bargain, on the payment of the existing debt, the debtor consenting to it cannot be said to have voluntarily given preference to the creditor. I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 275=42 C.W.N. 554=1938 Cal. 417. Evidence of other acts of preference in favour of other creditors, committed by the debtor shortly before or after the transaction impugned, is admissible to show the debtor's intent. I.L.R. But this does not apply to a case where the earlier agreement only contains a vague promise by the debtors to execute a mortgage and does not state what the debtors would offer as security, and the simple mortgage executed by them of practically the whole of their properties amounts to an act of bankruptcy. 1933 M. 653 =65 M.L.J. 298. A mere threat to sue which, if at all, is the only pressure, will not be such as to change the nature of the debtor's act from a voluntary to an involuntary one, especially when he was in expectation of such suits being filed by almost all the creditors. 155 I.C. 611= 1935 M. 246. Transfer effected under pressure of a suit does not come under S. 54. 1935 L. 167. Where a transfer came into existence not because of pressure by a creditor but at the suggestion of the debtor and the creditor was only too pleased to advance a little more money in order to secure the debts which may or may not be proved to have been incurred. Held that the transfer should be annulled. If the object of the insolvents in executing a mortgage in favour of one of their creditors is to give undue preference to him in consideration of a fresh advance, the fact that the mortgagee had refused to make a fresh advance without security for the previous loan as well as for the fresh advance does not affect the matter, and S. 54 applies to the case. 1936 A.L.J. 698=1936 A. 489. See also 46 L.W. 439=1937 Mad. 872=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 378. A threat of legal proceedings to a person in hopelessly insolvent condition is no genuine pressure at all, so as to make a transfer, which otherwise appears fraudulent, a bona fide transfer. 1940 Lah. 6. In order that the payment may be voluntary there should be neither outside pressure nor even inward mental apprehension of such pressure. 32 Bom.L.R. 293=1930 B. 217. Where the motive behind the transfer by an insolvent in favour of a friend of his is to give him a preference over the other creditors, it is void under S. 54 and must be annulled. Where the transfer is effected after a creditor has filed suits and attached some of the properties of the insolvents, and when there are many other creditors whom the insolvent has no hope of paying, it is only reasonable to infer that the insolvent has the idea of preferring one creditor to the others as his motive. 48 L.W. 522=1938 Mad. 801 =(1938) 2 M.L.J. 362. Fraudulent preference —Essentials—Debtor executing mortgage to creditor in order to get a benefit for himself, by getting further loan—Nor "preference." 41 L. W. 358=1935 M. 300. The onus of proving that the transfer by the debtor was made with the intention of preferring one creditor to others lies on O. charge of an old debt and on the eve of bankruptcy. And where the reason of such payment or transfer remains unexplained, it is competent for the Court to hold that a prima facie case of fraudulent preference has been established. 137 I.C. 55=1932 L. 321. See also 63 C.L.J. 253; 1941 Mad. 796=54 L.W. 259=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 810. The question of onus becomes only important if the circumstances are so ambiguous that a satisfactory conclusion is impossible without resort to it. 1937 A. 4. Facts to be proved by O. R. 23 L.W. 10=1926 M. 338; 1928 R. 166; 1934 L. 994. Evidence given at the insolvency proceedings can be used against a purchaser, under this section. 23 I.C. 597. Where a transaction between a debtor and his creditor is attacked as a fraudulent preference evidence of other or similar contemporaneous acts of preference in favour of other creditors, is admissible to show the debtor's intent. 195 I.C. 527=1941 Nag. 188. Where the application is by a creditor, it could be heard only after notice to the O. R. 40 M. 783=32 M.L.J. 253 (F.B.). So far as movable property is concerned, mere preference of one creditor at the expense of another, if he is not injuriously affected, will not make the transaction void or voidable under any law except insolvency law. 118 I.C. 401 (2)=1929 R. 110. Fraudulent preference— Shifting of onus of proof— Principles—Circumstances sufficient to shift onus. 1941 Nag. 188. A debtor who was unable to pay his debts, voluntarily gave over to a near relation of his, who was one of the creditors, practically the only movable assets he had, viz., a promissory note duly assigned and some piece-goods. There was no allegation or proof that the latter had made any demand on the debtor or that any pressure had been applied by him on the date of the transaction. Held, that the transaction was not entered into in good faith, that the dominant intention of the debtor was to give to his relation fraudulent preference over other creditors and that the transaction should be annulled under S. 54. 145 I. C. 874=1933 L. 620. The execution of a mortgage, for a sum more than double of what is really due, to a near relative points both to the dishonest intention of the alienor to give undue preference to his creditor and to the mala fides of the alience and the transaction falls within S. 54. 1933 L. 856. Whether the object of the transfer is to give preference to one of the creditors is a matter of inference from the circumstances of each case and is essentially a question of fact. 1933 A.L. J. 504=1933 A. 431. See also 155 I.C. 611=1935 M. 246; 152 I.C. 655=15 Pat.L.T. 461=1934 P. 526. Where a mortgage is executed by a father and his two minor sons who are represented by him as their guardian and the mortgage is effected to the extent of the major portion of the consideration for the purpose of discharging the antecedent debts of the father and the cash consideration received is stated to be for discharging some other debts by him, the purpose for which this mortgage is effected being such as would justify the guardian of the minors to alienate their shares in the family property, the execution of the deed by the father as guardian of the minor sons would not be invalid. Therefore in so far as it is an alienation by the two sons of the debtor (insolvent), it cannot be viewed as a transfer by the insolvent for the purposes of Ss. 53 and 54. Hence the mortgage cannot be annulled so far as the two-thirds share of the insolvent's sons in the mortgaged property is concerned. 155 I. C. 611=1935 M. 246. A surrender of tenancy right is a transfer of an interest in property and S. 54 could operate on such a transaction. 1941 N. L. J. 187=1941 Nag. 118. Transfer of outstandings to creditors—Undue preference — Outstandings not realised — Liability to refund. 1933 S. 85=143 I.C. 628. Before the Insolvency Court, all persons, men and women, normally are alike. Among the Chettyar community a sum of money, merely because it happens to be a woman's stridhanam or dowry, has no special sanctity, so as to make the non-payment of it to be regarded as a peculiar disgrace to the man or firm from whom it has got to be recovered, and such debt when owned by a firm does not rank above ordinary debts. Fraudulent preference shown even to such a debt is voidable under this section. 164 I.C. 893=1936 R. 413. The effect of an order setting aside a transfer by an insolvent is to restore the status quo ante between all the parties concerned. Tho mere fact that some of the creditors managed to get certain debts of the insolvent assigned in their favour, which assignments have been annulled subsequently, cannot make the assignees liable to pay the entire amounts of the debts to the receiver from their own pocket. They are, however, liable to refund to the receiver the amounts realised from the debtors after deducting any legitimate expenses incurred by them. 171 I.C. 82=1937 Lah. 913. It is clear from sub-S. (2) of S. 54 that a transfer that may be deemed void under this section is not necessarily void ab initio, and it is void only as against the receiver while remaining valid as as between the parties to the transaction. From this it follows that such a transfer is not void ab initio but is merely voidable, i.e., valid until set aside. The transferee, therefore, is in lawful posiession and is not liable for mesne profits on annulment of the transfer. 31 N.L.R. (Supp.) 178=1936 N. 139.

APPEAL.—A creditor has a right of appea from an order passed on an application by the Official Receiver under S. 54 (4). (47 A. 849, Foll.) 1933 L. 856. Annulment of a transfer or refusal to annul a transfer is not a decision of a question falling under S. 4, and as the distinction between decisions under S. 4 and orders under Ss. 53 and 54 is clearly recognised in Sch. I, no second appeal lies against an order passed under S. 54. 1930 N. 272.

LIMITATION.—The three months period contemplated in S. 54 runs from the date of registration of the transfer deed because it is by registration that the transfer becomes effective and the title passes from the transferor to the transferee. I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 377=1938 Nag. of 454. The date of commencement of the period of three months under S. 54 is the date of the execution of the deed of transfer sought to be avoided, and not the date of its registration. I. L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 275=42 C.W.N. 551=1938 Cal. 417. The requirement of registration of a document is an evidentiary requirement; an unregistered transfer is inchoate and is ineffective until registered. But it nevertheless exists and when registered, operates from the date of its execution. The requirement of registration is a requirement of form only; the Registration Act looks not to the reality of the agreement between the parties but to the form in which that agreement is expressed; once the form has been supplied, the reality of the transaction receives acknowledgment. Hence the period of three months referred to in S. 54, begins to run from the date of execution of the transfer provided it has been properly registered within the specified time. (12 Rang. 263, overruled.) 1937 Rang.L.R. 375=1937 Rang. 446 (F.B.). There is no period of limitation for an application under this section. It can be filed at any time during the pendency of insolvency. 1924 L. 331. See 109 I.C. 370. No separate suit lies to cancel an order under this section; but appeal lies. 1922 L. 214.

EXECUTION OF A COMPOSITION DEED, by a debtor amounts to an act of insolvency. 97 I.C. 257 following 26 B. 476; 25 S.L.R. 371.

PROCEDURE.—Application by Official Receiver to set aside mortgage by insolvent—Transfer by District Judge to Sub-Court not having local jurisdiction in the insolvency matter—If ultra vires—Notification under S. 3—Effect of. See (1937) 1 M.L.J. 654.

Sec. 54-A.—S. 54-A does not abrogate S. 58 and must be read subject to the provisions of that section. The words "voidable, against the receiver" in S. 53 must, therefore, in view of S. 58, be read as "voidable against the receiver or the Court as the case may be", and a creditor is entitled to move the Court to take action under S. 53 where a receiver has not been appointed. 1933 N. 365. The restrictions placed by S. 54-A on the powers of a creditor to move the Court to take action under S. 53, apply only where a receiver has been appointed. Where the Court is summarily administering the estate, any creditor may move the Court to take action under S. 33 of the Act. 9 P. 839=1931 P. 14. Where a Court holds that a creditor has no locus standi to present a petition for annulling a transaction under S. 53, because it violates the provisions of S. 54-A, the Court has no jurisdiction to give a decision on the application on merits and the decision if given is ultra vires. 1930 R. 332 (1). Sale of insolvent to wife—Application by creditor to annul—Prior adverse claim order against creditor in execution proceedings—If a bar. 69 M.L.J. 120. When the Court, on the recommendation of the Official Receiver, that a payment made by the insolvent to a creditor was not really due to him, passes an order directing the creditor to furnish security for the amount held by him pending decision as to the exact amount to be refunded by him and that in default the same will be realised by distress, the fact that the receiver did not file an application under S. 54-A does not make it an invalid order. When the point has not been taken by the aggrieved party at a prior stage of the proceedings, when he could have done so, and when all the parties have had notice, and evidence has been fully gone into, the absence of a formal application does not make it necessary to quash the proceedings and to start a fresh enquiry by a proper application. 60 C.L.J. 253.

Sec. 55.—This section does not apply and will not invalidate a mortgage which was exccuted when the old Act III of 1907 was in force, and which would be valid under the old Act. 1934 L. 819. The section is intended to protect bona fide transactions. 43 A. 427 =62 I.C. 732. The true interpretation of S. 55 (c) is that insolvency itself will not invalidate a transfer for value except in cases provided for by the Act itself, but the avoidance of transfers under the general law or under S. 53, T. P. Act, is not affected by that section. 59 C. 1135= 1932 C. 642. Persons claiming the benefit of the proviso must show that they had no notice of the presentation of the insolvency petition. 1933 S. 85=143 I.C. 628. See also 1934 L. 819, as to conditions necessary for applicability of proviso.

Sec. 55, proviso.—"TRANSACTION"—MEANING OF.—Where a person files a suit against the insolvent pending an insolvency petition against the latter and obtains a decree against him before the adjudication—the insolvent filing a written statement but subsequently withdrawing his defence—the decree is not a "transaction" covered by S. 55 of the Act. The word "transaction" means one in which the insolvent does something and not a proceeding

(a) any payment by the insolvent to any of his creditors;

(b) any payment or delivery to the insolvent;

(c) any transfer by the insolvent for valuable consideration; or

(d) any contract or dealing by or with the insolvent for valuable consideration:

Provided that any such transaction takes place before the date of the order of adjudication, and that the person with whom such transaction takes place has not at the time notice of the presentation of any insolvency petition by or against the debtor.

Realisation of Property.

Appointment of receiver.

56. (1) The Court may, at the time of the order of adjudication, or at any time afterwards, appoint a receiver for the property of the insolvent, and such property shall thereupon vest in such receiver.

NOTES.

in which he is merely passive. The act of the insolvent in withdrawing his defence and submitting to a decree, being a purely passive act, is not a "transaction" contemplated or protected by S. 55. 42 L.W. 220=69 M.L.J. 241.

MORTGAGE AS SECURITY FOR RENT DUE TO GOVERNMENT—RENT NOT PAID—PROPER COURSE FOR CROWN TO PURSUE.—A person, who had executed a mortgage of his immovable property as security for due payment of rent due to Government, committed default in payment thereof. He was adjudged an insolvent and subsequent to adjudication, the Government sold the property without notice to the receiver who applied to have it set aside. Held, that if the Government wished to rely upon the protection given by S. 55, to bona fide transactions prior to the date of the order of adjudeication, it was the duty of the Crown to have pleaded the protection of that section, and further the burden was upon the Crown to show that at the time of the transaction in question it had no notice of the presentation of an insolvency petition. Held, further, that the sale should be set aside, but that as the debt due to the Crown was contracted before date of adjudication, the debt due to the Crown was provable in the insolvency under the provisions of S. 34 (2). and on proof of the debt the Crown should have priority in the distribution of the property of the insolvent under S. 61 (1) (a). Consequently, the proper course for the Crown to pursue was to prove in the insolvency the amount due on account of the rent as a debt, and then to claim priority under S. 61 (1) (a). 1935 R. 273.

Secs. 55 (a) and 56 (3): RECEIPT OF PAYMENT BY CREDITOR IN VIOLATION OF S. 55 (a)—POWER OF COURT TO ORDER REFUND.—Where during the pendency of an application for insolvency and before the order of adjudication, the debtor pays to a creditor a certain sum in satisfaction of a debt, the receipt of payment by the creditor who has notice of the filing of the insolvency petition is in violation of the provisions of S. 55 (a) and the money received by him continues to belong to the estate of the insolvent which is vested in the receiver and the provisions of S. 56 (3) read with S. 4 give jurisdiction to the Ins. Court to pass an order against the creditor to refund the amount which appertains in the eye of the law to the estate of the insolvent. The Court cannot award interest to the receiver by way of damages under S. 74, Contract Act, his claim for refund not being based upon any contract but being essentially a claim under tort. But the Court can, under S. 34, C. P. Code, award interest from the date of the presentation of the application for refund by the receiver till realisation. 31 N.L.R. (Supp.) 121 =1936 N. 28.

Sec. 56 (1): GENERAL.—Receiver is not a judicial officer and cannot make a judicial enquiry. 46 I.C. 337. It is objectionable to appoint as Receiver a pleader who represents a party in the proceedings by allowing him to throw up his brief in the middle of the case except in special circumstances appearing on the record justifying such a procedure. I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 161=1938 N.L.J. 40=1938 Nag. 230. Receiver cannot be appointed for a portion only of the insolvent's property. 89 I.C. 61= 1925 R. 224. Appointment of receiver; see 1924 C. 849=83 I.C. 360. As to effect of appointment of ad interim receiver, see 94 I.C. 506=1926 P. 291. Whether the receiver in Ins. Act is a representative of the judgment-debtor for purposes of S. 47, C. P. Code, depends on the purpose and nature of the application made by him. 35 C.W.N. 971.

INTERIM RECEIVER—HIS POWERS—If the interim receiver elects to remain in possession, he shall have to discharge the obligations attached to the property; but if he does not, the insolvent tenant who has been dispossessed shall have to be let in possession. Under no circumstances, therefore, the property can be restored to the mortgagee. 39 P.L.R. 205=1934 L. 1006. A creditor cannot be appointed as a receiver. L.R. 3 A. 85. Where petition was transferred to O.R. for disposal and he passed an order of adjudication, no separate vesting order is necessary. 44 M. 547=40 M.L.J. 209. Where the Court passes an adjudeication order, it should also formally pass an order appointing O. R. as receiver. 34 I.C. 602=30 M.L.J. 415. The receiver and Court should preserve the estate of the insolvent while administering his estate. 38 A. 37=31

(2) Subject to such conditions as may be presribed, the Court may—

(a) require the receiver to give such security as it thinks fit duly to account for what he shall receive in respect of the property; and

(b) by general or special order, fix the amount to be paid as remuneration for the services of the receiver out of the assets of the insolvent.

(3) Where the Court appoints a receiver, it may remove the person in whose possession or custody any such property as aforesaid is from the possession or custody thereof:

Provided that nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize the Court to remove from the possession or custody of property any person whom the insolvent has not a present right so to remove.

(4) Where a receiver appointed under this section—

I.C. 716. An attaching creditor cannot execute the decree attached after adjudication of the debtor. 40 A. 86=43 I.C. 129. If a transfer has been made benami, the proper course is for the O.R. to sue the alienee for the property. A summary procedure is wrong in law. 44 I.C. 143=22 C.W.N. 702. Sale by receivers is in fact sale by owner. It may be private or public. It need not be in the manner prescribed for sales in execution of decrees. 60 I.C. 745=24 C.W.N. 1072. A vesting under S. 56 (1) or 28 (2) of a proprietary right in a mahal is a "transfer" and the receiver is bound to make a report. When no such report is made, a suit in the Revenue Courts by the receiver for arrears of rent due to the insolvent is not maintainable. 11 O.W.N. 1037=15 L.R. 546 (Rev.).

Sec. 56 (2) (b).—Receiver's remuneration should be proportioned to the amount of dividend distributed. 27 Bom.L.R. 1116=90 I.C. 656. A receiver is not entitled to commission on the amount of the mortgage-money realised by the sale of the mortgaged property. He can recover commission only for the net assets after satisfying the mortgage debt. 7 R. 126=1929 R. 16=106 I.C. 200=1928 R. 23; 150 I.C. 960=1934 R. 112. Where an order is passed under S. 56 (2) (b) fixing as his remuneration Rs. 150 per month or 5 per cent. of the assets realised up to a maximum of Rs. 200 a month, without any direction as to the source from which the money is to be paid, the order must naturally be construed in the light of the section, Cl. (2) (b) of which pravides for payment out of the assets of the insolvent read with R. 13 of the Nagpur Insolvency Rules framed under S. 79 (2) (a). 1938 N.L.J. 40=1938 Nag. 230. Receiver appointed on adjudication—Adjudication order set aside on appeal—Effect on status and rights of receiver—If makes receiver interim receiver—Right to remuneration—If lost. See 1938 N.L.J. 40=A.I.R. 1938 N. 230.

Sec. 56 (3).—The section empowers Court to dispossess third persons from property belonging to insolvent. 37 A. 65=26 I.C. 926. Sub-cl. (3) does not cover the case of a person in possession claiming adversely to the insolvent. 46 I.C. 377; 49 M. 762=50 M.L.J. 180. Where a third party sets up a title in himself in respect of a property which the receiver attempts to take possession, the receiver has to make an application to the Insolvency Court which under S. 4 has power to try and determine all questions raised by the ob,ector including those of title. The result of the enquiry is either that the insolvent has a present right to dispossess the obstructor or that he has not. If he has, then action can be taken under S. 56 (3). The expression 'has not a present right so to remove' in S. 56 (3) does not mean 'has not a present right to remove except under a decree of a Civil Court.' Though the Insolvency Court has the power to enquire into title, it should ordinarily lean against enquiry into disputed titles unless the matter is simple. If the Insolvency Court takes upon itself the powers of a Civil Court, it should proceed like a Civil Court with reference to pleadings, issues and evidence. 1940 N.L.J. 283=1940 Nag. 233. See also 1941 Nag. 696; 1941 Mad. 75. Ins. Court cannot order delivery under Rr. 97 and 98 of O. 21, C. P. Code. 8 L.W. 136=47 I.C. 308. Court can remove obstruction and deliver property to purchaser from O. R. 45 M. 434=42 M.L.J. 185. Sale of property by receiver after third person's objection setting up his title, is dismissed for default—Application by purchaser for delivery of possession—Objection by third person reiterating his title—Power of Court. 1935 A.L.J. 484=1935 A. 546. Receiver cannot eject a purchaser of property from the insolvent, without first taking proceedings under S. 54. 89 I.C. 61=1925 R. 224. Where an alienation is impeached, the impeaching creditor should be directed to put funds in the hands of receiver to conduct the enquiry. 46 I.C. 377. Receipt of payment by criedtor in violation of S. 55 (a)—Power of court to order refund—Award of interest. See 31 N.L.R. (Suppl.) 121=1936 Nag. 28.

Sec. 56 (4).—Where in the circumstances of a case there is nothing to justify a positive conclusion of fraud and nothing but a doubtful enquiry on the hands of the Court, it would not be proper to pursue the proceedings against the receiver after several abortive attempts. This is a matter of discretion and should be exercised afresh in every case. Even in criminal matters the Crown does not always prosecute a second or third time when a previous prosecution has proved abortive, if it feels that they would savour of undue harassment or persecution. It is necessary to afford those who undertake the onerous responsibilities and heavy duties of officers of the Court the same general protection. 1942 N.L.J. 82. A receiver in bankruptcy is a trustee for the creditors and consequently, if he has withheld sums which properly belong to the

(a) fails to submit his accounts at such periods and in such form as the Court directs, or

(b) fails to pay the balance due from him thereon as the Court directs, or

(c) occasions loss to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence, the Court may direct his property to be attached and sold, and may apply the proceeds to make good any balance found to be due from him or any loss so occasioned by him.

creditors, then his conduct can be and should be inquired into by the Court at any time. and there is no question of limitation. 150 I.C. 960 =1934 R. 112. See also 1942 N.L.J. 82. What is necessary for the Court to determine under S. 56 (4) is whether there has been "loss to the property" and not to the insolvent. 1942 N.L.J. 82.

Sec. 56 (4) (c).—Scope—Gross neglect of receiver resulting in ex parte decree for partition in favour of insolvent's after-born sons—Suit by creditors to declare decree is not binding—Maintainability—Dismissal of receiver's application under O. 9, R. 13, C. Sec. 56 (5).—As to differences in powers of receiver and ad interim receiver, see 58 I.C. 783.

Secs. 56 and 4.—The Court has no power under S. 56, summarily to direct a third person to deliver up possession of property of which he is in possession if he sets up a title, however flimsy, to it. The only power the Court has in such circumstances is to try the issue whether the insolvent is entitled to the property or not under S. 4. But before that can be done a proper application has to be presented by the receiver, when there is one, or by such one of the creditors or other person interested in preserving the insolvent's estate as the Court authorises to act, when there is not. Where the Court or receiver enters into possession of such property without any obstruction from the claimant for some reason, then the latter's remedy to recover possession, whatever the nature of the proceedings, would have to be under S. 4 and should be against the person or authority in whom the proprty has vested. These could certainly not be a creditor or the body of creditors. Hence they are not necessary parties to such proceedings. I.L.R. (1941) Nag. 696. See also 1941 M. 75; 1940 Nag. 233.

Secs. 56 and 57.—Ss. 56 and 57 do not operate to prohibit the Court appointing an additional Receiver for a special purpose, and the Court has power to appoint an additional Receiver when the case demands it. I.L.R. (1939) Mad. 194=1939 Mad. 374=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 88. Where property sold as the property of the in olvent has been delivered to the purchaser, the Insolvency Court has no power to entertain an application for delivery by a person alleging himself to have been dispossessed when holding adversely to the insolvent. There is no jurisdiction in the Insolvency Court to order re-delivery of possession from the Official Receiver when once possession has been taken under the powers in S. 56 except on an adjudication as to title under S. 4 of the Act. 52 L.W. 377=1941 Mad. 75.

Sec. 57.—The status of O. R. is that of an officer of the Court. 1924 L. 331. A receiver is an officer of the Court appointed under statutory provisions, and the fact that an O.R. is provided for a particular district and the Ins. Court appoints him to act as a receiver in a certain case cannot make the receiver a servant of the Secretary of State for India, nor is the latter responsible for the receiver's wrongful acts in the discharge of his duties. (1932 A. 575, Foll.) 1936 A.L.J. 79=1936 A. 89. O.R. has the same powers as District Court, as regards dismissal and adjudication. But an appeal lies against his order to the District Court itself. 38 M. 15=16 I.C. 820. For exceptional reasons connected with the personality of the O.R., the Court may appoint a special receiver and remove the O. R. 46 M. 405=44 M.L.J. 251. Whether an express vesting order is necesssary even in the case of the O.R. 62 I.C. 396=41 M.L.J. 78. O.R. should conduct the proceedings on behalf of creditors. 36 I.C. 906. Insolvency Act to bind the creditors under certain circumstances, but that can only be in proceedings under and resulting from the insolvency. A proceeding by a creditor to obtain a personal decree against the insolvent for a debt due under a mortgage is wholly outside the insolvency, and a decree passed against the Official Receiver in such a proceeding will only bind in his capacity as representative of the insolvent and not the creditors. The creditors other than the decree-holder are not bound by that decree. The Official Receiver is, therefore, entitled upon the evidence led by the other creditors to go behind that decree and order the decree-holder to prove his debt in the insolvency proceedings. I.L.R. The powers of an Insolvency Court being identical with those of a receiver under the Act it cannot have recourse to the provisions of O. 21, C. P. Code, and the machinery to which it refers, since a sale of the insolvent interest in immovable property is not a proceeding under the Code, and therefore it must be executed by the Court by a registered instrument in accordance with the provisions of S. 54, T. P. Act. 1940 Rang.L.R. 263=1940 Rang. 186. See also 1940 Rang. 263. Sale of insolvent's mortgagee interest by Court—Registered instrument—Necessity. 1940 Rang.L.R. 263. See also 1942 All. 39.

Secs. 58 and 59.—Where an order for costs is made against creditors and in favour of the insolvent, and at the time there is a receiver appointed of the insolvent's property, on the death of the receiver, if no other receiver is appointed, insolvent's estate vests in the Ins. Court, and the order for costs cannot be executed by the insolvent or, on his death pending insolvency, by his heirs as agent under S. 59 (e) without the leave of the Court on an application in that behalf. Mere leave to execute the order is not sufficient to entitle the heirs of deceased insolvent to clothe them with title to execute the decree. 1936 C. 521.

Sec. 59 : GENERAL.—S. 59 does not control the powers of the Court under S. 4 of the Act. 18 N.L.J. 14. A receiver acting under this section is not a Court. 41 M. 440=6 L.W. 694. An Ins. Court cannot enquire into and judicially decide the existence or amount of debt. 26 I.C. 69=9 N.L.R. 182. It cannot be said that because a particular amount has been passed by the Ins. Court, the matter cannot be reopened at a later stage. If, on an examination of the accounts by an auditor, certain mistakes and overcharges are pointed out, it is open to the Court to reopen the accounts and make the receiver refund what he has taken without justification. 133 I.C. 607=1931 A.L.J. 670=1931 A. 723. If the members of a joint Hindu family governed by the Mitakshara law choose to divide the family property and to separate without making any arrangement for the payment of the family debts, a creditor of the father is entitled to proceed against the separated shares given to the sons and grandsons of the father, to enforce the payment of the debt, the debt being one which it is the pious duty of the sons and grandsons to pay. The receiver in insolvency of the father can proceed in the insolvency proceedings, without recourse to a suit against the shares received by the sons and grandsons in the partition. (50 A.137,Overruled.) 53 A.868=1931 A.L.J. 917=1931 A. 512 (F.B.). The receiver is not entitled to claim expenses which he has incurred without the previous sanction of the Court. If, however, he satisfies the Court that any part of the expenses was reasonably incurred and in good faith, he will be entitled to claim credit for the same. 1931 A.L.J. 670=1931 A. 723. When an Official Receiver is appointed all the property of the insolvent vests in him under the Provincial Insolvency Act and he has power under S. 59 of the Act to sell all or any part of that property. It cannot be said that, when he sells property that it is transferred by operation of law or by, or in execution of a decree or order of a Court of competent jurisdiction within the meaning of S. 2 (d) of the T. P. Act. Even if the insolvency Court ordered the sale and acceptance of the bid which it had no jurisdiction to do, it could not make any difference in the nature of the sale. It therefore cannot be said that S. 54, T. P. Act does not apply by virtue of S. 2 (d) of that act and that no sale deed is necessary. As the sale is not in the course of execution proceedings a sale certificate under O. 21, R. 94 could not be issued. 1942 O.W.N. 396.

Sec. 59 (a).—The powers conferred upon the receiver by S. 59 are exercisable only for the purpose of realising the property of the debtor for distribution among the creditors. Money realised by him by sale of the insolvent's property is divisible among the general body of creditors. The receiver has no power to execute a conveyance which would result in a valuable part of the insolvent's estate being lost to the general body of creditors without the purchase-money being utilised to satisfy the claims. The receiver cannot effect a sale which would result only in the extinction of the debt of one of the creditors. 15 Pat.L.T. 502=152 I.C. 277=1934 P. 514. Under S. 59 the receiver is entitled to sell any part of the property of the insolvent and to give receipts for any money received by him without the permission of the Court. If, however, he wishes to mortgage or pledge any part of the property of the insolvent for the purposes of raising money for payment of the debts of the insolvent, he must first obtain the leave of the Court. 35 P.L.R. 717=1934 L. 867. S. 54 of the T. P. Act applies as well to conveyances by receivers. 53 I.C. 121=46 C. 887. The Provincial Insolvent Act does not provide for sales by the Court such as are provided for in the C. P. Code. A sale in insolvency proceedings, whether it be a sale at auction or a direct one by the Official Receiver to a particular person, is nothing more than a transfer by act of parties. Since the Official Receiver is an agent of the Court, it may be said that a sale effected by him is a sale under the Court, but it is certainly not a sale by the Court. Hence for title to pass to the vendee at such a sale a registered instrument is necessary as required by the Transfer of Property Act. 1942 A. 39. See also 1940 Rang.L.R. 263. Where prior to the execution of a formal conveyance in respect of a sale by the Official Receiver for which the entire consideration had been deposited by the purchaser, a third party establishes his title in a Civil Court to the property sold and obtains possession, then the purchaser from the receiver is entitled to a refund of price paid by him. 1942 All. 39. The Court cannot order sale on the face of contention that the property is not liable to attachment or sale. 20 I.C. 273=18 C.L.J. 564. Where the mortgaged property of the insolvent is sold by the O. R. without reference to the rights of the mortgagee, the mortgagee may or may not have a right to protest against the sale; but this does not give the insolvent a right to protest against the sale. 1933 L. 1008. SUIT BY INSOLVENT AFTER ADJUDICATION—COMPETENCY—PROPER COURSE.—S. 28, sub-s. (3) prohibits suits being brought by creditors against the property of the insolvent and also prohibits the commencement of any suit or other legal proceeding by a creditor. But there is no specific provision in the Act, under which a suit by an insolvent after his adjudication is, in express terms, prohibited. S. 59 (d) implies that the receiver is the proper person to institute, defend or continue suits and proceedings relating to the insolvent's property. Where the property in dispute in a suit is admitted to be or is of such a nature that it must vest in the receiver, a receiver alone is the proper person to institute suits and proceedings. The suit brought by an insolvent behind the back of the receiver would be defective. But where a loan is advanced by the insolvent after his adjudication to the defendant, it does not necessarily follow that the sum of money given by the insolvent was property which had vested in the receiver. The insolvent might be a mere benamidar on behalf of an undisclosed principal, in which case he would be entitled to sue even though an insolvent, and the suit would, of course, be for the benefit of the real owner. Again, under S. 28 (5), properties exempted by the C.P. Code or other enactments from liability to attachment and sale in execution of a decree do not vest in the receiver. Such moneys as are exempted remain the property of the insolvent and if he has lent the money out of such accumulated savings, there would be no bar either to his lending the money to the defendant or to his bringing a suit to recover the amount. At the same time as a receiver is an officer of the Court acting under the control and direction of the Court and in the interest of the insolvent's creditors, it is the duty of the Court to see that no fraud is perpetrated before its eyes, and that the insolvent does not walk away with moneys which ought to go to the officer of the Court. An appropriate course would seem to be to implead the O. R. in the suit or at least give him notice of the action, so that when a decree is passed in favour of the plaintiff, the receiver may be at liberty to take the benefit of the decree and recover the amount due under it, if it can be shown that the property was such as had vested in the receiver. Such inquiry can easily be made either in the execution department or by a separate suit between the receiver and the insolvent. 1935 A. L.J. 709=1935 A. 675 (F.B.). See also 40 Bom.L.R. 966.

Sec. 59 (g).—Where a receiver not duly appointed effects, under a written order of the Ins. Court, a mortgage of a part of the property belonging to the insolvent, which is subsequently ratified by the Court, the mortgage is analogous to a judicial sale and is valid. As soon as the order of adjudication is passed, the estate of the insolvent vests in Court and the person effecting the mortgage is merely acting as its agent. 35 P.L.R. 717=1934 L. 867. 152 I. C. 638 (2); Where the Insolvency Court vests the estate of an insolvent in the Official Receiver and later on appoints two other persons as additional receivers to administer the estate, without vacating the order vesting the estate in the Official Receiver and making another order vesting the estate in a body of three receivers, the Official Receiver can by himself maintain suits to recover the estate of the insolvent. 1938 Lah. 264.

Sec. 59 (h).—The fact that sanction was not obtained by the Official Receiver to a comproknown or suspected to have in his possession any property belonging to the insolvent or supposed to be indebted to the insolvent, or any person whom the Court or such officer, as the case may be, may deem capable of giving information respecting the insolvent or his dealings or property, and the Court or such officer may require any such person to produce any documents in his custody or power relating to the insolvent or to his dealings or property.

(2) If any person so summoned, after having been tendered a reasonable sum, refuses to come before the Court or such officer at the time appointed, or refuses to produce any such document, having no lawful impediment made known to and allowed by the Court or such officer, the Court or such officer may, by warrant, cause him to be apprehended and brought up for examination.

(3) The Court or such officer may examine any persons so brought before it or him concerning the insolvent, his dealings or property, and such person may be represented by a legal practitioner.]

Special provisions in regard to immovable property.

60. (1) In any local area in which a declaration has been made under section 68 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, and is in force, no sale of immovable property paying revenue to the Government or held or let for agricultural purposes shall be made by the receiver; but, after the other property of the insolvent has been realised, the Court shall ascertain—

(a) the amount required to satisfy the debts proved under this Act after deducting the moneys already received;

(b) the immovable property of the insolvent remaining unsold; and

(c) the incumbrances (if any) existing thereon;

and shall forward a statement to the Collector containing the particulars aforesaid; and thereupon the Collector shall proceed to raise the amount so required by exercise of such of the powers conferred on him by paragraphs 2 to 10 of the Third Schedule to the said Code as he thinks fit, and subject to the provisions of those paragraphs so far as they are applicable, and shall hold at the disposal of the Court all sums that may come to his hands by the exercise of such powers.

(2) Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to affect any provisions of any enactment for the time being in force prohibiting or restricting the execution of decrees or orders against immovable property; and any such provisions shall be deemed to apply to the enforcement of an order of adjudication made under this Act as if it were such a decree or order.

NOTES.

mise under S. 59 (h) does not make the compromise invalid. The said provision is only an administrative provision. 112 I.C. 452 (2)= 1929 S. 41.

Sec. 60.—Applicability of section when the parties are all secured creditors; see 48 A. 475= 24 A.L.J. 480=1926 A. 501.

Sec. 60 (1).—S. 60 (1) is not applicable to Punjab. 61 I.C. 664=2 L. 78. The section does not mean that the receiver or Court should proceed through the Collector. 61 I.C. 664=2 L. 71. S. 16, Punjab Alienation of Land Act overrides the provisions of this Act in respect of all matters which are done in 'enforcement of the order of adjudication.' An act done by the Receiver in pursuance of the authority which he derives from the order of adjudication is nothing but an enforcement of the order of adjudication and sale of land belonging to member of agricultural tribe is subject to provisions of S. 16, Punjab Alienation of Land Act. 31 Punj. L.R. 842=1930 L. 1034.

Sec. 60 (2) is intended to supplement S. 28 and to protect the interest of the insolvent by saving the operation of enactments prohibiting the execution of decrees or orders against the immovable property of the insolvent even after the property has vested in the receiver and must therefore be held to apply to sale of insolvent's property by the receiver. Such a sale being made in enforcement of an order of adjudication, S. 16, Punjab Alienation of Land Act, which applies to execution of decrees

Distribution of Property.

Priority of debts.

61. (1) In the distribution of the property of the insolvent, there shall be paid in priority to all other debts—

(a) all debts due to the Crown or to any local authority; and

(b) all salary or wages, not exceeding twenty rupees in all, of any clerk, servant or labourer in respect of services rendered to the insolvent during four months before the date of the presentation of the petition.

(2) The debts specified in sub-section (1) shall rank equally between themselves, and shall be paid in full, unless the property of the insolvent is insufficient to meet them, in which case they shall abate in equal proportions between themselves.

(3) Subject to the retention of such sums as may be necessary for the expenses of administration or otherwise, the debts specified in sub-section (1) shall be discharged forthwith in so far as the property of the insolvent is sufficient to meet them.

(4) In the case of partners, the partnership property shall be applicable in the first instance in payment of the partnership debts, and the separate property of each partner shall be applicable in the first instance in payment of his separate debts. Where there is a surplus of the separate property of the partners, it shall be dealt with as part of the partnership property; and where there is a surplus of the partnership property, it shall be dealt with as part of the respective separate property in proportion to the rights and interests of each partner in the partnership property.

(5) Subject to the provisions of this Act, all debts entered in the schedule shall be paid rateably according to the amounts of such debts respectively and without any preference.

(6) Where there is any surplus after payment of the foregoing debts, it shall be applied in payment of interest from the date on which the debtor is

Sec. 61.—A proved debt cannot be excluded in the distribution of the assets. 19 I.C. 355 =6 S.L.R. 163. Since in a Hindu joint family the sons are liable to pay their father's suretyship debt, upon the insolvency of the father and the sons, the interests of the sons also in the joint family are answerable in the discharge of such debt to a public body in priority over all the debts, whether of the sons of the joint family. The priority is not restricted to the interest of the father alone. 1930 S. 244. Section 230 of the Companies Act was enacted to deal especially with the same question as to priority as were dealt with by S. 61 and confining the decision on all such matters to the provisions of S. 230 32 P.L.R. 367=1931 L. 351.

Sec. 61 (1) (a).—Mortgage executed as security for payment of rent due to Government—Rent not paid—Adjudication—Sale of properties by Government without notice to receiver —Validity—Proper course for Crown to pursue See 1935 R. 273. Where the insolvent firm is only one firm with different branches, there is no provision in the Act that creditors who had dealings with the foreign branch must realize their debts as far as possible from the foreign property before being entitled to share rateably with creditors in British India. 149 I.C. 935 (1)=1934 L. 33.

Sec. 61 (3).—No doubt the rent for premises in which the insolvent's goods are stored after adjudication, comes under expenses of administration within the meaning of S. 61 (3) and takes priority even over the debts of a secured creditor; yet where the premises are vacated before the order of adjudication is passed, the owner of the premises is not entitled to claim priority under S. 61 (3) for the amount due to him as rent. (1930 C. 459, Dist.) 39 P.L.R. 314=1937 L. 96.

Sec. 61 (4).—"Partnership debt" means a debt which is due from a partnership. The mere fact that a partner is personally liable for the partnership debt as a partner would not deprive it of its character as a "partnership" debt for the purposes of S. 61 (4); 143 I.C. 755 (2)= 1933 L. 639. The English Bankrupcy Act gives a preference to the petitioning creditor, and it is not applicable to India. 1934 A.L.J. 676=1934 A. 521.

adjudged an insolvent at the rate of six per centum per annum on all debts entered in the schedule.

Calculation of dividends.

62. (1) In the calculation of dividends, the receiver shall retain in his hands sufficient assets to meet—

(a) debts provable under this Act and appearing, from the insolvent's statements or otherwise, to be due to persons resident in places so distant that in the ordinary course of communication they have not had sufficient time to tender their proofs;

(b) debts provable under this Act, the subject of claims not yet determined;

(c) disputed proofs or claims; and

(d) the expenses necessary for the administration of the estate or otherwise.

(2) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (1), all money in hand shall be distributed as dividends.

Right of creditor who has not proved debt before declaration of a dividend.

63. Any creditor who has not proved his debt before the declaration of any dividend or dividends shall be entitled to be paid, out of any money for the time being in the hands of receiver, any dividend or dividends which he may have failed to receive before that money is applied to the payment of any future dividend or dividends; but he shall not be entitled to disturb the distribution of any dividend declared before his debt was proved by reason that he has not participated therein.

NOTES.

Sec. 62.—S. 47 must be read as corollary to and subject to S. 62. Before the Official Receiver is required to make any reserve, the claim must be submitted in the required form and further the Official Receiver cannot reasonably be expected to retain any assets when he is not in a position to know the extent of the debt he is to provide for. Hence where there is no compliance by a secured creditor with S. 47, there is no debt provable in respect of which the Official Receiver can retain moneys in his hands. 1935 S. 57.

Sec. 63.—Under S. 63 no creditor who comes in after declaration of a dividend shall be entitled to disturb the distribution of any dividend declared before his debt was proved by reason of his non-participation therein; the section does not, however, say how the money shall be distributed between subsequent and competing creditors inter se. It is silent on the question of what is to be done when competing creditors come in under the section. The general principle of rateable distribution should apply to all claims pending for admission before the Official Receiver when he proceeds to adjudicate upon the claims of late-comers; and a creditor whose claim has been admitted earlier is not entitled to any preference to other creditors whose claims were pending before the Official Receiver at the same time. It is inequitable that claims filed earlier should necessarily be postponed to others filed later which the Official Receiver may have, possibly on grounds of administrative convenience, heard and admitted first. It is open to the Official Receiver to admit late claims subject to conditions; and he should admit all claims, if proved, pending before him before the first of the claims is proved, to a share pro rata. 30 S.L.R. 161=1936 S. 186.

Secs. 63 and 64.—See 1933 S. 330; 1935 S. 57. At the time of the declaration of the first dividend, it is not possible for the receiver to be sure whether it will or will not be the final dividend. Unless it is quite clear that it is the final dividend it is not incumbent on him to give individual notices under S. 64. The unexpected event that the first dividend happened to be the final dividened would not entitle the negligent creditors guilty of delay in proving their debts to disturb the distribution of any dividend already declared. 33 Bom.L.R. 148.

Secs. 63, 64 and 74.—In the case of a summary administration under S. 74, a creditor is entitled to come before the Court at any time before the single dividend is distributed and proving his claim to a share in the amounts realised. Where a creditor makes an application to have his claim included before the distribution of the dividend, the Court is bound to entertain it and deal with it on the merits. The Court has under S. 74 (3) to inquire into the debts and assets at the hearing of the petition and cannot transfer the petition itself to the official for disposal, as the Act does not provide for any such delegation to the official of the power of disposing of insolvency petitions summarily under S. 74. If such a petition is transferred to the receiver and he frames a schedule, which is not required under S. 74, that cannot make the ordinary procedure applicable to the case, and when the dividend for which the Official Receiver prepares a schedule is the one and only dividend that can be possibly declared in Final dividend.

64. Where the receiver has realised all the property of the insolvent or so much thereof as can, in the opinion of the Court, be realised without needlessly protracting the receivership, he shall declare a final dividend; but before so doing, he shall give notice in manner prescribed to the persons whose claims to be creditors have been notified but not proved, that if they do not prove their claims within the time limited by the notice, he will proceed to make a final dividend without regard to their claims. After the expiration of the time so limited, or if the Court, on application by any such claimant, grants him further time for establishing his claim, then on the expiration of such further time, the property of the insolvent shall be divided among the creditors entered in the schedule without regard to the claims of any other persons.

No suit for devidend.

65. No suit for a dividend shall lie against the receiver; but where the receiver refuses to pay any dividend, the Court may, on the application of any creditor who is entered in the schedule, order him to pay it, and also to pay out of his own money interest thereon for the time that it is withheld, and the costs of the application.

Management by and allowance to insolvent.

66. (1) The Court may appoint the insolvent himself to superintend the management of the property of the insolvent or of any part thereof, or to carry on the trade (if any) of the insolvent for the benefit of the creditors, and in any other respect to aid in administering the property in such manner and on such terms as the Court may direct.

(2) The Court may, from time to time, make such allowance as it may think just to the insolvent out of his property for the support of himself and his family, or in consideration of his services if he is engaged in winding up his estate; but any such allowance may, at any tme, be varied or determined by the Court.

Right of insolvent to surplus.

67. The insolvent shall be entitled to any surplus remaining after payment in full of his creditors with interest as provided by this Act, and of the expenses of the proceedings taken thereunder.

NOTES.

the insolvency, it is still a dividend under S. 64 of the Act, and not an interim dividend under S. 63, so as to bar the right of a creditor to prove her claim before the distribution of such dividend, when that creditor has not had any notice under S. 64. 1937 M.W.N. 1160.

Sec. 64.—See 1936 C. 434. S. 64 does not control the proviso to S. 63 of the Act. 33 Bom.L.R. 148. Notice of final dividend should go to all creditors whose claims have been notified to the Official Receiver irrespective of the fact whether they have proved their claims or not. 107 I.C. 439; 1928 S. 105. Succession certificate is not necessary for payment of dividend to scheduled creditors. 1926 M. 899=51 M.L.J. 349.

Sec. 66 (2).—Courts cannot attach the half salary of the debtor, under S. 60 of the C. P. Code and the section goes further and enables the Courts to make a further reasonable allowance out of the other half as well. 45 A. 364=1923 A. 466. But see 38 I.C. 410. S. 66 (2) contemplates only a money allowance being given for the maintenance of the insolvent or his family. It does not empower the Court to reserve a portion of the immovable property of the insolvent for his maintenance. 40 P.L.R. 151. S. 66 (2) does not empower the Court to reserve a portion of the immovable property of the insolvent for the maintenance of the insolvent's wife and children. That section is meant only for the purpose of reserving a money allowance for them. 40 P.L.R. 1057=1939 Lah. 39. S. 66 (2) was not meant for the purpose of reserving a house for the residence or maintenance of the wife or family. 31 P.L.R. 661. S. 66 only gives discretion to the Court to make an allowance to the insolvent for the maintenance of himself and his family, and does not give any independent right to the members of the family of the insolvent to ask for any separate maintenance. 37 P.L.R. 517. There is no authority for holding that a Hindu insolvent has a right to claim out of his estate the expenses that he contemplates incurring for celebrating the marriage of his daughter. Such a claim cannot be made as a matter of right. The proper course for the insolvent is to ask for an increase in his allowance for the period during which he contemplates celebrating the marriage of his daughter. 51 L.W. 363=1940 Mad. 675 =(1940) 1 M.L.J. 334.

(2) The persons appointed to a committee of inspection shall be creditors who have proved their debts or persons holding general powers of attorney from such creditors.

The committee of inspection shall have such powers of control over the proceedings of the receiver as may be prescribed.]

Appeal to Court against Receiver.

68. If the insolvent or any of the creditors or any other person is aggrieved by any act or decision of the receiver, he may apply to the Court, and the Court may confirm, reverse or modify the act or decision complained of, and make such order as it thinks just:

refer not merely to the payment of the creditors at the contract rate up to the date of adjudication and of interest at the statutory rate of 6 per cent. from the date of adjudication under S. 61 (6), but also to the payment of the higher rate, if any, stipulated for in the contract with the creditor from the date of adjudication to the date of payment as indicated in S. 48 (2). So if, after payment in full of all the debts, there is a surplus left, the creditor of the insolvent to whom money is due under a promissory note providing for a rate of interest higher than the statutory 6 per cent. is entitled to be paid interest at the contract rate from the date of adjudication to the date of payment, before the insolvent can be entitled to the surplus. 134 I. C. 169=1931 M. 729. Sec. 68.—The sale of the property of the insolvent by the receeiver is an act of receiver within S. 68. 9 R. 231=1931 R. 122 (S.B.). Once an insolvent's property has vested in an O. R., he has no further interest therein and is not aggrieved by the disposal of the property for the benefit of the creditors by the O. R. The insolvent has no locus standi as an aggrieved person to appeal against the sale. 163 I.C. 621=1936 Pesh. 151. See also 43 Bom.L.R. 805 =1941 Bom. 415. An appeal lies against all acts of the receiver even against an order dismissing an insolvency petition. 38 M. 15=24 M.L. J. 73. The conduct of the O.R. can be brought to notice of Court by any person. 20 I.C. 683 =18 C.W.N. 366; 1 L. 307=58 I.C. 6. Court can interfere not only in cases of mala fides on the part of receiver, but also where his action has been irregular and has prejudiced creditors generally. 44 M.L.J. 284=1923 M. 350. A contract of sale by the receiver can be questioned under this section; O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code, has no application. 7 L.W. 406=44 I.C. 885. Under this section sales by O. R. can be set aside. 41 M.L.J. 211=64 I.C. 524 (1); 39 M. 479=29 M.L.J. 755. Grounds for setting aside sale. 5 R. 768=1928 R. 60. See also 9 R. 231 =1931 R. 122 (S.B.). An insolvent whose estate has vested in the O.R. is not entitled to appeal against an order of the judge rejecting his objection to a sale of his estate by the O.R. 40 L.W. 864=67 M.L.J. 942. Where the two creditors of the insolvent are the only two prospective bidders, it is neither fair nor reasonable that the receiver should hold the sale in the absence of the other creditor at an earlier hour than that at which sales normally are held and long before the other creditor could reasonably be expected to be present and without making enquiries to ascertain whether the other creditor was at that place or giving him any opportunity to be present when the sale took place. 9 R. 231=1931 R. 122 (S.B.). "Person aggrieved," meaning of. 33 M.L.J. 612=42 I.C. 789. See also 37 I.C. 773=5 L.W. 255. Mere omission or refusal is not an "act", e.g., where he refuses to act under S. 53 or 54. 18 L.W. 857= 1924 M. 345. "May" does not mean "must." A mortgage executed by an insolvent in favour of the petitioner was annulled by the Court under S. 54 (1), but the Court, in the same proceeding, considered the question whether the mortgage should be annulled under S. 53 and decided that the mortgage debt was true. Relying on this finding in his favour, the petitioner filed proof of this debt before the O.R who refused to admit it without further enquiry. Petitioner then applied to the Court under S. 68 of the Act against this refusal of the O. R. Held that, though it would have been better for the receiver to have admitted the debt and put the onus of getting expunged from the schedule of the other creditors, the O.R. could not be said to have acted ultra vires in posting the petitioner's application for further enquiry; that the O. R. was not bound to accept as final the decision in the annulment petition, and that he should be given an opportunity of considering the case and coming to a decision; and that until the O.R. had given a decision, the petitioner was not "aggrieved" and was not entitled to apply under S. 68, and the application was therefore premature. Held, further, that the O. R. should not in any way be fettered in the course of making inquiries into the validity of debts of which proofs are entered and that the act or decision referred to in S. 68, cannot be held to apply to some step taken in the course of such an enquiry. 71 M.L.J. 809=1937 Mad. 151. The making of a statement by a Receiver, in certain insolvency proceedings, is unquestionably an act and as the Provincial Insolvency Act, does not restrict the word 'act' to any particular kind of act it must be understood in its ordinary meaning. Any person aggrieved by reason of such a statement can appeal. 1940 N.L.J. 90=1940 Nag. 142. A third person may treat the receiver as a trespasser and maintain a claim in a Civil Court. 46 A. 16=1924 A. 40; see also 44 A. 620=1922 A. 407. See contra 47 I.C. 62. But if once an application is made under this section and a decision is arrived at, it is final. 51 I.C. 113; 41 A. 378 =49 I.C. 590; 43 I.C. 573=39 A. 626; 33 I. C. 798=15 A.L.J. 661. The section only applies to acts done in the course of insolvency. 39 A. 204=38 I.C. 613. A creditor, wishing. to attach a certain property as the insolvent's, has first to move the receiver. If he refuses, then this section comes into play. 39 A. 152= 37 I.C. 76.

PROCEDURE.—Where the O.R. sells a house belonging to the insolvent at a public auction to a certain person who deposits one-fourth of the price but subsequently, under the direction of the Court, executes a sale deed in favour of another who makes a higher offer, the Ins. Court cannot summarily cancel the sale-deed. In such a case the Court should leave the controversy to be settled in more appropriate proceedings, granting leave, if necessary for a suit against the receiver and the third person claiming rights under the sale-deed. 155 I.C. 563= 1935 A. 687.

PROVISO.—An application by a person not aggrieved can be enquired into even after the period of limitation provided in the proviso. 18 C.L.J. 359=20 I.C. 683. The proviso does not apply to the Court taking action under S. 50 (2). 42 M. 13=35 M.L.J. 531. An order rejecting proof of claim is appealable before notice is issued. When an order has been duly issued and a party is apprised of that order, time will run, even though it is directed that a notice of an order shall be sent. 57 M. 1030= 40 L.W. 145=68 M.L.J. 65. Where the land of an agriculturist was sold by the receiver contrary to the provisions of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act and the validity of the same was contested by the insolvent by means of an application filed more than 21 days after the sale, but all the time the O. R.'s report was before the judge for confirmation: Held, that the judge could refuse to confirm the action of the O. R. in having sold the property and that the question whether he acted rightly in entertaining the insolvent's application after 21 days did not therefore arise for decision. 1931 L. 133 (1). S. 68 empowers the insolvent, when aggrieved by any act of the receiver, to move the Court. The insolvent however must take action within the period provided by the proviso to S. 68: 33 P.L.R. 332=1932 L. 320. But see 67 M.L. J. 942. Where a house was attached under an order of the Court and the objector was not challenging the act of the receiver but the order of attachment passed ex parte: Held, that the attachment was not an act or decision of the receiver within the meaning of S. 68 but was a claim put forward by a stranger to the insolvency proceedings setting up his own independent title and it fell within the scope of S. 4. It was therefore open to the Court to enquire into the question of title and adjudicate upon the rights of the objector, even though the claim was made 21 days after the attachment. 136 I.C. 791=1932 A.L.J. 391=1932 A 408. Applicability of section—Application under S. 4—Limitation of 21 days—If applicable. 1935 L. 60.

LIMITATION.—S. 5 of the Limitation Act does not apply to an application under this section. 35 A. 410=20 I.C. 673. An application made to the Court by the insolvent under S. 68 within 21 days of the sale itself complaining that the O. R. had sold the property which he had no right to sell, is not barred by limitation, even though the application was preferred more than 21 days from the date of the attachment of the property by the O.R. There is no provision in the Act which requires or empowers the O. R. to attach the property as a necessary preliminary to sale, and the sale is not, in any sense, in continuation of the attachment. 1937 A.L. J. 129=1937 A. 226. By reason of the express terms of S. 29 (2) (a) of the Lim. Act, S. 4 of that Act applies to an application under S. 68 of the Prov. Ins. Act, so that if the last day of limitation for that application happens to be a Sunday, it may be presented on the next day. 5 R. 150=134 I.C. 223=1931 R. 209. The proceedings under S. 68 are more akin to an appeal than to a suit and the provisions of S. 22 of the Limitation Act have no application to such proceedings. There is no law which requires that certain parties should be formally mentioned as respondents in an application under S. 68. The phraseology of that section negatives such a necessity. The application is directed against an action of the Official Receiver and normally he is the only necessary party to be heard against the application. But the Court may hear other parties who are interested, as for instance a purchaser. But it is not necessary that the purchaser should be formally named as a party at the heading of the application. Accordingly an application under S. 68 directed against a sale held by the Official Receiver is not liable to be dismissed as barred by time on the ground that the auction-purchaser was made a party to it more than twenty-one days after the sale. 168 I.C. 389=1937 Lah. 611.

APPEAL.—Orders passed under this section cannot be appealed against except with leave of Court. 33 I.C. 773. See 40 M. 752=32 M.L. J. 449. On the wording of S. 68 the insolvent has the right to apply under S. 68 to the Insolvency Judge to set aside the sale of his property conducted by the Official Receiver. 186 I.C. 241=1939 Lah. 499. A time-barred appeal can be converted into a revision by the High Court. 39 M. 593=30 I.C. 703. Where no application for leave to appeal has been made, it cannot be inferred that leave was granted because the appeal was admitted. Leave was granted at hearing and time was extended under S. 5, Lim. Act. 149 I.C. 935 (1)=1934 L. 33. See also 1940 Nag. 142.

Secs. 68 and 4. See 149 I.C. 43=1934 R. 97, as to remedies open to parties aggrieved. Where the O. R. passes an order on a claim petition which he has no jurisdiction to pass, even though no appeal is filed under S. 68, an application under S. 4 is not barred because the remedy under S. 4 is much larger than what could be got under S. 68. In fact the correct procedure is under S. 4 and not by appeal under S. 68. 1933 M. 471=38 L.W. 896. S. 68 is intended to apply to provide an appeal to the Court against an act of the receiver and not an appeal to the Court against acts of the Court done through receiver. Where a receiver considers that certain property of which the insolvent is the trustee should be sold, and merely invites bids under the instructions of the Court, and refers the bids received to the Court which accepts the highest bid, the sale, if a sale be held to have taken place, is not the act of the receiver and S. 68 does not apply to such a case. An application to set aside such sale does not therefore fall under S. 68. It falls under S. 4 and is not barred by time although filed after 21 days after the date of the sale. 178 I.C. 110=1938 Nag. 320. See also 1937 Lah. 297.

Secs. 68 and 75.—A right of appeal is not a mere matter of procedure. It is a substantive right and is primarily a creature of statute. As such, it can be exercised only by those in whom the power rests either expressly or by necessary implication. Where the Official Receiver in insolvency who fails in a suit to set aside a sale of the insolvent's property for arrears of income-tax, and on appeal, refuses to prefer a second appeal to the High Court, it is not open to a creditor of the insolvent to prefer an appeal himself. The Official Receiver is not a representative of the creditors and the creditors cannot ignore him or act independently of him and prefer an appeal. The fact that leave had been granted to a creditor to appeal makes no difference when such leave is granted without notice to the opposite party, the grant of leave can only be regarded as having been made without prejudice to the interests of those against whom leave was granted. The proper remedy of the creditor would be to go to the Insolvency Court under S. 68 and to apply for a reversal of the refusal by the Official Receiver to prefer a second appeal or in the alternative for permission to appeal himself in the name of the Official Receiver. 1941 Mad. 577=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 531.

Secs. 68 and 80 (b)—Order of receiver that alleged debt was genuine but unsecured—Appealability. In order to prepare the schedule (under the powers delegated to him under S. 80 (b), Provincial Insolvency Act) the receiver has to decide whether the alleged debt was actually due and, if so, whether the whole or a part of it was unsecured. When after an inquiry into these matters he has come to the conclusion that the debt was genuine, but that no part of it was secured, the proceedings before the receiver cannot be said to have been misconceived, or the order passed by him ultra vires. An appeal against the receiver's order lies to the Districr Judge under S. 68 at the instance of the creditot who is an aggrieved person. 41 P.L.R. 884=1939 Lah. 480.

Sec. 69 : NATURE OF OFFENCES.—The offences are in the nature of disciplinary offences and not offences against criminal law. 39 A. 171=37 I.C. 996. Penal action against insolvent is not to be taken on mere suspicion. 97 I.C. 590=1926 M. 1159 ; 1936 Nag. 207.

PROCEDURE.—Difference between this and the next section, see 106 I.C. 486 (2)=1928 S. 85. Proceedings under S. 69 cannot be taken after a petition for adjudication has been dismissed and it is known that the alleged debtor is not going to be made insolvent at all. An order to prosecute passed under those circumstances is entirely ultra vires. 134 I.C. 534=1931 C. 508. The proceedings should be carried on in analogy with the Cr. P. Code. 38 I.C. 969. See contra 45 I.C. 675. A conviction based on report of the receiver and not on evidence is unsustainable. 18 C.W.N. 692=27 I.C. 199 ; 37 A. 429=29 I.C. 998. But District Court can grant permission to O. R. to prosecute insolvent under Ss. 421 and 424, I. P. Code on the strength of the receiver's report. 42 I.C. 608=16 L.W. 283. Opportunity should be given for answering a charge framed. 19 I.C. 920=19 C.L.J. 430. O.R. is merely an ordinary litigant who may be entitled to move the Court in the usual manner, that is, by presentation of a proper application which is to be heard in the presence of the parties and proceedings taken in his absence by the Court must be set aside on the proper application before the Court. 1929 L. 805.

CONCEALMENT.—As to necessity to prove criminal intent, see 1937 C. 234. Where the insolvent was in jail and had only omitted to mention the equity of redemption of certain property which he had mortgaged many years ago, but admitted the mortgage at once when the fact was brought to his notice, the prosecution of the insolvent is hardly warranted. 39 P.L.R. 213=1937 Lah. 432. If the insolvent having the means to find out where his properties are, though not a party to his active concealment, keeps quiet, his conduct amounts to concealment. 43 A. 406=64 I.C. 37. Where the insolvent was proved to have received certain sums of money within seventeen days after his adjudication, the Court may, under S. 114 of the Evidence Act, presume that the source of the

Sec. 69 (c) (i)—S. 69 (c) (i) refers to debts incurred before the order of adjudication and not to debts incurred after that order, for the simple reason that the insolvent is supposed to be incapable of incurring debts before his insolvency and is expressly forbidden from doing so by S. 72; 27 N.L.R. 304.

Sec. 69 (c) (ii).—Where an adjudicated insolvent removes away certain vital parts of his flour mill which he was not entitled to, as it has been sold away by the Insolvency Court to a third party, his conduct is such that the only possible inference is that he intended to cause wrongful loss to the creditors. 72. (1) An undischarged insolvent obtaining credit to the extent of fifty rupees or upwards from any person without informing such person that he is an undischarged insolvent shall, on conviction by a Magistrate, be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months or with fine or with both.

(2) Where the Court has reason to believe that an undischarged insolvent has committed the offence referred to in sub-section (1), the Court, after making any preliminary inquiry that may be necessary, may send the case for trial to the nearest Magistrate of the first class, and may send the accused in custody or take sufficient security for his appearance before such Magistrate; and may bind over any person to appear and give evidence on such trial.

Disqualifications of insolvent.

73. (1) Where a debtor is adjudged or readjudged insolvent under this Act, he shall, subject to the provisions of this section, be disqualified from—

(a) being appointed or acting as a Magistrate;

(b) being elected to any office of any local authority where the appointment to such office is by election or holding or exercising any such office to which no salary is attached; and

(c) being elected or sitting or voting as member of any local authority.

(2) The disqualifications which an insolvent is subject to under this section shall be removed, and shall cease if—

Secs. 71 and 72.—S. 71 does not apply to the offence of obtaining credit within the meaning of S. 72. After an insolvent has been discharged, the Ins. Court cannot proceed against him under S. 72, even though an offence was committed within the meaning of that section before the order of discharge, because in such a case the person from whom the insolvent has obtained credit during the insolvency can proceed against the insolvent in the ordinary course of law. 27 N.L.R. 304. See also 61 C. 505=1934 C. 764.

The only person who can appeal under S. 72 is the debtor himself in the case where his prosecution has been ordered. 28 N.L.R. 286.

Secs. 72 and 75.—An insolvent has a right of appeal against an order of the Court directing his prosecution for an offence under S. 72. 52 L.W. 604=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 672=1941 Mad. 285.

Sec. 73 (2).—Execution of decree—Subsequent adjudication and annulment—Fresh application to execute—Deduction of period. 131 I.C. 252 (A). The words "annulled under this Act" in S. 73 (2) are not limited to annulment under the chapter "Annulment of adjudication" beginning from S. 35; they include the case where the order of adjudication was discharged by the Court of appeal. Hence the period between the adjudication and the final dismissal of application should be omitted in computing the period of limitation for the suit by a creditor. 14 L. 426=1933 L. 769.

(a) the order of adjudication is annulled under section 35, or

(b) he obtains from the Court an order of discharge, whether absolute or conditional, with a certificate that his insolvency was caused by misfortune without any misconduct on his part.

(3) The Court may grant or refuse such certificate as it thinks fit, but any order of refusal shall be subject to appeal.

PART V.

SUMMARY ADMINISTRATION.

Summary administration.

74. When a petition is presented by or against a debtor, if the Court is satisfied by affidavit or otherwise that the property of the debtor is not likely to exceed in value five hundred rupees, the Court may make an order that the debtor's estate be administered in a summary manner, and thereupon the provisions of this Act shall be subject to the following modifications, namely:—

(i) unless the Court otherwise directs, no notice required under this Act shall be published in the Official Gazette;

(ii) on the admission of a petition by a debtor, the property of the debtor shall vest in the Court as a receiver;

(iii) at the hearing of the petition, the Court shall inquire into the debts and assets of the debtor and determine the same, by order in writing, and it shall not be necessary to frame a schedule under the provisions of section 33;

(iv) the property of the debtor shall be realised with all reasonable despatch and thereafter, when practicable, distributed in a single dividend;

(v) the debtor shall apply for his discharge within six months from the date of adjudication; and

(vi) such other modifications as may be prescribed with the view of saving expense and simplifying procedure:

Provided that the Court may at any time direct that the ordinary procedure provided for in this Act shall be followed in regard to the debtor's estate, and thereafter the Act shall have effect accordingly.

PART VI.

APPEALS.

Appeal.

75. (1) The debtor, any creditor, the receiver or any other person aggrieved by a decision come to or an order made in the exercise of insolvency jurisdiction by a Court subordinate to a District Court may appeal to the District Court, and the order of the District Court upon such appeal shall be final:

NOTES.

Sec. 74.—An Ins. Court which makes an order for summary administration under S. 74 is not entitled to make an order requesting another Court, which, in execution of a decree against the debtor, has, prior to the presentation of the petition by the debtor, attached his salary, to withdraw such attachment or to make no further attachment. Such an order is without jurisdiction. S. 74 (ii) does not give the Court power to pass such an order either under S. 51 or 52. 63 C. 535=40 C.W.N. 336. Duty of Court under S. 74—Insolvency petition—Power of Judge to transfer to Official Receiver for disposal—Enquiry into debts and assets—Duty of Court to hold and determine. See 1937 M.W.N. 1160.

Sec. 75.—An appeal from an order under S. 69 is a civil appeal. 36 A. 576=25 I.C. 986; 73 I.C. 129. The language of S. 75 of Act V of 1920 is materially different from S. 46 of Act III of 1907. Held, that the insolvent was a "person aggrieved" within the meaning of S. 75 and that he can prefer an appeal. 119 I.C. 427=1929 L. 622. See also 1941 Lah. 243. S. 75 is very general and clearly covers an order passed by the insolvency Judge under S. 70 regarding the finding that there are prima facie grounds for an enquiry into the offence referred to under S. 69 and appearing to have been committed by the insolvent, and making a complaint of the offence in writing to a Magistrate of competent jurisdiction. Such order made under S. 70 is appealable. 38 P.L.R. 1160=1936 L. 871. S. 75 is confined to cases falling under S. 4 only and a case decided under S. 53 does not properly fall under S. 4. 1930 L. 122. Guha, J.—An appeal under

Provided that the High Court, for the purpose of satisfying itself that an order made in any appeal decided by the District Court was according to law. may call for the case and pass such order with respect thereto as it thinks fit:

NOTES.

S. 75, Prov. Ins. Act, can lie only on grounds similar to those under S. 100 (1), C. P. Code. The decision of the lower Courts based on findings of fact cannot be assailed under S. 75. 59 C. 1135=36 C.W.N. 492. Under S. 75 which gives a right of appeal to any person aggrieved by the decision come to by the Ins. Court, the person aggrieved must have an independent right to the relief sought for. 37 P.L.R. 517. In the absence of any substantial reason, the decision of the District Judge on the question of fact should not be disturbed. 148 I.C. 501=1934 P. 144.

AGGRIEVED PARTY.—The word "aggrieved" in S. 75 qualifies all the classes of persons previously mentioned in the sentence, and neither a creditor nor the receiver has any right of appeal under the section unless aggrieved. A person can only be aggrieved under the section if he has been wrongfully refused something which he has a right to demand, and inasmuch as neither the creditor nor the receiver has any right to demand the prosecution of the insolvent, they cannot be said to be aggrieved at an order refusing to prosecute the insolvent under S. 69 of the Act and as such have no right of appeal against that order. 43 P.L.R. 217=1941 Lah. 243. The words "aggrieved by a decision, etc." in S. 75 (1) cannot be read as qualifying only the words "any other person" preceding them. They must be read as qualifying all the persons who are entitled to appeal, viz., "the debtor, any creditor receiver or any other person." There is no doubt that S. 75 (1) confers the right of appeal only on persons aggrieved by the order of a Subordinate Court. Hence a creditor who has been refused leave to prosecute the insolvent for fraudulent suppression of assets by an order under S. 70 of the Act made by a Subordinate Court is not aggrieved by the order within the meaning of S. 75 (1) of the Act, and hence not entitled to appeal to the District Court. 1942 Bom. 27 =43 Bom. L.R. 964. An insolvent is an aggrieved party, when a debt not provable in insolvency, is admitted. 45 M.L.J. 166=1924 M. 163; 1929 L. 622. An insolvent whose estate has vested in the O.R. is not entitled to appeal as a person aggrieved against the order of the District Judge passed in insolvency. A person aggrieved is a man against whom a decision has been pronounced, which has wrongfully refused him something which he had a right to demand, in other words, a party to the dispute before the Court who has endeavoured to maintain the contrary of that which has taken place. 118 I.C. 198=1930 S. 2. See also 32 P.L.R. 438. Where the judge of the Ins. Court granted a lease of a hotel to the highest bidder at an auction and the prior lessee of a hotel appealed against the order granting the lease, held, that the appellant was not an "aggrieved person" and that the appeal was incompetent. 133 I.C. 436=1931 L. 586 (1). On the adjudication of a Hindu father, receiver obtained an ex parte order that his debts were binding on the minor sons. The family property was sold and the purchaser obtained an ex parte order for delivery. Then the minors applied to set aside that order but the application was styled as one for review of the previous order. The application was dismissed and an appeal therefrom was also dismissed by the District Judge that it was not competent under O. 47, R. 7. Held, that the application, though purporting to be under O. 47, R. 1 must be deemed to be under S. 151 of the C. P. Code, that the order for delivery passed without notice to the sons was void; the order dismissing the application by the minor sons was the first valid order which was appealable under S. 75. (61 M.L.J. 894, Ref.) 37 L.W. 720=1933 M.W.N. 75=1933 M. 345=143 I.C. 613. S. 75 must be taken to override the provisions of O. 47, R. 7, C. P. Code, in so far as it bars a right of appeal from an order rejecting an application for review. 53 L.W. 466=1941 Mad. 588=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 537. See also 1937 Lah. 568. A piece of land in which the insolvent had occupancy rights under S. 6 of Punjab Tenancy Act was sold in insolvency. The sale was subsequently set aside as invalid in a suit by the landlord. Thereupon the vendee applied to the Insolvency Court for the refund of the purchase-money. The application was dismissed. Held, that no question of title was involved and that an appeal was not competent from the order dismissing the application. 34 P.L.R. 183=1933 L. 628 Refusal by Court to consider fictitious nature of alienation at instance of receiver—Sale of insolvent's interest—Application by purchaser to consider question of title—Issues framed—Revision. 1933 L. 611 (2)=146 I.C. 545 (1). An insolvent has no locus standi in the administration of his estate. He is not an aggrieved person to entitle him to appeal against an order confirming sale of his property. 41 A. 243=49 I.C. 816. A first appeal from an order of an Assistant District Court passed in its insolvency jurisdiction, lies to the District Court and not to the High Court. 12 Rang 352=151 I.C. 798=1934 Rang. 155. Against an order by receiver dismissing an insolvency petition, an appeal lies only to the District Court. 38 M. 15=16 I.C. 820. An order in appeal directing lower Court to take and submit additional evidence is not final but is subject to revision. 61 I.C. 589. The appellate Court has power to annul adjudication. 1930 M.W.N. 651. Where a Judge holds that the claim is not maintainable under S. 4, the order can be appealed against under S. 75 read with Schedule I. 58 C.L.J. 118=1934 C. 122 (2). No appeal lies from an order refusing to frame specific issues as required by the insolvent. 35 P.L.R. 155 =1934 L. 194 (1); nor against an order refusing to review an order. 1935 P. 177. Where a Court which has appointed a receiver in a mortgage suit rejects an application made to it by the O. R. for removal of the receiver in suit and for possession of the mortgaged properties, there is no provision either in the C. P. Code or in this Act, which confers a right of appeal against that order. An appeal by the O. R. against such rejection is therefore incompetent. 39 C.W.N. 384.

DECISION.—The word 'decision' has an element of finality so far as a particular Court is concerned. Hence an interlocutory order of a Court cannot be said to be a decision of the Court. 58 A. 639=1936 A.L.J. 9=1936 A. 80. Where, in an appeal, District Court passes an order impleading the legal representatives of the deceased debtor, it does not arrive at a decision but has only passed an interlocutory order and therefore no second appeal lies. High Court cannot also interfere in revision with the order for the same reason. (1936) All. 80. A decision upon jurisdiction has only the effect of regulating procedure and where it is not sufficient to dispose of the application hardly stands on a different footing from a ruling as to the admissibility of a document tendered or the relevancy of a question put and objected to in the course of the trial. Such decisions as to details of procedure and admissibility of evidence may, no doubt, be regarded as orders in a sense but it could not have been intended that such decisions should by themselves be open to appeal apart from the final drcision disposing of the application or matter. Accordingly, an order merely holding that the Court has jurisdiction to entertain applications for scaling down debts under Madras Act IV of 1938, in respect of debts due by the insolvent and posting the applications for trial on merits, is not appealable under S. 75 of the Act. (1942) 1 M.L.J. 113.

Sec. 75 (1) and 2.—See 49 M. 794=96 I.C. 944=1926 M. 801=50 M.L.J. 602. A creditor is entitled to appeal to the High Court against an order of the District Judge under S. 41 of the Act granting an absolute discharge to the insolvent. 1937 O.W.N. 923=1937 Oudh 450. The powers of the High Court under S. 75 are wider than those given under S. 115, C. P. Code, and the High Court can interfere in revision if the order is not according to law. 28 N.L.R. 295. An order passed by a District Court on appeal from a Subordinate Court under S. 75 (1) is not open to appeal but can be the subject of revision. 8 O.W.N. 1318. A Subordinate Court whether of the first or second Class is a Subordinate Court to a District Court within the meaning of S. 3 in relation to the investment of the powers by the Local Government; and such Court though exercises concurrent jurisdiction with the District Court does not cease to be subordinate for the purposes of appeal under S. 75 which the High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 527=1939 Sind 221. An order under S. 25 dismissing a creditor's application for the adjudication of the debtor is appealable. 40 P.L.R. 433. of appeal under S. 75 must be aggrieved by the order and he is not aggrieved within the meaning of that section when the Court in the exercise of its discretion refuses to prosecute the insolvent. 1937 Rang.L.R. 264=1937 R. 472. [See contra in 1937 O.W.N. 762=170 I. C. 542.]

Sec. 75 (2).—The words "any such person" in S. 75 (2) include the debtor also. An appeal to the High Court by the debtor against an order of the District Court declining to expunge certain debts from the schedule and declaring that they have been proved by the creditors is competent. 17 Pat. 201=19 P.L.T. 821=1938 Pat. 471. Where a person makes an application under S. 68, objecting to the conduct of the Official Receiver in taking possession of property belonging to him and not to the insolvent, and the Insolvency Court frames an issue on the point and decides that the property belongs to the person claiming it, an appeal lies against the order releasing the property. 1937 Lah. 757=40 P.L.R. 465. An order requiring to show cause why the insolvent should not be proceeded against under S. 69 is not appealable. 34 I.C. 777=23 C.L.J. 553. An appeal lies against the decision of a District Judge on a question of title. 122 I.C. 762=1930 A. 498. Where in respect of a creditor's application to set aside a transfer by the insolvent, a plea of res judicata is disallowed, an appeal is competent to the High Court under S. 75 (2) from such decision. 1940 Rang.L.R. 643. An objection to a sale by receiver was raised by an application under S. 68. The objection was that the objector was the owner of the property sold. The District Judge upheld the objection. Question was whether there could be an appeal from the order of the District Judge without obtaining leave of the Court. Held, that though the District Judge was moved under S. 68, which was not one of the sections mentioned in Sch. I mentioned in S. 75 (2), the investigation which he is expected to make in a case like the present should be under S. 4 and any order passed by him under S. 4 was appealable as of right to the High Court. (1928 L. 556 Rel. on.) 39 P.L.R. 214=1937 L. 2. No appeal, without leave, is competent to the High Court from an order of the District Judge under S. 70 making a complaint of an offence punishable under S. 69. I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 478=42 C.W.N. 787= 1939 Cal. 264; 1937 Lah. 432. The consideration for a mortgage consisted of two main items, the second item being of Rs. 3,000, kept in deposit for payment to a previous mortgagee. The previous mortgage-deed was in possession of the second mortgagee; and the discharge of the previous mortgage was admitted by the first mortgagee. The lower appellate Court upheld the annulment of the mortgage under S. 53 remarking that there was an initial presumption of collusion and hence the proof was insufficient overlooking the mortgagee's own evidence. Held, that the finding was vitiated by an error of law. 1930 L. 122. A creditor cannot be considered to be an aggrieved person and as such entitled to appeal under S. 75 against an order of the Insolvency Judge refusing to order prosecution of the insolvent under S. 69. 39 P.L.R. 213=1937 Lah. 432. See also 1939 Cal. 264; 1937 Rang. 472=1937 Rang.L.R. 264; 1937 O.W.N. 762=170 I.C. 542. Where a District Judge refused to modify the terms of an annulment order of his predecessor, the order of refusal is appealable with the leave of the District Court or the High Court. 1938 M.W.N. 18 (1)=1938 Mad. 461. After a notice under S. 19 has been issued to the other parties concerned and they have appeared under S. 24, the only final orders that the Court can pass are either to adjudicate the debtor an insolvent or to dismiss the petition. Where the Court refused permission to verify the petition and ordered the same "to be struck off from the register," held, that the order should be deemed to be one of dismissal passed under S. 25 and that the same was appealable. 133 I.C. 626.

Sec. 75 (3).—The provisions of the C. P. Code ought to guide the Courts in appeals under this sub-section. 44 A. 605=1922 A. 206. See also 1937 Lah. 568. The High Court and District Court have concurrent jurisdiction to grant leave to appeal. High Court can grant leave though District Court has refused. 29 I. But where there is no prayer in the grounds of appeal that the High Court may grant leave for the filing of the appeal and there is nothing to show that the failure of the Official Receiver to obtain leave of the District Court for the filing of the appeal was due to a bona fide mistake, that is, a mistake which occurred in spite of the exercise of due care and caution, the High Court will decline to grant leave to appeal at the hearing. 164 I.C. 664. See also 50 L.W. 202. An order refusing to annul a transfer is covered by this clause and is appealable only with the leave of the Court. 33 P. L.R. 971. mere fact that an appeal has been admitted by a Motion Bench does not necessarily imply that leave for the purpose of the appeal was granted. It is however open to the Court hearing the appeal to grant such leave. 132 I. C. 223 (L.). But see 1937 L. 87, where it was held, that the admission of the appeal by Motion Bench amounted to grant of leave to appeal. See also 18 L. 775=1937 Lah. 87; 1937 Lah. 895; 13 Luck. 757=1938 O. 101; 39 P. Where leave is obtained long after the expiry of the period of limitation from the date of the order which is to be appealed against, sufficient cause within the meaning of S. 5, Limitation Act must be shown for not duly instituting the appeal within the period of limitation. 172 I.C. 253=1937 Rang. 283. Where the Insolvency Court refuses to set aside a transfer under Ss. 53 and 54, leave to appeal should not be given to a creditor unless either the District Judge or the High Court is satisfied that the receiver has been requested and has refused to appeal. 132 I.C. 539=1931 L. 651. No appeal lies against an order refusing leave to appeal. 5 L.W. 168=38 I.C. 818. Leave of Court can be granted by implication by admitting it. 1929 L. 622=119 I.C. 427. See also 1929 L. 636; 1933 L. 642 (2)=145 I.C. 474=34 P.L.R. 827; 1937 Pat. 665=16 Pat. 724. Appeal—Competency of—Order of District Judge refusing to add more persons as debtors in the insolvency—Leave of Court may be implied. 1933 C. 151=56 C.L.J. 440. An order passed by the District Court, refusing to set aside an order of adjudication passed by that Court ex parte in an appeal against an order by the Subordinate Judge dismissing an application for adjudication, is appealable to the High Court under S. 75 (3). Such an order is not a proceeding in the appeal, the appeal itself having terminated. 59 M. 1049=44 L.W. 97=1936 Mad. 660=71 M.L.J. 333. Appeal by debtor—Death pending—Right of heirs to prosecute and continue—Abatement. See 1937 All. 435. See also 44 P.L.R. 347 (F.B.).

Sec. 75 (4).—S. 12 of the Limitation Act is not applicable to proceedings under this Act. 41 M. 169=33 M.L.J. 566: 33 A. 738=11 I.C. 197. See also 39 M. 593=30 I.C. 703. See contra 46 I.C. 588; 20 I.C. 258=9 N.L.R. 91. Ss. 9 and 10 of the General Clauses Act apply to appeals under this section. If the last day for appeal is excluded under S. 10, the day on which the order appealed against was passed must be excluded under S. 9. 42 M. 13=35 M. L.J. 531. A Court has to record a finding and make a complaint under S. 70 of the Provincial Insolvency Act. It is only against the combined effect of the order that the person aggrieved, has a right to appeal; hence the right to appeal arises only when the finding is completed by the forwarding of the complaint to the Magistrate. 1939 N.L.J. 495.

SECOND APPEAL.—The jurisdiction conferred by S. 75 is one and indivisible. The tribunal in both cases is the "High Court". Its powers are different in the two cases (i.e., revisional or appellate) but its jurisdiction is one. The manner in which the jurisdiction is invoked is a matter of procedure, and the fact that the application is labelled an appeal instead of a revision would at the most be an irregularity, which if it does not affect the merits, or result in prejudice or injustice, is curable. Where, therefore, the High Court entertained a second appeal when only a revision lay and interfered on grounds on which it could interfere in revision, it is a mere irregularity in procedure which is curable. 1935 N. 33. See also 1935 M. 432; 1941 O.W.N. 1218. When S. 28 authorises the determination of the question raised, the matter cannot fall under S. 4, and so no second appeal can be entertained. 1935 Nag. 33. No second appeal lies from the decision of an Insolvency Court under S. 54 but the appeal can be treated as revision under S. 75. 1940 Lah. 6. A decision under S. 51 that a creditor had realised the assets by an execution sale after the admission of the insolvency petition, falls under S. 4 of that Act. A second appeal from that decision is, therefore, competent. 42 P.L.R. 29=1940 Lah. 166. Orders passed by a District Judge on appeal from orders passed from a Subordinate Judge under Ss. 53 and 54 are final and are not subject to a second appeal to the High Court. The second proviso to S. 75 of the Act, which deals with decisions of the District Court on appeal from decisions of Subordinate Courts under S. 4 of the Act and allows second appeals to the High Court in such cases cannot be construed so as to cover orders made under Ss. 53 and 54. S. 4 was not intended to cover orders under Ss. 53 and 54. I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 1=41 Bom. L.R. 1258=1940 Bom. 51. See also 44 Bom.L. R. 132. An order avoiding a voluntary transfer is authorised by S. 53; it is not necessary to invoke the power under S. 4 and it is not therefore a decision under S. 4. So, a second appeal does not lie from such a decision to the High Court. 27 N.L.R. 179=1931 N. 153 (F.B.). See also 146 I.C. 490=34 P.L.R. 960=1933 L. 634; 1933 M. 53=65 M.L.J. 298; 37 P.L.R. 224; 1937 O.W.N. 807; 74 C.L.J. 528. The words "subject to the provisions of this Act" in S. 4 mean "excluding questions otherwise provided for by the provisions of this Act". So, an order annulling a sale by the insolvent is one provided for by S. 53 to which S. 4 has no application. Consequently, the second proviso to S. 75 does not apply and no second appeal is competent from the order of annulment. 54 M. 989=1931 M. 745=61 M.L.J. 820. A second appeal lies, only when the Court decides any of the matters referred to in S. 4; but in a case in which no question of title or priority arises, there is no second appeal. 36 P.L.R. 5=1934 L. 807 (1). See also I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 40=41 P.L.R. 816=1939 L. 346; 1937 L.

NOTES.

441 (Question whether sale by insolvent is benami). If a District Judge entertains an appeal which does not lie to his Court, a second appeal lies against his decision. The appealability from such decision does not depend on the view taken by the lower appellate Court with regard to the competency of appeal before it. 1933 M. 475. An order of the District Court dismissing an appeal against an order of the Court of first instance exercising insolvency jurisdiction and adjudging a person as insolvent is final and no second appeal lies. I.R. 1932 L. 645 (1). See also 1939 Lah. 300=42 P.L.R. 243; 39 P.L.R. 744 ; 1938 All. 28=1937 A.L.J. 1071. An insolvent who had been granted a conditional discharge appealed to the District Judge but he impleaded only the creditors and not the O.R. An objection on the ground of non-joinder was taken, but the Court, while modifying the order, held that the non-joinder was a mere irregularity. Against the appellate order both the creditor and insolvent preferred appeals. Held, that the order under appeal was not covered by S. 4 and that no second appeal lay. Held, further, though the O.R. was a necessary party to the appeal, the High Court was not bound to interfere in revision when the O.R. himself had not moved in the matter. 132 I.C. 526=1931 L. 647. It is clear from the second proviso to S. 75 (1) that no second appeal to the High Court from an order made by the District Judge setting aside in appeal an order of adjudication passed by a Subordinate Court. Such an order cannot be said to be order passed under S. 4 of the Act. 44 Bom.L.R. 132 ; 1940 Bom. 51. On this point, see also 1933 L. 634. An order of the District Judge refusing to grant an absolute discharge to an insolvent cannot form the subject of second appeal. It can however be the subject of revision. 35 P.L.R. 114=1934 L. 198. No second appeal lies from an order, made on an application under S. 61 by a creditor, claiming priority for certain debts due to him on account of rent for the premises in which the insolvent's goods are stored by the O.R. 39 P.L.R. 314=1937 L. 96. A question as to the right of the petitioning creditor to file his petition and the existence of his debts is not one falling under S. 4 of the Act and the decision on such a question is therefore not open to second appeal. 36 Bom.L.R. 1236=1935 B. 80.

REVISION.—The question whether a particular transaction is genuine or bona fide, or whether it is fictitious or not made in good faith is a mere question of fact and not of law. The decision on such a question is not open to revision. 37 P.L.R. 224. It cannot be held that the High Court has no power to interfere in revision with a decision of the District Judge in appeal. But the High Court should be very reluctant to interfere in revision unless the order is perverse or palpably wrong. 154 I.C. 908=1935 O.W.N. 374. In exercising the revisional jurisdiction under the Insolvency Act, the High Court has got wider powers than those vested in it by S. 115 of the C. P. Code. All that the Court has to decide is whether or not the order sought to be revised is in accordance with law. I.L.R. (1938) All. 84 1937 A.L.J. 1221=1938 All. 59. See also 40 Bom.L.R. 1025; 42 C.W.N. 1153=69 C.L.J. 229=1939 Cal. 490. Whether under S. 75 a single creditor is or is not entitled to appeal in cases where a receiver has been appointed, in a revision. High Court is entitled under S. 75 to act suo motu on the facts being brought to its notice even by any creditor. 1937 Nag. 31. An application by an insolvent to the insolvency Judge to set aside a mortgage of his occupancy rights made by the O. R. falls within the scope of S. 68. In such circumstances, S. 4 which is subject to the other provisions of the Act could not be held to be applicable, and a second appeal is, therefore, not competent from the order of the District Judge on appeal. The High Court has, however, ample power to interfere in revision under S. 75. 160 I.C. 921 (2)=38 P.L.R. 233=1936 Lah. 502. See also 58 All. 639=1936 A.L.J. 9; 1939 All. 80; 41 P.L.R. 655. Where the order was passed in the first instance by the receiver and not by a Court subordinate to the District Judge, revision under S. 75 does not lie. The revision however may be treated as having been made under S. 115, C. P. Code, read with S. 5, Insolvency Act. 41 P.L.R. 884=1939 Lah. 460. An appeal lies to the District Court under S. 75 (1) from an order of a Small Cause Court Judge, exercising insolvency jurisdiction, refusing to take proceedings against the insolvent under S. 69. As the remedy by way of appeal is open to the aggrieved party, a revision application is incompetent. 1937 O.W.N. 236=1937 Oudh 247; 1937 O.W.N. 762; 1937 Rang. 472.

NOTICE OF APPEAL.—In an appeal against dismissal of an application for adjudication, notice of appeal should be sent to substantial number of creditors. 37 I.C. 391. Only parties directly affected by order appealed against are entitled to notice. 27 I.C. 144=20 M.L.J. 451. Non-service of notice on legal representatives of one creditor would not vitiate the appeal. But the heirs may have the proceedings reopened on the ground of non-service of notice. See 44 C. L.J. 108=1926 Cal. 1210; 42 C.W.N. 1143. Procedure regarding issue of notices to creditors in discharge proceedings is prescribed primarily in order to afford them a reasonable opportunity to appear at the time of the hearing of the application for discharge. Where during the course of discharge proceedings started by the insolvent, a creditor who is party to such proceedings dies, the criterion which should be adopted for deciding whether the heirs of such creditor should be substituted to ascertain whether or not the interest of such heirs would be adversely affected by their non-substitution. 42 C.W.N. 1153=1939 Cal. 490=69 C.L.J. 229.

PARTIES.—In an appeal by a secured creditor whose rights were negatived, the other creditors are not necessary parties, if the receiver is impleaded. 58 I.C. 10=24 C.W.N. 401. Where a person is adjudged insolvent on the application of two creditors, and, on failure of the O. R. to apply for annulling a mortgage executed by the insolvent, the above creditors apply for the same and get the

MISCELLANEOUS.

Costs.

76. The costs of any proceeding under this Act, including the costs of maintaining a debtor in the civil prison, shall, subject to any rules made under this Act, be in the discretion of the Court in which the proceeding is had.

Courts to be auxiliary to each other.

77. All Courts having jurisdiction in insolvency and the officers of such Courts, respectively, shall severally act in aid of and be auxiliary to each other in all matters of insolvency, and an order of a Court seeking aid with a request to another of the said Courts shall be deemed sufficient to enable the latter Court to exercise, in regard to the matters directed by the order, such jurisdiction as either of such Courts could exercise in regard to similar matters within their respective jurisdictions.

Limitation.

78. (1) The provisions of sections 5 and 12 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1908, shall apply to appeals and applications under this Act, and for the purpose of the said section 12, a decision under section 4 shall be deemed to be a decree.

NOTES.

mortgage annulled, both creditors and the O. R. are also necessary parties to the appeal filed by the mortgagee, and, if all of them are not impleaded, the appeal is incompetent. 148 I.C. 329 (1)=1934 Lah. 36 (1). See also 41 C.W.N. 1079=66 C.L.J. 315=1937 Cal. 517.

Sec. 76.—The provisions of S. 76 are not mandatory. There is no prohibition to a Court exercising its discretion in the matter of costs and in the exercise of that discretion applying the provisions of S. 35-A, C. P. Code, to such cases as it deems fit for such application. (1930 Rang. 166, Dist.). 158 I.C. 394=1935 Nag. 207.

Sec. 77.—Where the Court which has adjudicated the insolvent has recognised the Court of the place where part of the property of the insolvent is situate as a Court having full jurisdiction to decide claims to that property, having previously requested that Court to aid it in the sale of that property, and the aiding Court has accepted jurisdiction, the proper Court to deal with claims to the property which is sold by the aiding Court is the latter Court. The fact that there is no special request by the Court which has adjudicated to the aiding Court in the matter of a particular claim makes no difference, because there is no necessity for it, when the adjudicating Court has previously requested that Court to aid it and has acknowledged that it had left the aiding Court to decide all matters relating to the property situate within the jurisdiction of the aiding or auxiliary Court. 53 L.W. 370=1941 Mad. 580=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 423. An auxiliary Court acting on a latter of request under S. 77 of the Act which has authorised the Official Receiver to take possession and sell property, has no power to conduct enquiries subsequent to the sale and to the delivery into claims by third parties who allege that possession was wrongly delivered. In such cases the matter has got beyond the stage at which the Court is entitled under S. 56 to consider who is in possession. 1940 M.W.N. 905=52 L.W. 377=1941 Mad. 75.

Sec. 78.—The section has no application to a case in which the decree-holder and not the judgment-debtor is the insolvent. Where all that happened was that a petition was filed by a creditor and the O. R. was appointed as interim receiver, but before the stage of adjudication was reacted the insolvency petition was withdrawn, it cannot have any effect in extending the time within which the execution petition should be filed. (1929 M.W.N. 369, Appr.) 1931 M.W.N. 1014=1931 Mad. 784. The provisions of S. 5, Limitation Act, cannot be applied to the amendment of an insolvency petition by the addition of a creditor-partner after the expiration of three months from the act of insolvency, because an insolvency petition is not an "application" within the meaning of S. 78 of the Act. 34 L.W. 799=61 M.L.J. 544. See also 1937 A.M.L.J. 101. This section does not create or take away any substantive right. The Court can excuse delay under S. 5, Limitation Act. 45 M.L.J. 844=1924 Mad. 400; 18 L.W. 857=1924 Mad. 345. There is no question of enlarging the period of limitation in favour of insolvents who happen to be either decree-holders or creditors in so far as proceedings to be taken against their debtors are concerned. Held, further, that S. 78 really enacts a further exception to S. 9, Limitation Act, and any person claiming to take advantage of an exception should clearly prove that he comes within it. 30 L.W. 327=1929 Mad. 715. Applicability—Suit brought during pendency of insolvency proceedings—Saving of limitation. 114 I. C. 227. Quaere.—The question whether the term "application" as used in S. 78 includes a petition for insolvency is not free from difficulty, there being opposite views on the point. 1930 Lah. 417 (2). No doubt the period from the date of the adjudication to the date of annulment cannot be excluded under S. 78 in case of an execution of a decree, unless the debt to which the decree related was proved in insolvency. Where, however, the application for execution is directed against the person of the judgment-debtor and not against the property movable or immovable, the decree-holder will, if he applies promptly after the cessation of the protection order, be entitled to the exclusion of the period during which the protection order was in force. 1930 All. 580 (2).

(2) Where an order of adjudication has been annulled under this Act, in computing the period of limitation prescribed for any suit or application for the execution of a decree (other than a suit or application in respect of which the leave of the Court was obtained under sub-section (2) of section 28) which might have been brought or made but for the making of an order of adjudication under this Act, the period from the date of the order of adjudication to the date of the order of annulment shall be excluded:

Sec. 78 (2).—S. 78 (2) applies only to a suit or application for the execution of a decree [other than a suit or application in respect of which the leave of the Court was obtained under sub-S. (2), S. 28], which might have been brought or made but for the making of an order of adjudication. S. 78 (2) is not intended to extend the period of limitation for a suit or application brought by the insolvent himself, and it is inserted purely for the benefit of creditors who were prevented from proceeding against him by the order of adjudication. I.L. R. (1936) N. 41=1936 N. 117. See also (1937) 2 M.L.J. 703 ; 51 L.W. 697=1940 Mad. 716= (1940) 2 M.L.J. 17 ; 1936 Mad. 290. The applicability of S. 78 (2) is not confined to the period of limitation fixed by the Limitation Act, but extends to other statutes including the C. P. Code. The language of S. 78 (2) is quite general, clear and definite, and comprehensive enough to affect and control the computation of the period of time limited, whether by S. 48, C. P. Code, the Limitation Act or any other statute. The period of 12 years fixed by S. 48, C.P. Code, is a "period of limitation" within S. 78 (2) of the Provincial Insolvency Act and therefore in computing the period of 12 years limited by S. 48, C. P. Code ; the time during which the insolvency of the judgment-debtor was pending must be excluded. I.L.R. (1939) Mad. 611= 48 L.W. 881=1939 Mad. 270. The words "annulled under this Act" in the section are not limited to annulment under the Chapter "Annulment of adjudication" beginning from S. 35 of the Act. They include also the case where the owner of adjudication was discharged by the Court of appeal. Hence the period between the adjudication and the final disposal of the application should be omitted in computing the period of limitation for the suit. 14 L. 426= 1933 L. 769. See also 1937 C. 158 ; 1936 Mad. 290. Where an appeal is filed without obtaining leave, but subsequently leave is obtained after the period of limitation, limitation may be reckoned up to the date on which memo of appeal is presented, or in any case the delay in filing the appeal, may be excused under this section 151 I.C. 625=1934 R. 117. S. 48. C. P. Code, is governed by S. 78 (2) of this Act. The words "the period of limitation prescribed for any suit or application for the execution of decree" are general and comprehensive and refer to the period of limitation prescribed in any law for the time being in force. They can control or modify the period of time allowed not only in the statute of limitation but also in S. 48, C. P. Code. 134 I.C. 878=8 O.W.N. 1186. In order to claim for purposes of limitation an exemption of the period between the order of adjudication and the order of annulment, the creditor must show that the Ins. Judge either passed a formal order under S. 33 or that there were proceedings which by necessary implication were tantamount to such an order. 32 P.L.R. 905=1932 L. 173; 1937 O.W.N. 1143=1938 Oudh 8. Where a creditor had done all that was necessary to prove his debt, it must be assumed in the absence of a decision by the receiver refusing to admit the debt, that the debt was proved, though the O.R. by inadvertence omitted to mention the debt in the schedule. So, the decree-holder is for the purposes of execution against the judgment-debtor entitled to deduct the time between the date of the adjudication order passed against the judgment-debtor and the annulment thereof. 142 I.C. 644=1933 L. 101. Limitation for proving debts ceases to run during insolvency proceedings. Where therefore a creditor sues after ordinary period of limitation is over, but before annulment of adjudication order, the proper course is not to dismiss the suit but to permit him to withdraw suit with liberty to sue again after annulment of adjudication. 1933 R. 75.

PROVISO.—Before a party can claim the benefit of the exclusion enacted in S. 78 (2) two conditions must be satisfied: Firstly, the suit or application in which limitation is pleaded must be in respect of a debt provable under the Act, and secondly, it must also have been proved under the Act. "Proved" under S. 78 (2), proviso, means proved under S. 49 of the Act, and not any kind of proof at any stage of a proceeding without reference to the purpose for and the manner in which it is given. The proof of a debt in insolvency means that kind of proof only which entitles a creditor to have his name entered in the schedule and none other. Therefore evidence given to make out that a petitioning creditor is qualified to apply to have the debtor adjudicated insolvent is not proof of insolvency, and cannot entitle a creditor to claim exclusion of time under S. 78 (2), if he has not proved his debt under S. 49 of the Act. 51 L. W. 697=1940 Mad. 716=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 17 =I.L.R. (1941) Mad. 136. See also 43 L.W. 520=1936 Mad. 290. The word 'proved' occurring in the proviso to S. 78 is used not in its ordinary sense under the said Act, but in its technical insolvency sense and that for the purpose of this proviso, a debt is 'proved' when those steps in respect of it which are prescribed by S. 49 (1) have been taken. The word 'proved' is in relation to a provable debt, satisfied, when a proper 'affidavit verifying' it has been delivered or sent by registered post to the Court. 1940 A.W.R. (H.C.) 454=1940 All.

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to a suit or application in respect of a debt provable but not proved under this Act.

Power to make rules.

(b) for meetings of creditors,

(c) for the procedure to be followed where the debtor is a firm, [2][*]

Delegation of powers to Official Receivers.

NOTES.

494. Where subsequent to the adjudication of a person as insolvent, a decree is obtained not only against the insolvent but also against the O.R. who was impleaded as a party to the suit, the debt must be taken to have been "proved," within the meaning of the proviso to S. 78, although the formal method of proving the debt as provided by the Act was not adopted, and consequently the proviso does not apply to such a case. 53 M. 243=122 I.C. 341 (1); 1930 M. 356 (1)=58 M.L.J. 170. A person who has lodged a proof and fulfilled all the requirements of S. 49 has proved his debt within the meaning of the proviso. 57 M. 767=1934 M. 465=67 M.L.J. 45. See also 1938 Mad. 142=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 883. Sec. 79.—Service of notice of insolvency proceedings on agent of debtor is as good as service on debtor. 39 M. 613=29 M.L.J. 788. It is clear from S. 79 (2) (c) that the Legislature contemplated orders of adjudication being passed against firms. Moreover, a firm is not a separate legal entity; nor is it a distinct person. It is merely a shorthand form for collectively designating all the partners in a firm and an order of adjudication passed against the firm is an order against individual partners who constitute it. 119 I.C. 735=1929 L. 447. Amendment of R. 34 regarding advertisement suggested. 55 A. 636=1933 A.L.J. 1340=1933 A. 600. Creditors upon whom notices of the date of hearing of the application for discharge are served in accordance with the provisions of R. 9, framed under S. 79 do not thereby become parties to the proceedings in the same sense that plaintiffs and defendants are parties in a civil suit. If some of such creditors die during the pendency of an appeal filed by the insolvent against the order disallowing his application for discharge, the failure to make their heirs parties to the appeal does not necessarily render the appeal incompetent. The criterion which should be adopted for the purpose of deciding whether such heirs should be substituted, is to ascertain whether or not the interests of such persons are likely to be adversely affected by their non-substitution. Heirs of creditors who have taken no interest in the proceedings beyond proving their debts and heirs of creditors who have even failed to prove their debts, cannot be affected in any way by their non-substitution, and the fact that they have not been impleaded in the case, can not therefore in any way affect the competency of the appeal. 69 C.L.J. 229=42 C.W.N. 1153 =1939 Cal. 490. The effect of the adjudication of a firm carried on by a joint Hindu family as an insolvent, is to make all the members of the family insolvents. 1935 A.L.J. 673=1935 A. 643.

NOTES.

Sec. 1.—The object of the Small Cause Courts Act is to provide a speedy and cheap means of settling disputes. Short judgments are generally written as the understanding is that the case is heard and disposed of at one sitting, or if working hours are over, it is to be taken up and determined on the next working day. Where the whole evidence is heard by one Judge and judgment written by his successor, though there is no objection in law to such a (c) any local law or any special law other than the Code of Civil Procedure.

Definition.

4. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context, "Court of Small Causes" means a Court of Small Causes constituted under this Act, and includes any person exercising jurisdiction under this Act in any such Court.

CONSTITUTION OF COURTS OF SMALL CAUSES.

Establishment of Courts of Small Causes.

5. (1) The Provincial Government, [1][* * * *] may, by order in writing, establish a Court of Small Causes at any place within the territories under its administration beyond the local limits for the time being of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of a High Court of Judicature established in a Presidency-town.

The test of jurisdiction is in the shape in which the suit is originally brought. 20 B. 675; 10 A. 524; 32 B. 356. The nature of the suit is to be determined according to the claim made by the plaintiff and not by the contest of the defendant. The latter procedure would give rise to the greatest confusion and eliminate from the jurisdictian of the Small Cause Court many cases which would fall within that jurisdiction. 29 N.L.R. 115=1933 N. 82. The principle that a plaintiff could not by his own act give or take away jurisdiction must be confined to cases where the amount claimed is such that he could not recover. 24 C. 661=1 C.W.N.

Exclusive jurisdiction of Courts of Small Causes.

16. Save as expressly provided by this Act or by any other enactment for the time being in force, a suit cognizable by a Court of Small Causes shall not be tried by any other Court having jurisdiction within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court of Small Causes by which the suit is triable.

NOTES.

556. But a plaintiff can always relinquish a part of his claim so as to bring the case within the limit of a Small Cause Court. 23 B. 266. By S. 15 read with Sch. II, Art. 8, a Court of Small Cause cannot take cognizance of a suit for the recovery of rent other than house rent. A suit for rent in respect of a Cinema Hall is not cognizable by the Small Cause Court. The test to be applied to determine whether it is a 'house' is to look at the character of the building and the purpose to which it is or can be adapted; not the name by which it is called. 'House' has a much more restricted meaning than building. It is a structure of a permanent character, structurally severed from other tenements, that is used, or may be used for the habitation of man. It need not actually be used as a dwelling. 1940 Rang.L.R. 820=1941 Rang. 36. Suit for recovery of money recovered as rent on expiry of lease is cognizable by Small Cause Court. 96 I.C. 822=1926 A. 340; as also a suit for damages for use and occupation. 134 I.C. 289=1931 L. 501; 1933 N. 382 and a suit to recover the price of the plaintiff's share of certain ornaments. 11 P. 690. Suit for ground rent of site not not revenue paying or agricultural land—Small Cause Court has jurisdiction. 1933 N. 382. Where a suit is for a payment of money, it is entertainable by Small Cause Court, though the principal question to be decided is as regards right to immovable property. 37 B. 675=20 I.C. 974; and though incidentally accounts may have to be examined the suit does not become one for accounts. 21 C.W.N. 784=41 I.C. 929. But jurisdiction is conferred by the exercise of discretion under S. 23. 29 M 329.

Sec. 15 (1).—See 30 Bom.L.R. 741=1928 B. 265.

Sec. 15 (2).—The mere addition of an idle prayer for declaration of the invalidity of the assessment as auxilliary to a suit for refund of profession tax does not make the suit any the less a suit of a Small Cause nature, if the claim for money can proceed without the prayer for declaration. 1931 M.W.N. 1107; 35 L.W. 70=1932 M. 226.

Sec. 15 and Art. 31.—Suit for damages for use and occupation after termination of tenancy—Is cognizable by Small Cause Court—Contract—Breach—Damages—Right to in the absence of stipulation in contract. 23 P.L.T. 11.

Sec. 16.—[See 1928 All. 38.] The effect of the provisions of S. 16 is not to deprive the regular Court altogether of jurisdiction in suits cognizable by a Court of Small Causes, but merely to prevent the exercise of that jurisdiction by the regular Court so long as there is a Court of small causes having jurisdiction within the same local limits. If, therefore, a Township Court having small cause jurisdiction tries a case of a small cause nature and within that jurisdiction as a regular suit, the proceedings of that Court are not entirely without jurisdiction and, therefore, are not a nullity. 1937 Rang.L.R. 234=1938 Rang. 35. Where a suit which is of a small cause nature is filed and tried on the original side of a District Munsif's Court because the Munsif has no jurisdiction to try it as a small cause suit, the suit cannot be considered to be a small cause suit so as to bar an appeal. All that can be said is that the suit is of a small cause nature. There is nothing in the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act or the C. P. Code, which prohibits a first appeal in such a case. The former Act applies only to small cause suits; and though S. 102, C. P. Code, would bar a second appeal in a suit of a small cause nature, there is nothing in the Act which prohibits a second appeal. A first appeal is competent, but no second appeal lies by virtue of S. 102, C. P. Code. 53 L.W. 690=1941 Mad. 665=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 635. S. 16 does not apply to a suit already instituted in another Court at a time when the latter Court had jurisdiction to entertain it. A suit, though of the kind cognizable by a Small Cause Court, is not itself so cognizable after another Court had lawfully taken cognizance of it. 15 Pat.L.T. 619=1934 Pat. 504. S. 16 is no bar to the exercise of the powers of the transfer of the District Judge under S. 24, C. P. Code. Under this section the District Judge is entitled to transfer any suit for trial to any Court subordinate to him competent to try or dispose of the same. 151 I.C. 385 (2)=1934 All. 530; 1934 Lah. 901. S. 16 does not deprive the regular Courts of their jurisdiction but merely directs them not to try

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.

Application of the Code of Civil Procedure.

17. (1) [The procedure prescribed in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, shall, save in so far as is otherwise provided by that Code or by this Act,] be the procedure followed in a Court of Small Causes in all suits cognizable by it, and in all proceedings arising out of such suits:

suits of a small cause nature. This bar is removed by S. 24 (4) of the C. P. Code, which empowers the High Court to transfer a suit from a Small Cause Court to a regular Court irrespective of the small cause powers of the Court to which the suit is transferred, provided the value of the suit is within the ordinary pecuniary jurisdiction of Bench Court. 56 Bom. 387=1932 Bom. 486. The expression 'suit' in S. 16 is wide enough to include an application under para. 20, Sch. II, C. P. Code, which is not a suit but is required to be registered as a suit. So, an application to file an award under para. 20, Sch. II is a suit within the meaning of S. 16. (10 W.R. 85 and 10 B.H.C.R. 54, Foll.) 1935 Sind 208. See also 30 S.L.R. 12. The expression "competent to try" in S. 24 of the Code means "of jurisdiction competent to try." S. 16 is made elastic by S. 24. Held, that a small cause suit pending before a sub-Court can be transferred to a District Munsiff for purposes of convenience and joint trial even though the value of the suit transferred may be beyond the small cause jurisdiction of the Munsiff. 55 Mad. 960=63 M.L.J. 689. See also 1936 Pat. 406. Where a suit filed in the Small Cause Court at Gorakhpur was transferred by the District Judge to the Court of the Subordinate Judge under S. 24, C. P. Code, it was contended by the applicant in revision that, under S. 16, the trial by the Subordinate Judge was illegal, because there was a Court of Small Cause at Gorakhpur at the time, by which the suit was triable. Held, that though it was a fact that Gorakhpur was one of the places where a Small Cause Court Judge was usually posted, it did not follow that there was an officer with these powers posted on the date of transfer and it was necessary for the applicant to show this from a a reference to not only civil lists but also Gazettes. 1935 A. 690=1935 A.L.J. 511. Where the same Judge presides over a Small Cause Court and a District Court and tries by mistake as Judge of the District Court a case of a small cause nature, the mistake does not alter the character of the suit and no appeal lies from the District Court. 7 Rang. 809=1930 Rang. 139. Small cause suit filed as such—Presiding officer having jurisdiction transferred—Successor not having necessary small cause powers—Suit transferred to original side—Return of former Judge and trial of suit as original suit Held, that the suit did not lose its character of a small cause suit by reason of its having been mistakenly tried as a regular suit, and that the decree in the suit was therefore final under S. 27 and not appealable. 1937 Mad. 227=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 14. Where a suit cognizable by a Small Cause Court has been tried against the provisions of S. 16 as an ordinary suit by a Judge who is not invested with Small Cause Court powers, the parties to the suit having raised no objection to the trial, it should not be considered as a small cause suit, and appeal would lie from the decision. (1924 Nag. 17, Rel. on.) 30 N.L.R. 252=1934 N. 121. S. 7, Cl. (4) of the Honorary Munsiffs Act provides that nothing in S. 16 of this Act shall be deemed to affect the jurisdiction of Honorary Munsiffs or Benches under the Honorary Munsiffs Act. Accordingly, where a suit of a nature cognizable by a S. C. Court is instituted in the Court of the Honorary Munsiff, there is nothing to prevent that Court from proceeding to dispose of the suit, even though there is a S. C. Court having territorial jurisdiction over that suit. 155 I.C. 95=1935 A. L.J. 426.

Sec. 17—The provisions of this section are mandatory and a non-compliance with them amounts to an illegality. The furnishing of security for the appearance for the judgment-debtor before the Court cannot be deemed to be a compliance with this section and the fact that cash is subsequently paid into Court is immaterial. 1930 A.L.J. 1494. If no deposit is made or security given, the Court has no power to set aside an ex parte decree. 106 I.C. 830; 50 A. 254=1928 A 111; 1929 L. 347; 6 O.W.N. 1014. See also 1938 A.L.J. 1078=1939 All. 46; 1939 All. 77=1938 A.L.J. 1058. Under S. 17 the purpose for which security has to be furnished is to ensure the performance of the ex parte decree in case that decree is not set aside. It is not the intention of the Legislature that the security to be furnished is for the performance of the ultimate decree that might be passed in the event of the ex parte decree being set aside. 70 C.L.J. 4=1939 Cal. 748. See also 40 Bom.L.R. 898=1938 Bom. 448. [N.B.—Conflict of law in this respect has been set at rest by the amending Act of 1926.] To say that the provisions of S. 17, as amended in 1935, are mandatory and that it is incumbent upon an applicant for setting aside an ex parte decree to have prior to the presentation of that application filed an application praying security be accepted for the performance of the decree or compliance with the judgment, is to put upon the section a too narrow interpretation. Provided the application is made and the security is furnished within 30 days, there is substantial compliance with the provisions of S. 17 of the Act. I.L.R. aside an ex parte decree under S. 17, it may be regarded as consisting of two parts: first a preliminary application to get a direction of the Court with a view to get the ex parte decree set aside and secondly after obeying the direction of the Court the actual application to set aside the ex parte decree. The second part follows only after obeying the directions of the Court. 1935 M.W.N. 57=1935 M. 380=68 M.L.J. 466 (F.B.). The requirements of S. 17 of the Small Cause Courts Act that the amount due or security for it is to be furnished " at the time of presenting the application" can only be relaxed to this extent that if the application is presented without the money or the security bond and the security bond or money is put in thereafter, the application will be considered to have been duly filed on the date on which the money was put in or the security furnished as the case may be. Accordingly, the security bond or money cannot be deposited after the expiry of the period of limitation prescribed for the application. 1938 Pat. 106. See also 1940 O.W.N. 1190. Where two applications are filed simultaneously, one for permission to give security and the other to set aside the ex parte decree and the Court entertained the former first and allowed it and thereafter proceeded with the setting aside application and directed notice, it was held that there was sufficient compliance with S. 17 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act. The applicant applying under S. 17 (1) for a review of judgment or for an order to set aside a decree passed ex parte shall and must, at the time of presenting his application, do one of two things, namely either deposit in Court the amount due from him under the decree or give such security for the performance of the decree as the Court may have directed on a previous application made by him in this behalf. If he does not make the previous application, he must put in the decretal amount in full. If he has made it and been successful in getting an order for security instead of depositing the money in full, he can furnish the security which the Court may have previously directed. It is no longer open to the Court to extend the time within which the deposit is to be made or security furnished. 18 Lah. 728=40 P.L.R. 164=1938 Lah. 18. Where an applicant to set aside an ex parte decree, not only failed to furnish the security within the time prescribed but furnished a security different from that ordered to be furnished, a Court if it sets aside the ex parte decree under such circumstances, its order is both illegal and without jurisdiction and can be set aside in revision. 1938 A.L.J. 742=1938 A. W.R. (H.C.) 434. There is no exception made on behalf of the Secretary of State to the rule as to deposit of decretal amount and furnishing security at the time of application for review. 1932 A.L.J. 842=1932 A. 575. "Amount due under the decree" does not include cost of execution. 55 I.C. 618; and does not mean the amount due on the date of application. 87 I.C. 370 (2)=47 A. 623; 54 A. 409=1932 A.L.J. 260. S. 17 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act as it stands now contains a mandatory provision. An applicant has got to do one of two things, that is either deposit the decree amount in Court or give security as per directions previously given. When this mandatory provision is not complied with, and a suit is restored the power of the High Court to interfere under S. 25 of the Act is purely discretionary. The mere fact that an order passed by the Small Cause Courts is either illegal or without jurisdiction, does not necessarily justify interference. The real test is whether any substantial injustice has been done by the order complained against. 1938 A.L.J. 1058=1939 All. 77. The proviso to S. 17 means that the applicant for setting aside the ex parte decree must at the time of making his application either deposit the decretal amount or give security for the same as directed by the Court upon a previous application made by him in that behalf. The proviso clearly predicates the existence of an application to be made by an applicant, who is not prepared to deposit the decretal amount in cash, to ask for the filing of a security as a substitute therefor. The mandatory nature of the proviso shows that the Court has no jurisdiction to grant any extension of time either for making the deposit or for the filing of the security. 1941 O.W.N. 195=195 I.C. 103. Security bond filed in time but re-filed late is valid. 1933 A.L.J 992=1933 A. 933. An application to set aside an ex parte decree not accompanied by either security bond or cash cannot be treated as an application to set aside an ex parte decree. But where, after the presentation of such an application, the Court directs security to be furnished and the security is furnished within the time allowed, the application can

Where the applicant tendered the deposit amount to the Court on a Saturday but was unable to make his deposit in the treasury which had closed earlier in the day, and he actually deposited it only on the following Monday, he should be deemed to have substantially complied with the requirements of the proviso to S. 17. 123 I.C. 825. The S.C. Court has disrcetion either to ask for a deposit of the decretal amount or a security for that amount and where the time for testing a security is not sufficient, the Court exercises its discretion properly in ordering deposit instead of security and in dismissing the application for failure to make the deposit as ordered. 1930 M. 658. Also 33 P.L.R. 931. On revision, held, that the order striking off the objection for default cannot be treated as an order under S. 47, C. P. Trial of suits by Registrar.

18. (1) Suits cognizable by the Registrar under section 12, sub-sections (3) and (4), shall be tried by him, and decrees passed therein shall be executed by him, in like manner in all respects as the Judge might try the suits, and execute the decrees, respectively.

(2) The Judge may transfer to his own file, or to that of the Additional Judge, if an Additional Judge has been appointed, any suit or other proceeding pending on the file of the Registrar.

Admission, return and rejection of plaints by Registrar.

19. (1) When the Judge of a Court of Small Causes is absent, and an Additional Judge has not been appointed or, having been appointed, is also absent, the Registrar may admit a plaint, or return or reject a plaint for any reason for which the Judge might return or reject it.

(2) The Judge may, of his own motion or on the application of a party, return or reject a plaint which has been admitted by the Registrar, or admit a plaint which has been returned or rejected by him:

Provided that, where a party applies for the return or rejection or the admission of a plaint under this sub-section, and his application is not made at the first sitting of the Judge after the day on which the Registrar admitted, or returned or rejected, the plaint, the Judge shall dismiss the application unless the applicant satisfies him that there was sufficient cause for not making the application at that sitting.

Passing of decrees by Registrar on confession.

20. (1) If, before the date appointed for the hearing of a suit, the defendant or his agent duly authorized in that behalf appears before the Registrar and admits the plaintiff's claim, the Registrar may, if the Judge is absent, and an Additional Judge has not been appointed or, having been appointed, is also absent, pass against the defendant, upon the admission, a decree which shall have the same effect as a decree passed by the Judge.

(2) Where a decree has been passed by the Registrar under sub-section (1), the Judge may grant an application for review of judgment, and rehear the suit, on the same conditions, on the same grounds, and in the same manner as if the decree had been passed by himself.

Execution of decrees by Registrar.

21. (1) If the Judge is absent, and an Additional Judge has not been appointed or, having been appointed, is also absent, the Registrar may, subject to any instructions which he may have received from the Judge or, with respect to decrees or orders made by an Additional Judge, from the Additional Judge, make any orders in respect of applications for the execution of decrees and orders made by the Court of which he is Registrar, or sent to that Court for execution, which the Judge might make under this Act.

(2) The Judge, in the case of any decree or order with respect to the execution of which the Registrar has made an order under sub-section (1), or the Additional Judge, in the case of any such decree or order which has been made by himself, and with respect to which proceedings have not been taken by the Judge under this sub-section, may, of his own motion, or on application made by a party within fifteen days from the date of the order of the Registrar or of the execution of any process issued in pursuance of that order, reverse or modify the order.

(3) The period of fifteen days mentioned in sub-section (2) shall be computed in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877,[1] as though the application of the party were an application for review of judgment.

Adjournment of cases by chief ministerial officer.

22. When the Judge of a Court of Small Causes is absent and an Additional Judge has not been appointed or, having been appointed, is also absent, the Registrar or other chief ministerial officer of the Court may exercise from time to time the power which the Court possesses of adjourning the hearing of any suit or other proceeding, and fix a day for the further hearing thereof.

Return of plaints in suits involving questions of title.

23. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing portion of this Act, when the right of a plaintiff and the relief claimed by him in a Court of Small Causes depend upon the proof or disproof of a title to immovable property or other title which such a Court cannot finally determine, the Court may at any stage of the proceedings return the plaint to be presented to a Court having jurisdiction to determine the title.

NOTES.

Sec. 23.—The terms of the section cannot be availed of, if only the right claimed depends upon the proof of title but the relief claimed could be granted without any reference to the question of title. 1928 M.W.N. 193. See also 1939 Pesh. 14. It is for the S. C. Court to decide whether a question of title is involved in a case. If the S. C. Court to desires, it may return the plaint. 119 I.C. 285 (2)=1929 A. 816. Under S. 23, S. C. Court Judge has got a discretion and no revision is competent from his order simply on the ground that a question of title is raised in the suit. 150 I.C. 980 (1)=1934 L. 355 (1). See also 150 I.C. 144=1934 A. 695. Where a question of title to immovable property arises on the pleadings in a small cause suit, the Small Cause Court has no option under S. 23, to return the plaint for presentation to a Court having jurisdiction to take cognizance of the question of title. S. 23 does not say that the Small Cause Court has no jurisdiction to determine the question of title; it only gives that Court an option. It is most inconvenient for the time of that Court to be taken up with case which involves evidence on a point of title. Where, in a suit for rent of a house the defendant pleads that the plaintiff is not the owner of the property in question, the Court will be acting properly in returning the plaint under S. 23, as a question of title does arise on the pleadings. 1937 A.L.J. 727=1937 All. 676. Simply because a suit of a S. C. nature involves the determination of title which may be a complicated question of law, but not of title to immovable property, that would not empower a S. C. Court Judge to remove the plaint from his file and return it for presentation to a Court of original jurisdiction. The question involved must be one relating to the proof or disproof of title to an immovable property. 62 C.L.J. 530. See also 1940 Pesh. 34. S. C. Courts have jurisdiction to decide questions of title that arise incidentally. 23 S.L.R. 411=1929 S. 43; 1930 P. 389. A. S. C. Court Judge is competent to decide a question of title but he should finally determine the same and not in a cursory manner. It is not always convenient for him to decide an intricate question of title, and the object of S. 33 is to meet cases in which the Judge is satisfied that the question of title is so intricate that it should not be decided summarily and then it should return the plaint for presentation to a proper Court. There are no words in the section which would justify the inference that the plaintiff and the defendant should be rival claimants to the immovable property before the question of returning the plaint for presentation to proper Court arises. Where therefore in a suit for arrears of rent in respect of certain shops, the defence is that the shops are in the ownership of of a third person who had purchased them at an auction sale and the rent had been paid to this third person, and the question of title depends upon a consideration of a number of documents, it is a case in which the question of title ought to be decided by a competent Court other than the S.C. Court. 1935 A.L.J. 301 = 1935 A. 148. When the suit is transferred under S. 23, it is triable as an ordinary suit and the decision is open to appeal, although it does not thereby cease to be one cognizable by Small Cause Court within the meaning of S. 102, C. P. Code. Therefore although no second appeal would lie, a first appeal would lie to the District Judge. 189 I.C. 688 = 1940 Cal. 399.

(2) When a Court returns a plaint under sub-section (1), it shall comply with the provisions of the second paragraph of section 57[1] of the Code of Civil Procedure and make such order with respect to costs as it deems just, and the Court shall, for the purposes of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, be deemed to have been unable to entertain the suit by reason of a cause of a nature like to that of defect of jurisdiction.

Appeal from certain orders of Courts of Small Causes.

24. Where an order specified in [2][clause (ff) or clause (h) of sub-section (1) of section 104 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908,] is made by a Court of Small Causes, an appeal therefrom shall lie to the District Court [2][on any ground on which an appeal from such order would lie under that section].

OBJECT OF SECTION is to meet cases in which a S.C. Court Judge is satisfied that the question of title raised is so intricate that it should not be decided summarily but in a Court in which evidence is recorded in full and the decision is open to appeal. The matter is one of discretion. 20 C.W.N. 1080; 1 P.L.J. 465 = 37 I.C. 129.

SCOPE.—When a plaint is returned, the nature of the suit is not altered. 85 I.C. 1002; 87 I.C. 659 = 1925 A. 821. See also 1926 C. 86. When a S. C. Judge decides to try a question of title himself, he cannot try it in a summary manner. 14 I.C. 2. When a Judge has small cause and regular jurisdiction a plaint can be transferred from one to the other without a return. 38 B. 190 = 21 I.C. 832. An appeal lies when the trial is on the regular side even though the suit may be a S. C. suit. 64 I.C. 436; 45 I.C. 645; 1931 A.L.J. 967. But see 39 A. 101 = 37 I.C. 92. A second appeal is, however, barred under S. 102, C. P. Code. 134 I.C. 251 = 1931 A.L.J. 967. A small cause suit is none the less a S. C. suit though tried on the regular side. 4 L.W. 245 = 36 I.C. 202 : 65 I. C. 93. See also 23 L.W. 518 = 1926 M. 622. The regular side has no jurisdiction to refuse to entertain a suit returned to it. 18 I.C. 325 = 18 C.W.N. 380. Where a plaint was returned to the regular side but was tried as a S. C. suit ignoring the order in the return, the trial is illegal. 27 I.C. 751. S. C. Court cannot try a suit by executors when defendant questions the power of testator to dispose of certain lands. 38 I.C. 608 = 4 L.W. 349.

Secs. 23 and 25.—Where the relief for damages depended on the proof or disproof of the title or the plaintiff to certain trees, held, that the suit was maintainable in the Court of small causes. 1934 A.L.J. 115 = 1934 A. 290. An order by the Small Cause Court returning the plaint for presentation to the proper Court purporting to have been passed under S. 23 is not appealable but it is a 'case decided' within the meaning of S. 115 of the C. P. Code, and if the Court has in doing so acted with material irregularity, the High Court can interfere with the order in revision. (1 I.C. 288, Diss.) 54 A. 1048 = 1933 A.L.J. 1068 = 1933 A. 106. Under S. 23, a Court of small causes is given a considerable discretion. Thus, if a bona fide question of title arises incidentally in a Small Cause Court suit, the Court may determine it. But where the Court does not consider whether such question was a bona fide one, or that it was necessary for the purposes of the suit to decide it, but decrees the suit, it cannot be said that it acted illegally. Therefore, no revision lies on such a decree. See also 150 I.C. 980 = 1934 L. 355; 150 I.C. 144 = 1934 A. 695.

Sec. 24: SMALL CAUSE SUIT—TRIAL BY SMALL CAUSE JUDGE AS ORDINARY SUIT—APPEAL.—When a suit cognizable by a Court of small causes is tried by a Munsiff invested with S. C. powers as an ordinary suit, the judgment is not appealable. 37 C.W.N. 917 = 1934 C. 784. No appeal is allowed against an order of a S. C. Court directing compensation to be paid under S. 95, C. P. Code. 123 I.C. 225 (1) = 1930 S. 173; 1937 N. 126.

25. The High Court, for the purpose of satisfying itself that a decree or order made in any case decided by a Court of Small Causes was according to law, may call for the case and pass such order with respect thereto as it thinks fit.

Revision of decrees and orders of Courts of Small Causes.

NOTES.

Sec. 25: SCOPE.—See 8 O.W.N. 800; 1932 O. 60. Power of revision under this section is wider than under C. P. Code. A revision is open when the grounds of a decision are not clear. 41 I.C. 873=15 A.L.J. 680. See also 157 I.C. 471=1935 P. 452; 94 I.C. 790=1926 A. 554. The revisional powers of the High Court even in a case decided under Provincial Small Cause Courts Act are very limited. 170 I.C. 797=1937 Pat. 524. See also 1936 Lah. 140. S. 25 ought not to be construed as giving parties a right of appeal on points of law. The object of S. 25 is to enable the High Court to see that there has been no miscarriage of justice, that the decision was given according to law. 40 Bom.L.R. 125=1938 Bom. 223. In an application under S. 25 no High Court can be intended to be or can possibly undertake the duties of a Court of first appeal from decision of a Judge of a Court of Small Causes. While the High Court has the power to interfere even upon a point of fact, it behaves it to exercise the power simply and solely for the purpose of preventing miscarriage of justice or gross illegalities. The powers conferred by the section are purely discretionary. The section is not intended to give in effect a right of appeal in all Small Cause Court cases either on law or on fact. 14 Luck. 588=1939 O.W.N. 203=1939 Oudh 141. A A Court can only act under S. 25, where a decree or order has been passed. So when after deciding the issue as to limitation, the case is adjourned to a future date, for trial of other issues, there is neither a decree nor order which could be revised by the High Court. 46 L.W. 924=1938 Mad. 252=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 61. See also 1941 O.W.N. 1112. Revision lies from an order wrongly dismissing a suit as time barred. 1928 L. 274. But see also 108 I.C. 378. Powers of revision under this section are wider than those under S. 115, C. P. Code. 1928 L. 274. See also 115 I.C. 257; 1936 A.M. L.J. 68; 1930 A.L.J. 1090=128 I.C. 766=1930 A. 832 (1). See also 42 Bom.L.R. 1098; 1938 A.L.J. 1058. Under S. 25 the High Court has the power and the duty in proper cases of taking revisional action, even though not moved to do so by any party, when the matter comes to its notice. Rule as to contents of judgment in S. C. suit stated. 55 M. 671=62 M.L.J. 439. Under S. 35, the High Court may call for a case for the purpose of satisfying itself that a decree or order made in any case has been decided by a Court according to law, and is not in any way bound by questions of waiver as between the parties, regarding the right of revision. 1934 A. 107. The powers of revision conferred by S. 25 are discretionary and the High Court should not interfere unless it appears that some substantial injury is done to the aggrieved party. 7 O.W.N. 760=1930 O. 420; 10 O.W.N. 581=1933 O. 346. See also 9 O.W.N. 436; 32 P.L.R. 163. The High Court should not ordinarily exercise its discretionary powers in revision under S. 25 no injustice has been done. The question whether interference should be made or not depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case. Where the question of limitation raised is even one of law, interference is not justified if the Court is satisfied that far from furthering any ends of justice, it would prepetuate an injustice in interfering with the decree of the lower Court. See also 1941 Nag. 273. 1941 O.W.N. 1112=1941 O.A. 827. See also 1937 M.W.N. 398 (no interference in revision on purely technical grounds). See also 1941 O.A. 1061; 1942 N.L.J. 311. The revisional powers given by S. 25 are only exercisable, where it appears that some substantial injustice to a party to a litigation has directly resulted from a material misapplication or misapprehension of law or from a material error in procedure. Where it appears to the High Court that substantial justice is done to the parties by an order of the Court below setting aside an ex parte decree, it will not interfere with such order even though the Court has not complied with the provisions of S. 17. 1935 A.L.J. 414=1935 A. 379. See also 1935 L. 190; 1938 A.L.J. 742=1938 A.W.R. (H.C.) 434. The existence of a remedy by way of suit does not preclude the Court from hearing a revision under S. 25. 1041 A.M.L.J. 19. High Court's jurisdiction under S. 25 is discretionary and cannot be exercised except to remedy injustice. 114 I.C. 288=1929 N. 70; 54 A. 409=1932 A. L.J. 260; 9 O.W.N. 962. See also 1933 A. 145 =144 I.C. 172; 1935 L. 190; 1935 A. 379. Where it appears that the Judge really applied his mind to the case and gave a decision on the issue based on the evidence before him, it is not a proper case for interference in revision. 7 O.W.N. 1202. Order based on conjecture would be set aside in revision. 157 I.C. 199=1935 A.W.R. 1093=1935 A.L.J. 1140; 1935 P. 952. An application for revision under S. 25 has a much larger scope than one under S. 115 of the C. P. Code, but it cannot be said that a clear finding of the S. C. Court can be reversed or modified by the High Court upon the sole ground that the balance of evidence was in favour of the applicant. It is not within the province of the High Court to make an appraisement of the value or weight of the finding of the Court below. 130 I.C. 289 (1)=1931 A. 210. See also 1941 Bom. 67=I.L.R. (1941) Bom. 153. The revisional powers given by S. 25 are only exercisable where it appears that some substantial injustice to a party to a litigation has directly resulted from a material misapplication or misapprehension of law or from a material error in procedure. If the judge has applied himself to the decision of the case carefully, his finding must be accepted in revision. 105 I.C. 845 (1); 1927 O. 627 (1). See also 108 I.C. 378; 1928 O.

144; 1932 A.L.J. 842. No revision lies unless the decision is perverse or impossible. 84 I.C. 794=1925 A. 172; 47 A. 136=85 I.C. 474; 3 R. 471=1925 R. 310. The revisional Court would not upset the judgment of a S. C. Court on a bare technicality if substantial justice has been done. 160 I.C. 462=1936 Pesh. 1. See also 1936 Lah. 140; 1937 M.W.N. 398. The revisional powers are discretionary. 55 I.C. 209. In the case of an instalment decree the amount of the instalments and the period for their payment is a matter of the discretion of the Court; but it is a discretion to be exercised within bounds. Where it is so exercised as to constitute a virtual denial of the plaintiff's rights such as by fixing the amount at an unduly low figure, the High Court may interfere in revision and substitute a higher amount as instalment payable. 54 A. 539. Delay in filing revision, effect of. 92 I.C. 993=1926 A. 228. Dismissal of suit under O. 9, R. 2, C. P. Code—Interference. 8 O.W.N. 1179.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—A Judge of the Court of Small Cause is not required to write an elaborate judgment but he must indicate that he has applied a judicial mind to the case. Where the parties were examined by the Judge who disposed of the case without even stating whether he believed the evidence, held, that the case was not properly tried and that the judgment be set aside. 1930 A.L.J. 1090=128 I.C. 766=1930 All. 832 (1). An order rejecting amendment is of an interlocutory character and cannot be revised even under S. 25. S. 25 is applicable only when a case is decided by the Court and not to an interlocutory order. 1934 Lah. 165. Where the decree is passed without jurisdiction by the lower Court, the High Court ought to interfere in revision. 1935 M.W.N. 519=1935 Mad. 554. Where a decree is opposed to public policy it is not improper to interfere with it. 1930 Cal. 596. Where it appeared that substantial injustice had resulted from the misapprehension of law by the trial Court, held, that the High Court could interfere in revision and decide the question of law and send the case for proper disposal to the trial Court. 27 A.L.J. 1285=1930 All. 87. See also 1935 A.L.J. 651=1935 All. 410. See also 64 C.L.J. 456 (judgment not supported by evidence on record). The High Court will not interfere in revision with the decision of the lower Court on a pure question of fact unless the judgment of the lower Court is perverse. It cannot interfere on the ground that the decision is not in accordance with law. 1933 All. 373=144 I.C. 270. See also 1935 Lah. 190; 1939 N.L.J. 118=1939 Nag. 19; 1940 Sind 228. It is not the practice of the Patna High Court to exercise revisional powers when it has arrived at the conclusion that the decision which is before it is sound on the merits. 163 I.C. 133=1936 Pat. 562. In a suit on a pronote, a finding by the Court that it had been duly executed by the defendant is clearly one of fact, and is not open to challenge in revision when it is based on due consideration of the evidence both direct and circumstantial. 1936 O.W.N. 245=1936 Oudh 176.

REFERENCE.—The District Court can make a reference to the High Court under O. 46, R. 7, C. P. Code, regarding a decision of a Small Cause Court subordinate to it. 34 I.C. 527.

MEANING OF TERMS.—The word 'case' includes a branch of a whole case having an independent remedy and an interlocutory order. 'Decided' means disposed of. 1937 Nag. 136; 1937 Nag. 68. See also 41 All. 42=47 I.C. 610; 59 I.C. 906=12 L.W. 285; 25 I.C. 643=27 M.L.J. 494; 43 I.C. 455=2 P.L.J. 682; 40 C.W.N. 698; 62 C.L.J. 530. When a Court arrives at finding that the suit is not cognizable by the Small Cause Court and directs the plaint to be returned for presentation to the proper Court, the case must be deemed to have been decided so far as the Small Cause Court is concerned, even though the Court does not decide it on its merits. Therefore, there is nothing in the provisions of S. 25 to prevent the High Court from exercising its revisional powers in respect of orders passed by the Judge in the course of proceedings in the Small Cause Court suit before him. 11 O.W.N. 1135=1934 Oudh 429 (2); 19 N.L.J. 306. See also 1940 O.W.N. 347=1940 Oudh 245; 1937 O.W.N. 677=1937 Oudh 364 (revision against order restoring suit dismissed for non-payment of additional court-fee). A Sub-Judge in whose Court a suit was filed as a small cause suit took leave and was succeeded by another Judge who had no power to try the suit as a small cause one. The suit was sent to another Judge to be tried as an original one. It was heard on merits and was posted for arguments. The Sub-Judge who had gone on leave returned, and on an application being made to him, he transferred the suit to his own file to be tried as a small cause suit. Held, that the order of the Sub-Judge was not an interlocutory order, as no suit was pending before him and as such revision was competent. Held further, that the Sub-Judge had no jurisdiction to pass such order and that his action amounted to a transfer of a suit under S. 24, C. P. Code, which can be ordered only by District Court or High Court. Held also, that even if the order was an interlocutory order, the High Court could interfere under S. 25 as the order in question amounted to a "case decided." 30 S.L.R. 226=1936 Sind 160. Where a suit of a small cause nature is tried by a Judge having small cause powers as a money suit, the decree passed in the suit has to be regarded as a decree passed by a Small Cause Court Judge, and is not appealable. The remedy of the aggrieved party is not by way of appeal, but by way of an application to the High Court under S. 25. 40 C.W.N. 698; 62 C.L.J. 530. Where an application for execution of a Small Cause Court decree is made to a Small Cause Court, and it is transferred to the Original Side Court for purposes of execution against immovable property, any order that may be passed thereon is not subject to revision as an appeal lies against it. 1940 A.M.L.J. 133. Where an award in a Small Cause suit is set aside, the order is not capable of revision, as no case has been decided at that stage. 86 I.C. 788=1925 All. 395.

QUESTION OF TITLE.—Under S. 23, Small Cause Court is given a considerable discretion. Thus if a bona fide question of title arises incidentally in a Small Cause Court suit, the Court may determine it. But where the Court does not consider whether such question was a bona fide one, or that it was necessary for the purposes of the suit to decide it, but decrees the suit. it cannot be said that it acted illegally. Therefore, no revision lies on such a decree. 150 I.C. 144=1934 All. 695.

ERROR OF LAW.—The High Court can interfere if by the reason of omission to consider material evidence or by evident mistake in the appreciation of evidence substantial injustice has been done to the party. 37 C.W.N. 275=144 I.C. 740=1933 Cal. 501. For a revision, there should be complete wrong done, not a a mere mistaken application of law. 66 I.C. 435=19 A.L.J. 555; 29 I.C. 1008=13 A.L.J. 563; 40 I.C. 890; 17 I.C. 748=1912 M.W.N. 1227; 1 Rang. 372=85 I.C. 362=1924 Rang. 54: 114 I.C. 111=1929 Sind 117. See also 52 C.L.J. 528=1931 Cal. 163; 1936 O.W.N. 533=1936 Oudh 297. It is open to the Chief Court in revision to consider whether the inference drawn by the lower Court from certain documents has been correctly drawn or not. 8 O.W.N. 800. See also 162 I.C. 793=1936 Pat. 257. Failure to determine a material issue is an error of law. Where the Judge misdirected himself and wrongly threw the burden of proof on the plaintiff in a promissory note case ignoring the presumption under S. 118, Negotiable Instruments Act, held, that the High Court could interfere in revision. 54 All. 375=135 I.C. 241=1932 All. 164. See also 154 I.C. 517=1935 All. 410; 159 I.C. 1075=1936 pat. 132. The grant of compensation under S. 95, C. P. Code, is no doubt a matter of discretion but the discretion has to be exercised in a judicial manner. But see 3 L.L.J. 380; 1935 M.W.N. 519=1935 M. 554; unless necessary in considering on merits. 1925 O. 88. See also 1940 Lah. 13=41 P.L.R. 543; 1938 P.W.N. 900=1931 Pat. 378. High Court in revision should set aside a decision in a suit not cognizable by S. C. Court. 41 I.C. 203=27 C.L.J. 590. Where the judgment was based on facts which the judge ought not to have taken into consideration in coming to his conclusion and it also appeared that the judge had misdirected himself as to certain pieces of evidence, held, that the High Court had jurisdiction to revise the finding of the lower Court. 54 B. 105=31 Bom.L.R. 1426=1930 B. 129. See also 1933 A.L.J. 897=1933 A. 577; 1933; A.L.J. 316=1933 A. 339; 52 C.L.J. 528=1931 C. 163. It is not within the power of the High Court to examine the facts on which an order under C. P. Code, O. 5, R. 20 is made. 1933 L. 288.

QUESTION OF LIMITATION.—A decree without reference to provisions of the Limitation Act would be set aside in revision. 20 A.L.J. 89=65 I.C. 107 (1); 28 I.C. 969=14 A.L.J. 394. The decision on a question of limitation is reversible. 20 I.C. 175; 19 I.C. 782=11 A.L.J. 295; 46 I.C. 804=21 O.C. 139; 1928 L. 51. The High Court will not, in the exercise of its discretionary powers of revision under S. 25, interfere with an erroneous decision on a point of limitation, where the judgment of the lower Court does substantial justice between the parties. 1935 L. 137; 1936 O.W.N. 533=162 I.C. 717=1936 O. 297; 1936 O.W.N. 332=161 I.C. 423; 161 I.C. 389=1936 O. 247. 1936 A.M.L.J. 68; 1941 Oudh 111. Under S. 25, the High Court can interfere on a point of limitation if the facts are not in dispute. 154 I.C. 713=1935 A.L.J. 379. Plea of jurisdiction and limitation raised but not decided—Revision lies. 95 I.C. 4. A plausible view that the claim might he barred by a few days is no ground for revision. 90 I.C. 321 (1). See also 1926 O. 319.

JERISDICTION.—The High Court is not bound to interfere in revision in every case in which the trial Court has no jurisdiction to try the suit, i.e., where the lower Court has wrongly tried an original suit on the small cause side or conversely has tried a small cause suit on the original side. The High Court will not, and is not bound to, interfere in revision if it is satisfied that the lower Court's decree is neither incorrect nor unjust. The mere fact that the decree has been passed on the wrong side of the Court does not justify interference in revision. 45 L.W. 691=1937 Mad. 644=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 299. Wherever the High Court comes to the conclusion that the unsuccessful party has not had a proper trial according to law, e.g., where the lower had no jurisdiction to make the order, or where it has based its decision on evidence which should not have been admitted, or where the unsuccessful party has not been given a proper opportunity of being heard, or where the burden of proof has been placed on the wrong shoulders, the High Court can interfere. But the High Court ought not to interfere merely because it thinks that possibly the lower Court may have arrived at a conclusion which the High Court would not have arrived at. The conclusion arrived at by the lower Court as to the construction of an agreement and the rights of the parties thereunder in a trial regularly conducted is not open to discussion in revision, though it would be open to discussion in an appeal. 40 Bom.L.R. 125=1938 Bom. 223.

RES JUDICATA.—Where the former decision was not correct but the later one is correct, the High Court does not in revision interfere on the technical ground that the matter is res judicata. 40 L.W. 656=1934 M. 563.

REVIEW CASES.—High Court can interfere with an order of a S. C. Court granting review. 53 I.C. 44. But see 12 I.C. 903=4 Bur. L.T. 147. In case of difference of opinion the senior judge's opinion prevails. 85 I.C. 1016=47 M.L.J. 876.

PRACTICE.—In a matter of discretion, unless there are very special circumstances, the High Court is reluctant to interfere with the orders of the Court below. 161 I.C. 518 (1)=1936 L. 140. High Court will not generally interfere if other remedy by way of regular appeal is open to the aggrieved party. 1933 O. 454; 1933 O. 477=146 I.C. 993=10 O.W.N. 1085. A second petition for revision is competent when the first one was dismissed for default. 39 P.L.R. 481=1937 Lah. 685. The revisional Court would not upset the judgment of a Small Cause Court on a bare technicality if substantial justice has been done. 160 I.C. 462=1936 Pesh. 1. See also 1937 M.W.N. 398. Judgment glaringly defective in its contents. 93 I.C. 632. Perverse finding of fact is ground for revision. 91 I.C. 679=1925 R. 310. If a judge of a S. C. Court chooses to depart from the procedure laid down for the conduct of cases in such a Court, he should not fall back on the provisions of that procedure in order to suit his own convenience. 1933 L. 452=145 I.C. 704. Adjournment of suit for long periods at instance of third party without intimation to plaintiff, if ground for revision. 15 P. 561=17 Pat.L.T. 329=162 I.C. 568=1936 P. 472. (F.B.)

Finality of decrees and orders.

27. Save as provided by this Act, a decree or order made under the foregoing provisions of this Act by a Court of Small Causes shall be final.

CHAPTER V.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Subordination of Courts of Small Causes.

28. (1) A Court of Small Causes shall be subject to the administrative control of the District Court and to the superintendence of the High Court, and shall—

(a) keep such registers, books and accounts as the High Court from time to time prescribes, and

(b) comply with such requisitions as may be made by the District Court, the High Court or the Provincial Government for records, returns and statements in such form and manner as the authority making the requisition directs.

(2) The relation of the District Court to a Court of Small Causes, with respect to administrative control, shall be the same as that of the District Court to a Civil Court of the lowest grade competent to try an original suit of the value of five thousand rupees in that portion of the territories administered by the Provincial Government in which the Court of Small Causes is established.

Seal.

29. A Court of Small Causes shall use a seal of such form and dimensions as are prescribed by the Provincial Government.

Abolition of Courts of Small Causes.

30. The Provincial Government may, by order in writing, abolish[1] a Court of Small Causes.

Saving of power to appoint Judge of Court of Small Causes to other office.

31. (1) Nothing in this Act shall be construed to prevent the [2][appointment of] a person who is a Judge or Additional Judge of a Court of Small Causes to be also a Judge of any other[3] Civil Court or to be a Magistrate of any class or to hold any other public office.

(2) When a Judge or Additional Judge is so appointed, the ministerial officers of his Court shall, subject to any rules which the Provincial Government may make in this behalf, be deemed to be ministerial officers appointed to aid him in the discharge of the duties of the other office.

Application of Act to Courts invested with jurisdiction of Court of Small Causes.

32. (1) So much of Chapters III and IV as relates to—

NOTES.

Sec. 27.—The decree in a S. C. suit is not appealable even though it be tried as a regular suit. 55 I.C. 642 ; 39 A. 101=14 A.L.J. 984; 152 I.C. 144=1934 R. 312. See also 44 L.W. 874=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 14; 1939 Pesh. 141. But see 45 I.C. 645. An order in execution of the S. C. decree is not appealble but revisable. 32 I.C. 484=3 L.W. 34; 42 I.C. 467. S. 27 does not apply when a case is decided by a successor of a judge of a S. C. Court under S. 35. 1931 A.L.J. 953=1931 O.A. 574 (F.B.).

Secs. 27 and 16.—Where a suit of a small cause nature instituted in the Court of a Munsif whose presiding officer at the time had no Small Cause Court powers, is tried by his successor having such powers up to the amount covered in suit, the decree is not appealable although the suit is actually tried in the ordinary procedure. 43 C.W.N. 947.

Sec. 32.—The character of a S. C. suit though tried as a regular suit is not altered and the decree is not appeable. 21 I.C. 120=40 C. 537. See also 65 C.L.J. 303=1937 Cal. 631. A suit which according to the frame of it was S. C. suit was filed in the Court and was registered as regular money suit, as the Court was not then invested with the S. C. Court powers to the extent of the value of the suit.

(a) the nature of the suits cognizable by Courts of Small Causes,

(b) the exclusion of the jurisdiction of other Courts in those suits,

(c) the practice and procedure of Courts of Small Causes,

(d) appeal from certain orders of those Courts and revision of cases decided by them, and

(e) the finality of their decrees and orders subject to such appeal and revision as are provided by this Act, applies to Courts invested by or under any enactment for the time being in force with the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes so far as regards the exercise of that jurisdiction by those Courts.

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) with respect to Courts invested with the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes applies to suits instituted or proceedings commenced in those Courts before the date on which they were invested with that jurisdiction.

Application of Act and Code to Court so invested as to two Courts.

33. A Court invested with the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes with respect to the exercise of that jurisdiction, and the same Court with respect to the exercise of its jurisdiction in suits of a civil nature which are not cognizable by a Court of Small Causes, shall, for the purposes of this Act and the Code of Civil Procedure, be deemed to be different Courts.

Modification of Code as so applied.

34. Notwithstanding anything in the last two foregoing sections,—

(a) when in exercise of the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes, a Court invested with that jurisdiction sends a decree for execution to itself as a Court having jurisdiction in suits of a civil nature which are not cognizable by a Court of Small Causes, or

(b) when a Court, in the exercise of its jurisdiction in suits of a civil nature which are not cognizable by a Court of Small Causes, sends a decree for

NOTES.

Before the suit came for hearing, a Munsif's Court was established at the place with S. C. Court powers to the extent of the suit and the case transferred to him. The Munsif tried the suit as an ordinary suit and not as a S. C. suit. Held, that an appeal lay from the decision of the Munsif. 1930 P. 270. See also I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 399=1937 Nag. 200.

Sec. 32 (2).—When a suit was admitted on the regular side because the Munsif had no S, C. powers, he cannot try it summarily even though he got S.C. powers later, and an appeal lies. 9 I.C. 264. See also 25 Bom.L.R. 516= 1923 B. 454: 49 I.C. 208=4 Pat.L.J. 13; 19 A.L.J. 89=54 I.C. 428. A Court not having jurisdiction cannot try a suit filed in it though the Court subsequently is invested with jurisdiction. 20 A.L.J. 257=1922 A. 112.

Secs. 32 and 35.—Sub-S. (2) of S. 32 is in the nature of a proviso to sub-s. (1), and its operation must therefore be limited to cases mentioned therein. If a suit is instituted in the ordinary Civil Court or proceedings are commenced in such a Court, the subsequent investment of such a Court with S. C. powers would not make S. 32 (1) applicable. Sub-s. (2) would apply, if at the time of the institution of the suit, there is no S.C. Court in the locality and the suit is filed in a Civil Court, even if the presiding judge of the civil Court be later on invested with S.C. Court powers. If, therefore, a suit is instituted in a S. C. Court and that Court is abolished, the case will have to be sent to the ordinary Civil Court under S. 35. If the Court to which the case is so sent under S. 35 acquires before the date of trial the powers of a S. SC. Court, S. 32 (1) would become applicable. In such a case the decision would be that of a S. C. Court, and no appeal would lie. 61 C.L.J. 137=1935 C. 556.

Sec. 33.—It is clear from S. 7 of the C. P. Code that a S. C. Court, acting as such cannot attach immovable property in execution of its decree. This is so even though the S. C. Court is also an ordinary Court unless the decree has been formally transferred to the ordinary side. 132 I.C. 208. See also 1940 A.M.L.J. 133. Where a suit of S. C. nature is tried on the regular side and confirmed on appeal, it will not be interfered with as there is no prejudice to the defendant. 66 I.C. 207=14 L. W. 349. See also 44 L.W. 874=(1937) 1 M. L.J. 14. A counter-claim in a S. C. suit by way of set-off beyond the pecuniary limits of the S. C. Court's jurisdiction cannot be entertained. 14 B. 371.

the documents mentioned in section 224[1] of the Code of Civil Procedure shall not be sent with the decree unless in any case the Court, by order in writing, requires them to be sent.

Continuance of proceedings of abolished Courts.

35. (1) Where a Court of Small Causes, or a Court invested with the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes, has from any cause ceased to have jurisdiction with respect to any case, any proceeding in relation to the case, whether before or after decree, which, if the Court had not ceased to have jurisdiction, might have been had therein, may be had in the Court which, if the suit out of which the proceeding has arisen were about to be instituted, would have jurisdiction to try the suit.

(2) Nothing in this section applies to cases for which special provision is made in the Code of Civil Procedure as extended to Courts of Small Causes or in any other enactment for the time being in force.

NOTES.

Sec. 35.—[See also notes under S. 32, supra.] Under S. 35 when the Court ceases to have jurisdiction in relation to the case, all proceedings in relation to it even after the decree have to be taken in the Court which, if the suit out of which the proceeding had arisen was about to be instituted, would have jurisdiction to try the suit. Held, further, that S. 35 should be read subject to the provisions of the C. P. Code, such as S. 21. 52 A. 944=1930 A. 873. See also 1941 Mad. 103=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 700=52 L.W. 598. Where a S. C. suit is transferred under S. 24 (4), C. P. Code, its character is not changed and no appeal lies. 40 A. 525=46 I.C. 893; 36 I.C. 317=14 A.L.J. 705. Where a subsequent Munsif having no S. C. jurisdiction tries a pending S. C. suit, as a regular suit, the procedure is regular and an appeal lies from the decision. 64 I.C. 573=19 A.L.J. 838; 37 A. 450=29 I.C. 997; 47 A. 925 =1925 A. 165; 43 P.L.R. 488=1941 Lah. 356; 13 Luck. 369=1937 O.W.N. 801=1937 Oudh 398; 1939 A.L.J. 335. But see 36 I.C. 317 =14 A.L.J. 705. An order in execution of a S. C. decree passed on the regular side, because the S. C. ceased to exist, is appealable. 39 A. 357=38 I.C. 105. See also 1941 Pesh. 18. Where a suit valued at less than rupees one hundred was filed before a Munsif invested with S. C. powers, but the same was tried by him under his ordinary jurisdiction: Held that no appeal lay from his decision to the Sub-Judge. 106 I.C. 859=1928 C. 153. Where a S. C. suit was instituted in the Court of a Subordinate Judge invested with S. C. powers, but before that suit came on for trial, the Subordinate Judge was transferred and was succeeded by another Subordinate Judge who did not possess such powers: Held that the decision passed by the succeeding Subordinate Judge must be taken to have been passed by him in his capacity as a Subordinate Judge trying an original suit and therefore the decision was appealable. 117 I.C. 370; also 1931 A.L.J. 953=1931 A. 574 (F.B.). S. 35 does not in any way operate to change a small cause suit into an original suit. What it does is to invest a Court which otherwise would be incompetent to hear any, or certain, small cause suits with power to hear certain of such suits, namely, those pending in that Court at the time its jurisdiction is changed. The section does not purport to turn a S. C. suit into an original suit with all kinds of changes in procedure in the rights of appeal. 42 L.W. 619=1935 M. 919 =69 M.L.J. 443.

sanction of the Government, a suit for refund of tax paid is not covered by this article. 13 M. 78. See also 141 I.C. 378=34 P.L.R. 219=1933 L. 124 (Suit against District Board for refund of tax not cognizable by S. C. Court). 141 I. C. 378=1933 L. 124. A suit by a toll-gate contractor against the Distrtci Board for damagcs for unauthorized exemption of carts from payment of tolls is not covered by this article. 45 M.L.J. 125=46 M. 808. There is nothing in Sch. It which excludes from the jurisdiction of the Court of Small Causes a suit by a Municipality to recover municipal taxes due to them. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 134=1939 Sind. 35. Suit against trespasser for use and occupation is cognizable by S. C. Court: 1928 N. 118=106 I.C. 495.

Art. 2.—For this article to apply the judicial officer must show (1) that the act was done in his judicial capacity and (2) that he at least believed to have jurisdiction to do the acts complained of. 30 B. 241=7 Bom.L.R. 951. A suit for refund of money paid under an order of Court is not cognizable by a S. C. Court. 5 C. 494. But a suit to recover money alleged to have been wrongfully made over by a Magistrate under S. 517, Cr. P. Code, is not covered by this article. 9 C.W.N. 495=1 C.L.J. 355. See also 1928 L. 515. Where the suit was for damages for money paid by the plaintiffs for which the defendant was liable, held, that Art. 2 had no application. 10 O.W. N. 52=1933 O. 146.

Art. 3.—Art. 3 of the Second Schedule takes out of the purview of the Small Cause Court claims arising out of an act or order purporting to be done by an officer of Government in his official capacity. The fact that such an order, which is actually made by the officer of the Government, might have been made by a private person in his private capacity could not affect the question. Where the Inspector-General of Prisons cancelled the acceptance of the tender for the supply of certain articles aad directed the forfeiture of the deposit made by the tenderer, a suit by such a tenderer for damages and for the return of the deposit forfeited is not cognizable by the Court of Small causes. 1940 O.W.N. 347=1940 Oudh 245. A karnam in a Zamindari is not an officer of the Government. 18 M. 395. A mere failure to carry out a contract cannot be regarded as an act contemplated by this article. It must relate to a distinct act. 12 M.L.T. 299=23 M.L.J. 732. A suit for damages against the Secretary of State for injury to an article carried by a State Railway does not come under this article. 17 C. 290.

Art. 4.—The definition of immovable property given in the Burma General Clauses Act applies to this and as growing palm tree is immovable property for the purposes of the former Act, it is also immovable property for the purposes of this Act. 7 R. 706=1929 R. 200. A suit for recovery of documents relating to land is not one for an interest in land. 6 L. 33=88 I.C. 574. A suit for damages on the allegation that the defendant had cut down and misappropriated a mango tree does not fall within the purview of Art. 4 of Sch. II. The mango tree which has been cut down and misappropriated was not immovable property at the time of the institution of the suit. 173 I.C. 598=65 C.L.J. 303=1937 Cal. 631. In a suit to recover rent the defendant raised the plea that he had executed the lease because of the fraud of the plaintiff and consequently denied the liability. The lower Court held that the issue raised by the defendant involved questions of title and that as the suit was tried as a S. C. one, the same could not be gone into and a decree was passed, the plea as to fraud having been negatived. Held, in revision, that the lower Court's refusal to consider the question of title even incidentally had prejudiced the defendant and that a remand should be ordered. 117 I.C. 447 (2)=1929 B. 228. Neither Art. 4 nor Art. 35 (ii) applies to a suit for the price of fruit removed by the defendants from certain trees in the assertion of a contested claim or right. Such a suit is cognisable by a Court of small causes. I.L.R. (1939) Lah. 100=40 P.L.R. 720=1938 Lah. 759.

Sch. II, Art. 4 (as amended by Bombay Act VI of 1930)—QUESTION OF TITLE—TEST OF—REFERENCE TO DEFENCE.—In cases under Art. 4 for purposes of deciding as to whether the Court has got jurisdiction to entertain the suit both the plaint and the allegations in the written statement can be considered. Plaintiff sued for recovery of the rent and ejectment of defendants. The rent deed was executed by only one of the defendants and the others were impleaded on the ground that they were in possession as members of a joint family along with the executant of the rent note. These defendants denied the title of the plaintiff. Held, the substantial issue as between these defendants and plaintiff being one of title, the Small Cause Court had no jurisdiction to try that issue. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 60=1938 Sind 122. A "substantial issue" within the meaning of Sch. II, Art. 4 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, as amended by S. 3 of the Bombay Amendment Act of 1930, is an issue which goes to the root of the case, other issues being merely incidental or concerned with matters of detail. "Substantial issue" means an issue arising not only upon the allegations in the plaint but upon those allegations combined with the allegations made in the written statement. 186 I.C. 841=41 Bom.L.R. 755=1939 Bom. 353.

(6) a suit by a mortgagee of immovable property for the foreclosure of the mortgage or for the sale of the property, or by a mortgagor of immovable property for the redemption of the mortgage;

(7) a suit for the assessment, enhancement, abatement or apportionment of the rent of immovable property;

(8) a suit for the recovery of rent, other than house rent, unless the Judge of the Court of Small Causes has been expressly invested by the Provincial Government with authority to exercise jurisdiction with respect thereto[1];

(9) a suit concerning the liability of land to be assessed to land-revenue;

C. Court. 1928 R. 260=114 I.C. 543 (2). A charge for the use of water meter is a part of the water-tax, and the person taking water is liable to pay that charge under the rules for the assessment of water rate under S. 66 (1) (k), C. P. Municipalities Act. Such a charge is not a rent within the meaning of Art. 8, and therefore the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court is not barred. 170 I.C. 241=1937 Nag. 209. A suit by an assignee of a landlord for arrears of rent after they had fallen due, for the recovery of the amount due, is one for rent and is excepted from the jurisdiction of the Court of Small Causes. 196 I.C. 393=43 P.L.R. 432=1941 Lah. 313. A suit for rent of a site is different from a suit for house rent and is not cognizable by a Small Cause Court unless that Court has been expressly invested with jurisdiction in that behalf. 197 I.C. 158=1942 Oudh 145=1941 O.W.N. 1179. SCOPE.—The authorisation under this article is entirely personal to the presiding Judge. 19 C.W.N. 1236=31 I.C. 177. Whether damages for use and occupation are rent, see 1925 L. 196 (1). A suit for rent other than house rent is not cognizable by a S. C. Court. 42 C. 638=27 I.C. 258. Khattis, whether situate within the limits of a residential house or otherwise, are meant for storage of grain, and when let apart from the houses in which they are situate, they cannot be considered to be places meant for human habitation. Hence a suit for rent in respect of such khattis used for storing grain is not one for recovery of rent of house and is not cognizable by a S. C. Court. 146 I.C. 594=1933 A. 918. Decree passed in suit excepted under—Transfer for execution to Small Cause Court—Jurisdiction of latter Court to execute. See I.L.R. (1939) 1 Cal. 233.

"JUDGE OF THE COURT OF SMALL CAUSES" in cl. (8) must be taken to apply either to Court of S.C. constituted under the Act or to a Court invested with the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Cases. It is not necessary to invest the powers by reference to the name of the particular judge. 30 Bom.L.R. 741=1928 B. 265. It is not, therefore, necessary to confer powers by reference to the name of a particular judge of Court of S. C. in order to enable him to try suits for the recovery of rent of homestead land under the S. C. Court procedure. 40 C.W.N. 942=1936 C. 497 (F.B.).

WHAT IS NOT A RENT SUIT.—A suit for jodi by Zamindar against inamdar is cognizable by S. C. Court. 40 M. 93=30 M.L.J. 387. A suit on a demand note for balance of rent is not one for rent. 1923 N. 285. Suit for interest due on mortgage-money is cognizable by S. C. Court. 66 I.C. 285. A suit for recovery of rent attached due by defendant to his landlord is not a suit for rent. 10 I.C. 569. Suit for recovery of fees for privilege of receiving goods. 106 I.C. 391=1928 O. 99. As to suit for money due on settlement of date and palm trees, see 15 P. 626.

WHAT IS RENT SUIT.—A suit for rent of homestead land is excluded by the article. 1925 C. 423. An open site on which fuel is stacked containing a chapper used for shelter and carrying on business can hardly be regarded as a house or a shop, and hence a suit for rent is not cognisable by a S. C. Court. 34 P.L.R. 100=1933 L. 306. Money payable in respect of forest right is rent. 26 I.C. 380=19 C.W.N. 1030. A suit for rent of shops leased by a usufructuary mortgagee is a suit on a lease of immovable property and is barred. 15 I.C. 32=9 A.L.J. 776. See also 1936 Pesh. 55. A shop is a house within the meaning of Art. 8. Hence a suit for rent of a shop is triable as a small cause. 181 I.C. 241=1939 Pesh. 14. A suit claiming rent for use and occupation against an alleged trespasser is not a suit for recovery of rent within Sch. II, Art. 8 and as such is cognizable by the S. C. Court. 150 I.C. 980 (1)=1934 L. 355 (1). The assignment of arrears of rent by the landlord to

(10) a suit to restrain waste;

(11) a suit for the determination or enforcement of any other right to or interest in immovable property;

(12) a suit for the possession of an hereditary office or of an interest in such an office, including a suit to establish an exclusive periodically recurring right to discharge the functions of an office;

(13) a suit to enforce payment of the allowance or fees respectively called malikana and hakk, or of cesses of other dues when the cesses or dues are payable to a person by reason of his interest in immovable property or in an hereditary office or in a shrine or other religious institution;

a third party has not the effect of altering its character. The fact that the landlord has assigned his rights, and his representative, whether a vendee or an heir, is suing, would not alter the character of the tenant's liability. The suit is not thereby altered into one for a mere debt, but is still a suit for recovery of rent, other than house rent, and the S. C. court has no jurisdiction to entertain it. 1934 A.L.J. 848=1934 A. 893. Some of the co-proprietor's of land transferred their right to recover their share of rent from the tenants to the plaintiff. The plaintiff brought a suit against the non-transferor co-proprietor to recover the share of rent transferred to him. Held that exception in Art. 8 did not apply because the defendant was not a tenant of transferor and the suit was not for arrears of rent. The suit was not excepted by art. 31 because the action was not a claim for immovable property. The expression "belonging to the plaintiff" as used in art. 31, applies to immovable property and not to profits. So, the suit in the Small Cause Court was maintainable. 162 I.C. 389 (1)=1936 L. 377. See also 1936 P. W.N. 169=1936 Pat. 406.

Sch. II, Arts. 8 and 0 : APPLICABILITY—FARMER OF MUNICIPAL MARKET DUES—SUIT BY FOR DUES FROM PERSON HOLDING SITE UNDER HIM. —A person who occupies a site in a municipal market has no right or interest in land so as to give rise to an action for rent in respect of the site occupied by him. He is only liable for market toll and the money payable by him is not rent so as to come within Art. 8 of the Act. Nor would the dues come under "other dues" under art. 13, because they are not payable by reason of any interest in immovable property. Plaintiff, a farmer of a market, sued the defendant who held a site under him in the market for dues in respect of that site. Held, that the suit was not barred either by art. 8 or art. 13. 16 P.L.T. 175=1935 P. 184.

"HOUSE RENT" includes shop rent. 107 I.C. 273=1928 L. 289; 161 I.C. 207=1936 Pesh. 55.

Art. 11.—Suit for recovery of balance of consideration for a mortgage is covered by this article. 1923 C. 567. But suits for unpaid purchase-money are not excepted by this article. 55 I.C. 541=11 L.W. 211 ; 10 I.C. 267=9 M.L.T. 372 ; 89 I.C. 933. A suit by lessee of lac produce to recover value of quantity illegally removed is cognizable by S. C. Court. 50 I.C. 629. By Sch. II, Art. 11 the Small Cause Court is precluded from trying a suit to enforce a charge and it has no power having regard to S. 7, C. P. Code, to attach immovable property, to issue injunctions or to appoint receiver of immovable property. So it could not have been contemplated to confer power on that Court to pass a decree charging immovable property. Where a decree directs that a defendant shall not alienate certain property till the satisfaction of the particular decree, it has to be understood as creating a charge on immovable property. As that Court has no power to create the charge the decree so far as it seeks to create a charge must be regarded as void and inoperative. 182 I.C. 102=1939 N.L.J. 121=1939 Nag. 118=I.L.R. (1941) Nag. 356. Where the plaintiff conveyed certain pcoperty bo sale and took a mortgage for the unpaid portion of the purchase-money from the vendee, but the pattas having continued to stand in her name, the Government took steps against her for recovering arrears of revenue, and having paid the same, she sued the vendee and other persons who had taken a conveyance from him for recovering the sums paid by her towards the land revenue, held, that her right was merely to proceed against the property sold for the amount of the kist due and consequently being a suit to enforce the charge on the land, it was not cognizable by S. C. Court. 1929 M.W.N. 381 (2). On this article, see also 1926 N. 65 ; 1926 A. 753.

Art. 13 : SCOPE.—This article applies only to suits against persons who are directly liable for the dues and not to suits against persons who have improperly collected them. 27 Bom.L.R. 627=88 I.C. 668 ; 21 A.L.J. 312=1923 A. 420 (1) ; 19 I.C. 628. See also 47 C.L.J. 595. Art. 13 relates to suit or claims made against a person primarily liable to pay the cessesor dues ; and a suit for recovery of plaintiff's share of offerings made at a temple is S .C. and is not barred by art. 13 from the cognizance of S. C. Courts. 113 I.C. 750 (1). See also 1933 L. 606=144 I.C. 669 ; 162 I. C. 992=1936 L. 100. A suit for recovery of a ferry toll is not of a S. C. nature. 85 A. 156=18 I. C. 282. A suit for recovery of arrears of municipal taxes does not fall within art. 13 or any other articles of Sch. II. It is cognizable by a S. C. Court. 13 P.L.T. 277=1932 P. 220. See also 154 I.C. 877 (Market dues) ; 1935 M. 554 (Customary dues) ; Suit for cess : see 92 I.C. 779 =1928 L. 276. Suit for temple emoluments and naivadyam is not a S. C. suit. 13 I.C. 183= (1911) 2 M.W.N. 589. But a suit by archaka to recover dues of his hereditary office is barred. 31 I.C. 206=1915 M.W.N. 846. Suit by purveyor of ghee to a temple for arrears of hereditary allowance falls within the scope of this article. 30 I.C. 351=18 M.L.T. 163. A suit by landlord for the recovery of cess from the holder of an inam

(14) a suit to recover from a person to whom compensation has been paid under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870[1] the whole or any part of the compensation;

(15) a suit for the specific performance or rescission of a contract;

(16) a suit for the rectification or cancellation of an instrument;

(17) a suit to obtain an injunction;

(18) a suit relating to a trust, including a suit to make good out of the general estate of a deceased trustee the loss occasioned by a breach of trust, and a suit by a co-trustee to enforce against the estate of a deceased trustee a claim for contribution;

(19) a suit for a declaratory decree, not being a suit instituted under section 283[2] or section 332 of the Code of Civil Procedure; in his estate does not come within the purview of Art. 13, where the payment is purely a voluntary one and not one which the landlord is entitled to, as representing his interest in immovable property. 117 I.C. 295=1929 M. 694. A suit for poruppu and cesses by a zamindar against tenant does not come within Art. 13 and is cognizable by S. C. Court. 137 I.C. 564 (1) =1932 M. 224. The dues contemplated by Art. 13 must be "dues" arising directly from the interest in the immovable property and cannot include "dues" which are indirectly connected with something arising out of an interest in the immovable property. Interest on arrears of rent is really damages for default in payment of rent in time and it is not a sum payable to a person directly by reason of his interest in immovable property. Accordingly a claim for arrears of interest only, such interest being due because of non-payment of rent in due time, is recoverable in a Small Cause Court suit. I.L. R. (1938) 2 Cal. 60=42 C.W.N. 284=1938 Cal. 320.

WHERE ARTICLE DOES NOT APPLY.—This article does not apply to suits for local or village cess. 36 M. 126=12 I.C. 171; nor to suits for land cess. 35 M. 18=21 M.L.J. 819; nor to jodi and road cess. 1925 M. 1196=49 M.L.J. 185; nor to suit for price of plaintiff's water used for irrigiation by defendant. 22 I.C. 144. Right to claim a share of the income of inam land by inamdar is a right to payment by reason of some interest in immovable property, to which Art. 13 applies. 153 I.C. 619=41 L.W. 641=1935 M. 41=68 M.L.J. 172; also suit for share of income of religious shrine. 144 I.C. 669=1933 L. 606. Market dues—Suit by farmer against person holding site not excluded. 154 I.C. 877=16 P.L.T. 175. A suit to recover jodi or meras which are of the nature of customary dues and are not rent paid to the Rajas by agraharamdars is excepted from the cognizance of the S. C. Court. 1935 M.W.N. 519=1935 M. 554. A suit on a promissory note which recites that it is executed 'on account of rusum of Deshpandeship for two years,' is not barred by Art. 13 of Sch. II from cognizance by the Court of Small Causes, for the suit is not to recover the dues but to recover money on a negotiable instrument. 1941 N.L.J. 388=1941 Nag. 271.

Art. 15.—A suit to recover a sum of money due on an award passed under the Indian Arbitration Act is not a suit for specific performance of a contract and is therefore cognizable by the S.C. Court. 23 S.L.R. 411=1923 S. 43. A suit for refund of money under the terms of a contract is a suit for specific performance of a contract and is therefore not cognizable by the S. C. Court. 113 I.C. 747=1929 A. 62. See also 162 I.C. 553=17 P.L.T. 591=1936 P. 429. Suit by landlord for unpaid premium is not one for specific performance to lend money and is cognizable by S. C. Court. 1933 A. 147. A suit for balance of mortgage money is one for specific performance of part of agreement. 43 C. 59=29 I.C. 621; but not a suit by vendor for balance of purchase money. 1924 L. 314. But where a conveyance has not yet been executed, a suit for purchase money unpaid is one for specific performance. 35 M.L.J. 89=49 I.C. 385. Suit for recovery of sewing machine given on hire-purchase system is not one for specific performance and so is cognizable by S. C. Court. 110 I.C. 316=1928 L. 535. As to suit to recover goods pledged, 3 Luck. 118. Suit for recovery of gold and silver entrusted to make ornaments is cognizable by S. C. Court. 91 I.C. 108=1926 O. 272; See also 83 I.C. 122=1924 M. 903. A suit to enforce award is one for specific performance. 22 C.W.N. 66 =42 I.C. 590. But see contra 49 I.C. 62. On this section, see also 1926 N. 65; 4 R. 227=1926 R. 198. Suit for recovery of account papers of darpatni mehal—Suit, if of S. C. nature—Second appeal. 59 C. 352=1932 C. 481.

Art. 18.—This article applies to a suit by a schoolmaster for pension. 25 I.C. 41. Provision in partition deed for marriage of daughter is trust provision. 24 I.C. 943=38 M. 788. This article does not apply to a suit by trustee for a specific sum agreed to be paid for being used as a trust. 15 I.C. 273. Suit for recovery of offerings made to a shrine which were misappropriated is not cognizable by S. C. Court. 1926 L. 228. Where a composition is effected between a debtor and his creditors, and a trustee is appointed to collect the outstandings and the trustee fails to carry out the terms of the deed, the only remedy of the creditors against the trustee is to file a suit against him for enforcing the trust. But such a suit is barred by Art. 18 from the cognizance of S. C. Court. A suit by the creditors on the original cause of action is incompetent against the trustee. 114 I.C. 109 =1929 S. 49. Suit for recovery of amount deposited with an arbitrator to be forfeited in the event of refusal to abide by the award is cognizable by S. C. Court. 145 I.C. 970=1933 A. 902.

Art. 19.—Suits of declaratory nature are not S. C. suits. 1924 A. 40. So is a suit for a declaration of right to insurance policy by virtue of an assignment. 38 I.C. 248=4 L.W. 339; also a suit to declare Municipal assessment illegal and for refund of excess tax paid. 166 I.C. 743=

1937 P. 25. See also 1938 Nag. 398. A money decree does not become a "declaratory decree" because the judgment is prefaced by some sort of declaration. So a suit for the refund of profession tax amounting to Rs. 125 is of a S. C. nature from which no second appeal is competent, even though the plaintiff may have prayed as well for a declaration of the invalidity of the levy. 139 I.C. 620=1932 M. 226.

Art. 20.—Regarding a suit for compensation where an objection to an attachment of crops was struck off without investigation, see 9 I.C. 537=8 A.L.J. 187.

Art. 21.—The S. C. Court is debarred from entertaining a suit to set aside a sale. 28 C. 235. The article does not apply to a suii to enforce an award. 25 I.C. 826; 49 B. 693=1925 B. 519. To a suit for money due under an award made out of Court, see 42 A. 169=58 I.C. 546.

Art. 23.—A suit to recover back the price paid for the purchase of stolen goods, when the stolen goods were taken back from the possession of the purchaser by order of Court does not fall either under Art. 2 or under Art. 23 and is therefore cognizable by S. C. Court. 108 I.C. 609; 1928 L. 515. If there is a dispute as regards the paying out of assets realised by a Court which is not as between judgment-debtor and creditor and therefore falling under S. 47, C. P. Code, and one of the creditors is dissatisfied with the order passed by the Court and the money is in consequence paid out to a rival creditor, he is at liberty to file a suit for its recovery on the basis that it is money had and received without necessarily getting the order refusing payment of the money to himself set aside as the orders of the executing Court are merely summary decisions passed without a final adjudication on the merits of the claims of rival parties. 8 R. 485=128 I.C. 834=1931 R. 56.

Art. 24.—See 4 R. 227. Suit to recover what was given by an award, see 91 I.C. 1032=1925 B. 519. A suit to recover a sum of money due on an award passed under the Indian Arbitration Act is not a suit to contest an award and is therefore cognizable by the S. C. Court. 23 S.L.R. 411=1929 S. 43.

Art. 28.—The article applies only to suits for share of the estate and not to particular items. 1925 A. 40. A denial of the plaintiff's title in a suit by the plaintiff for recovery of movables does not bring the suit within the operation of this article. 27 I.C. 773=19 C.W. N. 614; 22 L.W. 462=49 M.L.J. 554; 87 I.C. 354=1925 M. 1110. Art. 28 contemplates a suit between rival claimants to the property of an intestate. There must be a claim made by an heir as such, which claim is resisted by another person advancing a similar claim; otherwise the article does not apply. A suit by a husband for recovery of jewels as the heir of his deceased wife, the defendant not disputing that the plaintiff has succeeded to his wife's property, is not excluded by Art. 28 from the cognizance of the Small Cause Court. I.L.R. (1939) Mad. 78=48 L.W. 290=1938 Mad. 864=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 402. The question of jurisdiction depends entirely on the allegations made in the plaint and it is immaterial whether defendant is a rival claimant to the estate or merely a person in wrongful possession. 178 I.C. 31=1938 Pesh. 79. This article does not cover a suit after the death of bride and bridegroom, for recovery of jewels presented in marriage. 37 M. 538=23 M.L.J. 282. Suit for price of jewels left by deceased. See 91 I.C. 561=1926 M. 37; 22 L.W. 462=49 M.L.J. 554. A suit by a father for recovery of property as heir of his deceased daughter is not cognizable by S. C. Court. 142 I.C. 613 (1)=1933 M. 346. A suit for a share in a property of a Mahomedan, who died intestate is not cognizable by the S. C. Court. 149 I.C. 393=1934 A. 423.

Art. 29.—See 27 I.C. 629=13 A.L.J. 58. As to what constitutes a partnership, see 1937 N. 68. Where not only the balance is struck but there is a definite agreement by the defendant to pay the sum found due, the agreement affords a fresh cause of action to the plaintiff and a suit based for recovery of money agreed to be paid is not a suit within the meaning of Cl. (a), (b) or (c) of Art. 29. 27 S.L.R. 308=1933 S. 324.

(b) for an account of partnership transaction; or

(c) for a balance of partnership account, unless the balance has been struck by the parties or their agents;

(30) a suit for an account of property and for its due administration under decree;

(31) any other suit for an account, including a suit by a mortgagor, after the mortgage has been satisfied, to recover surplus collections received by the mortgagee, and a suit for the profits on immovable property belonging to the plaintiff which have been wrongfully received by the defendant;

NOTES.

Art, 29, sub-Cl. (c).—The proviso to Art. 29 (c) contemplates that whcre a balance has been struck by the parties or their agents, a suit can lie on such balance in the Court of S. C. 24 S.L.R. 308=1933 S. 324. This article does not apply to a suit for recovery of money advanced as loan to a partnership business. 51 I.C. 435. Where a suit for money was brought in a S. C. Court on the allegation that it presented the commission due to the plaintiff who was a commission agent of the defendant, but the defendant raised the plea that the plaintiff was not the agent of the defendant but a partner with him, and the Court upheld the defendant's plea and dismissed the suit, held, (on revision) that the suit having failed on the merits, the decision of the S. C. Court was not without jurisdiction. 118 I.C. 667 (1)=1929 A. 907.

Arts. 29 and 30 : SUIT FOR ACCOUNTS EXPLAINED.—A suit for accounts is a suit for an indeterminate amount which could only be arrived at by taking the regular accounts between the parties. Where therefore the plaintiff sues for a definite sum and shows clearly how that sum is to be ascertained, the suit is not one for accounts. 29 N.L.R. 115=1933 N. 82.

Art. 30.—For the reason and object of this article, see 28 M. 394 and 23 C. 884 (890). Suit for accounts explained. 29 N.L.R. 115=1933 N. 82.

Art. 31.—This article applies to cases where the relationship is such that one of the parties is bound to render accounts to the other. 11 M.L.T. 13=13 I.C. 159; 85 I.C. 704=1925 A. 682. A suit for an account contemplated by Art. 31 is a special form of suit and does not embrace every case in which accounts have to be looked into to ascertain the amount due to the plaintiff. I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 296=51 L. W. 171=1940 Mad. 504=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 173. A suit for accounts is a special form of suit. It does not mean that whenever accounts have to be looked into in order to ascertain the amount due by one party to the other that the suit should be technically called a suit for accounts. A suit for a specific sum of money alleged to be due to the plaintiff by the defendant in regard to certain dealings, the plaintiff being merely an agent of the defendant on the allegations in the plaint, is not a suit for accounts within the meaning of Art. 31 of Sch. II especially when the plaintiff nowhere in his plaint asks for any accounts to be rendered to him. The allegations in the plaint would ordinarily determine the nature of the suit. 47 L.W. 654=1938 Mad. 707=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 112. Whether a suit is a suit for account falling under Art. 31 depends upon the relation in which the parties stand to each other and the nature of the investigation required to afford relief to the plaintiff. Where the essence of the action is that no relie can be granted without accounts being taken, the suit must be deemed to be one "for an account". 47 L.W. 793=1938 Mad. 799=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 76. A suit is not necessarily a suit for an account merely because accounts have to be examined. A suit is not a suit for an account unless the plaint asks for the taking of accounts. In a case where it is not disputed that the defendant, as agent or otherwise, is liable to render accounts to the plaintiff of all his dealings in the various transactions carried on by him on behalf of the plaintiff, the latter cannot be permitted to select capriciously a single transaction and claim the fruits thereof without an adjustment of the rights and liabilities of the parties in relation to other transactions. I.L.R. (1937) N. 85=1937 N. 172. A suit in which accounts have to be taken incidentally to arrive at the finding whether the amount claimed by the plaintiff is really due to him is not a suit for accounts. Suit between principal and agent. 1931 A.L.J. 5. Where the plaintiff alleged that there was a settlement between the parties in 1924 under which the defendant acknowledged a certain amount in paddy, cash and hay but subsequently the dealings continued between the parties, and the plaintiff claimed only a fixed sum, different from that shown in the settlement and did not call on the defendant to render an account, the suit cannot be deemed to be one for an account. 1931 M.W.N. 975=1931 M. 789. The fact that accounts have to be taken for the disposal of the suit and the sum claimed is not ascertained does not prevent a suit from being a S.C. one. 57 I.C. 951; 22 I.C. 424=12 A.L.J. 230; 64 I.C. 327; 10 I.C. 883=24 C.L.J. 187; 52 I.C. 631=26 M.L.J. 245; 48 I.C. 94; 24 M. L.J. 693; 20 I.C. 518; 3 P.L.J. 423. Cf. 3 L. W. 143=33 I.C. 16. The mere fact that the plaintiffs had given the defendants a notice to go into accounts cannot convert a suit for recovery of the balance due out of the consideration of a completed sale into one for account. 160 I.C. 1038=1936 L. 557. A suit for the price of goods purchased by the defendant plus interest and expenses, is not a suit for an account. 1936 A.L.J. 1174=1937 All. 23. Art. 31 does not apply to suit by co-sharers for recovery of value of their share of produce realized by other co-sharer—Such suit being of S. C. nature, no second appeal is competent. 1930 L. 613. Where one of several co-sharers in an occupancy holding is in actual cultivating possession thereof, his possession cannot be considered to be wrongful, nor can he be said to be in wrougful receipt of the profits accruing from the holding belonging to them in common. Possession of one of the co-sharers on receipt of income derived by him from the joint holding is on behalf of all the co-sharers, and there is no wrongful receiving of the profits. 132 I.C. 201 (1)=1931 A. 551. See also 1940 N.L.J. 22. A suit by one joint owner to recover his proportionate share of the rent from another who had collected the entire rent, to which the tenants are also made parties is not barred under Art. 31. 152 I.C. 570=1935 L. 50. A suit by one of the joint landlords for recovery of sums which may have been collected by his co-sharers from the tenants in excess of their legitimate share is not cognizable by the S. C. Court. Such a suit is essentially a suit for accounts. 1934 P. 2; 1936 Lah. 377 (suit by transferee from a co-sharer of his right to recover rent). Suit to recover out of the advance a fixed amount in excess of the value of the goods supplied by the defendant is S. C. 116 I.C. 85; 1928 A. 332. Suit against an agent for value of goods not accounted for is not "suit for acconnt". 24 I.C. 764=1 L.W. 180; 32 P.L.R. 103. As to what are suits for accounts under this article, see I.L.R. 1937 N. 85=168 I.C. 190=1937 N. 172; 105 I.C. 848=1928 S. 66; 32 C.W.N. 400=1928 C. 424. Suit for damages for breach of covenant for title is S. A suit after redemption for value of trees cut down by the mortgagee falls under this article. 54 I.C. 117; 31 M.L.J. 839=38 I.C. 1. Suit for mesne profits of wrongfully dispossessed property is not a S. C. suit. 40 A. 142=44 I.C. 689; 6 R. 60=1928 R. 101 (F.B.); or for mesne profits of property wrongfully kept out of possession. 19 I.C. 427=11 A.L.J. 238; 66 I.C. 368; 87 I.C. 695=48 M.L.J. 685. See also I.L.R. (1938) Lah. 341=40 P.L.R. 196=1938 Lah. 219. A suit for mesne profits is not cognizable by a S. C. Court, if the plaintiff by alleging that the defendant has actually received profits asks for an account of the profits received. But a suit for mesne profits, in which there is no allegation that the defendant received any profits may be triable by S. C. Court, as Art. 31 does not state that they should be considered suits for an account. 141 I.C. 825 (2)=29 N.L.R. 61=1933 N. 87; 146 I.C. 845=34 P.L.R. 262=1933 L. 509; 156 I.C. 68=31 N.L.R. 180. The trees standing on land being immovable property, the usufruct of growing trees is profit on immovable property, and a suit to recover the mesne profits from such usufruct is not a suit of S. C. nature. 140 I.C. 92=1932 M. 554. A suit for Rs. 187 being the profits of immovable property wrongfully received by the defendants is excluded from the cognisance of S. C. Court The mere fact that the suit was originally instituted in the S. C. Court, and was transferred therefrom under S. 24 of the Code cannot alter its nature and justify an application for revision to the High Court, when in fact an appeal to the District Court is competent. 34 P.L.R. 262. Suit damages for use and occupation. 23 L.W. 518=1926 M. 622. See also 23 Pat.L.T. 11 (suit for damages for use and occupation after termination of tenancy); 1940 Rang. 100 (suit for leaves cut from plaintiff's land); 1938 Pat. 96; 1936 Nag. 276 (suit for damages for wrongfully cutting trees from plaintiff's land. See also 1940 Lah. 66=42 P.L.R. 9); 40 P.L.R. 720; 1936 Pat. 428. A tenant continuing in possession after the expiry of his lease without the landlord's consent is a tenant "by sufferance," being no better than a mere trespasser and liable to be turned out at any moment without any notice to quit. The liability of such a tenant is ex delicto as for a tort. A suit by the landlord against such a tenant for damages for use and occupation, the measure of such damages being the amount of the mesne profits is not a suit for "the profits of immovable property" and is not excepted from the cognisance of a S. C. Court. 1935 M. 307=68 M.L.J. 196. Suits for the recovery of specific quantities of paddy or their value from the defendant on the ground that this amount of paddy belonging to the plaintiff firm had been wrongfully seized by the defendant are suits in tort for conversion and are cognizable by a S.C. Court, and as such no second appeal lies. And such suits were held not similar to a suit for account. [1928 R. 102 (F.B.), Expl.] 151 I.C. 405=1934 R. 218. See also 1936 Lah. 798 (Suit for money in respect of which offence under S. 379, Penal Code is committed.) This article does not apply to a suit for share of rent by one co-sharer against another. 40 A. 666=46 I. C. 647. On declaration of joint tenancy by the Revenue Court, a suit for a share of the profits of an occupancy holding would lie in a S. C. Court. 148 I.C. 640=3 A.W.R. 350=1934 A. 404; 37 I.C. 671. Suit for money due on acknowledgment. 67 I.C. 851. Suit for damages for trespass resulting in carrying away of crops may be instituted in a S.C. The effect of annulment of a sale under S. 53, Provincial Insolvency Act, is to hold that no transaction had taken place at all, and any sum that the vendee receives by virtue of that transaction is received by him wrongfully within the meaning of Art. 31. Art. 34.—See 20 I.C. 155. A suit on a policy of insurance means a suit arising out of contract of insurance. According to the Articles of Association of a Mutual Life Insurance Company the monthly subscriptions obtained from members of certain class were divided among the members who had a ceremony after deducting 20 per cent. for the reserve. The Articles of Association however permitted twice as much to be paid in advance to any member on the occasion of the ceremony. The company, alleging that in accordance with a clause in the Articles of Association a certain member was paid a sum larger than he was actually entitled to receive when the accounts for the year were made out, brought a suit for refund of an amount overpaid. Held, that the suit was on a policy of insurance and therefore was not cognizable by a Court of Small Causes. 41 P.L.R. 551=1939 Lah. 220. Suit to recover damages from bailee—Bailee's con-

After a criminal case was over, the defendant was directed by the Court to take away certain logs of timber which had been kept in the custody of Court. Thereupon plaintiff sued for the logs themselves or for their value and the cause of action was based on the defendants having wrongfully taken them away from Court as ordered by Court. The value was less than Rs. 500. Held, that taking the timber from Court by order of Court was not an offence, that the suit was triable as a S.C. suit and that no second appeal lay. 145 I.C. 888=1933 M. 636.

Sub-Cl. (g).—A suit for refund of money advanced as consideration for marriage contract on the ground that there has been a breach of the contract falls within Art. 35 (g). 24 N.L.R. 66=106 I.C. 803=1928 N. 89 (2). Art. 35 (g) confines bar to suits for compensation for breach of contract of betrothal or promise of marriage and has very little to do with return, on failure of marriage, of articles or sums of money advanced by one party to the other for use in connection with marriage celebrations, and hence so far as a suit is for return of such articles or money, suit is not excepted from the cognizance of the S.C. Court. 1929 P. 744.

Sub-Cl. (h).—Whether the cutting of trees under a mistake of fact does or does not fall under Art. 35 (b) (ii), see 1933 M. 636=145 I.C. 888. A suit to recover gold and silver handed by the plaintiff to the defendant, a sonar, for making ornaments, it being alleged in the plaint that the defendant in bad faith did not return the same, does not fall under Art. 35 (ii) and is not barred from the jurisdiction of the S. C. Court. 4 A.W.R. 1267=1935 A. 141 (2). A suit for recovery of Rs. 150, compensation for loss suffered by the plaintiff on account of negligent construction of drain by the defendant and consequent percolation of water under the foundation of the plaintiff's shop, is a suit of the nature of a S.C. and hence second appeal is incompetent. Art. 35 (h) (ii) does not help the plaintiff. 143 I.C. 494=34 P.L.R. 583=1933 L. 363.

TEST OF COGNIZABILITY.—In determining whether a suit is cognizable by a S. C. Court, the Court is only concerned with the allegations in the plaint. And if the plaint does not contain any clear allegation of criminal misappropriation or breach of trust, Art. 35 will not bar a suit for recovery of the amount. 145 I.C. 970 (2)= 1933 A. 902. Where the plaint sets out that the defendant "without right and without consent by deceit unlawfully reaped the crop" of the plaintiff, the allegation amounts to an offence of theft which comes under Chap. XVII of the Penal Code, and therefore the suit is excluded from S. C. Court jurisdiction by Art. 35 (ii). 153 I.C. 763=1935 A.W.R. 36=1935 A.L.J. 248= 1935 A. 264. But no Criminal Court would convict the defendants if the evidence carries the case no further than what is alleged in the plaint. Art. 35 (ii), Sch. II will not bar the Jurisdiction of the S.C. Court. 1935 A, 33. A suit regarding a right to enter on another's land and to cut grass is one falling under Art. 35 and is excluded from the cognizance of S.C. Court. 145 I.C. 755=1933 L. 172.

to recover a cow which had been stolen, but did not set out anything in his plaint tending to incriminate the defendant and there was no allegation of dishonesty, held, that the jurisdiction of the S. C. Court was not ousted. 127 I. C. 707. A suit for compensation for trees wrongfully cut and appropriated by the tenant is cognizable by S. C. Court. A disputed right to the trees on the land under tenancy depends in some cases on statutory provisions and in others on custom and as such no criminal case is maintainable thereon. Art. 35 (ii) is, therefore, inapplicable. (Conflict of decisions referred to.) 9 P. 569=1930 P. 575. Suit for damages for offence under Chap. XIV, I. P. Code—Whether of S. C. nature—Test. 132 I. C. 564 (1)=1931 A. 595. See also 165 I.C. 267 =1936 L. 798. A suit regarding a right to enter on another's land and to cut grass is one falling under Art. 35 (ii), Sch. II and is excluded from the cognizance of S. C. Court. 1933 L. 172. Where a branch of a joint tree is alleged to have been cut and the plaintiffs sue for their share of the price, the case is not one of mischief or theft and therefore not barred from the jurisdiction of the S. C. Court under Art. 35 (ii). 119 I.C. 285 (2)=1929 A. 816. Where the cause of action was an action in conversion or detinue, the plaintiff claiming the value of the timber cut by the defendant tenant and the plaint mentioned the appropriation by the defendant and also went on to allege that the right of cutting the timber still remained in the plaintiff (1930 P. 335) and where the plaintiff alleged that the defendant had wrongfully cut his trees but there was no allegation of any criminal intention or act on the part of the defendant. (1930 B. 361.) Held, that the facts did not fall within Art. 35, Cl. (ii) and the objection to the jurisdiction of the S. C. Court to try the suit was unsustainable. See also 1036 N. 276. Also 1930 A.L.J. 1247 : 1932 A.L.J. 306=1932 A. 472. See also 161 I.C. 937=1936 P. 428 (bona fide claim of defendant to trees on crops cut apparent on the plaint). See also 1936 N. 276. But where the plaint alleged that the defendants had forcibly and criminally cut certain branches of a tree, and it appeared that the said allegations were designedly made with a view to show that by reason of Art. 35 (ii) the suit was not cognizable by the S. C. Court and it further appeared that no objection was raised to the trial of the suit by the Munsiff on the Regular Side. Held, that S. 102, C. P. Code, did not under the circumstances apply to the case and that a second appeal was not barred. 8 O.W.N. 1019=1931 O. 411. A suit for recovery of Rs. 150, compensation for loss suffered by the plaintiff on account of negligent construction of drain by the defendant and consequent percolation of water under the foundation of the plaintiff's shop, is a suit of the nature of a S. C. and hence second appeal is incompetent. 1933 L. 363 (1). Where the suit for damages in respect of a portion of a tree which had been cut and removed by the defendant and the parties fought it out as a civil matter, held, that the suit was cognizable by the S. C. Court. The fact that the plaintiff alleged that the defendant acted illegally would not mean that the act alleged was criminal. 5 Luck. 739=1930 O. 317. A suit by the judgment-debtor to recover damages for an article retained and lost by the decree-holder after re-delivery order by the Court is a suit based on the allegation of misappropriation and as such excepted from the cognizance of S. C. Court. 1929 L. 386. A suit was brought for money claim. There was an allegation in the plaint that the defendant had got a wrong figure inserted in the acknowledgment, but that was only made a ground for bringing the suit on the previous account and not on the subsequent acknowledgment. Held, that the case did not fall under Art. 35 (ii). 118 I.C. 818=1929 N. 144. Suit for recovery of excess amount paid to decree-holder under fraud and cheating—If S. C. nature. 115 I.C. 581. A suit to recover damages for trespass and mischief is exempt from the jurisdiction of the S. C. Court. The nature of a suit does not depend on the defence but has to be judged from the allegations in the plaint. 33 C.W.N. 839.

Art. 35, Sub-Cl. (j).—Suit for damages for illegal attachment, see 18 I.C. 695=11 A.L.J. 91; 89 I.C. 982; 1926 L. 150; 1936 N. 257 (suit for damages carried by wrongful attachment and negligence). Art. 35 (b) and (j) have clearly no application to a wrongful seizure of cattle proceeding on the highway and hence a suit for damages in respect of such seizure is not barred by Art. 35 (b) and (j). 1941 N.L.J. 328. The demand of interest in a claim for refund of tax illegally levied makes the claim one for damages bringing it within the operation of this article. 27 Bom.L.R. 447=89 I.C. 580. See also 93 I.C. 290=1926 A. 326; 1931 M.W.N. 1107. Where a machine attached in execution of a decree and entrusted to a Supurdar is released from attachment on a claim by a third party and it is found that the machine had become useless owing to the acts of the decree-holder and the Supurdar, a suit by the owner of the machine for the price of the machine is really a suit for compensation for illegal and improper attachment and as such excluded from the cognizance of the Court of Small Causes by Art. 35 (j) of Sch. II to the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act. 1941 O.W.N. 555=1941 Oudh 412. Where the plaintiff sued to recover the excess amount of rent recovered from him together with interest and the suit was filed in the Court of the Subordinate Judge who was invested with S. C. powers, but he decided to hear the suit as an ordinary suit and transferred it to the joint Subordinate Judge who had no S. C. powers and the latter tried and decreed the suit. Held, that the cause of action was not one under the second schedule, Cl. 35 (j), merely because there was a claim for interest inasmuch as the interest was claimed by way of damages for detention of money and not a compensation under Cl. (j). Held also, that the trial of the suit as an ordinary suit prejudiced the parties inasmuch as it

Sub-Cl. (l).—This clause debars S. C. Court from entertaining a suit for damages for assault with a shoe. 36 B. 413=15 I.C. 505. Or for losing a wife. 1 L. 574=58 I.C. 167.

Art. 37.—The words "for the recovery of a wife" were repealed by Act X of 1914, Sch. II.

Art. 38: MEANING OF MAINTENANCE.—Art. 38 applies "to all suits relating to maintenance, whether based on contract, bond, award, decree or personal law." Where therefore the wife sues for arrears of maintenance alleged to be due under the agreement entered in the course of proceedings by her under S. 488, Cr. P. Code, the suit is one "relating to maintenance" and is excluded from the jurisdiction of the S. C. Court by Art. 38. 1935 L. 101. Suit must be in form and substance one for maintenance. 1928 O. 47. Suit against guardian of property for money ordered to be paid by Court is not for maintenance. 32 I.C. 457. Suit by one brother against another for contribution towards maintenance paid to mother is not a suit for maintenance. 27 I.C. 824=2 L.W. 103. Where the basis of the suit is an agreement between the plaintiff and defendant, by which the plaintiff has to look after certain ladies and the defendant is to pay certain amount to plaintiff to compensate him, the suit is to recover what cannot be described as maintenance in the hands of the plaintiff but is really payment for having provided maintenance for the ladies. The jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court is not barred by Art. 38 of Sch. II. I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 517=1937 Nag. 236. Suit for money agreed to be paid for maintenance to a child whether a suit for maintenance, see 38 M. 553 =22 I.C. 39. Suits for arrears of maintenance are not cognizable by S. C. Court. 40 A. 52=42 I.C. 905 : 16 I.C. 13=10 A.L.J. 185 ; 53 I.C. 66=37 M.L.J. 402. See also 33 Bom.L.R. 510; 51 M.L.J. 215. Consequently even though the claim be below Rs. 500, a second appeal is competent. 33 Bom.L.R. 510. See also 1926 M. 932 =51 M.L.J. 215.

Art. 41.—Art. 41 applies only to a suit by a person who at the time of bringing the suit is a co-sharer in a joint property. A suit by a person who was once a sharer in such property does not fall under the article. 154 I.C. 447=40 L.W. 856 =1935 M. 83=68 M.L.J. 24. See 162 I.C. 553= 17 Pat L.T. 591=1936 P. 429. See also 43 C.W.N. 441. Common liability is the essence of the right to contribution where income-tax in respect of joint family property is wrongly recovered from the father alone who had separated from his son already, and in spite of his protest, the payment of the tax was not a common liability when it was made, and so a suit to recover from the son his proportionate share is not strictly a suit for contribution as contemplated by Art. 41 of Provincial Small Cause Courts Act and hence is cognizable by the SmallCauseCourt. 1938 N.L.J.125. A suit by a co-sharer against the other co-sharers to recover the rent paid by him to the superior proprietor in respect of the latter's shares is a suit for contribution and not reimbursement inasmuch as the liability is a joint liability and the paying co-sharer remains liable for the balance even after payment of his own share. Hence its cognizance by Court of Small Causes is barred by Art. 41 of Sch. II of the Provincial Small CauseCourts Act. 1941 O.W.N. 963=1941 Oudh 578. The question whether a suit falls under Art. 41 or not should be determined according to the averments in the plaint. Where a decree-holder sued another person interested in the decree for expenses incurred in execution and objection proceedings and the declaratory suit under O. 21, R. 63, C. P. Code and for costs paid to the other party in respect of the same. Held, that the suit was governed by Art. 41. 32 P.L.R. 710=1931 L. 748. THE PROVISIONAL COLLECTION OF TAXES ACT (XVI OF 1931).

EFFECT OF LEGISLATION.—Amended by the Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937.

PREFATORY NOTE.—The following is the Statement of Objects and Reasons:—

The experience of the last three Delhi sessions has illustrated certain disadvantages in the present procedure as regards the Budget and the Finance Bill and, in particular, has brought out the fact that the period of thirty days prescribed under section 2 of the Provisional Collection of Taxes Act, 1918 (XVI of 1918), is not sufficiently long. It is, therefore, proposed to extend this period to sixty days and also to rectify certain minor imperfections in the existing Act. Opportunity has also been taken to insert a provision in the Bill whch will confine refunds of duty to the difference between the rates in force when the Bill was introduced and the rate proposed in that Bill, any further reduction imposed by the new Act taking effect only when that Act comes into operation.

[28*th September*, 1931.

An Act to amend the law providing for the immediate effect for a limited period of provisions in Bills relating to the imposition or increase of duties of customs or excise.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law providing for the immediate effect for a limited period of provisions in Bills relating to the imposition or increase of duties of customs or excise; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE PROVISIONAL COLLECTION OF TAXES ACT, 1931.

Definition.

2. In this Act, a "declared provision" means a provision in a Bill in respect of which a declaration has been made under section 3.

Power to make declarations under this Act.

3. Where a bill to be introduced in the [1][Central] Legislature on behalf of Government provides for the imposition or increase of a duty of customs or excise, the Central Government may cause to be inserted in the bill a declaration that it is expedient in the public interest that any provision of the Bill relating to such imposition or increase shall have immediate effect under this Act.

Effect of declarations under this Act, and duration thereof.

4. (1) A declared provision shall have the force of law immediately on the expiry of the day on which the Bill containing it is introduced.

(2) A declared provision shall cease to have the force of law under the provisions of this Act—

(a) when it comes into operation as an enactment, with or without amendment, or

(b) when the Central Government, in pursuance of a motion passed by either Chamber of the [1][Central] Legislature, directs, by notification in the Official Gazette, that it shall cease to have the force of law, or

(c) if it has not already ceased to have the force of law under clause (a) or clause (b), then on the expiry of the sixtieth day after the day on which the Bill containing it was introduced.

Certain refunds to be made when declarations cease to have effect.

5. (1) Where a declared provision comes into operation as an enactment in an amended form before the expiry of the sixtieth day after the day on which the Bill containing it was introduced, refunds shall be made of all duties collected which would not have been collected if the provision adopted in the enactment had been the declared provision:

Provided that the rate at which refunds of any duty may be made under this sub-section shall not exceed the difference between the rate of such duty proposed in the declared provision and the rate of such duty in force when the Bill was introduced.

THE PUBLIC SUITS VALIDATION ACT (XI OF 1932).

[8th April, 1932.

As Act to validate certain suits relating to public matters.

WHEREAS it is expedient to validate certain suits relating to public matters which may be or have been held to be invalid by reason of the previous sanction of the Provincial Government in respect thereof not having been obtained as required by section 93 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE PUBLIC SUITS VALIDATION ACT, 1932.

(2) It extends to all parts of British India to which section 91, 92 and 93 of the Code of Civill Procedure, 1908, extend.

Validation of certain pending public suits.

2. Where a suit relating to any of the public matters specified in sections 91 and 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, is pending at the commencement of this Act, the institution of such suit shall not be deemed to be invalid on the ground that the previous sanction of the Provincial Government in respect of such suit has not been obtained as required by section 93 of that Code.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section a suit pending at the commencement of this Act includes a suit in respect of which an appeal lies or is pending at the commencement of this Act.

Restoration of certain dismissed public suits.

3. Where any suit relating to any such public matter has, after the 30th day of November, 1931, and before the commencement of this Act, been dismissed by a Court of first instance solely on the ground that the sanction of the Provincial Government in respect of such suits has not been obtained as required by section 93 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, the Court shall, on application made within six months from the commencement of this Act, make an order setting aside its decree and shall proceed with the suit.

AOTES.

Sec. 25: OFFICER DISMISSED WITHOUT ENQUIRY — RIGHT OF SUIT — GOVERNMENT OF INDIA ACT, S. 96-B (1) AND R. 14.—A Reader in the Government Press was dismissed from service without any enquiry. He sued the Secretary of State for damages for wrongful dismissal. Held, he had no right of action, as R. 14 framed under the Government of India Act, imposing formalities like enquiry before dismissal of a civil servant was specifically without prejudice to the provision of the Public Servants Inquiries Act, S. 14. When that was the case it was not possible to say that the Government or the authority to whom it delegated its powers in the matter could not, with reference to R. 14, dismiss its civil servant without an enquiry. That one was doing work, as a reader in a press, which could have been done by a private person did not make him any the less a public servant or limit the right of Government to dismiss him at its pleasure. The statutory rules gave him no right of suit and the general rule was that no remedy could be taken but the particular remedy prescribed by the statute. 57 M. 857 =1934 M. 516=67 M.L.J. 123. Appointed an appeal to P.C. in 64 I.A. 40=I.L.R. (1937) Mad. 517=1937 P.C. 27=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 515 (P.C.).

Sec. 3.—Scope and effect of—Defect in sanction for suit under S. 93, C.P. Code—Dismissal—Restoration—Subsequent dimissal for want of freeh consent—Legality. See 63 C.L.J. 70.

Retrial of certain appeals relating to public suits.

4. Where, in any appeal arising from a suit relating to any such public matter, a decree has been passed after the 30th day of November, 1931, and before commencement of this Act, dismissing the appeal or dismissing the suit from which the appeal arose, solely on the ground that the previous sanction of the Provincial Government in respect of the suit had not been obtained as required by section 93 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, the Appellate Court shall, on application made within six months from the commencement of this Act, make an order setting aside its decree and shall proceed with the appeal.

THE INDIAN RAILWAYS ACT (IX OF 1890).

[21*st March*, 1890.

An Act to consolidate, amend and add to the law relating to Railways in India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate, amend and add to the law relating to Railways in India; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN RAILWAYS ACT, 1890.

NOTES.

Sec. 1.—Resolution of the Government of India at pp. 18, 19 (Supp.), Gazette of India, 1884, is not a "Rule". 36 P.R. 1911=9 I.C. 1011. Rail. Co. can exclude from railway permises all persons having no business with them and may impose on the rest of the public any terms they think proper. (Ibid.) Ordinarily freight is payable only by the contracting party. The person who is liable is the consignor and in the absence of an independent contract express or implied, the consignee is not liable. 57 C. 1168=1931 C. 33. A consignment of planks was despatched from station S on the R line at owner's risk and the risk-note Form B was given to the consignor. The weight charged was equal to the carrying capacity of the whole wagon. The consignment was not weighed at S but was weighed at R where the Rail. authorities demanded freight at a higher rate on the ground that there was an undercharge. The consignor having paid the money under protest sued the Rail. Co. for refund, and the Rail. Co. pleaded mistake of its clerk at S. Held, that such mistake could not alter the basis of the original contract, that the company was bound by their agent's contract and the plaintiff was consequently entitled to recover the excess paid. 54 A. 557=1932 A.L.J 526=1932 A. 540. But see also 32 Bom.L.R. 285=1930 B. 262; 1933 N. 135. A person bringing cattle to the Rail. station is bound to enquire, as to the times of running of cattle trains and cannot, by omitting to enquire, put upon the Rail. Co. the obligation to forward cattle out of the ordinary course of their arrangement. 117 I.C. 769=1929 S. 238. R. 6 of the N.W. Railway Goods Tariff applies to goods carried by goods trains and not to livestock carried by passenger trains. 117. I.C. 769=1929 S. 238. Payment of surcharge by consignee—Error of law—Suit to recover money paid—Maintainability—Limitation. 1929 M. 177=56 M.L.J. 269. The weight of goods consigned and inserted in the railway receipt when the bags are accepted by the Company does not amount to an admission of the weight by the Company. The weighment is only for the purpose of ascertaining what they will charge and for no other purpose. Where the Company's Goods Tariff, Part I, R. 15, which governs the consignment, says no admission is conveyed by a railway receipt that the weight as shown therein has been received or that the description of the goods as furnished by the consignor is correct and cl. (6) of the railway receipt reserves to the Company the right to re-measure and collect any undercharges at the place of destination, held, that the railway receipt was not conclusive. 32 Bom.L.R. 285=1930 B. 262. See also 1932 A. 540=34 A. 557. Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "tramway" means a tramway constructed under the Indian Tramways Act, 1886, or any special Act relating to tramways:

(2) "ferry" includes a bridge of boats, pontoons or rafts, a swing-bridge, a flying bridge and a temporary bridge, and the approaches to, and landing-places of, a ferry:

(3) "inland water" means any canal, river, lake or navigable water in British India:

(4) "railway" means a railway, or any portion of a railway for the public carriage of passengers, animals or goods, and includes—

(a) all land within the fences or other boundary-marks indicating the limits of the land appurtenant to a railway:

(b) all lines of rails, sidings or branches worked over for the purposes of, or in connection with, a railway;

(c) all stations, offices, warehouses, wharves, worshops, manufactories, fixed plant and machinery and other works constructed for the purposes of, or in connection with, a railway; and error of judgment, even amounting to negligence, on the part of its servant which causes damage to the trespasser. [G.T.Ry. of Canada v. Barnet, (1911) A.C. 361, Appl.]. The plaintiff who had been to the goodsyard of the railway, attempted to cross the railway line to get to the Station Master's office, when he was knocked down in broad daylight by a construction engine moving very slowly at 3 miles an hour. There was no evidence of permission or licence from the Company to cross the lines except at the level crossing. The driver sounded the whistle, which, however, had no effect on the plaintiff who was then "thinking about his own affairs". The driver then applied the brakes, but a second too late. Held, that the Rail. Co. was not liable for the injury caused to the plaintiff. 34 Bom.L.R. 826=1932 B. 452. Travelling by alternative routes. 51 A. 399=27 A.L.J. 78. There would ordinarily be no difficulty in prosecuting a railway company in a suitable case in respect of a breach of a statutory provision for which a penalty had been provided, and a State Railway does not occupy a more favourable position with reference to such matters. The general manager of a state railway is a legal entity in the same degree as a railway company is such an entity and it would be legal to prosecute him in his representative capacity in suitable cases. To such a prosecution no sanction under S. 197, Cr.P. Code, and S. 270 of the Government of India Act is necessary, as it is not sought to enforce against him personally any criminal liability which he has incurred in his personal capacity but merely to prosecute the railway administration for breach of statutory provision. (d) all ferries, ships, boats and rafts which are used on inland waters for the purposes of the traffic of a railway and belong to or are hired or worked by the authority administering the railway:

(5) "railway company" includes any persons, whether incorporated or not, who are owners or lessees of a railway or parties to an agreement for working a railway:

(6) "railway administration" or "administration", in the case of a railway administered by the Government or a Native State, means the manager of the railway and includes the Government or the Native State, and, in the case of a railway administered by a railway company, means the railway company:

(7) "railway servant" means any person employed by a railway administration in connection with the service of a railway:

(8) "Inspector" means an Inspector of Railways appointed under this Act:

(9) "goods" includes inanimate things of every kind:

(13) "rate" includes any fare, charge or other payment for the carriage of any passenger, animal or goods:

A plea that the defendant company is not a Rail. Co. within the meaning of the Act cannot be raised for the first time on appeal. 111 P.R. 1912=15 I.C. 12.

Cl. (6): "RAILWAY ADMINISTRATION".—In the case of a railway administered by the Government, the Government represented by the Secretary of State would be a necessary party in a suit against the Railway under S. 79, C.P. Code. 10 P. 466. Notice to the Secretary of State is indispensable in such a case. 10 P. 466. Notice served on the manager of the Railway administration is not sufficient. 10 P. 466. The cannotation of the words "Railway administration" in S. 3 is not in any way cut down by S. 140. 44 C. 16=34 I.C. 130. On this clause, see also 4 O.C. 133. Sec. 3. (7).—See 26 Cr.L.J. 190. In a very large proportion of the cases in which a person contracts with the railway to perform a certain service on its behalf he can be said to be employed by the railway to do that service and so comes within the definition of S. 3 (7), Railways Act. The service of a railway is not limited to the running of trains, but has a much wider meaning. The provision of meals for travellers is part of the service of a railway. The test to determine whether a person is an employee or an independent contractor is whether or not the employer retains the power not only of directing what work is to be done, but also of controlling the manner of doing the work. If a person can be overlooked and directed in regard to the manner of doing his work such person is not a contractor. Moreover the method of remuneration makes no difference. 38 Cr.L.J. 793=1937 Lah. 547. A cabinman is a railway servant within the meaning of S. 3 (7). 42 Cr.L.J. 786=1941 Sind 117.

An Inspector shall, for the purpose of any of the duties which he is required or authorized to perform under this Act, be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, and, subject to the control of the [1][safety controlling authority], shall for that purpose have the following powers, namely:—

(a) to enter upon and inspect any railway or any rolling-stock used thereon;

(b) by an order in writing under his hand addressed to the railway administration, to require the attendance before him of any railway servant, and to require answers or returns to such inquiries as he thinks fit to make from such railway servant or from the railway administration;

Facilities to be afforded to Inspectors.

6. A Railway administration shall afford to the Inspector all reasonable facilities for performing the duties and exercising the powers imposed and conferred upon him by this Act.

Temporary entry upon land for repairing or preventing accident.

9. (1) The [1][safety controlling authority] may authorize any railway administration, in case of any slip or other accident happening or being apprehended to any cutting, embankment or other work under the control of the railway administration, to enter upon any lands adjoining its railway for the purpose of repairing or preventing the accident, and to do all such works as may be necessary for the purpose.

(2) In case of necessity the railway administration may enter upon the lands and do the works aforesaid without having obtained the previous sanction of the [1][safety controlling authority], but in such a case shall, within seventy-two hours after such entry, make a report to the [1][safety controlling authority], specifying the nature of the accident or apprehended accident, and of the works necessary to be done, and the power conferred on the railway administration by this sub-section shall cease and determine if the [1][safety controlling authority], after considering the report, considers that the exercise of the power, is not necessary for the public safety.

(b) all necessary arches, tunnels, culverts, drains, watercourses or other passages, over or under or by the sides of the railway; of such dimensions as will, in the opinion of the [1][Provincial Government] be sufficient at all times to convey water as freely from or to the lands lying near or affected by the railway as before the making of the railway, or as nearly so as may be.

(1) Subject to the other provisions of this Act, the work specified in clauses (a) and (b) of sub-section (1) shall be made during or immediately after the laying out or formation of the railway over the lands traversed thereby and in such manner as to cause as little damage or inconvenience as possible to persons interested in the lands or affected by the works.

(b) save as hereinafter in this Chapter provided, a railway administration shall not, except on the requisition of the [1][Provincial Government] be compelled to defray the cost of executing any further or additional occommodation works for the use of the owners or occupiers of the lands after the expiration of ten years from the date on which the railway passing through the lands was first opend for public traffic;

12. If an owner or occupier of any land affected by a railway considers the works made under the last foregoing section to be insufficient for the commodious use of the land, or if the [1][Provincial Government] or a local authority desires to construct a public road or other work across, under or over a railway, he or it, as the case may be, may at any time require the railway administration to make at his or its expense such further accommodation works as he or it thinks necessary and are agreed to by the railway administration or as, in case of difference of opinion may be authorized by the [1][general controlling authority].

Fences, screens, gates and bars.

13. The [1][safety controlling authority] may require that, within a time to be specified in the requisition, or within such further time as [3][it] may appoint in this behalf,—

CHAPTER IV.

OPENING OF RAILWAYS.

Right to use locomotives.

[1]16. (1) A railway administration may, with the previous sanction of the [2][safety controlling authority], use upon a railway locomotive engines or other motive power, and rolling-stock to be drawn or propelled thereby.

(2) But rolling-stock shall not be moved upon a railway by steam or other motive power until such general rules for the railway as may be deemed to be necessary have been made, sanctioned and published under this Act.

Notice of intended opening of a railway.

17. (1) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), a railway administration shall, one month at least before it intends to open any railway for the public carriage of passengers, give to the [2][safety controlling authority] notice in writing of its intention.

(2) The [2][safety controlling authority] may, in any case, if [3][it] thinks fit, reduce the period of, or dispense with, the notice mentioned in sub-section (1).

Sanction of the Safety Controlling Authority a condition precedent to the opening of a railway.

18. A railway shall not be opened for the public carriage of passengers until the [2][safety controlling authority], or an Inspector empowered by the [2][safety controlling authority] in this behalf, has by order sanctioned the opening thereof for that purpose.

Procedure in sanctioning the opening of a railway.

19. (1) The sanction of the [2][safety controlling authority] under the last foregoing section shall not be given until an Inspector has, after inspection of the railway, reported in writing to the [2][safety controlling authority]—

(a) that he has made a careful inspection of the railway and rolling-stock;

(b) that the moving and fixed dimensions prescribed by the [2][safety controlling authority] have not been infringed;

(c) that the weight of rails, strength of bridges, general structural character of the works, and the size of and maximum gross load upon the axles of any rolling-stock, are such as have been prescribed by the [2][safety controlling authority];

(d) that the railway is sufficiently supplied with rolling-stock;

(e) that general rules for the working of the railway when opened for the public carriage of passengers have been made, sanctioned and published under this Act; and

(f) that, in his opinion, the railway can be opened for the public carriage of passengers without danger to the public using it.

(2) The works referred to in sub-section (1) are additional lines of railway, deviation lines, stations, junctions and crossings on the level, and any alteration or reconstruction materially affecting the structural character of any work to which the provisions of sections 17, 18 and 19 apply or are extended by this section.

Exceptional provision.

21. When an accident has occurred resulting in a temporary suspension of traffic, and either the original line and works have been rapidly restored to their original standard, or a temporary diversion has been laid for the purpose of restoring communication, the original line and works so restored, or the temporary diversion, as the case may be, may, in the absence of the Inspector, be opened for the public carriage of passengers, subject to the following conditions, namely:—

(a) that the railway servant in charge of the works undertaken by reason of the accident has certified in writing that the opening of the restored line and works, or of the temporary diversion, will not in his opinion be attended with danger to the public using the line and works or the diversion; and

(b) that notice by telegraph of the opening of the line and works or the diversion shall be sent, as soon as may be, to the Inspector appointed for the railway.

Power to close an opened railway.

23. (1) When, after inspecting any open railway used for the public carriage of passengers, or any rolling-stock used thereon, an Inspector is of opinion that the use of the railway or of any specified rolling-stock will be attended with danger to the public using it, he shall state that opinion, together with the grounds therefor, to the [1][safety controlling authority], and the [1][safety controlling authority] may thereupon order that the railway be closed for the public carriage of passengers, or that the use of the rolling-stock so specified be discontinued, or that the railway or the rolling-stock so specified be used for the public carriage of passengers on such conditions only as the [1][safety controlling authority] may consider necessary for the safety of the public.

(2) An order under sub-section (1) must set forth the grounds on which it is founded.

Re-opening of a closed railway.

24. (1) When a railway has been closed under the last foregoing section, it shall not be re-opened for the public carriage of passengers until it has been inspected and its re-opening sanctioned, in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

Secs. 41 and 42.—Ordinary Courts cannot, in view of the provisions of Ss. 26 to 41 of Chapter V of the Railways Act, consider whether there has been any undue or unreasonable preference within S. 42 of that Act. 21 I.C. 499=7 S.L.R. 42; 23 Bom.L.R. 809. See also 42 A. 327=18 A.L.J. 254; 15 B. 537; 36 P.R. 1911=9 I.C. 1011. The expression "traffic" in S. 42 (2) is not restricted to conveyance of animals and goods and the fixing of charges therefor. 45 M. 215=42 M.L.J. 21. A penal provision ought to be strictly construed, and it is for the prosecution to make out that the compartment could be legally reserved in the manner it was reserved on the occasion. A reservation of this kind is apt to involve a transgression of the limitation laid down in S. 42. 42 M.L.J. 21. Where there has been an omission by a Railway Company in violation of Chap. V. of Railways Act the remedy provided for in the Act is laid down in S. 28 and S. 41 excludes the jurisdiction of the Civil Court. (d) if an objection to the rate, apportionment or route has been sent within the prescribed period, the [1][Federal Railway Authority shall], on the request of any of the railway administrations, [2][decide the matter];

(f) if the objection is only to the apportionment of the rate, [4][* * * * * * *], the rate shall come into operation at the expiration of the prescribed period, but the decision of the [3][Federal Railway Authority] as to its apportionment shall be retrospective: in the case of any other objection the operation of the rate shall be suspended until the [3][Federal Railway Authority] make their order in the case;

(g) the [3][Federal Railway Authority] in apportioning the through rate shall take into consideration all the circumstances of the case, including any special expense incurred in respect of the construction, maintenance or working of the route or any part of the route, as well as any special charges which any railway administration is entitled to make in respect thereof;

(h) the [3][Federal Railway Authority] shall not in any case compel any railway administration to accept lower mileage rates than the mileage rates which the administration may for the time being legally be charging for like traffic carried by a like mode of transit on any other line of communication between the same points, being the points of departure and arrival of the through route;

(i) subject to the foregoing provisions of this sub-section, the [3][Federal Railway Authority] shall have full power to decide that any proposed through rate is due and reasonable notwithstanding that a less amount may be allotted to any forwarding railway administration out of the through rate than the maximum rate which the railway administration is entitled to charge, and to allow and apportion the through rate accordingly;

(j) the prescribed period mentioned in this sub-section shall be one month, or such longer period as the [5][Federal Railway Authority] may by general or special order prescribe.

WORKING OF RAILWAYS.

General.

General rules.

47. (1) Every railway company and, in the case of a railway administered by the Government, an officer to be appointed by the [2][general controlling authority] in this behalf, shall make general rules[3] consistent with this Act for the following purposes, namely:—

NOTES.

Traffic Act, 1888 (51 and 52 Vict., c. 25, S. 24 (1).

Sec. 47.—Object of making rules under S. 47 is to regulate the traffic. 45 M. 215 =42 M.L.J. 21. Rule controlling or limiting statutory liability of railway under S. 72 is illegal. 20 A.L.J. 31=44 A. 218. A rule that the railway will not be responsible until a railway receipt is given is ultra vires and inconsistent with the Act. 29 N.L.R. 333=1933 N. 261. As to gratuity rules, see 60 C. 909=37 C.W.N. 663=1933 C. 409. A rule by a Railway Co. that the interval between the time of issue of a return ticket and the midnight of the same day shall be counted as one day is neither unreasonable nor ultra vires. 25 I.C. 801=8 S.L.R. 4. Rules adopted by the company though not originally prepared but which had received the sanction of the Governor-General and published in the Gazette are completely covered by S. 47, and it is unnecessary that the identity of the rules made by the company and those published should appear in the Circular or Gazette. 16 C.W.N. 360=13 I.C. 529. The rules imposed on all railways by Government by a notification do not become the rules of a particular Railway Co., till they are published in the India Gazette in the manner provided by S. 47. 15 C.W.N. 195=9 I.C. 331=13 C.L.J. 150. In the restricted sense that delivery had not been taken, the goods may be said to have been unclaimed, but where ownership in the goods had been asserted and directions given as to their retention, it cannot be said that the goods have been unclaimed in the general sense of the word. The powers given to the Railways by the rules must be strictly construed. 1938 A.M.L.J. 6.

Per Ferrers, J.C.—It appears from S. 134 that any person committing any offence against the Act or any rule thereunder shall be liable for such offence in any place in which he may be. It is clear therefore that any person not being a railway servant can be tried and punished for a breach of R. 17 made under S. 67. Per Rupchand, A.J.C. —There is no magic in the use of the expression "offence". It means any act or omission made punishable by the law for the time being in force. Cl. (2) of S. 47 empowers the railway to provide punishment for breach of the rules and thereby impliedly makes a breach of such rules an offence. 1935 S. 91.

Sec. 47 (1).—Cf. the Railways Regulation Act, 1840 (3 and 4 Vict., c. 97), Ss. 7 to 9, and the Railways Clauses Act, 1845 (8 and 9 Vict., c. 20), S. 10.

(b) for providing for the accommodation and convenience of passengers and regulating the carriage of their luggage;

(c) for declaring what shall be deemed to be, for the purposes of this Act, dangerous or offensive goods, and for regulating the carriage of such goods;

(d) for regulating the conditions on which the railway administration will carry passengers suffering from infectious or contagious disorders, and providing for the disinfection of carriages which have been used by such passengers;

(e) for regulating the conduct of the railway servants;

(f) for regulating the terms and conditions on which the railway administration will warehouse or retain goods at any station on behalf of the consignee or owner; and

(g) generally, for regulating the travelling upon, and the use, working and management of, the Railway.

NOTES.

Sec. 47 (1) (e).—For rules for the guidance of railway officials employed on lines administered by the Government, see Genl. Stat. R. and O., Vol. III.

Sec. 47 (1) (f).—Tariff Rule No. 464 (v) of N.W.Ry. is a rule passed under S. 47 (1) (f) and has the force of law. The rule is wide enough to include the loss due to the negligence of Railway or its servants. 17 I.C. 37=6 S.L.R. 103. So the Railway is not liable for the damage caused by the negligence of its servants after the goods had arrived for delivery. 17 I.C. 37=6 S.L.R. 103. Though a station-master is an agent of the railway, and it is within his authority to agree to carry passengers at certain rates, if he agrees to a wrong rate, it is not binding on the company. R. 23 of the Coaching Tariff Rules is a clear notice to the passengers that the Railway Company will have a right to correct any charges that may have been incorrectly made and to recover under-charges, from whatever causes arising. So where a station-master gave a wrong rate and subsequently at the time of the issue of the tickets demanded the proper rate, and it was paid by the passenger, the latter could not recover the excess which he was forced to pay. Every passenger when he makes a contract with the company, it will be implied that he does so with full notice of the conditions of the Coaching Tariff and the contract is subject to these conditions. I. L. R. (1940) All. 212=1940 A. L. J. 122=1940 All. 235. There can be no doubt that where a condition which entitles the railway company to re-classify and re-calculate and recover the difference at the place of destination exists in railway receipt, the railway company is entitled to re-classify the goods and to realize the excess freight after recalculating the rates at destination. Re-classification does not mean changing the class of goods under the heading 'class rates' but goods classed under 'schedule rate' can be re-classified under 'class rates'. 1937 A.L.J. 834=1937 All. 642. On this section, see also 11 C.W.N. 583. Rules under Cl. (2) do not create criminal offence); 23 A. 367; 18 B. 231; 8 W.R. 43 (Cr.); 8 I.C. 134; 16 B. 434; 15 B. 537. Secs. 47 (1) (f) and 72.—A "delivery to be carried by Railway" means something more than a mere depositing of goods on the Railway premises. It means some sort of acceptance by Railway. 39 B. 485=29 I.C. 545=17 Bom.L.R. 496. The commencement of the company's liability for goods delivered to be carried under S. 72 does not depend upon a receipt being granted, and must be determined on the evidence in the case. 39 B. 485. Where at the place of despatch the railway has agreed to charge by weight, it cannot at the place of destination claim to charge by measurement. That is not a claim to re-weigh or to re-measure. It is a claim to measure for the first time and to calculate in accordance with such measurement. 1933 N. 135=144 I.C. 386. See also 29 N.L.R. 306; 1932 A. 540 =54 A. 557; 32 Bom.L.R. 285=1930 B. 262.

Sec. 47 (1) (g) and (2): RULES UNDER, FOR THE HAWKING AND EXPOSURE FOR SALE OF GOODS—IF ultra vires—Per Ferrers, J.C. —A railway station is private property and it is intended for certain purposes. The rule forbidding the hawking and exposure for sale of goods on any station or platform comes within S. 47 (1) (g), and anybody

(2) The rules may provide that any person committing a breach of any of them shall be punished with fine which may extend to any sum not exceeding fifty rupees, and that in the case of a rule made under clause (e) of sub-section (1), the railway servant shall forfeit a sum not exceeding one month's pay, which sum may be deducted by the railway administration from his pay.

(3) A rule made under this section shall not take effect until it has received the sanction of the [1][general controlling authority and the safety controlling authority] and been published in the Official Gazette:

Provided that,

(b) where the rule is in the terms of a rule which has already been published at length in the Official Gazette, a notification in that Gazette, referring to the rule already published and announcing the adoption thereof, shall be deemed a publication of a rule in the Official Gazette within the meaning of this sub-section.

(4) [3][The safety controlling authority or, with the sanction of that authority, the general controlling authority, may cancel any rule made under this section, and the company or officer required by sub-section (1) to make rules thereunder may at any time, with the previous sanction of those authorities, rescind or vary any such rule:

Provided that where the safety controlling authority is not the same as the general controlling authority, the safety controlling authority shall not cancel any rule or refuse its sanction to the cancellation, rescinding or variation of any rule, unless it appears to it to be necessary so to do for the purpose of securing safety.]

infringing the rules made thereunder is liable to be punished, for the words "any person" used in Cl. (2) cannot be taken to be used for the restricted class of railway servants but to the public in general also. Per Rupchand, A.J.C.—S. 47 authorizes the framing of rules in respect of different objects and these are enumerated in Cls. (a) to (g). A bare reading of the clauses makes it abundantly clear that except Cl. (e) the other clauses contemplate rules being made not only for the guidance of railway employees but also for the guidance of the public. And such rules are not ultra vires the section. The expression used in Cl. (2), "any person", means any person whether he be employed in the railway or not. 1935 S. 91.

Cf. the Railways Clauses Act, 1863 (26 and 27 Vict., c. 92), S. 32.

Sec. 47 (2).—Cf. the Canadian Railway Act, 1886 (49 Vict., c. 109), S. 86.

Secs. 47 and 54.—The Railway Co. cannot avoid or unduly restrict its liability under the Railways Act by framing its own rules for the purpose. If any such rules are framed and it is found that they are unreasonable and inconsistent with the Act, such rules will be declared to be ultra vires and not binding on those who have to deal with the Rail. Co. Held, that R. 27 (a) of the B. & N.W. Rail. Co., defining its liability as bailee was ultra vires and void. 8 P. 808=117 I.C. 311=1929 P. 296. In any case the question as to whether the goods have been actually delivered to the Railway Co. or not is a question of fact which is to be proved by evidence in each case. The general rule is that, if there is something to show that the consignor has done all that is possible for him to put the goods in the possession of the Railway Co., that there is nothing left for him to be done in that connection and there is clear evidence, direct or circumstantial that the Rail. Co. has accepted the custody of the goods, the liability of the Rail. Co., as a bailee will begin to operate. It may be that the acceptance of the consignment notes will in certain cases be considered to be some evidence of the acceptance of goods, but it cannot be held that it must necessarily in all cases be treated as equivalent to the acceptance of the goods. 1939 Pat. 296=8 P. 808.

(5) Every rule purporting to have been made for any railway under section 8 of the Indian Railways Act, 1879,[1] and appearing from the Official Gazette to be intended to apply to the railway at the commencement of this Act, shall notwithstanding any irregularity in the making or publication of the rule, be deemed to have been made and to have taken effect under this section.

(6) Every railway administration shall keep at each station on its railway a copy of the general rules for the time being in force under this section on the railway, and shall allow any person to inspect it free of charge at all reasonable times.

Disposal of differences between railways regarding conduct of joint traffic.

48. Where two or more railway administrations whose railways have a common terminus or a portion of the same line of rails in common, or form separate portions of one continued line of railway communication, are not able to agree upon arrangements for conducting at such common terminus, or at the point of junction between them, their joint traffic with safety to the public, the [2][safety cotrolling authority] upon the application of either or any of the administrations, may decide the matters in dispute between them, so far as those matters relate to the safety of the public, and may determine whether the whole or what proportion of the expenses attending on such arrangements shall be borne by either or any of the administrations respectively.

Agreements with [4][any general controling authority] for construction or release of rolling-stock.

Any railway company, not being a company for which the [3]Statute 42 and 43 Vict., Chap. 41 provides, may from time to time make and carry into effect agreements with [2][any general controlling authority] for the construction of rolling-stock, plant or machinery used on, or in connection with railways or for leasing or taking on lease any rolling-stock, plant, machinery or equipments required for use on a railway, or for the maintenance of rolling-stock.

Powers of railway companies to enter into working agreements.

Any railway company, not being a company for which the Statute 42 and 43 Vict., Chap. 41 provides, may from time to time make with the [2][Federal Railway Authority] and carry into effect, or, with the sanction of the [2][Federal Railway Authority] make with any other railway administration, and carry into effect, any agreement[4] with respect to any of the following purposes, namely,:—

(a) the working, use, management and maintenance of any railway;

(b) the supply of rolling-stock and machinery necessary for any of the purposes mentioned in clause (a) and of officers and servants for the conduct of the traffic of the railway;

(c) the payments to be made and the conditions to be performed with respect to such working, use, management and maintenance;

(d) the interchange, accommodation and conveyance of traffic being on, coming from or intended for, the respective railways of the contracting parties,

It is not a claim to re-weigh or re-measure. It is a claim to measure for the first time and to calculate in accordance with such measurement, and that cannot be permitted. 29 N.L.R. 306. Where in respect of a consignment of firewood, the railway receipt was given charging the goods at the despatching station at maund rates, the railway is not entitled to charge subsequently at wagon rates, even though larger wagons may have been used for the purpose. 1933 A.L.J. 1180.

(2) When any animals or goods have been detained under sub-section (1), the railway administration may sell by public auction, in the case of perishable goods at once, and in the case of other goods or of animals on the expiration of at least fifteen days' notice of the intended auction, published[1] in one or more of the local newspapers, or where there are no such newspapers, in such manner as the [2][Federal Railway Authority] may prescribe, sufficient of such animals or goods to produce a sum equal to the charge, and all expenses of such detention, notice and sale, including, in the case of animals, the expenses of the feeding, watering and tending thereof.

(3) Out of the proceeds of the sale, the railway administration may retain a sum equal to the charge and the expenses aforesaid, rendering the surplus, if any, of the proceeds, and such of the animals or goods (if any) as remain unsold, to the person entitled thereto.

Co. refused to comply with the request of the plaintiffs to have the goods re-weighed in their presence does not amount to a refusal to deliver and does not render the Rail. ject of a public notice of auction under S. 55 and the provision that the notice is to be inserted in local newspapers is an indication that it was the intention of the legislature that the local public shall be informed of a particular auction in order that persons may be attracted to bid at the auction. In order to attract bidders to the auction, the notice should contain adequate materials so that possible bidders may be informed of the class of the goods and the time and place where the sale is to be held. A notice that does not state when the sales would take place or the nature of the goods or the places at which they would be sold or the condition of the goods or indeed any particulars which would be calculated to attract purchasers to the sale is not "notice of the intended sale" as prescribed by S. 55. 151 I.C. 995=1934 P. 507.

Sec. 55 (5).—The Railway Co. received several consignments and delivered the same to the consignee at certain rates. It appeared, however, that, owing to a mistake in calculation, a lower rate of freight had been levied and on discovery of the same by the Railway Auditor, the under-charge was sought to be recovered from the consignor and consignee. The suit was held to be time-barred as against the consignee. Held, that the consignors were justified in believing that the rate charged was correct and in acting on such a belief, and that under the particular circumstances, the Rail. Co. had by their conduct deprived themselves of any right to obtain redress as against the consignors. 131 I.C. 749=32 P.L.R. 397=1931 L. 511. The words "for traffic to" constitute a phrase which is current in railway parlance to indicate that the rates are for carriage to a junction whence the goods will be transferred to a foreign line. Where a Railway Co. quotes rates for carriage of goods from a certain station on the line of that company to another junction station on that line, for traffic to a station on the foreign line, the rate so quoted is for carriage of goods from the station of dispatch to the junction station and does not include the rate chargeable from the junction station to the station of destination on the foreign line. 1932 N. 180.

Secs. 55 and 56: NOTICE OF PROPOSED SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION—SUFFICIENCY—ESSENTIALS.—A notice of an intention to sell at a public auction cannot be sufficient or effective, unless it specifies the time and place of the proposed public auction, the nature of the goods intended to be sold and all other particulars necessary to enable the members of the public to appreciate what it is which it is intended to put up for sale at the public auction. 65 I.A. 21=47 L. W. 78=40 Bom.L.R. 285=42 C.W.N. 225 =66 C.L.J. 476=1938 P.C. 12=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 83 (P.C.).

"PUBLIC AUCTION"—MEANING.—The words "public auction" in Ss. 55 and 56 must bear the meaning which is ordinarily given to them in the English language. The words mean a public sale at which each bidder offers an increase upon the price offered by the preceding bidder, the article put up being sold to the highest bidder. This involves the auction being held in public, all members of the public having a right to attend, and a valuable element being the competition between the persons who are openly bidding for the subject-matter of the sale. This is of importance not only to the Railway Company but also to the owner of the goods, the competition being calculated to produce the highest price. Where notice of the intended sale of coal was given by Railway Company by proclamation and notice on the board at the station and some offers were sent to the station master which were forwarded by him to the superior officer who directed him to accept the offer which was in fact the highest. Held, there was no public auction in the ordinary meaning of the words: there was no sale in public, there was no opportunity for competitive bidding: in fact, what was done bore no resemblance to a "public auction". The Railway Company did not sell the coal in the manner prescribed by the sections, and therefore could not rely on the protection given by the Railways Act. 65 I.A. 21=47 L.W. 78=66 C.L.J. 476= 40 Bom.L.R. 285=42 C.W.N. 225=1938 P.C. 12=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 83 (P.C.).

Sec. 56.—Art. 62 of the Limitation Act governs a suit to recover surplus proceeds of sale held by the Rail. Co., under S. 56, as the proceeds are received for plaintiff's use. 44 M. 823=41 M.L.J. 205. On this railway administration for carriage or otherwise and are not claimed by the owner or other person appearing to the railway administration to be entitled thereto, the railway administration shall, if such owner or person is known, cause a notice to be served upon him, requiring him to remove the animals or goods.

(2) If such owner or person is not known, or the notice cannot be served upon him, or he does not comply with the requisition in the notice, the railway administration may, within a reasonable time, subject to the provisions of any other enactment for the time being in force, sell the animals or goods as nearly as may be under the provisions of the last foregoing section, rendering the surplus, if any, of the proceeds of the sale to any person entitled thereto.

Power for railway administrations to require indemnity on delivery of goods in certain cases.

57. Where any animals, goods or sale-proceeds in the possession of a railway administration are claimed by two or more persons, or the ticket or receipt given for the animals or goods is not forthcoming, the railway administration may withhold delivery of the animals, goods or sale proceeds until the person entitled in its opinion to receive them has given an indemnity, to the satisfaction of the railway administration, against the claims of any other person with respect to the animals, goods or sale-proceeds.

Requisitions for written accounts of description of goods.

58. (1) The owner or person having charge of any goods which are brought upon a railway for the purpose of being carried thereon, and the consignee of any goods which have been carried on a railway, shall, on the request of any railway servant appointed in this behalf by the railway administration, deliver to such servant an account in writing signed by such owner or person, or by such consignee, as the case may be, and containing such a description of the goods as may be sufficient to determine the rate which the railway administration is entitled to charge in respect thereof.

Sec. 56 (2): SALE UNDER—14 DAYS' NOTICE —SUFFICIENCY.—The words 'as nearly as may be' in S. 56 imply that the terms of S. 55 are not to be rigidly applied in a sale under S. 56. Held, that the notice of fourteen days was a sufficient notice for a sale under S. 56. 1935 A. 601.

Secs. 56 and 72.—A Rail. Co. has power to detain goods consigned, for recovery of some other amount other than that due by the consignor on that consignment. This is not so with an ordinary bailee. 19 I.C. 370 =11 A.L.J. 335.

Secs. 56 and 80.—A consignee has no right to demand that the goods shall be opened and inspected on the railway premises before he can be called upon to take delivery. 20 A.L.J. 761=44 A. 76.

Sec. 57.—A station-master is not competent to deliver goods unless the railway receipt is produced. But demurrage cannot be charged for the period taken in enquiring as to the identity of the person entitled to delivery. 63 I.C. 256=2 Pat.L.T. 523. The rule that upon a consignor informing a carrier that he is an unpaid vendor and requesting him to stop the goods in transit, the latter is bound to do so, is modified by S. 57, which gives to the railway administration the right to ignore the notice and to make delivery to the consignee of goods. A railway administration may accept notice from the consignor of goods to stop the goods delivered in transit, or it may act under S. 57, in which case there is no stoppage in transit as defined in the Contract Act, S. 99. But if the railway administration fails to act under the provisions of the Contract Act in giving effect to the notice of stoppage in transit and likewise fail to act under the special provisions of S. 57, they will have to take the consequences upon themselves and are not entitled to claim any demurrage from the consignee. 118 I.C. 748=1929 S. 220.

Sec. 58.—See 36 P.R. 1885 (Cr.); 21 W.R. 380. 'Account' and 'description' referred to in this section, mean the same thing as 'declaration' made for purposes of S. 75. If 'account' or 'description' be false materially, S. 78 will become applicable. 15 P. 394=17 Pat.L.T. 268=163 I.C. 685= 1936 P. 393. Rail. Co. is entitled to re-classify the goods, and cancel concession rates and demand excess charge if the fixing of original rates was due to false declaration of the consignor. 45 L.W. 262=(1937) 1 M. L.J. 341; or if it is due to mistake of Railway clerk. 1937 A.L.J. 344=1937 A. 400.

(2) If such owner, person or consignee refuses or neglects to give such an account, and refuses to open the parcel or package containing the goods in order that their description may be ascertained, the railway administration may,

(a) in respect of goods which have been brought for the purpose of being carried on the railway, refuse to carry the goods unless in respect thereof a rate is paid not exceeding the highest rate which may be in force at the time on the railway for any class of goods or, (b) in respect of goods which have been carried on the railway, charge a rate not exceeding such highest rate.

(3) If an account delivered under sub-section (1) is materially false with respect to the description of any goods to which it purports to relate, and which have been carried on the railway, the railway administration may charge in respect of the carriage of the goods a rate not exceeding double the highest rate which may be in force at the time on the railway for any class of goods.

(4) If any difference arises between a railway servant and the owner or person having charge, or the consignee, of any goods which have been brought to be carried or have been carried on a railway, respecting the description of goods of which an account has been delivered under this section, the railway servant may detain and examine the goods.

(5) If it appears from the examination that the description of the goods is different from that stated in an account delivered under sub-section (1), the person who delivered the account, or, if that person is not the owner of the goods, then that person and the owner jointly and severally, shall be liable to pay to the railway administration the cost of the detention and examination of the goods, and the railway administration shall be exonerated from all responsibility for any loss which may have been caused by the detention or examination thereof.

(6) If it appears that the description of the goods is not different from that stated in an account delivered under sub-section (1), the railway administration shall pay the cost of the detention and examination, and be responsible to the owner of the goods for any such loss as aforesaid.

Dangerous or offensive goods.

59. (1) No person shall be entitled to take with him, or to require a railway administration to carry, any dangerous or offensive goods upon a railway.

(2) No person shall take any such goods with him upon a railway without giving notice of their nature to the station-master or other railway servant in charge of the place where he brings the goods upon the railway, or shall tender or deliver any such goods for carriage upon a railway without distinctly marking their nature on the outside of the package containing them or otherwise giving notice in writing of their nature to the railway servant to whom he tenders or delivers them.

(3) Any railway servant may refuse to receive such goods for carriage, and, when such goods have been so received without such notice as is mentioned in [1][sub-section (2)] having to his knowledge been given, may refuse to carry them or may stop their transit.

(4) If any railway servant has reason to believe any such goods to be contained in a package with respect to the contents whereof such notice as is mentioned in sub-section (2) has not to his knowledge been given, he may cause the package to be opened for the purpose of ascertaining its contents.

63. Every railway administration shall fix, subject to the approval of the [3][general controlling authority] the maximum number of passengers which may be carried in each compartment of every description of carriage, and shall exhibit the number so fixed in a conspicuous manner

(2) A person to whom a ticket has been issued and for whom there is not room available in the train for which the ticket was issued shall on returning the ticket within three hours after the departure of the train be entitled to have his fare at once refunded.

(3) A person for whom there is not room available in the class of carriage for which he has purchased a ticket and who is obliged to travel in a carriage of a lower class shall be entitled on delivering up his ticket to a refund of the difference between the fare paid by him and the fare payable for the class of carriage in which he travelled.

[2][CHAPTER VI-A.]

LIMITATION OF EMPLOYMENT OF RAILWAY SERVANTS.

Definitions.

71-A. In this Chapter, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) the employment of a railway servant is said to be 'essentially intermittent' when it has been declared to be so by the authority empowered in this behalf on the ground that it involves long periods of inaction, during which the railway servant is on duty but is not called upon to display either physical activity or sustained attention; and

(b) except in section 71-B, a 'railway servant' means a railway servant to whom this Chapter applies.

Application of Chapter VI-A.

71-B. This Chapter applies only to such railway servants or classes of railway servants as the Central Government may, by rules made under section 71-E, prescribe.

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted and added by Act VI of 1941.

[2] Chapter VI-A was inserted by Act XIV of 1930.

NOTES.

Secs. 68 and 69.—It is not a criminal offence to travel in a train without a pass or ticket, when there is no intent to defraud the Company but a person so travelling is liable under S. 113 to pay on demand an excess charge in the nature of a penalty. 25 C.L.J. 610=44 C. 279. See also 9 C.P.L.R. 1; 35 I.C. 665; 13 M. 34; 12 C. 142.

Limitation of hours of work.

71-C. (1) A railway servant, other than a railway servant whose employment is essentially intermittent, shall not be employed for more than sixty hours a week on the average in any month.

(2) A railway servant, whose employment is essentially intermittent, shall not be employed for more than eighty-four hours in any week.

(3) Subject to rules made under section 71-E, temporary exemptions of railway servants from the provisions of sub-section (1) and sub-section (2) may be made—

(a) when such temporary exemptions are necessary to avoid serious interference with the ordinary working of the railway, in cases of accident, actual or threatened, or when urgent work is required to be done to the railway or to the rolling-stock, or in any emergency which could not have been foreseen or prevented; and

(b) in cases of exceptional pressure of work not falling within the scope of clause (a):

Provided that a railway servant exempted under clause (b) shall be paid for overtime at not less than one and a quarter times his ordinary rate of pay.

Grant of periodical rest.

71-D. (1) A railway servant shall be granted, each week commencing on Sunday, a rest of not less than twenty-four consecutive hours:

Provided that this sub-section shall not apply to a railway servant whose employment is essentially intermittent, or to a railway servant to whom subsecion (2) applies.

(2) The Central Government may, by rules made under section 71-E, specify the railway servants or classes of railway servants to whom periods of rest may be granted on a scale less than that laid down in sub-section (1), and may prescribe the periods of rest to be granted to such railway servants.

(3) Subject to rules made under section 71-E, temporary exemptions from the grant of periods of rest may be made in the cases or circumstances specified in sub-section (3) of section 71-C:

Provided that a railway servant shall, as far as may be possible, be granted compensatory periods of rest for the periods he has foregone.

Power to make rules.

71-E. (1) The Central Government may make rules—

(a) prescribing the railway servants or classes of railway servants to whom this Chapter shall apply;

(b) prescribing the authorities who may declare that the employment of any railway servant or class of railway servants is essentially intermittent;

(c) specifying the railway servants or classes of railway servants to whom sub-section (2) of section 71-D shall apply;

(d) prescribing the authorities by whom exemptions under sub-section (3) of section 71-C or sub-section (3) of section 71-D may be made;

(e) providing for the delegation of their powers by the authorities prescribed under clause (d); and

(f) providing for any other matter which is to be provided for by rules or which the Central Government may deem to be requisite for carrying out the purposes of this Chapter.

(2) Such rules shall be subject to the provisions of section 143.

Railway servant to remain on duty.

71-F. Nothing in this Chapter or the rules made thereunder shall authorise a railway servant to leave his duty where due provision has been made for his relief, until he has been relieved.

Supervisors of Railway Labour.

71-G. (1) The Central Government may appoint persons to be Supervisors of Railway Labour.

(2) The duties of Supervisors of Railway Labour shall be—

(a) to inspect railways in order to determine if the provisions of this chapter and of the rules made thereunder are duly observed, and

(b) such other duties as the Central Government may prescribe.

(3) A Supervisor of Railway Labour shall be deemed to be an Inspector for the purposes of sections 5 and 6.

Penalty.

71-H. Any person under whose authority any railway servant is employed in contravention of any of the provisions of this Chapter or of the rules made thereunder shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

CHAPTER VII.

RESPONSIBILITY OF RAILWAY ADMINISTRATIONS AS CARRIERS.

Measure of the general responsibility of a railway administration as a carrier of animals and goods.

72. (1) The responsibility of a railway administration for the loss, destruction or deterioration of animals or goods delivered to the administration to be carried by railway shall, subject to the other provisions of this Act, be that of a bailee, under sections 152 and 161 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

NOTES.

Sec. 72: SCOPE AND OBJECT OF.—See 51 C. 615=28 C.W.N. 1001. The sub-section deals with the responsibility of the Rail. Co. for loss, detention or deterioration only. It does not exclude other sections of the Contract Act, in regard to bailment. 27 A.L.J. 1169=1929 A. 960. Risk note protects the company only if loss occurs between stations covered by the risk-note. 1928 L. 349. Although the liability of the Rail. Co. could by special contract be limited, it cannot be enhanced by agreement between the parties in respect of particular cases. 32 C.W.N. 805=48 C.L.J. 370.

CONSTRUCTION.—The word 'shawls' means costly woollen fabric and does not cover articles of cheap manufacture at home or abroad. 47 B. 18=24 Bom.L.R. 416; 39 C. 1020. The word "package" means both that which is packed and also its covering or receptance. 4 Pat.L.T. 392. See also 10 L. 537=114 I.C. 56.

LIABILITY OF COMPANY.—The liability of a Rail. Co. under S. 72 is that of a bailee under Ss. 151, 152 and 161 of the Contract Act. 3 Pat.L.T. 222=1922 P. 17; 1924 N. 358=78 I.C. 34. See also 1924 A. 605=80 I.C. 737; 85 I.C. 786=1925 C. 737; 20 A. L.J. 114=1922 A. 63; 93 I.C. 1021=43 C. L.J. 211; 82 I.C. 772; 43 A. 623=64 I.C. 868. See also 38 Bom.L.R. 514=1936 Bom. 274. Till the delivery of the consignment to the consignee the liability of the company continues to exist. 1924 A. 605=80 I.C. 737; 22 A.L.J. 1=1924 A. 254. In a suit for damages against a Rail. Co. for non-delivery of goods, it is not open to the Rail. Co. to plead that the risk-note was not executed or that the execution was without authority. 116 I.C. 616=1929 L. 698.

GENERAL LIABILITY.—When delivery of goods was made to company's servant without railway receipt, whether the company would be liable for the loss by railway, see 44 A. 218=1922 A. 9. See also 38 Bom. L.R. 574=1938 Bom. 274.

DELAY DAMAGES.—Tne consignee is entitled to damages for unreasonable delay in delivery of goods consigned under risk-note B. 45 A. 530; 1924 N. 425; 1924 A. 7; 80 I.C. 1; 45 A. 534=21 A.L.J. 448. See also 143 I.C. 219=1933 O. 339. It is the duty of the consignor to furnish the address of the consignee and write the same plainly and legibly. If the consignor does not perform his duty and the goods are thereby lost or delayed, the company cannot be held responsible for the same. 61 C. 293=38 C.W.N. 352=1934 C. 508; 1923 A. 426; 21 N.L.R. 78=1925 N. 350. Where under the risk-note Form A one of the conditions of the contract between the parties was that the Railway Administration would not be held responsible for the condition of the goods until the same were delivered at destination or for any loss arising from the same, and it appeared that the outer covering of the packages was not made secure against damp and rain with the result that some of the goods were damaged in transit. Held, that there being no wilful negligence on the part of the Rail. Co. the consignee was not entitled to recover damages from the company for the loss or damage. 131 I.C. 31=1931 C. 489. Where a person sues to recover damages for loss of goods, he must show that they are not excepted articles under S. 75. 58 C. 989=35 C.W.N. 452.

DEVIATION FROM ROUTE.—Owner's risk-note on Form B does not exempt Railway when the goods were taken off the route indicated by the terms of the note. 22 A. L.J. 1020=47 A. 234. See 46 B. 830=24 Bom.L.R. 316. See also 10 L. 537=114 I.C. 56; 1937 Cal. 410; 1938 A.L.J. 855= 1938 All. 561. The Company is bound to prove that the shortage, if any, did not occur during the deviation. 26 Bom.L.R. 285= 1924 B. 386. Where there is deviation from the specified route and the loss of consignments takes place after wagon left the station from which there was deviation, the Rail. Co., cannot rely upon the risk-note to exempt itself from liability for loss. The onus of proving that loss occurred before deviation in the specified route is on the Rail. Co. 10 Pat.L.T. 835=1929 P. 618. When the contract is to relieve the company from liability for loss, damage, misconveyance, misdelivery, delay or detention of or to such goods during transit, the exemption is only from liability during the transit and when once the goods are diverted from that route, the protection ends. Change from ordinary route, therefore, puts an end to the protection given by the risk-note. 1930 A. L.J. 297=121 I.C. 828=1930 A. 132. See also 1932 A.L.J. 788=1932 A. 584. Form H embodies the contract with regard to the journey as if made between the consignor and the Rail. Co., and unless it is shown that the journey was made on a railway, it cannot apply. It cannot apply to transport by canal on the ground of there being a general contract between the Canal Co. and the Rail. Co. 1930 M.W.N. 816 =130 I.C. 658=1931 M. 115.

Loss, MEANING OF.—The 'loss' referred to in the section is the loss suffered by the consignor or the true owner where such loss occurred by reason of misdelivery or non-delivery. 1924 P. 812. See also 51 C. 615 =28 C.W.N. 1001; 10 L. 261; 87 I.C. 1031 =1925 N. 333; 45 A. 380=21 A.L.J. 220; 5 L. 523. "Loss of whole consignment"—Meaning of. 1927 L. 854. Loss of part of package, if covered by risk-note Form H. 49 A. 889.

THE WORD "LOSS" IN RISK-NOTE EXPLAINED.—The word "loss" as used in a risk-note means loss of the goods by the Rail. Co. while in transit and occurs whenever the Rail. Co. involuntarily or through inadvertence loses possession of the goods and for the time being is unable to trace them. 1929 C. 510. Where a risk-note makes a Rail. Co., liable for loss of complete packages, if the whole contents of a package are lost and only outer covers of the packages or gunnies are delivered, there is no delivery of packages and the company is liable for the loss. 10 P.L.T. 835=1929 P. 618. For the meaning of the word "loss" in risk-note Form H, see 57 C. 73=33 C.W.N. 989. The word "loss" does not mean pecuniary loss to the consignee. (Ibid.) The company under the protection granted to it under risk-note A would not be responsible except upon proof that the loss was due to misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration or servants. 1931 A. 135.

ADMISSION OF LOSS.—Admission of loss by plaintiff relieves company from proving same. 80 I.C. 426=1925 C. 229 (1); 27 O. C. 331=85 I.C. 338. Where the loss is admitted by the company, the onus of how the consignment was dealt with and its condition throughout the transit, lies upon the Rail. Co., and their failure or inability to enlighten the Court on the point cannot prejudice the plaintiff's claim for damages. 1933 P. 630. If the sender agrees that the condition of the package is not satisfactory, he cannot afterwards turn round and say that the packages were in good condition. 131 I.C. 31=1931 C. 439.

"DETERIORATION"—MEANING.—The word "deterioration" in the risk-note is wide enough to include depreciation in value on account of a fall in the price of the goods. The meaning of the word "deterioration" in S. 161 which imposes liability on Rail. Co. is the same as in the risk-note Form B, which lays down special conditions under which the Rail. Co. is protected. 1930 A. L.J. 297=1930 A. 132. See also 16 L. 280; 5 L. 523=1925 L. 255. The plaintiff firm despatched certain consignments of apples to Bombay from their place of business at Rawalpindi and booked them under risk-note H. They sued the Rail. Co. for damages on the ground that the Railway Administration at Rawalpindi did not despatch the consignments by the Frontier Mail as was always done, and that, in despatching them by the passenger trains, they caused an unreasonable delay in the delivery of goods at Bombay and that, as the price of apples had fallen down, the consignments did not fetch the price they would have otherwise done. Held, per Din Mohommad, J., that the word "deterioration" as used in the risk-note included depreciation in value on account of detention or delay in delivery, but that the Railway Administration was under no obligation to the plaintiff firm to carry its goods by the Frontier Mail in view of R. 19 of the coaching tariff, and, as no misconduct had been established against the Railway Administration's servants, the company was protected by the risk-note H. Held, per Bhide, J., that the word "deterioration" could not he held to cover depreciation of value due to fall in the market price and therefore the company could not claim any exemption from liability on the basis of the risk-note, but that in the absence of any specific contract to convey the goods by a particular train or within a particular period, all that the plaintiff could insist on under the general law was that the goods should have been delivered within reasonable time and that as it was not alleged that there was any risk of deterioration within 4 or 5 days within which time the goods had arrived in Bombay, or that the fruit was in fact damaged in any way, there was no reason for holding that there was any unreasonable delay and that therefore the plaintiff had failed to make out any case for damages. 16 L. 280=1935 L. 492. The Rail. Co. is not protected by either the rik-note A or B and is liable for damages when there is overcarriage of goods. Where a consignment of mangoes was sent to Ahmedabad but it was overcarried to Virugaum with the result that there was a delay of three days which caused deterioration of the goods, held, that the Rail. Co. was liable in damages and that it was not protected by the risk-note in Form A or B. 31 Bom.

NOTES.

L.R. 1087=1929 B. 421. The consignee of goods claiming damages for deterioration is not entitled to refuse to take delivery but should take delivery and sue for the loss, and where owing to his failure to take delivery, no evidence exists regarding the amount and extent of damage he cannot recover any compensation. It is only by showing special circumstances that he can be given an award of interest on damages. 148 I.C. 489. When goods consigned by Railways are only deteriorated and not absolutely lost, the consignee is bound to take delivery of the goods and then claim damages for the deterioration; when the consignee not only refuses to take delivery but also prevents the Rail. Co. from selling the goods, he is not entitled to claim damages on the basis of actual loss. 59 C.L.J. 467=1934 C. 834. Where certain potatoes consigned by a Railway arrived at the destination after a delay of eleven days and on account of their perisnable nature, were sold by auction by the Railway authorities. Held, that it was a case of deterioration or damage and not a case of non-delivery and so the condition of the risk-note imposing an obligation on the Rail. Co. to give evidence as to their dealing with the goods did not arise, that, though the goods were perishable, they were not perishable in the sense that under no circumstance can they stand a railway journey, they would not have perished if they were in good condition when they were first consigned and therefore there was no misconduct of the Rail. Co. 130 I.C. 837=1931 P. 201.

Burden of proving misconduct on the part of the company's servants lies on the consignor. 51 A. 480=27 A.L.J. 185=1929 A. 124; 58 C.L.J. 918=37 C.W.N. 1109; 144 I.C. 204=1933 N. 1; 1933 A.L.J. 995=1933 A. 460. See also 168 I.C. 76=1937 S. 85; 17 Pat. L. T. 521; 1936 Mad. 508=70 M. L. J. 608. In a suit by a consignor against a railway company for recovery of damages on account of the damage caused to his consignment during the transit, where a risk-note in form H is executed in respect of the goods consigned, the plaintiff should prove not only that the waggon in which the goods were loaded was found defective at the arrival station but also that it was on account of the misconduct of the servants of the railway company that it was or became defective. (1930 Cal. 815, Rel. on.) 189 I.C. 56=13 R.C. 55=1939 Cal. 377. In the case of risk-note H, the Railway has first to disclose how it has dealt with the consignment, if necessary, by giving evidence. If upon a fair construction of that evidence an inference of misconduct of Railway servants arises, then liability for the loss falls upon the Railway. Otherwise, the burden of proving the misconduct is thrown upon the consignor. 1934 Pesh. 119; 26 S.L.R. 327; 1933 N. 1. As to distinction between risk-note B in force before and after 1924, see 1937 P.W.N. 71=1937 P. 289. Where exemption from responsibility is claimed by a Rail. Co. on the basis of a risk-note, the intention to exempt should be expressed in clear and unambiguous language. 129 I.C. 769=35 C.W.N. 133=1920 C. 85. If it be found that the risk-note is out of the way, then the case will have to be tried on the footing of the liability of the Rail. Co. under the provisions of S. 72, and then it would be necessary to consider whether in point of fact the company have succeeded in showing that they took as much care of the consignment as a man of ordinary prudence would do in the circumstances of the case. 1929 C. 510. As to proof of loss, see 89 I.C. 497=1925 A. 675; 45 A. 223=1923 A. 126; 1924 A. 7=45 A. 530; 45 B. 1201; 23 A.L.J. 51=86 I.C. 162. Also 1932 A.L.J. 788=1932 A. 584. Co. undertaking to disclose to consignor how consignment was dealt with while in its control—Theft of goods from moving train—Company withholding evidence of guard. Held, the failure of the Rail. Co. to submit the evidence of the guard was in breach of its contractual obligation to give the evidence necessary for disclosure of how the consignment was dealt with. Hence, the Court was entitled to presume, in terms of S. 114 (g), Evidence Act, that the guard's evidence, if, produced, would have been unfavourable to the Rail. Co., and that, in consequence, misconduct by complicity in the theft, of some servants of the company, might fairly be inferred from the company's evidence. 168 I.C. 1=1937 P.C. 152 (P. C.). All that the proviso (a) to the Risk-note form B means is that in certain cases the onus of proof which is laid on the plaintiff of proving misconduct, on the part of the Railway Company's servants need not be discharged in the first instance. There is no justification for the view, that in the case of a consignment destroyed by fire, the proviso exempts the Rail. Com. from all liability even though it is proved that the fire was due to or the result of some misconduct on the part of its servants. 1938 A.L.J. 1169=1939 All. 55. See also 46 L.W. 790 =1938 Mad. 206=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 798.

EVIDENCE.—Evidence of railway servants is not to be disbelieved merely because they would not admit failure of duty. 106 I.C. 801=1928 L. 56.

ESTOPPEL.—A person who claims damages from the Rail. Co. for damages to his goods cannot retain to himself the advantage of the reduced rate and repudiate the consideration for it by saying that the risk-note executed by the person who delivered the goods to the railway was unauthorised. 129 I.C. 769=35 C.W.N. 133=1930 C. 815. Company cannot dispute the consignor's title to the goods consigned. 47 A. 549=23 A. L.J. 398=1925 A. 656. Where a person sues a Rail. Co. to recover damages for non-delivery of goods basing his claim upon a railway receipt which specifically mentions the existence of a risk-note, he is not entitled to allege that the risk-note was not executed or was executed without authority. 15 L. 596=150 I.C. 709=1934 L. 186. The Rail. Co. does not owe a consignor any duty, which the contract under S. 72 (2) is expressed on the face of it to exclude, and if he has approbated that contract by sending his goods under it, he cannot afterwards reprobate by claiming a right inconsistent with it. 15 L. 596=150 I.C. 709=1934 L. 186. Consignor asking goods to be rebooked but refusing to execute risk-note—Liability of company. 1935 A. 844.

PLEADINGS.—Under the new form of risk-note B, possibly it is initially the plaintiff's duty to call upon the railway administration to disclose its dealings with the consignment, and the railway should in its pleadings disclose how the consignment was dealt with. The plaintiff should call upon the railway to prove either its pleadings or its previous disclosure or the Court should decide if it is necessary for the railway to give evidence. 106 I.C. 801=1928 L. 56.

Railway not liable even if fire is caused by negligence of its servants. 7 L. 319=1926 L. 341. Where the bags of biri leaves stocked in an open space were destroyed by fire during night apparently by some passer-by throwing a cigar on them, held, that the company was not negligent and were not liable in damages. 35 C.W.N. 1242. Where a man is well aware that a danger may result from the use of railway engines in a statutory manner and where that man grows a crop of an inflammable nature close to the railway line, it is a matter of ordinary precaution for him to place a fire line between his crop and the railway fencing, or to cut the grass adjacent to the railway line. If he does not adopt this simple precaution, he is guilty of contributory negligence and cannot recover damages from the railway company for loss occasioned to his property by sparks of fire escaping from the engine, even assuming that there is negligence on its part in not cutting the grass on the banks of its railway lines. 58 All. 771=1936 A.L.J. 262=1936 All. 771. Per Sulaiman, C.J.—There is obviously no statutory duty on a railway company to cut all grass from the railway track and to see that at no place any grass grows or that any dry grass is allowed to remain there. At the same time this may be a reasonable precaution which a railway company should take. Where damage is caused to dry grass growing on or near the railway track by sparks omitted from an engine, it is for the Court to decide whether the dry grass has been allowed to remain on the railway track so close to the rails and so high in stature as to amount to negligence on the part of the railway company. 58 All. 771=1936 A.L.J. 262=1936 All. 771. See also 1938 A.M.L.J. 25. LOSS BY THEFT.—Unless there is direct evidence adduced in a particular case the Court is not in a position to decide that thefts are of frequent occurrence in a particular railway nor is it entitled to take judicial notice of the thefts merely from reported cases. 124 I.C. 833=1930 P. 283. Even where the Rail. Co. succeeds in proving that there was "loss", the provisions of the risk-note will not absolve the Rail. Co. from liability if it is once proved that the loss was due to theft by the servants of the company. 1929 C. 510.

WILFUL NEGLECT, WHAT IS.—Per Ashworth, J.—"The expression 'wilful neglect' means the failure to take such precautions as a prudent man would in respect of his own goods take to provide against such loss or theft as he would contemplate as not merely possible but as likely". 50 A. 246= 1928 A. 103. See 55 I.A. 67=52 B. 169= 54 M.L.J. 167 (P.C.); 1928 L. 299; 48 C.L.J. 32=1926 C. 498; 10 L. 261=1929 L. 551. See also 137 I.C. 884=62 M.L.J. 573. The question of wilful neglect is one to be determined in the light of the circumstances of each case. It cannot be laid down as a hard and fast rule that the mere fact that the wagon was sealed and not locked constitutes wilful neglect within the meaning of risk-note B. Per Shadi Lal, C.J.—It cannot be affirmed that the locking of a wagon is always an adequate safeguard against theft; especially when it is remembered that the Railway Administration owns thousands of wagons and it is impracticable to have a different lock for each wagon. If a standard lock is used it would not be difficult for thieves to make keys fitting it. 132 I.C. 664=1931 L. 627 (2). See also 15 L. 596=150 I. C. 709= 1934 L. 186. Where goods consigned at the owner's risk under risk-note Form H are shown to have been properly directed but not delivered to the consignee, the onus of proof lies on the person suing the Rail. Co. for compensation for the loss to show wilful neglect on the part of the Railway Administration or its servants. 137 I.C. 884=1932 M. 545=62 M.L.J. 573. Where the risk-note is not forthcoming, the question of the plaintiff's liability to establish the defendant's wilful neglect does not arise and the plaintiff's case must succeed under the ordinary law. 134 I.C. 300. A person brought a suit against a Rail. Co. for damages. Some of the packages of sugar consigned to him under two risk-notes in Form B were lost. The wagon in which the bags were loaded had no lock on it at all but a tin shackle had been put on it which could be broken by any instrument. There had been many thefts on the line and it was found that theft did not take place on the running train. Held, that there was sufficient legal evidence to support finding of wilful neglect and it being a finding of fact was binding in second appeal and that the person was entitled to damages as complete packages were lost. 1929. MISCONDUCT.—Misconduct involves moral obliquity. The word "misconduct" is used in a sense which carries an imputation of some degree of moral obliquity. 120 I.C. 286=1930 L. 120. "Misconduct" implies something more than negligence; and a finding that there was no negligence on the part of the Railway necessarily excludes misconduct. 39 C.W.N. 114=1935 C. 271 (2). Misconduct is something opposed to accident or negligence; it is the intentional doing of something which the doer knows to be wrong and which he does recklessly not caring what the result may be. Where the fault was not in the doing of anything but in the failure to do it; where it was a fault of omission, not of commission it is negligence but not positive misconduct. 188 I. C. 536=1940 N.L.J. 171=1940 Nag. 238. "Improper conduct" would be perhaps the simplest and the most non-committal definition of tne word 'misconduct' in risk-note Form H. In such cases the Court has to consider all the facts and circumstances and then arrive at a conclusion as to whether the conduct of the Railway employees was such as to render the railway administration liable in damages upon a reasonable view of the matter. Where packets of yarn delivered to the company for transit are found soiled at the place of destination, if it is established that the railway employees in defiance of the ordinary practice, placed tins of molasses in a wagon which contained the plaintiff's packets or alternatively placed the plaintiff's packets in a wagon which contained tins of molasses, it must be held that they acted recklessly knowing that contamination and damage would be a likely and probable result, and that by their conduct they showed themselves indifferent to such results. It is for the plaintiff to prove all the above which would go to constitute misconduct, and where he fails to elicit from witnesses for the defence, what was the act or what were the acts of the railway employees which resulted in the damage, he cannot get any relief at the hands of the Court. I.L.R. (1941) All. 160=1941 O.W.N. 234=1941 A.L.J. 29=1941 All. 164. The word "misconduct" occurring in risk-note B is of wider import than the popular sense in which that word is used. Want of proper care and caution may amount to misconduct within the meaning of risk-note B. A mistake in the preparation of the railway receipt which throws doubt on the identity of the consignment to which it relates is misconduct in the above sense. 55 A. 625=1933 A.L.J. 966=1933 A. 477. See also 60 C. 996=57 C.L.J. 281 =1933 C. 742; 1934 Pesh. 119. "Misconduct" in risk-note Form 'B' under S. 72 means nothing short of wilful neglect. In the absence of proof of disregard of the Rules by the railway servants and there is no negligence, the Railway Administration cannot be held to be guilty of misconduct. 17 Pat.L.T. 521. See also 1936 Pat. 257. It means nothing short of wilful neglect. In the absence of proof of disregard of the Rules by the Railway servants, and there is no negligence, the Railway Administration cannot be held to be guilty of misconduct. 17 Pat.L.T. 521. See also 162 I.C. 793= 1936 P. 257. It includes a fortiori anything more culpable and is not such misconduct of railway servants as may amount to a failure of duty towards their employers but such misconduct on the part of railway servant or the Railway Administration itself as amounts to a failure of duty towards the consignor. 128 I.C. 798=1930 P. 559 (2). Risk-note H speaks of 'misconduct' and not "wilful misconduct." The word "misconduct" means the doing of a wrong thing. Culpable negligence or gross negligence as distinguished from ordinary negligence may amount to misconduct. Where it was alleged by the plaintiff that the roof of the wagon in which the consignment was carried was leaky and the damage was caused by rain water entering through the leaks, but it was proved that the railway servants did not find anything wrong with the wagon when the consignment was loaded, held, that negligence had not been established, that there was no misconduct and that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover damages. Meaning of "negligence" and "gross negligence" discussed. 33 C.W.N. 1048; 134 I.C. 1268=54 C.L.J. 314. See also 1935 A.M.L.J. 38. The word "misconduct" in risk-note Form "A" cannot obviously mean the same as "wilful conduct" as interpreted in English cases. It must be construed in relation to the consignor and the responsibility of the Railway Company judged accordingly. The term used in the present risk-note, which is wider and more comprehensive than the old form, in enlarging the liability of the railway, must be distinguished from the accident and is not far from negligence, not only gross and culpable negligence, and involves that a person misconducts himself when it is wrong conduct on his part in the existing circumstances to do or fail or omit, to do (as the case may be) a particular thing or to persist in the act, failure or omission, or acts, with carelessness. The immunity which the risk-note brings to the Railway Company is by shifting the burden of proof. 59 Mad. 789=43 L. W. 638=1936 Mad. 508=70 M. L.J. 608. Where it is found that the identity of the consignment sent under risk-notes A and H had not been proved and the consignee had refused to accept the consignment, it is a case of non-delivery and when it is further found that evidence justified the finding of misconduct on the part of the company's servants, the claim of the consignee for damages has to be decreed. 185 I.C. 435=1939 A.L.J. 905=1939 All. 748. Misconduct need not be wilful. It may be interpreted as being equal to wilful neglect or failure of duty towards the consignor. The plaintiff consigned a bale of dates weighing 9½ maunds for being sent to a certain destination. The bale never reached its destination and was found missing when the train arrived. It was proved in an action on risk-note Form H that the wagon in which the goods had been placed was secured on one side by an "Ellis Patent Lock" and on the other by an ordinary lock. The station was on the latter side and it was shown that one of the rings to which the lock was attached was broken and that the bale was missing. Held, that the bale was removed owing either to deliberate misconduct of the railway servants in the shape of standing by or helping in the theft or at any rate in so neglecting the wagon to make the theft possible and that the Rail. Co. was liable in damages for the misconduct of the administration. 54 A. 368=1932 A. 321. See also 1933 A. 854. The expression "wilful neglect" means that the act was done deliberately and intentionally and not by accident or inadvertence so that the mind of the person who does the act goes with it. The mere fact that the wagons are locked one side only and on the other side seals were used does not justify an inference that there was wilful neglect. Where the guard found the seals on the wagons broken at one station and had them re-sealed at the next station, held, that the omission to re-seal them earlier will not amount to wilful neglect if in fact goods had been lost before the discovery of the seals having been broken. 11 P. The new risk-note Form B imposes a larger measure of responsibility on the Railway Administration than the old risk-note form. The word "misconduct" includes wrongful commission or omission intentional or unintentional. Held, that the deliberate omission of the company to padlock the wagons and the gross delay in transit constituted miscoduct and that the company was liable for the loss of entire packages during such transit. 35 C.W.N. 1250=1931 C. 734 (2). See also 143 I.C. 113=1933 A. 477; 1933 A.L.J. 901=1933 A. 854. If rain water enters a wagon, which is in good condition, by the great force of winds, the omission of the Rail. Where goods booked under risk-note Form 'H' are lost by theft during transit, the loss cannot be said to be due to the misconduct of the Railway Administration, simply because the doors of the wagon were rivetted and sealed and were not locked. PERISHABLES IN DAMAGED CONDITION UNFIT FOR FURTHER JOURNEY—DISPOSAL BY RAILWAY AFTER CONSULTATION WITH CONSIGNOR—FAILURE TO CONSULT CONSIGNEE, NOT MISCONDUCT.—It cannot be laid as a proposition of law that the consignor loses his title in the goods as soon as he makes them over to the Rail. Co. for delivery to the consignee at another station. It depends on the circumstances of each case. Where, therefore, a consignment of perishables, damaged by fire, was in such a condition that they could not stand further journey and the Rail. Co. after consultation with the consignor sold them at once. Held, that the Railway was not guilty of any misconduct either for not having consulted the consignee or for having disposed of the consignment, when further delay would have meant the total destruction of the consignment. 61 C. 293=38 C.W.N. 352=1934 C. 508.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—A plaintiff claiming compensation on account of damage caused to his bags of biris by rain water leaking through holes of the wagon must establish by positive evidence that it was owing to the defective state of the wagon in which the goods were loaded that the injury was caused. By merely proving that, when the wagon reached its destination, it was found in a defective state, he does not discharge the onus which lies heavily upon him to prove misconduct by the servants of the Rail. Co. 35 C.W.N. 133=1930 C. 815. The plaintiff company delivered to the defendant company at Ahmedabad certain bales of goods for carriage to Cawnpore. The consignment was made in risk-note Form B. The wagon had to be re-sealed at two intermediate stations when it was discovered that the seal and rivets had disappeared. At another station nearer the place of destination, it was discovered that two bales were missing and the plaintiff company were given delivery of sixteen bales only. In a suit to recover the value of the missing bales, held, that the consignor had not proved misconduct on the part of the servants of the Rail. Co. and the company was consequently not liable. 54 B. 105=31 Bom.L.R. 1426=1930 B. 129; 49 C.L.J. 551=1929 C. 654. But see 35 C.W.N. 1250=1931 C. 734 (2). See also 1933 A.L.J. 1316.

DELIVERY OF GOODS TO OTHER THAN CONSIGNEE.—Under S. 72 there is no obligation thrown upon a Rail. Co. to deliver the goods to any particular person. A condition printed on the back of a railway receipt granted to the consignor of goods to the effect that the receipt must be given up at destination by the consignee before delivery is made, etc., cannot be said to impose any liability on the company to deliver the goods to the consignee or his endorsee only. The company has a wide discretion and can make delivery even to a person other than the endorsee of the consignee, provided it is satisfied that that person is entitled to receive them. 38 Bom.L.R. 514=1936 B. 274.

OPEN DELIVERY.—Refusal to give—Suit for damages does not lie. 1922 L. 448. "Refusal to deliver"—What amounts to. 1928 L. 804. Endorsee can sue for short delivery. 46 A. 691=22 A.L.J. 663. In cases of short delivery burden of proving loss is on the company. 79 I.C. 602=1924 N. 288.

LIABILITY OF COMPANY TO RE-WEIGH.—R. 73 shows that at the request of a consignee, a Station Master is bound to re-weigh a consignment, if from any cause whatever the consignee suspects that there may be underweight. The proposition holds true in case when there is no risk-note, and cannot be applied generally to cases of risk-notes. 27 A.L.J. 1169=1929 A. 960. See also 1933 A.L.J. 1316. Liability of company for damages for not giving open delivery when it was rightly demanded. See 55 A. 625=1933 A.L.J. 966=1933 A. 477. A refusal to allow re-weighment is not a refusal to give delivery. If, under the contract of carriage, the Rail. Co. were entitled to have the goods re-weighed and the finding is that they did re-weigh and demand (as they were entitled to do under S. 55) the freight due on the weight so calculated by them (which was in excess of that noted at the place of booking), the mere fact that the Rail. Co. refused to comply with the request of the plaintiffs to have the goods re-weighed in their presence does not amount to a refusal to deliver and does not render the Rail. Co. liable in damages for non-delivery. 139 I.C. 802= 1932 C. 877. Where a load of plantains was consigned from Muttra, under risk-note Form H, to be delivered to Lahore and no weigh bridge being available there, instructions to re-weigh the consignment were telegraphed to Delhi, Bhatinda and Lahore, and the consignment having been accordingly re-weighed at Delhi, the wagon was detained for about 30 hours at Bhatinda without either weighing or making enquiries in that direction, held, that this behaviour amounted to misconduct. 120 I.C. 286=1930 L. 120.

SHORT DELIVERY.—Where out of a consignment of 200 bundles, nine were missing, and the Rail. Co. offered to deliver the remaining 191 bundles and intimated that a claim may be sent in regarding the missing bales, the plaintiffs are not entitled to refuse that offer and claim damages in respect of the whole consignment. Their claim for damages is limited to the nine missing bundles. 1933 A.L.J. 1360=1933 A. 595.

REFUND.—Goods booked at owner's risk-note at station of despatch—Freight re-calculated at first class rate at station of destination—Excess charged by Rail. Co. liable to be refunded. 107 I.C. 206=1928 N. 52.

Sec. 72 (2): "THAT RESPONSIBILITY"—MEANING OF.—The words 'that responsibility' in S. 72 (2) can mean grammatically

(a) is in writing signed by or on behalf of the person sending or delivering to the railway administration the animals or goods, and

(b) is otherwise in a form[1] approved by the [2][Federal Railway Authority].

(3) Nothing in the common law of England or in the Carriers Act, 1865, regarding the responsibility of common carriers with respect to the carriage of animals or goods, shall affect the responsibility as in this section defined of a railway administration.

Further provision with respect to the liability of a railway administration as a carrier of animals.

73. (1) The responsibility of a railway administration under the last foregoing section for the loss, destruction or deterioration of animals delivered to the administration to be carried on a railway shall not in any case exceed, in the case of elephants or horses, five hundred rupees a head or, in the case of [3][mules], camels or horned cattle, fifty rupees a head or, in the case of [3][donkeys], sheep, goats, dogs or other animals, ten rupees a head, unless the person sending or delivering them to the administration caused them to be declared or declared them, at the time of their delivery for carriage by railway, to be respectively of higher value than five hundred, fifty or ten rupees a head, as the case may be.

(2) Where such higher value has been declared, the railway administration may charge, in respect of the increased risk, a percentage upon the excess of the value so declared over the respective sums aforesaid.

(3) In every proceeding against a railway administration for the recovery of compensation for the loss, destruction or deterioration of any animal, the burden of proving the value of the animal, and, where the animal has been injured, the extent of the injury, shall lie upon the person claiming the compensation.

NOTES.

"the responsibility of a railway administration for the loss, destruction or deterioration of animals or goods delivered to the administration to be carried by railway" as set forth in S. 72 (1). The word "that" was used in order not to repeat the same words over again which had already been used in S. 72 (1) and not in S. 75 (1). 15 L. 596=1934 L. 186.

GOODS FALLING UNDER S. 75—RISK-NOTE FORM X, IF ULTRA VIRES.—When articles declared to fall under S. 75 exceeding Rs. 100 in value are sent without the extra percentage, the railway can protect itself by an agreement under S. 72 (2) provided the conditions falling within that sub-section are satisfied and risk-note Form X is not ultra vires. 15 L. 596=1934 L. 186. See 49 A. 916.

Secs. 72 and 76: STANDARD OF CARE.—The standard of care required of a bailee cannot be formulated as an inflexible practical rule applicable to all cases. The general principle is that the bailee should take such care as a man of ordinary prudence would take of his own goods. The bailee is liable for the servant's acts done during the course of employment. The conduct of the Railway Administration with reference to such consignments in general and the suit consignment in particular should be considered. The Court has to see whether the company took the necessary steps to obviate the risk of loss and whether they took adequate measures for protecting the goods when such risk had already happened. Held, on the facts that the loss of jute consignment by fire in a railway shed was due to the negligence of the servants of the company and the latter was liable for the loss. 58 C.L.J. 98=37 C.W.N. 1109.

Sec. 73 (1).—Cf. the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict., c. 31), S. 7.

RISK-NOTE H.—Custody and care of goods of high order—Goods disappearing in spite of that—Inference of misconduct is stronger. 20 A.L.J. 446=1928 A. 230=113 I.C. 743.

Further provision with respect to the liability of a railway administration as a carrier of luggage.

74. A railway administration shall not be responsible for the loss, destruction or deterioration of any luggage belonging to or in charge of a passenger unless a railway servant has booked and given a receipt therefor.

Further provision with respect to the liability of a railway administration as a carrier of articles of special value.

75. (1) When any articles mentioned in the second schedule are contained in any parcel or package delivered to a railway administration for carriage by railway, and the value of such articles in the parcel or package exceeds one hundred rupees, the railway administration shall not be responsible for the loss, destruction or deterioration of the parcel or package unless the person sending or delivering the parcel or package to the administration caused its value and contents to be declared or declared them at the time of the delivery of the parcel or package for carriage by railway, and, if so required by the administration, paid or engaged to pay a percentage on the value so declared by way of compensation for increased risk.

APPLICABILITY.—As to applicability of this section and Ss. 58 and 78, see 15 P. 394 17 Pat.L.T. 268=163 I.C. 685=1936 P. 393. Section applies to all articles specified in Sch. II whether they are of any special or exceptional value or not. 41 M.L.J. 603= 14 L.W. 614. S. 75 does not apply when the value of a package does not exceed Rs. 100. 17 I.C. 419=23 M.L.J. 511. See also 15 L. 596=1934 L. 186. S. 75 (1) contemplates a declaration regarding the contents and their value, of each package, where the consignment consists of a number of packages. 15 P. 394=17 Pat.L.T. 208 =1936 P. 393. A bar of silver, not having been packed in the sense of being contained in a complete outer covering, comes within the purview of S. 75. 116 I.C. 616=1929 L. 698. Where the door of a wagon, in which the goods consigned were kept, was only sealed but not locked, the failure to lock the wagon does not constitute wilful neglect within the meaning of the risk-note Forms A and B. 118 I.C. 876=1929 N. 315. Mere signing of a risk-note does not bind tne Company. The section embraces the theft of goods in transit even though the actual way of the theft is not proved. 34 A. 656 =16 I.C. 369. See also 43 B. 386=21 Bom.L.R. 6. C. 401). Loss by theft or by means of fraud is clearly a "loss" within the meaning of this section. 61 C. 599=152 I.C. 37=1934 C. 783; 44 L.W. 333 =1936 M.W.N. 995=163 I.C. 840 (1)= 1936 M. 491. Where only part of the goods is lost the owner can only recover under S. 75 (2) such portion as represents the loss which he has sustained. The owner cannot recover the whole of the declared value in respect of a portion of the goods. 15 P. 394=17 Pat.L.T. 268=1936 P. 393. When a certain valuation has been placed upon certain goods carried by a Rail. Co. under S. 75 (1) and the Rail Co. has fixed the rate of carriage on that basis, the owner of the goods is estopped from going behind that declaration and from alleging that the declared value is not the true value of the goods. 15 Pat. 394=1936 Pat. 393. In the case of valuable goods, declaration of value is a matter of importance to the railway administration, as it would put the responsible officers of the Railway on their guard and they would take special care to guard the parcel. Where the plaintiff has omitted to make the requisite declaration, suit for loss of parcel must fail as he is hit by S. 75, and he cannot escape the effect of the section on the ground that the loss happened by the negligence or connivance of railway servants. 61 C. 599=152 I.C. 37 =1934 C. 783. To avoid liability under S. 75, a Rail. Co. must establish first that the articles composing the consignment were articles mentioned in the second schedule to the Act, and, secondly, that the total value of the consignment exceeded Rs. 100. 42 A. 76=17 A.L.J. 1031. 'Shawls' in Cl. (m) of Sch. II should not be interpreted in a restricted sense. See 65 I.C. 99=41 M.L.J. 603. Declaration of contents and weight is not a declaration of contents and value as contemplated by S. 75. See 96 I.C. 193=24 A.L.J. 728=1926 A. 552. RISK-NOTE FORMS A AND B—LOSS OF CONSIGNMENT—STANDARD OF PROOF—BURDEN OF PROOF.—The law does not lay down any particular standard of proof in the case of a loss of a consignment sent through a Rail. Co. under risk-note Forms A and B, and the direct evidence of those witnesses who actually dealt with the consignment in

(2) When any parcel or package of which the value has been declared under sub-section (1) has been lost or destroyed or has deteriorated, the compensation recoverable in respect of such loss, destruction or deterioration shall not exceed the value so declared, and the burden of proving the value so declared to have been the true value shall, notwithstanding anything in the declaration, lie on the person claiming the compensation.

(3) A railway administration may make it a condition of carrying a parcel declared to contain any article mentioned in the second schedule that a railway servant authorized in this behalf has been satisfied by examination or otherwise that the parcel actually contains the article declared to be therein.

Burden of proof in suits in respect of loss of animals or goods.

question is the best available evidence that the Rail. Co. can produce to prove the loss. The Rail. Co. in such a case is not bound to produce the reports made by its servants in connection with the loss of the goods unless the consignee has moved the Court to compel the company to produce such document. 118 I.C. 876=1929 N. 315. Where a Rail. Co. proved that the goods, for the non-delivery of which damages were claimed, were loaded in a certain wagon at a certain station, that they arrived in fact at another station, at which the locks were examined and found to be safe, and that at the next station the door of the wagon was found open and the goods had disappeared, held, that the Rail. Co. had made such disclosure as was contemplated by the risk-note Form B. 114 I.C. 51=1929 L. 887. It is not the duty of a Rail. Co. to give evidence regarding a portion of journey which was uneventful especially when such details are not specifically asked for by the plaintiff. 125 I.C. 327=1930 L. 557. Where a person seeks to recover damages as price of goods sent at the ordinary railway parcel rate and lost while in custody of the Railway Administration, he must prove first that he entrusted the parcel to the Railway Administration and that it did not contain any of the excepted articles mentioned in the second schedule, exceeding Rs. 100 in value. It is not for the Railway Administration to prove the contrary. 35 C.W.N. 452=58 C. 989. Risk-note is not ultra vires. 15 L. 596=150 I.C. 709=1934 L. 186.

Sec. 75 (2).—The words "shall not exceed the value so declared" in S. 75 (2) imply that a claim may be less than the value declared under sub-S. (1). 15 P. 394=17 Pat.L.T. 268=1936 P. 393. S. 75 (2) cannot be understood as merely limiting the total compensation recoverable for loss of the goods or any part of them; and if the section stood alone, there might be much to be said for the view that the compensation is not limited further than it is expressly limited by statute. 15 P. 394. But S. 75 (2) must be read in conjunction with Ss. 58 and 78 of the Act. The "declaration" made for the purposes of S. 75 is not a separate thing from the "account" and "description" referred to in S. 58. If the account or description or declaration is materially false, the provisions of S. 78 will become applicable. 15 P. 394.

Sec. 76: APPLICABILITY.—S. 76 does not apply to contract limiting Rail. Co.'s liability under S. 72 of the Act. 78 I.C. 449 =1925 C. 306; nor where there is a risk-note. 43 M. 671; 11 L.W. 358; 41 C. 576; 18 L.W. 322=1942 M. 388. The ordinary liability under S. 76 is limited by the special agreement entered into under a risk-note in Form B. 75 I.C. 26=1924 P. 812. "Deterioration," meaning of—Abstraction from parcel is also deterioration. 5 P. 465=96 I.C. 605=1926 P. 384.

BURDEN OF PROOF.—In suits for damages for non-delivery of goods entrusted to a Rail. Co. the primary question is whether the company has taken as much care of the goods as a man of ordinary prudence would under similar circumstances, take of his own goods of the same description. As regards burden of proof, S. 76 does no more than take away from the plaintiff a burden which in any case lies upon the defendant under S. 106, Evidence Act, viz., to prove facts which are within his special knowledge. It is for the defendant to place all the materials before the Court and if there is a failure on the defendant's part in this respect, the Court may presume that if produced such materials would have gone against the defendant. Upon materials produced by the defendant the plaintiff must show that there was want of due diligence or that there was negligence on the part of the latter or his servants or agents. 58 C.L.J. 98=37 C. W.N. 1109. Where from the terms of the contract it appears that the plaintiff knew of the fact that the goods tendered to the railway were either in bad condition or defectively packed and understood to hold the railway "harmless and free from all responsibility for the condition in which the aforesaid goods may be delivered to the consignee at destination and for any loss arising from the same except upon proof that such loss arose from misconduct on the part of the Railway Administration's servants," he is not relieved of the necessity of proving that the loss or damage had arisen from misconduct on the part of the railway servants by S. 76. This, however, only shows that if it is clear that the damage has been caused by the misconduct of the railway servants, it is not necessary for the plaintiff to prove how their misconduct has caused the loss. 155 I.C. 97=1935 A.L.J. 640=1935 A. 525. Consignment—Risk-note Form A—Shortage —Onus is upon consignor to prove that the shortage was due to pilferage of the Railway servants. 65 I.C. 583=1923 A. 234 (2). See also 86 I.C. 393 (1)=1925 B. 96; 43 C.L.J. 211=1926 C. 983. In case of risk-note Form B, burden of proving loss through wilful neglect of company is on plaintiff. 90 I.C. 1054=1926 L. 40.

77. A person shall not be entitled to a refund of an overcharge in respect of animals or goods carried by railway or to compensation for the loss, destruction or deterioration of animals or goods delivered to be so carried, unless his claim to the refund or compensation has been preferred in writing by him or on his behalf to the railway administration within six months from the date of the delivery of the animals or goods for carriage by railway.

Sec. 77.—The object of S. 77 is to prevent stale and possibly dishonest claims for loss, when owing to delay it might be impossible to trace the transaction or check the allegations made, and when the evidence necessary to rebut a dishonest claim might no longer be available. It is intended as a weapon of defence against fraud, not as a means to enable the railway authorities to deprive their customers of their just dues. 57 C. 1286=1930 C. 332. The object of the section is to see that the company gets notice. 42 M.L.J. 202=45 M. 135 (F.B.). Agent of a Railway is not viewed as an agent but as a principal. 7 L. 238=1926 L. 253 (F.B.). "Loss" includes non-delivery. 28 C.W.N. 438=72 I.C. 714; 6 P.L.T. 565= 90 I.C. 374. No notice under S. 77 is necessary in the case of a claim for non-delivery or misdelivery. Such a notice is required only when the claim is one for loss, destruction or deterioration of goods. 1937 A.L.J. 794=1937 All. 632. See also 31 N.L.R. (Sup.) 79=1936 Nag. 21.

APPLICABILITY.—Section 77 refers only to a suit against the carrier in his capacity as a carrier for the loss, destruction or deterioration of the goods. The section therefore refers to the special liability of the carrier as such; it has no application to the broad liability of the Rail. Co. in the case of tort-feasors quite apart from their position of railway carriers. And therefore no notice is necessary before bringing such a suit. 151 I.C. 995=1934 P. 507. Where goods had reached their destination and had never been lost from the possession of the Rail. Co. but were in the lost property office and were sold by public auction against the express direction of plaintiff. Held, that, in a suit for damages against the Rail. Co., S. 77 did not apply and that no notice under it was necessary. 1935 A. 601.

"Loss", "NON-DELIVERY", "DETERIORATION". —It is settled law that in the case of damage claimed for non-delivery of a consignment no notice is necessary under S. 77, because the word "loss" does not include non-delivery. 8 P. 545=1929 P. 109; 134 I.C. 93 =35 C.W.N. 338=1931 C. 585; 61 C. 559 =152 I.C. 37=1934 C. 783; 31 N.L.R. A suit for damages in respect of certain bales of piece-goods which at the end of the transit were found tampered with is a claim for compensation for the loss of goods within the meaning of S. 77 for which notice is necessary. 34 C.W.N. 1079=1931 C. 306. The word "deterioration" does not cover the fall in the market value of the goods which is due to the delay in delivery. 27 A.L.J. 859=1929 A. 597 (2). S. 77 refers only to loss, destruction or deterioration of goods and has nothing to do with detention or conversion of goods. 57 C. 1286=128 I.C. 248=1930 C. 332. Where the railway officials delivered the goods in contravention of the express and definite instructions of sender, held, that the case fell within the exception of the risk-note B as the misdelivery was due to misconduct of the officials and that the railway was liable for damages. 144 I.C. 404=1933 L. 425.

COMPENSATION FOR PILFERRED GOODS.— Notice must be given within six months from delivery of goods to company. 22 A.L.J. 897.

NOTICE—WHEN UNNECESSARY.—Section 77 is mandatory and does not contemplate that a notice should be given in anticipation. The object of S. 77 is only to prevent stale and dishonest claims for loss and not to enable the railway authorities to deprive their customers of their just dues. But the railway authorities are entitled to have due notice of the total extent of the claim pre-

Suit for refund of over charge—No notice necessary. 97 I.C. 474 =1926 A. 698. S. 77 certainly assumes the possibility of claims for overcharge, but all it means is that where such a claim lies in law then it cannot succeed unless notice within six months has been given. It does not provide a remedy under the Act; it only cuts down the remedy in cases where claims would lie according to the general law. An overcharge is simply a charge of more than is permitted by law. The word should be interpreted in a wide sense. 1939 N.L.J. 124=1939 Nag. 141.

NOTICE TO WHOM TO BE GIVEN.—A notice under S. 77 would not dispense with a notice under S. 80 of the C.P. Code, when the Secretary of State is the defendant. 1932 A.L.J. 1033. Adequacy of notice is a question of fact. 47 C.L.J. 611. Notice given to subordinate official and not to the Agent is not sufficient. 45 A. 353=21 A.L.J. 223; 29 O.C. 80=1925 O. 419; 28 A. 552; 33 A. 544; 4 L. 46=1923 L. 84; 92 I.C. 548=50 B. 84. Notice to Traffic Manager does not in law amount to notice to the Agent. 44 A. 645=20 A.L.J. 664; 27 Bom.L.R. 1500; 33 A. 544; 1926 B. 138; 28 C.W.N. 438= 72 I.C. 714; 1926 O. 1. But see also 1926 L. 572 and 253. Notice required by Ss. 77 and 140 must be served on the Agent of the Company and not on the Traffic Manager of the Company. The mere fact that in practice claims such as the one put forward by a party are dealt with by Traffic Manager will not by itself be sufficient to make a notice to the Traffic Manager valid in law. Such notice is invalid unless it is shown that the Agent had authorised the Traffic Manager to receive such notice on his behalf. 32 P. L.R. 163=133 I.C. 283=1931 L. 606. "Cause of action" means every fact which it would be necessary for the plaintiff to prove in order to support his right to the judgment of the Court. Under S. 77, a person is not entitled to compensation for loss from the railway unless he has preferred his claim in writing to the agent of the Railway at its head office. Consequently this is a fact which it is necessary to prove in a suit against the railway for compensation and is part of the cause of auction for the suit. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 160. The mere fact that the power of dealing with claims for compensation has been delegated by the Agent to the Divisional Traffic Manager does not entail that notice of a claim to compensation given to the Divisional Traffic Manager and not to the Agent is a valid notice. 10 Pat.L.T. 24= 112 I.C. 616. According to S. 77 the notice must be addressed to the Railway Administration from which compensation is demanded. Notice under S. 77 to one Railway Administration cannot avail a party to claim against another Railway Administration. 35 C.W.N. 338=1931 C. 585. R. 6 of the N. W. Railway Goods, Tariff which provides that any application in connection with claims for compensation and refund of overcharges relating to Karachi division should be made to Divisional Commercial Officer, Karachi, does not at all refer to the statutory notice as required by Railways Act and, therefore, notice required by S. 7 should, to be valid, be addressed to the Agent. 117 I.C. 769=1929 S. 238. In the case of a railway administered by Government, there being no such official as the manager, a notice sent to the Chief Commercial Manager is sufficient and fulfils the requirements of S. 77. 57 C. 1286=52 C.L.J. 260=1930 C. 332. But see 12 Pat.L.T. 681=1931 P. 393. In the case of a Railway administered by the Government, notice to the Secretary of State is indispensible. Notice to the Manager of the Railway Administration is not sufficient. 12 P.L.T. 681=1931 P. 393. See also 10 P. 466=1931 P. 326. Amount of claim need not be stated in notice. 89 I.C. 490=1925 N. 405; 3 P. 76=1924 P. 98 Goods carried over different railways—Notice must be given to the Agent of each railway. 46 B. 176=23 Bom.L.R. 866. Notice to agent's nominee is notice to agent. 7 L. 238 (F.B.). The date of announcing the order to the party is the starting point. 116 I.C. 317=1929 L. 409.

Secs. 77 and 140.—There is nothing in S. 77 or S. 140, which makes it imperative on plaintiff to mention in the plaint that refund had been demanded from the Railway Administration in the manner required by law. If the fact is denied by the defendant but appears from the evidence, the plaintiff's suit is not liable to be dismissed. Where in a suit for refund of overcharge realised by the Rail. Co. the plaint recited that a notice under S. 80, C.P. Code, had been given to the manager of the Rail. Co. within six months of the delivery of the goods and more than two months before the institution of the suit, held, that there was substantial compliance with the requirements of Ss. 77 and 140 and that the suit could not be dismissed on that ground. 137 I.C. 205=1932 A. 381. S. 140 merely provides a safe and unanswerable method for serving a claim upon the Railway Administration and enacts in effect that service upon the Agent is service upon the company. But S. 77 enacts that the service must be upon the administration. If the company by its course of business holds up any particular official as competent to deal with claims, then service of notice upon such an official must be taken as against the company to be service upon the company. So where the company has all along persisted in a course of business by which they allowed the District Traffic Superintendent to Exoneration from responsibility in case of goods falsely described.

78. Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing provisions of this Chapter, a railway administration shall not be responsible for the loss, destruction or deterioration of any goods with respect to the description of which an account materially false has been delivered under sub-section (1) of section 58 if the loss, destruction or deterioration is in any way brought about by the false account, nor in any case for an amount exceeding the value of the goods if such value were calculated in accordance with the description contained in the false account.

Settlement of compensation for injuries to officers, soldiers, airman and followers on duty.

79. Where an officer, soldier, [1][sailor], [2][airman] or follower, while being or travelling as such on duty upon a railway belonging to, and worked by, the Government, loses his life or receives any personal injury in such circumstances that, if he were not an officer, soldier, [1][sailor], [2][airman] or follower being or travelling as such on duty upon the railway, compensation would be payable under Act [3]No. XIII of 1855, or to him, as the case may be, the form and amount of the compensation to be made in respect of the loss of his life or his injury shall, where there is any provision in this behalf in the military [1][naval] [2][or air-force] regulations to which he was immediately before his death, or is, subject, be determined in accordance with those regulations, and not otherwise.

Suits for compensation for injury to through-booked traffic.

80. Notwithstanding anything in any agreement purporting to limit the liability of a railway administration with respect to traffic while on the railway of another administration, a suit for compensation for loss of the life of, or personal injury to, a passenger, or for loss, destruction or deterioration of animals or goods where the passenger was or the animals or goods were booked through over the railways of two or more railway administrations, may be brought either against the railway administration from which the passenger obtained his pass or purchased his ticket, or to which the animals or goods were delivered by the consignor thereof, as the case may be, or against the railway administration on whose railway the loss, injury, destruction or deterioration occurred.

Sec. 80: PRINCIPLE OF SECTION.—The principle underlying S. 80 is that the railway which takes delivery of goods with an undertaking to carry it safe, is an agent for the railways over which the goods have to pass in order to reach its destination and vice versa. The consignor is a third person. He contracts with the particular railway to deliver to him, at a particular station, the goods consigned and the arrangement of carrying the goods is between the railways over which the goods have to pass and has nothing to do with the consignor. He may sue the company to which the goods are delivered or the company on whose railway, the loss, injury, destruction or deterioration occurred or both. 1933 P. 630. Goods consigned to one railway for carriage to destination on another railway—Goods found to weigh less at destination—Request by consignee for memorandum as to weight and condition of goods—Refusal by railway—Refusal by consignee to take delivery—Liability of latter railway to damages. Held, it was not liable. Held, further, that the refusal by the latter railway to deliver the goods on the consignee's terms could not amount to "loss" within the meaning of S. 80, nor could the refusal be deemed to Limitation of liability of railway administration in respect of accidents at sea.

(1) When a railway administration contracts to carry passengers, animals or goods partly by railway and partly by sea, a condition exempting the railway administration from responsibility for any loss of life, personal injury or loss of or damage to animals or goods which may happen during the carriage by sea from the act of God, the King's enemies, fire, accidents from machinery, boilers and steam and all and every other dangers and accidents of the seas, rivers, and navigation of whatever nature and kind soever, shall, without being expressed, be deemed to be part of the contract, and, subject to that condition, the railway administration shall, irrespective of the nationality or ownership of the ship used for the carriage by sea, be responsible for any loss of life, personal injury or loss of or damage to animals or goods which may happen during the carriage by sea, to the extent to which it would be responsible under the [1]Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and the [1]Merchant Shipping (Amendment) Act, 1862, if the ship were registered under the former of those Acts and the railway administration were owner of the ship, and not to any greater extent.

(2) The burden of proving that any such loss, injury or damage as is mentioned in sub-section (1) happened during the carriage by sea shall lie on the railway administration.

POWER OF MAGISTRATE TO INQUIRE ABOUT HEIRS OF DECEASED RAILWAY SERVANT.—The Railways Act does not empower a Magistrate to make an inquiry as to the true heirs of a deceased Railway servant. 17 Cr.L.J. 368=35 I.C. 672=10 S.L.R. 64.

JURISDICTION OF MAGISTRATE UNDER RAILWAYS ACT—CASE-LAW—RULINGS UNDER THE OLD LAW.—A Subordinate Magistrate (First Class) has no jurisdiction to punish for an offence under S. 17 of Act XVIII of 1854. It was suggested that the Act in this respect required amendment so as to give Subordinate Magistrates such jurisdiction. 3 B.H.C.R. (C.) 54. See also 7 M.H.C. (App.) 8; 4 M.H.C.R. (App.) 9. A full power Magistrate had no jurisdiction to convict a person of an offence punishable under S. 26 of Act XVIII of 1854. 3 B.H.C.R. (Cr.) 10. S. 30 of Act XVIII of 1854 and S. 2 of the Cr. P. Code, show that offences under the former Act punishable with fine exceeding twenty rupees are not triable by Magistrates inferior to a First-class Magistrate. Rat. Un. Cr. C. 83=Cr. Rg. 28—7—74. A Sessions Judge had no authority to direct a fresh trial of a charge of an offence under S. 26 of the old Railways Act which has been dismissed by the Magistrate. 6 M.H.C.R. (App.) 41. See now 110 I.C. 589=29 Cr.L.J. 733 =1928 B. 909; 43 B. 888.

FINE, HOW TO BE RECOVERED.—S. 34 of Act XVIII of 1854 prescribed the mode in which fines are to be recovered by distress and sale. It was only on the return of the warrant of distress unsatisfied, or on the Magistrate being otherwise satisfied that no sufficient distress existed that imprisonment could be imposed. 6 M.H.C.R. (App.) 37.

Penalty for failure to comply with decision under section 48.

91. If a railway company refuses or neglects to comply with any decision of the [1][safety controlling authority] under section 48, it shall forfeit to the [2][safety controlling authority] the sum of two hundred rupees for every day during which the refusal or neglect continues.

Penalty for delay in submitting returns under section 52 or 85.

92. If a railway company fails to comply with the provisions of section 52 or section 85 with respect to the submission of any return, it shall forfeit to the [2][authority to which the return should have been submitted] the sum of fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues after the fourteenth day from the date prescribed for the submission of the return.

Penalty for neglect of provisions of section 53 or 63 with respect to carrying capacity of rolling-stock.

93. If a railway company contravenes the provisions of section 53 or section 63, with respect to the maximum load to be carried in any wagon or truck, or the maximum number of passengers to be carried in any compartment, or the exhibition of such load on the wagon or truck or of such number in or on the compartment, or knowingly suffers any person owning a wagon or truck passing over its railway to contravene the provisions of the former of those sections, it shall forfeit to the [2][appropriate authority] the sum of twenty rupees for every day during which either section is contravened.

[3][In this section 'the appropriate authority' means in relation to a contravention with respect to the maximum load to be carried in any wagon or truck, the safety controlling authority, and, in relation to any other contravention, the general controlling authority.]

Penalty for failure to comply with requisition under section 62 for maintenance of means of communication between passengers and railway servants.

94. If a railway company fails to comply with any requisition of the [1][safety controlling authority] under section 62 for the provision and maintenance in proper order, in any train worked by it, which carries passengers, of such efficient means of communication as the [1][safety controlling authority] has approved, it shall forfeit to the [2][safety controlling authority] the sum of twenty rupees for each train run in disregard of the requisition.

Penalty for failure to reserve compartments for females under section 64.

95. If a railway company fails to comply with the requirements of section 64 with respect to the reservation of compartments for females or the provision of closets therein, it shall forfeit to the [2][general controlling authority] the sum of twenty rupees for every train in respect of which the default occurs.

Penalty for omitting to give the notices of accidents required by section 83 and under section 84.

96. If a railway company omits to give such notice of an accident as is required by section 83 and the rules for the time being in force under section 84, it shall forfeit to the [2][safety controlling authority] the sum of one hundred rupees for every day during which the omission continues.

LIABILIY OF COMPANY FOR TORT FOR ITS SERVANTS.—See 13 M. 34. There would ordinarily be no difficulty in prosecuting a railway company in a suitable case in respect of a breach of a statutory provision for which a penalty had been provided and a State Railway does not occupy a more favourable position with reference to such matters. The general manager of a state railway is a legal entity in the same degree as a railway company is such an entity and it would be legal to prosecute him in his representative capacity in suitable cases. To such a prosecution no sanction under S. 197, Cr. P. Code and S. 270 of the Government of India Act is necessary, as it is not sought to enforce against him personally any criminal liability which he has incurred in his personal capacity but merely to prosecute the railway administration for breach of statutory provision. 45 C.W.N. 347.

OBJECT OF SECTION.—The object of S. 101 and R. 100 is to lessen the risk of accidents through shunting on a through line, after the line clear has been given, and a breach of the rule will render the rule-breaker liable to punishment even though no accident might have occurred. 37 B. 685=14 Cr.L.J. 460=20 I.C. 620=15 Bom.L.R. 702.

rule of the railway company without evidence that it endangered the safety of passengers is not sufficient for conviction. 81 I.C. 917=26 O.C. 363=25 Cr.L.J. 1093=1924 O. 250. See also 37 B. 685.

DISOBEDIENCE OF A RULE.—S. 101 does not provide for cases in which the disobedience of a rule is merely 'likely or calculated' to endanger the safety of any person. To render a person liable to conviction under S. 101, it must be proved that the safety of a person was actually endangered in point of fact. 7 L.B.R. 72=15 Cr.L.J. 17=22 I.C. 161 (2). See also 14 Cr.L.J. 676=21 I.C. 996; 37 B. 685=20 I.C. 620. Where a train is stopped outside a distant signal, the omission of the guard to place detonators to protect the train, is a disobedience under R. 9 of G.I.P. Ry. Working Instructions and punishable under S. 101 (a). Where a guard is charged under S. 101 (b) the onus of proving that he did not comply with General Rule 86 is on the prosecution, which burden can be discharged by the Railway authorities inspecting the line to see if any metallic remnants are formed there. The standing of a train outside the distant signal is "authorized" detention and not due to "accident, failure or obstruction." The wording of G.I.P. Ry., R. 9 is somewhat inappropriate and allowance should be made, considering that even a District Traffic Superintendent misreads the rule. 21 I.C. 996=14 Cr.L.J. 676 (Nag.).

DISOBEDIENCE OF R. 187 (8) (3)—WHAT AMOUNTS TO.—The words "when it is required to change the position of a permanently locked point" in R. 187, Cl. (8), sub-Cl. (3) would indicate that the rule assumes that the man on duty is aware that a permanently locked point has been unlocked. It is only in that case that he is bound to relock it before any train is allowed to enter the station yard. Where, therefore, a Station Master who unlocks a permanent point fails to reset it before he is relieved by the Assistant Station Master and omits to inform the latter or to note that he has allowed the point to remain unlocked in the Journal or Diary kept in the Station in which these matters are noted, the Assistant Station Master cannot be said to have had notice that any permanent point has remained unlocked even though he would have discovered it if he had gone on a visit of inspection before taking over the charge and it is very doubtful whether according to the rule as it stands, he can be said to be guilty of having disobeyed it. 154 I.C. 1059=36 Cr.L.J. 630=1935 A. 121.

"ENDANGERING"—MEANING OF—SHUNTING TRAIN TO A WRONG LINE.—In every case where a travelling train is unexpectedly shunted on to a wrong line by an erroneous laying of the points in a station yard, the safety of the persons in the train or about the yard is endangered, within the meaning of that term in S. 121; and if the error in the points is due to such disobedience as is referred to in the Act, an offence punishable under the Act is committed. 18 Cr.L.J. 822=41 I.C. 646=13 N.L.R. 90. From the facts of one case, no safe analogy can be drawn as to whether danger has arisen in the other case. 18 Cr.L.J. 822=41 I.C. 646=13 N.L.R. 90.

ACT LIKELY TO ENDANGER SAFETY OF PASSENGERS.—Where there is no evidence that a Station Master, in sending a train without previously obtaining a line clear message, knew that his act was likely to endanger the safety of the passengers travelling therein, a conviction under S. 45 of the Act is illegal. 1882 A.W.N. 172. On this point, see also 5 Cr.L.J. 81=59 P.L.R. 1902=13 P.R. 1907 (Cr.). The prisoner was convicted under S. 29 of Act XXV of 1871 of endangering the safety of persons in a certain goods train by negligence. Although he was shown to have neglected his duty, there was no evidence whatever of the safety of any person in any train having been endangered by his neglect of duty, held, that he could not be convicted under S. 29 of Act XXV of 1871, as it was plainly apparent that, by reason of the precautions taken by other persons any possible danger which might have resulted from his neglect was avoided. 5 N.W.P. 240. As to other cases of endangering public safety, see 1 Weir 869 (driver running train at full speed with danger signals against him); Rat. 721 (starting train without whistling); 9 P.R. 1892 (Cr.) NOTES.

OMISSION TO SET POINTS.—Under R. 12 of the rules framed under the Railways Act, it was the duty of the accused, who was a station master when he knew that a train was approaching the station to send the passed porter to the facing points with instructions for him to set and lock the points for the line on which the train was to come. The station master neglected to send the porter to the points. The signals were down to allow the train to pass into the station. But under the rules the engine driver should have stopped the train when he found that there was no porter at the points signalling him to pass on. The points were not properly locked and the consequence was that some of the carriages of the train were derailed. No person was hurt but the derailment of part of the train caused danger to persons travelling therein. Held, that it was not quite clear whether the engine driver could have avoided the derailment by stopping the train in time because the signals were in his favour. But if the station master had complied with the rules and had sent the passed porter out to the points to properly set and lock them, no accident would have occurred. Hence, the disregard by the accused of R. 12 enhanced the danger to the persons travelling in the train and therefore the accused was liable. 86 I.C. 61=6 Lah. 324=26 Cr.L.J. 685=1925 Lah. 423. The duty of a person in control of a railway station is first to give the fundamental orders regulating the arrival of a train and secondly to see that they are accurately carried out. Where such an order was given to set the points to the loop but the slides showed main the failure to act upon a defect in the working of the machinery is an act of grave negligence. Omitting to set the points, which would prevent a train after a clear line signal is given, from running into, another train is an act endangering the safety of the persons in either of the two trains. 22 A.L.J. 20=25 Cr.L.J. 993=1924 All. 438. Station master allowing train contrary to rules to run over loop line instead of main line—Station master acting on signal of pointsman—One of the points not properly set—Collision and injuries to persons. Held, that the station master was not guilty under this section as the breach of the rules was not the proximate cause of the accident, but only the improper setting of one of the points and with reference to this the station master was entitled to rely on the pointsman on actual duty. 1936 A.L.J. 951=1936 All. 745.

PLACING OBSTRUCTION ON THE RAILS.—Where the accused was charged with pulling up an iron mail post and placing it across the rails on a dark-night, held, that the act being wrongful in itself, rashness cannot be usually predicated, and that the offence, falling within S. 45 of the Railways Act, should be committed to the Sessions Court and not tried by a Magistrate as falling within S. 46. Rat. 458.

FAILURE TO REMOVE STONE FROM RAIL.—A person who fails to remove a stone from a rail is not guilty of negligently doing an Act which is likely to endanger the safety of persons travelling upon the railway, unless it be proved that he was legally bound to remove it. Rat. 394.

NEGLIGENCE OF RAILWAY SERVANT—LIVES LOST—PUNISHMENT.—Where a Railway servant was convicted under S. 29 of Act IV of 1879 for his gross negligence by which an accident happened in which several lives were lost, held, that three months' simple imprisonment was too light a sentence. 1890 A.W.N. 171.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS—DUTY OF GUARD.—Where some coolies were employed in assisting a ballast train into motion at a Railway station, and one of them, after pushing the train or in attempting to do so, fell and was so injured that he afterwards lost his life, held, that the evidence did not show that it was the duty of the guard to see that no one got up on the train when in motion. 8 W. R. (Cr.) 43.

ACCIDENT—MESSAGE BY GUARD.—If under Rr. 87 and 87 (a) of the rules framed under Railways Act, the Guard of a train sends a message asking for assistance, it is the duty of the driver to ascertain the terms of the message. His omission to do so would make him liable under S. 101 (c), if it results in endangering the safety of any person. 54 I.C. 988=21 Cr.L.J. 264 (Nag.).

DUTY OF DRIVER—MINOR BRIDGES.—The drivers have regarded R. 131 as applying to what are known as important bridges; it is not fair when an accident does happen, to charge a driver with breach of the rules because in the accounts and engineering departments comparatively small bridges are called major bridges. 143 I.C. 220=34 Cr. L.J. 576=1933 Pat. 94. It is not duty of the driver to stop the train merely because way-farers shout to him. 34 Cr.L.J. 576 =143 I.C. 220=1933 Pat. 94. Where an engine driver is being prosecuted for breach of S. 101 for disobeying the guard, the evidence of the fire-man cannot be summarily neglected on the mere ground that he is subordinate to the driver. On the other hand he is the most important witness. 143 I.C. 220=34 Cr.L.J. 576=1933 Pat. 94.

RAILWAY POLICE—NEGLECT OF DUTY.—The Railway Police, who are in the pay of a Railway Company, are amenable for neglect of duty to the provisions of the above section, notwithstanding that they hold commissions from the Commissioner of Police under S. 9, Bom. Act VII of 1867. Rat. Un. Cr. C. 51.

OFFENCE FALLING UNDER TWO ENACTMENTS —PUNISHMENT UNDER BOTH, WHETHER LEGAL.—When an accused by one act endangered the lives of the public and committed an offence under S. 101 of the Act and S. 353 of the Penal Code he can be punished

Compelling passengers to enter carriages already full,

102. If a railway servant compels or attempts to compel, or causes, any passenger to enter a compartment which already contains the maximum number of passengers exhibited therein or thereon under section 63, he shall be published with five which may extend to twenty rupees.

Omission to give notice of accident.

103. If a station master or a railway servant in charge of a section of a railway omits to give such notice of an accident as is required by section 83 and the rules for the time being in force under section 84, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Obstructing level-crossings.

104. If a railway servant unnecessarily—

(a) allows any rolling-stock to stand across a place where the railway crosses a public road on the level, or

(b) keeps a level-crossing closed against the public, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

False returns.

105. If any return which is required by this Act is false in any particular to the knowledge of any person who signs it, that person shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with imprisonment which may extend to one year, or with both.

Other Offences.

Giving false account of goods.

106. If a person requested under section 58 to give an account with respect to any goods gives an account which is materially false, he and, if he is not the owner of the goods, the owner also shall be punished with fine which may extend to ten rupees for every maund or part of a maund of the goods, and the fine shall be in addition to any rate or other charge to which the goods may be liable.

Unlawfully bringing dangerous or offensive goods upon a railway.

107. If in contravention of section 59 a person takes with him any dangerous or offensive goods upon a railway, or tenders or delivers any such goods for carriage upon a railway he shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and shall also be responsible for PUNISHMENT.—In determining the punishment, the gravity of the offence should be estimated not by the ultimate consequences but by the risk involved. 37 Bom. 685=14 Cr.L.J. 460=20 I.C. 620=15 Bom.L.R. 702 (6 M. 201 Ref.). In order to support a conviction under this section, there must be actual danger to a person's safety. 6 I.C. 483=11 Cr.L.J. 362=8 P.L.R. 1910; mere likelihood of danger not sufficient. 7 L.B.R. 72; 4 L.B.R. 353.

PROCEDURE.—See 1 Pat.L.J. 313.

FALSE ACCOUNTS OF GOODS DESPATCHED.—The duty imposed of giving an account of the quantity or description of property sought to be despatched by rail being limited to the case of a demand being made, held, that a person giving false account of goods despatched without being so demanded by railway authorities could not be convicted under S. 29 of the old Act. 36 P.R. 1885 (Cr.).

Needlessly interfering with means of communication in a train.

TEST.—The risk of danger, of loss and of discomfort to the other passengers on a train by stopping the train by pulling the communication cord is one element that has to be considered for the purpose of deciding whether there was reasonable and sufficient cause to stop the train by pulling the communication cord. But this must be considered in relation to the risk arising from the circumstances to the person pulling the cord. In other words if the risk to the passenger pulling the cord is incommensurate with the risk and discomfort, etc., to the other passengers, he cannot be said to have had just and reasonable cause. But where the risk to the passenger is very great as compared to the risk to the other passengers, he must be said to have just cause for pulling the cord. Another element of great importance is whether the necessity or occasion for pulling the cord has arisen from the fault of the railway administration. The third element to be considered is the importance of the line and train. 105 I.C. 679=25 A.L.J. 975=28 Cr.L.J. 967=1927 All. 647.

PULLING THE CHAIN—OVERCROWDING.—Where a person without sufficient and reasonable cause pulls the emergency chain, he renders himself liable for prosecution under S. 108 only, and not under S. 121 for preventing the running of the train and thus obstructing or impeding a railway servant in the discharge of his duty. (43 Bom. 103, Foll.) 32 Bom.L.R. 111=1930 Bom. 160. Pulling the communication chain of a railway compartment to remove the overcrowding, which it was the duty of the railway administration to prevent under S. 93 is a reasonable and sufficient cause under S. 108 of the Act. (1922 Pat. 8, Rel. on.) 32 Bom.L.R. 111=1930 Bom. 160. A who had instituted a civil suit against B was travelling with the latter in the same compartment with his account books. While the train was in motion B seized the account books and threw them through the window. A pulled the alarm chain and stopped the train. Held, that A had sufficient and reasonable cause for getting alarm signal and could not be convicted under S. 108. 8 Lah. 196=28 Cr.L.J. 603=28 P.L.R. 485. =1927 Lah. 476. See also 1936 P.W.N. 679=1936 Pat. 499. Primarily, S. 108 is intended for the protection of the personal safety of passengers who are travelling by train. The mere fact that the accused left his coat even though it contains valuables is not a reasonable and sufficient cause within the meaning of S. 108. Accordingly if he pulls the communication cord for that purpose he can be convicted under the section. 95 I.C. 58=28 Bom.L.R. 486=27 Cr.L.J. 730=1926 Bom. 288. But see 17 Pat.L.T. 569=1936 Pat. 499, where it was held that the pulling of chain by a passenger who had dropped certain valuable articles did not constitute an offence under this section. It was also held that what constitutes 'reasonable and sufficient cause' is a question of fact depending upon the circumstances of each case. (Ibid.) The accused is not deprived of the defence under S. 108 of sufficient and reasonable cause merely because there was an additional reason for pulling the chain which in the opinion of the Magistrate was not sufficient and reasonable. 32 Bom.L.R. 111=1930 Bom. 160. Where a passenger in the inter-class pulled the chain, because it was overcrowded and because third class passengers had entered it held, he was justified in pulling the chain and in stopping the train for enforcing his right to have the compartment vacated so as to bring down the number of passengers therein within the maximum limit prescribed by S. 66. 1 P. 260=3 P.L.T. 195= 1922 P.H.C.C. 63=23 Cr.L.J. 257=66 I. C. 221=1922 P. 8. Ticket holder is a passenger, see 7 I.C. 354. Where a railway compartment became overcrowded and the train was allowed to proceed in spite of a complaint and became overcrowded and the train was allowed to proceed in spite of a complaint and thereupon the accused who was a passenger in the overcrowded compartment pulled the alarm chain and brought the running train to a standstill and in a prosecution under the Railways Act the accused gave it as one of the reasons for repeatedly pulling the chain that he wanted to take down the names of certain fellow passengers who had abused him for his conduct. Held, that the accused was not liable to be convicted under S. 108 or 121. 32 Bom.L.R. 111=1930 B. 160.

109. (1) If a passenger, having entered a compartment which is reserved by a railway administration for the use of another passenger, or which already contains the maximum number of passengers exhibited therein or thereon under section 63, refuses to leave it when required to do so by any railway servant, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty-rupees.

Entering compartment reeserved or already full or reserved or already full or partment not full.

(2) If a passenger resists the lawful entry of another passenger into a compartment not reserved by the railway administration for the use of the passenger resisting or not already containing the maximum number of passengers exhibited therein or thereon under section 63, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty-rupees.

110. (1) If a person without the consent of his fellow-passengers, if any, in the same compartment, smokes in any compartment except a compartment specially provided for the purpose, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty-rupees.

Smoking.

NOTES.

Sec. 109: OBJECT OF SECTION is to prevent annoyance to other passengers. 24 B. 293; 1 Bom.L.R. 688.

PROVIDING SPECIAL ACCOMMODATION FOR SPECIAL INDIVIDUALS OR CLASSES OF INDIVIDUALS.—A bye-law or rule providing for special accommodation or for the special convenience of a particular individual or of a particular class of individuals and for the general convenience of the travelling public is legal under S. 47. The "preference" forbidden by Ss. 42 and 43 refers to goods traffic and rates charged upon traders and does not apply to passengers. A person who enters a compartment of a Railway carriage reserved by a Railway Company, for the use of passengers of a particular class to which he does not belong, and refuses to leave when required to do so by a Railway servant, is liable to penalty under S. 109 of the Act. 42 A. 327=21 Cr.L.J. 294=55 I.C. 342=18 A.L.J. 254.

RESERVING COMPARTMENT FOR EUROPEANS AND ANGLO-INDIANS.—"Traffic" in S. 42 includes passenger traffic. In reserving a compartment for Europeans and Anglo-Indians, the company gives undue preference to one class of passengers and contravenes S. 42 (2). But the Civil Court cannot try the question of legality of the reservation, the proper remedy in the case being to prefer a complaint to the Governor-General in Council under S. 28. 45 B. 1324 =62 I.C. 1004=23 Bom.L.R. 809. A Railway Company can legally reserve a compartment for the use of Europeans and Anglo-Indians only. 45 M. 215=42 M.L.J. 21=66 I.C. 520; 23 Cr.L.J. 296=30 M.L.T. 134=15 L.W. 207=1922 M. 35. Per Ayling, Officiating Chief Justice and Oldfield, J. (Krishnan, J., dissenting). A person who is not a European or Anglo-Indian commits an offence under S. 109 (1) by entering and persisting in remaining in a 3rd class compartment to which a card has been attached purporting over the signature of a senior ticket examiner, to reserve it for European and Anglo-Indians. (Ibid.) Per Officiating, C.J.—There is nothing in any of the rules of the Traffic Working Orders indicating that a compartment can only be legally reserved by a label or notice signed or initialled, since the direction in the R. 172-A to the effect that a station master should label a carriage or compartment does not necessarily imply that he must do so with his own hands or himself sign label. (Ibid.) Per Krishnan, J.—The expression "traffic" in S. 42 (2) is not confined to conveyance of animals and goods and fixing the charges thereof. Where the label was in the carriage door and was not the usually printed label signed or initialled, by the station master, the compartment is not reserved. (Ibid.) Per Officiating, C.J. and Oldfield, J.—The term "passenger" in S. 109 (1) is not restricted to a person who actually enters a railway carriage for the purpose of travelling but also includes possible passengers who may join at any later station. (Ibid.) The object and the result of making rules under S. 47, Cl. (1) with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council are only to make their breach an offence punishable by the Courts. The Traffic Working Orders are not such rules. (Ibid.) The reservation of a compartment for Europeans and Anglo-Indians or for any class of passengers is not an undue or unreasonable preference in favour of a particular description of traffic within S. 42, Cl. (4). 45 M. 215. The expression "Passenger" in S. 109 includes class of passengers. 51 C. 168=28 C.W.N. 388=25 Cr.L.J. 1012=1924 C. 687. On this point, see also 5 S.L.R. 140 (Refusal to leave compartment reserved for Europeans not an offence). See also 7 I.C. 365 (preventing passengers from enterig and standing against door).

Sec. 110: "COMPARTMENT".—Meaning of 24 B. 293=1 Bom.L.R. 688.

(2) If any person persists in so smoking after being warned by any railway servant to desist, he may, in addition to incurring the liability mentioned in sub-section (1) be removed by any railway servant from the carriage in which he is travelling.

Defacing public notices.

111. If a person, without authority in this behalf, pulls down or wilfully injures any board or document set up or posted by order of a railway administration on a railway or any rolling-stock, or obliterates or alters any of the letters or figures upon any such board or document, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Fraudulently travelling or attempting to travel without proper pass or ticket.

112. [1][(1)] If a person, with intent to defraud a railway administration,—

(a) enters [2][or remains in any carriage on a railway in contravention of section 68], or

(b) use or attempts to use a single pass or single ticket which has already been used on a previous journey or, in the case of a return ticket a half thereof which has already been so used,

he shall be punished [3][with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months or] with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees in addition to the amount of the single fare for any distance which he may have travelled.

[4][(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 65 of the Indian Penal Code, the Court convicting an offender under this section may direct that the offender in default of payment of any fine inflicted by the Court, shall suffer imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.]

Sec. 112.—As to scope and construction of section, see 11 C.W.N. 100. A person charged under S. 112 for entering a railway carriage without a ticket pleaded guilty as to entering the carriage but said that he did not purchase the ticket because the train was about to start. Held, that this conviction is bad as his statement amounted to a positive denial of an intention to defraud. 57 I.C. 825=21 Cr.L.J. 665 (All.).

ESSENTIALS OF OFFENCE.—To constitute an offence under S. 112 (b) it is not necessary that the used ticket should be relevant to the journey which the passenger wished to undertake. (11 C.W.N. 100, Diss.) 112 I. C. 771=23 S.L.R. 39=30 Cr.L.J. 3=1928 Sind 191.

WRONG TICKET.—Where a passenger travelling by a Railway train on being called upon, produces a ticket bearing date of a previous day, throwing away another in his possession, he cannot be held to have dishonest intention so as to justify a conviction under S. 112 as the essence of the offence under that section is an intent to defraud the Railway Company. Unless there is clear evidence to show that a passenger knows that the ticket he is holding has been used before, an intention on his part to cheat the Railway Company cannot be inferred from the mere fact that the passenger knows that he is committing a breach of the Railways Act or rules framed under the Act. 35 I.C. 665 (Cal.)=17 Cr.L.J. 361. If the ticket does not show to its holder that, under the Railway rules, it is only available for a particular train or on a particular day, his knowledge of the Railway rules posted on the stations will not be assumed unless it is proved that the attention of the traveller was drawn to them. 35 I.C. 665 (Cal.)=17 Cr.L.J. 361. In the case of trespass it must be shown that there was reason to believe that the person to be arrested would abscond or that his name and address were unknown and he refused to give his name and address or that there was reason to believe that the name or address given to him was incorrect. In the case of travelling without ticket it must further be shown that their was refusal to pay the sum charged. 33 C.W.N. 751=1929 Cal. 730.

NATURE OF PROCEEDINGS.—An application under S. 113 (4) is not a prosecution for criminal offence and on such application the Magistrate has no power to fine the defaulter or to order a sentence of imprisonment in default of such fine. The Magistrate can only direct him to pay the fare and the excess charge under sub-S. (3) and then proceed to recover it as if it were a fine. 6 Rang. 619=30 Cr.L.J. 57=1929 Rang. 11. There is no room in the phraseology of S. 113 of the Railways Act for a loose interpretation of its terms, and it has obviously been framed with a view to preventing the enormous inconvenience and trouble which would otherwise arise in the matter of checking and collecting tickets from passengers. Under the section, passengers must have in their possession immediately available throughout the journey the tickets which entitle them to travel. If excess is realized for failure to produce the tickets, the mere fact that the tickets are produced later on does not entitle the passengers to a refund. 23 N.L.R. 120. See also 101 I.C. 158.

OBJECT OF SECTION 113—INTENTION TO DEFRAUD, NOT NECESSARY.—The intention to defraud is not necessary for the offence under S. 113. The section only provides a summary remedy to recover the charge incurred by a passenger together with a penalty provided in the section. S. 113, Cl. (2) is clear and explicit and admits of no implications or exceptions. A passenger travelling in a lower class has no right to travel in a higher class without the previous permission of a Railway servant and without a proper ticket for that class and the fact that he was obliged so to do as there was no accommodation in the class for which he had purchased a ticket is no justification and does not afford a defence in proceedings against him under S. 113. 34 Bom.L.R. 1666.

PROCEEDINGS UNDER—NATURE OF—REVISION.—The act referred to in S. 113 is not an offence; the proceeding under that section is not a prosecution for an offence but nevertheless it is a judicial proceeding and an order passed by a Magistrate under S. 113 (4) is subject to revision by High Court. 34 Bom.L.R. 1666. A person travelled without a ticket but with guard's permission. He was asked to pay extra charge which he refused. Application to a Magistrate under S. 113 (4) was rejected. Held, that High Court could not go into the merits of the order when it had no jurisdiction to revise that order. (5 S.L.R. 54, Dist.). 1930 Cr. C. 646=1930 Sind 162. Order of a Magistrate under S. 113 (4), is merely an administrative or a ministerial order and the proceedings before him are not criminal proceedings in a Criminal Court within the scope of the Criminal Procedure Code and is not subject to revision under S. 439. (1926 Sind 57; 1927 Sind 23, Foll. Other case-law referred). 1930 Sind 162.

PERSON TRAVELLING WITHOUT TICKET.—It

(2) If a passenger travels or attempts to travel in or on a carriage, or by a train, of a higher class than that for which he has obtained a pass or purchased a ticket, or travels in or on a carriage beyond the place authorized by his pass or ticket, he shall be liable to pay, on the demand of any railway servant appointed by the railway administration in this behalf, the excess charge hereinafter in this section mentioned, in addition to any difference between any fare paid by him and the fare payable in respect of such journey as he has made.

[1][(3) The excess charge referred to in sub-section (1) and sub-section (2) shall be a sum equivalent to the amount otherwise payable under those sub-sections, or eight annas, whichever is greater:

Provided that where the passenger has immediately after incurring the charge and before being detected by a railway servant notified to the railway servant on duty with the train the fact of the charge having been incurred, the excess charge shall be one-sixth of the excess charge otherwise payable calculated to the nearest anna, or two annas, whichever is greater:

Provided further that if the passenger has with him a certificate granted under sub-section (2) of section 68, no excess charge shall be payable];

(4) If a passenger liable to pay the excess charge and fare mentioned in sub-section (1), or the excess charge and any difference of fare mentioned in sub-section (2), fails or refuses to pay the same on demand being made therefor under one or other of those sub-sections, as the case may be, [2][any railway servant appointed by the railway administration in this behalf may apply to any Magistrate of the first or second class for the recovery of the sum payable as if it were a [3]fine, and the Magistrate if satisfied that the sum is payable shall order it to be so recovered, and may order that the person liable for the payment shall in default of payment suffer imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to one month. Any sum recovered under this sub-section shall, as it is recovered, be paid to the railway administration.]

[4][113-A. Any person who, without having obtained the permission of a railway servant, travels or attempts to travel in a carriage without having a proper pass or ticket with him, or in a carriage of a higher class than that for which he has obtained a pass or purchased a ticket, or in a carriage beyond the place authorized by his pass or ticket, or who being in a carriage fails or refu-

Provided further that women and children, if unaccompanied by male passengers shall not be so removed except either at the station at which they first enter the train or at a junction or terminal station or station at the headquarters of a civil district and only between the hours of 6 a.m. and 6 p.m.]

If a person sells or attempts to sell, or parts or attempts to part with the possession of [1][any half] of a return ticket in order to enable any other person to travel therewith, or purchase such half of a return ticket, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and, if the purchaser of such half of a return ticket travels or attempts to travel therewith, he shall be punished with an additional fine which may extend to the amount of the single fare for [1][the journey] authorized by the ticket.

Disposal of fines under the two last foregoing sections.

Sec. 114: APPLICABILITY OF.—S. 114 applies to purchasers and transferees of tickets and not to transferors alone. (23 S.L. R. 39=112 I.C. 771=1928 S. 191, Overr.) 155 I.C. 697=1935 S. 90 (F.B.).

OFFENCE UNDER S. 114—IF CAN BE DEALT WITH UNDER S. 562, CR. P. CODE.—Per Full Bench and Dadiba C. Mehta, A.J.C., Dissenting.—Offences punishable under S. 114, are easy to commit but not easy to detect. When detection has been successfully effected, an offender should not go scot-free even if he has not been convicted before. 155 I.C. 697=1935 S. 90 (F.B.). Per Dadiba, C. Mehta, A.J.C.—When a particular penal section of a statute is interpreted in a particular way in favour of a subject by a Divisional Bench, the subject has a right to say that he has not committed any offence, that he had no guilty intention whatsoever in doing an act in the belief that the interpretation was correct. If subsequently that interpretation is found fault with by a Full Bench, so that the very act which at one time was not looked upon as an offence, is now regarded as an offence, the altered interpretation should not have a retrospective effect as if the subject should have anticipated the second decision of the High Court. Even if a technical conviction is recorded, the accused should have the benefit of S. 562. 155 I.C. 697=1935 S. 90 (F.B.).

feiture of any fare which either of them may have paid, and of any pass or ticket which either of them may have obtained or purchased, and may be removed from the railway by any railway servant.

(2) If any such railway servant as is referred to in section 71, subsection (2), knowing that a person is suffering from any infectious or contagious disorder, wilfully permits the person to travel upon a railway without arranging for his separation from other passengers, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Entering carriage in motion, or otherwise improperly travelling on a railway.

118. (1) If a passenger enters or leaves, or attempts to enter or leave, any carriage while the train is in motion, or elswhere than at the side of the carriage adjoining the platform or other place appointed by the railway administration for passengers to enter or leave the carriage, or opens the side door of any carriage while the train is in motion, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

(2) If a passenger, after being warned by a railway servant to desist, persists in travelling on the roof, steps or footboard of any carriage or on an engine, or in any other part of a train not intended for the use of passengers, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees and may be removed from the railway by any railway servant.

Entering carriage or other place reserved for females.

119. If a male person, knowing a carriage, compartment, room or other place to be reserved by a railway administration for the exclusive use of females, enters the place without lawful excuse. or, having entered it,remains therein after having been desired by any railway servant to leave it, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, in addition to the forfeiture of any fare which he may have paid and of any pass or ticket which he may have obtained or purchased, and may be removed from the railway by any railway servant.

Sec. 118: PASSENGER—MEANING OF.—The word "Passenger" in S. 118 is used in a restricted sense and denotes a person who enters any Railway carriage for the purpose of travelling as a passenger. 14 Cr.L.J. 654=21 I.C. 894=15 Bom.L.R. 996. On this section, see also 1 Weir 873 (Platform fruit seller is not punishable under this section); 5 N.L.R. 151 (Riding on footboard after warning); see also 25 P.R. 1903 (Cr.); 31 P.R. 1905 (Cr.). Sec. 119.—See 76 P.L.R. 1903.

Sec. 120: APPLICABILITY TO RAILWAY SERVANTS.—The latter portion of S. 120 has a reference to the forfeiture of fares and of passes or tickets and to the removal of the offender from the railway by any railway servant, and thus shows its inapplicability to railway servants. 118 I.C. 197=23 S.L.R. 409=30 Cr.L.J. 879=1929 S. 249. S. 120 applies to Railway servants and the word 'person' in the section includes an employee of the Railway. 14 Pat.L.T. 652=146 I.C. 937. See also I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 666=39 Bom.L.R. 610=1937 Bom. 357.

REMOVAL OF PASSENGERS BY RAILWAY OFFICIALS.—The word "person" in S. 120 includes railway official and a railway guard who removes a passenger from a compartment which they are entitled to occupy, is guilty of an offence under S. 120. 19 Cr. L.J. 313=44 I.C. 329 (Mad.). But see I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 666=39 Bom.L.R. 610=170 I.C. 575=1937 Bom. 357. (Railway servant may well be dealt with by departmental action). There is no provision in the Railways Act for ejecting passengers except in certain circumstances specified in S. 120 and the expression 'railway' in S. 122 does not include a railway carriage. 44 Cal. 279=18 Cr.L.J. 647=40 I.C. 295 =25 C.L.J. 610. Travelling without a ticket is not one of the circumstances mentioned in S. 120 as justifying removal from a Railway carriage by a railway servant

(a) is in a state of intoxication, or

(b) commits any nuisance or act of indecency, or uses obscene or abusive language, or

(c) wilfully and without lawful excuse interferes with the comfort of any passenger or extinguisshes any lamp, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, in addition to the forfeiture of any fare which he may have paid and of any pass or ticket which he may have obtained or purchased, and may be removed from the railway by any railway servant.

Obstructing railway servant in his duty.

121. If a person wilfully obstructs or impedes any railway servant in the discharge of his duty, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Trespass and refusal to desist from trespass.

122. (1) If a person unlawfully enters upon a railway, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

where there is no evidence that the persons were travelling without tickets with fraudulent intent. 68 I.C. 846=23 Cr.L.J. 622 =1923 Lah. 71 (1).

USING THE DELIVERY SHED AS A MARKET PLACE FOR SELLING FISH.—A person who persists in selling fish in the delivery shed of Railway, which is not meant to be a market, and obstructs the business for which the shed is prepared is guilty of nuisance within S. 120 (b). 25 C.W.N. 603=22 Cr. L.J. 604=62 I.C. 876=33 C.L.J. 293. A conviction under S. 120 (b) is not sustainable when the particular words used are not in evidence. The mere statement of witnesses that words of abuse were used is not sufficient to support a conviction. 6 Lah.L.J. 469=1925 Lah. 151. But see contra 1936 A. L.J. 82=160 I.C. 1088=1936 A. 140 (Conviction can be sustained although the exact words used are not proved). On this section, see also 1 C.W.N. 74; Rat. 675; 1 N.L.R. 139; 7 I.C. 355; 30 B. 348; 8 Bom.L.R. 22. As to allowing cattle to stray on railway line, see 8 M.H.C. App. 1=1 Weir 874.

Sec. 121: ESSENTIALS FOR CONVICTION.—Before a person can be convicted of wilfully obstructing or impeding a railway servant in the discharge of his duties, it must be shown that the obstruction or resistance was offered to such railway servant in the discharge of his duties as authorised by law. (1 C.W.N. 74 Ref.) 91 I.C. 33=6 Lah. 467=27 Cr.L.J. 1=1925 L. 650. Where a person without sufficient and reasonable cause pulls the emergency chain, he renders himself liable for prosecution under S. 108 only, and not under S. 121 for preventing the running of the train and thus obstructing or impeding a railway servant in the discharge of his duty. (43 Bom. 103, Foll.) 32 Bom.L.R. 111=1930 Bom. 160. Abuse or insult does not necessarily constitute obstruction or impediment to a railway servant in the discharge of his duty. 68 I.C. 846 =23 Cr.L.J. 622=1923 L. 71 (1). Rules 244, 229 and 23 of the General Rules empower a Station Master to appoint a Signaller temporarily to do the duties of a Ticket Collector. When a Signaller so appointed undertakes such duties and acts in the discharge thereof, he is a "Railway servant" within S. 121. Obstruction to him is punishable under S. 121. 37 M.L.J. 656 =10 L.W. 669=21 Cr.L.J. 62. See also A.W.N. (1902) 24.

REFUSAL TO PAY EXCESS FARE.—Refusal to pay excess fare cannot possibly amount to obstructing or impeding a railway servant in the discharge of his duty within the meaning of S. 121. 1933 M.W.N. 874; Rat. 675.

Sec. 122: SCOPE AND OBJECT OF SECTION —ESSENTIALS OF LIABILITY UNDER THE SECTION.—Two things are necessary to bring a man under that section: (1) that the place of entry must be "railway" as defined in S. 3 (4) of the Act, and (2) the entry should have been unlawful in the inception. 25 A. L.J. 710=28 Cr.L.J. 648=1927 A. 646. The most important words in S. 122 are the words "unlawfully enters", for unless and until a person has made an unlawful entry upon the railway premises he cannot be brought within this penal provision. The word "unlawful" means "contrary to the law laid down in the statute." 88 I.C. 522= 1925 P. 525. If the railway made a general rule under the Act that nobody should enter upon railway platforms except passengers with tickets, any other persons entering upon the platform might be guilty of unlawful entry. But where no such rule exists, and where the station master leaves the platform gate open, those who enter upon the platform can hardly be considered to be other than licensees. A person who enters in this manner may be quite lawfully ordered to leave the railway premises, but as he has not entered unlawfully he can never be brought within the mischief of S. 122. 88 I.C. 522=6 P.L.T. 437=26 Cr.

(2) If a person so entering refuses to leave the railway on being requested to do so by any railway servant, or by any other person on behalf of the railway administration, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and may be removed from the railway by such servant or other person.

Disobedience of omnibus drivers to directions of railway servants.

123. If a driver or conductor of a tramcar, omnibus, carriage or other vehicle while upon the premises of a railway disobeys the reasonable directions of any railway servant or police officer, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

Opening or not properly shuttings gates.

[1]124. In either of the following cases, namely:—

(a) if a person knowing or having reason to believe that an engine or train is approaching along a railway, opens any gate set upon either side of the railway across a road, or passes or attempts to pass, or drives or takes, or attempts to drive or take, any animal, vehicle or other thing across the railway,

(b) if, in the absence of a gate-keeper, a person omits to shut and fasten such a gate as aforesaid as soon as he and any animal, vehicle or thing under his charge have passed through the gate, the person shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Cattle-trespass.

125. (1) The owner or person in charge of any cattle straying on a railway provided with fences suitable for the exclusion of cattle shall be punished with fine which may extend to

NOTES.

L.J. 1162=1925 P. 535. The word "unlawful" has practically the same meaning as "illegal" which can be interpreted as including actionable. Hence an entry upon railway premises may be held to be unlawful, if it constitutes an actionable trespass. 146 I.C. 684=1933 A.L.J. 1432=1933 A. 891. Crossing Railway line even if it be to enter the platform is offence under S. 122. 142 I.C. 202=33 Cr.L.J. 291=1933 M. 372; 44 C. 279. Object of section. (1914) M. W.N. 124; 22 I.C. 177. Unlawful entry is the essence of the offence under both the clauses of S. 122. If the entry was lawful, refusal to leave on being desired to do so would not make the original entry unlawful. Nor would it make a person guilty under Cl. (2) which is but an aggravated form of the offence under Cl. (1). 19 Cr. L.J. 878=47 I.C. 74=22 C. W. N. 575. The word "unlawful" in S. 122, means without the leave of the Railway Administration and a person entering the railway line without such leave is guilty under S. 122. S. 47 or the bye-laws made under Cl. (g) thereof have no reference to this offence of trespass. 4 P.R. 1914=24 I.C. 348=15 Cr.L.J. 468 (11 C.W.N. 583, Rel.). A railway platform, to which the general public have free access, without having to show tickets, or without having to obtain special permission of any sort, is a part of the railway premises which may be entered by the members of the general public under the implied permission of the railway authority. Hence a person who enters such premises cannot be treated to be trespasser merely because he enters the platform without express permission and his entry is not unlawful within the meaning of S. 122. 146 I.C. 684=1933 A.L.J. 1432=1933 A. 891. Even a passenger with a ticket cannot trespass on Railway lines. 152 I. C. 615=40 L.W. 664. Subsequent unlawful act, i.e., breaking lock of a wagon does not make the original entry itself unlawful under S. 122, when it was found that the Dalals like the accused were freely allowed to enter the station premises. 20 Cr.L.J. 96= 48 I.C. 896=15 N.L.R. 34. See also 22 B. 525. There is nothing in the Act to forbid the reservation of compartment for different communities and any member of any other community entering such compartment becomes a trespasser and could therefore be removed under S. 122. 21 I.C. 499=7 S. L.R. 42. S. 122 (2) cannot be applied to eject a Railway employee, from the staff quarters occupied by him while under service as they are not part of a Railway within the meaning of S. 3 (4). 15 Cr.L.J. 225 =23 I.C. 177=1914 M.W.N. 124. Procedure under the section. 1902 A.W.N. 24; 4 P.R. 1914 (Cr.) (Summary trial). It is within the competence of the police to put up a charge sheet in respect of an offence under S. 122 of the Act, without a written complaint from the Railway authorities. A complaint filed by the police without such written complaint of the railway authorities is a proper complaint. 1939 M.W.N. 876 =1940 Mad. 268.

five rupees for each head of cattle, in addition to any amount which may have been recovered or may be recoverable under the Cattle Trespass Act, 1871.

(2) If any cattle are wilfully driven, or knowingly permitted to be, on any railway otherwise than for the purpose of lawfully crossing the railway or for any other lawful purpose, the person in charge of the cattle or, at the option of the railway administration, the owner of the cattle shall be punished with fine which may extend to ten rupees for each head of cattle, in addition to any amount which may have been recovered or may be recoverable under the Cattle Trespass Act, 1871.

(3) Any fine imposed under this section may, if the Court so directs, be recovered in manner provided by section 25 of the Cattle Trespass Act, 1871.

(4) The expression "public road" in sections 11 and 26 of the Cattle Trespass Act, 1871, shall be deemed to include a railway, and any railway servant may exercise the powers conferred on officers of police by the former of those sections.

(5) The word "cattle" has the same meaning in this section as in the Cattle Trespass Act, 1871.

Secs. 126 and 128: LYING ON RAILS.—The offence of lying on the rails cannot be said to endanger the safety of persons travelling on the railway and comes under S. 128 and not under S. 126. Where several persons are charged with having conspired for the purpose, the proper conviction will be under S. 129 (b) of the Penal Code, for conspiring to commit an offence under S. 128 of the Railways Act. 1930 M.W.N. 1264.

NOTES.

Sec. 127: OBSTRUCTION BY ASSEMBLY—CONVICTION OF A MEMBER OF THE ASSEMBLY—LEGALITY.—The term "offence" in S. 149, Penal Code, is confined to offence under the Penal Code and so a conviction under S. 128, with reference to S. 149 is illegal and cannot be sustained. (1923 Mad. 187 and 1925 Mad. 239, Foll.). 57 M.L.J. 114. Where a large body of men set out to obstruct a railway line and throw stones at trains they form an unlawful assembly and if in carrying out their common object they commit offences under Ss. 127 and 128, only those of them who are proved themselves to have committed these offences under Ss. 127 and 128 can be convicted under those sections. The rest are not constructively guilty as S. 149 cannot be invoked against them although the offences committed by them are the very offences they set out to commit and committed in prosecution of their common object. 52 Mad. 882=30 Cr.L.J. 869=1929 Mad. 880=57 M. L. J. 114.

Secs. 127 and 130.—Where two boys of tender years threw stones at a Railway train, it was held that the offence, if any, would fall under S. 130 and not under S. 127, and that the action would also ordinarily be protected under Ss. 82 and 83, Indian Penal Code. 30 S.L.R. 9=165 I.C. 642=1936 Sind 185.

Sec. 128: OFFENCE UNDER—PULLING COMMUNICATION CORD AND SITTING IN FRONT OF ENGINE.—A passenger pulled the communication cord of a railway train and stopped the train several times on the ground that his compartment was overcrowded. On the vacuum break being disconnected he sat down after warning the authorities, in front of the engine and commenced playing a musical instrument, thus delaying the train for about eighty minutes. Held, that an offence under S. 128 had been committed. Held, however, that in passing sentence the fact that the accused had in the interests of the public protested against the maladministration of the Railway Company should be taken into consideration. (2) The amount of the bond, if forfeited, shall be recoverable by the Court as if it were a [1]fine imposed by itself.

(3) If a father or guardian fails to execute a bond under sub-section (1) within the time fixed by the Court, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

(2) The person arrested shall be released on his giving bail or, if his true name and address are ascertained, on his executing a bond without sureties for his appearance before a Magistrate when required.

THE INDIAN REGISTRATION ACT (XVI OF 1908).[1]

[18*th December*, 1908.

An Act to consolidate the enactments relating to the Registration of Documents.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate the enactments relating to the registration of documents; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PART I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN REGISTRATION ACT, 1908.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, except such districts or tracts of country as the Provincial Government may [2][6 * * * * *] exclude from its operation.

(3) It shall come into force on the first day of January, 1909.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

[2] The words "within the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council" were omitted by Act XXXVIII of 1920.

NOTES.

Sec. 1: GENERAL.—The object of registration is not to give information to third parties but to check forgery and afford good evidence. 24 M.L.J. 664=20 I.C. 385; 25 P.L.R. 1917. See also 48 C. 1=47 I.A. 239=39 M.L.J. 243 (P.C.). It is the duty of the Registrar to examine the grantor or his representative before a deed is registered. 48 I.A. 365=64 I.C. 299. The Board of Revenue cannot refer to High Court a question under the Regn. Act. 38 A. 351 (F.B.).

STRICT CONSTRUCTION.—The Act has to be strictly construed; but there is a point at which it is unnecessary to multiply technicalities. Non-compliance with R. 30 of the Act held to be an irregularity. 58 C. 133=1931 C. 478. There is nothing in the Act which forbids the splitting up of a transaction. Thus a person may execute several mortgages of the value of less than Rs. 100 so as to avoid registration. 15 R.D. 380=12 L.R. 167 (Rev.). The question whether a document is compulsorily registrable has to be decided on a perusal of that document itself, and rulings upon other documents not shown to be of an exactly similar character are no guide to a proper decision of the questin. 1935 L. 448.

AMENDING ACT II OF 1927—IF RETROSPECTIVE.—The Amending Act is retrospective in its operation and is intended to cover not only documents which may in future be executed but also to documents which have been previously executed. 58 C. 449=34 C. W. N. 881=1931 C. 171.

THE EFFECT OF THE AMENDMENT BY ACT II OF 1927 is to restore the law relating to the admissibility of documents, effecting a contract for sale of immovable property and reciting payment of the purchase-money, as it was understood prior to the decision of the P.C. in Dayal Singh v. Indar Singh, 53 I.A. 214=51 M.L.J. 788; 124 I.C. 606 (1). See also 1931 M.W.N. 297.

(1) "addition" means the place of residence, and the profession, trade, rank and title (if any) of a person described, and, in the case of a Native of India, his caste (if any) and his father's name, or where he is usually described as the son of his mother, then his mother's name:

(2) "book" includes a portion of a book and also any number of sheets connected together with a view of forming a book or portion of a book:

(3) "district" and "sub-district" respectively mean a district and sub-district formed under this Act:

(4) "District Court" includes the High Court in its ordinary original civil jurisdiction:

(5) "endorsement" and "endorsed" include and apply to an entry in writing by a registering officer on a rider or covering slip to any document tendered for registration under this Act:

(6) "immovable property" includes land, buildings, hereditary allowances, rights to ways, lights, ferries, fisheries or any other benefit to arise out of land, and things attached to the earth or permanently fastened to anything which is attached to the earth, but not standing timber, growing crops nor grass:

(7) "lease" includes a counterpart, kabuliyat, an undertaking to cultivate or occupy, and an agreement to lease:

Sec. 17.—The section should be strictly construed. 62 I.C. 809; 69 I.C. 608; 92 I.C. 791; 92 I.C. 762 (2)=1926 L. 530 (2). Thus, where a document simply recites an act already done, it does not require registration. 108 I.C. 892. See also 44 C.L.J. 490=100 I.C. 296=1927 C. 197; 1926 L. 220. S. 17 as amended in 1929 cannot be read as requiring a document to be registered which did not require registration when it was executed before the amending Act came into force. 187 I.C. 353=1940 Pat. 497. S. 17 (1) should not be construed in its most literal sense so as to involve the conclusion that a document which did not require registration when it was executed and which could not now be registered owing to lapse of time would be shut out of evidence. The more reasonable view is to hold that S. 17 (1), when read along with S. 6 of the Indian General Clauses Act does not destroy the validity or admissibility in evidence of a document which complied with all the necessary formalities as they existed at the time of its execution. 53 L.W. 634=1941 Mad. 602=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 759. A document creating a charge on immovable property is compulsorily registrable. 152 I.C. 772=40 L.W. 677=1934 M. 713. Also a document which purports to create any right, title or interest in immovable property. 30 S.L.R. 115=1936 Sind 79 (F.B.). Whether registration is sufficient notice to all parties concerned depends on the facts of each case. 48 C. 1=47 I.C. 239=39 M.L.J. 243 (P. C.); 89 I.C. 625=1925 N. 398; 88 I.C. 398=1925 A. 557. A document containing the terms of disposition in favour of a wakf requires registration. 8 P. 484=117 I.C. 638=1929 P. 410. A deed of hiba basharat-ul-Ewaz is nominally a gift with a condition for consideration. But once the condition is fulfilled, the contract becomes a sale. Therefore such a deed requires registration. 122 I.C. 158=1930 P. 530. Gift to a mosque requires registration. 94 I.C. 7 (2)=1926 L. 372. A petition in mutation proceedings reciting a gift, must be registered to prove title by gift. 38 M.L.J. 313=53 I.C. 901 (P.C.); 48 P.R. 1913; 22 I.C. 712; 3 O.W.N. 45. An agreement by collaterals not to contest a gift by a childless person need not be registered. 89 I.C. 212=1926 L. 148.

Sec. 17 (1) (b): SCOPE.—The words of clause are very true as it includes documents which create as well as documents which purport to create any right, title or interest. 30 S.L.R. 115=163 I.C. 455=1936 S. 79 (F.B.). A deed by the owner of poggalika property declaring the property to be dwitantaka property of himself and another person amounts to creation of an interest in immovable property and therefore it must be registered under the provisions of S. 17 (1) (b). 1941 Rang.L.R. 204=1941 Rang. 159. For meaning and implication of the words "create," 'limit", "assign" or "extinguish," see 35 I.C. 770=19 O.C. 75. For meaning of "declare," see 4 L.W. 472=35 I.C. 874; 93 I.C. 193=1926 N. 301. The word 'declare' implies a declaration of will, not a mere statement of fact. The distinction is between a mere recital of a fact and something which in itself creates a title. Where the statement in a petition merely acknowledged as a fact that another person had a right and itself did not create any right, it does not require registration. 59 I.A. 130=11 P. 272=1932 P. C. 55=62 M.L.J. 296 (P.C.). See also 1938 O.W. N. 454=1938 Oudh 119; 136 I.C. 14=1932 L. 154; 55 B. 103=32 Bom.L.R. 1385= 1931 B. 105; 140 I.C. 387=1932 L. 592. The words 'declare an interest' imply a definite change of legal relation to the property by an expression of will. So a deed of adoption which is only a recital of an act of adoption that has already taken place is not the expression or declaration of will by which the right is constituted and so is not compulsorily registrable. 128 I.C. 901=32 Bom.L.R. 1385. See also 11 R. 481=1933 R. 307. "Declare" in S. 17 (1) (b) is to be taken in the same sense as the words "create", "assign", etc., as implying a definite change of legal relation to the property by an expression or declaration of will and not merely a statement of a fact. A record of family arrangement which is based on a recognition of a pre-existing right cannot be regarded as creating or declaring a new title and is not therefore liable to compulsory registration. 11 O.W.N. 1071=1934 O. 462. But see 14 L. 635=144 I.C. 396= 1933 L. 648. The word 'operate' in S. 17 (b) refers to the immediate intention of the instrument and not to the ultimate consequences or collateral effects. 58 C. 136= 1931 C. 223; 16 P. 34=17 Pat.L.T. 835= 1937 P. 214.

ANY RIGHT, TITLE OR INTEREST—CHARGE—DEBENTURES OF COMPANY.—The words "any right, title or interest" in S. 17 (1) (b) are intended to be very wide and include a mere charge on immovable property as it is a right in immovable property—a right to have it brought to sale to realise a sum of money to be paid to the charge. Held, that the debentures created by a company granting a floating charge on the company's assets require registration. 58 C. 136=1931 C. 223. Quaere.—If a debenture executed by a bank creating a floating charge over its assets and registered under S. 109, Companies Act, is inoperative to affect its immovable property in the absence of registration under the Registration Act. 58 I.A. 323= 1931 P.C. 245=61 M.L.J. 589 (P.C.). An agreement between parties to mutation proceedings praying for mutation in a certain way does not require registration. 25 A. L.J. 797=1927 A. 616. See also 132 I.C. 537=1931 O. 296. Assignment of decree for money (or for possession of immovable property) does not require registration. 17 Pat.L.T. 536. A right to execute a decree for partition is not a right in or to immovable property and an agreement not to exercise that right does not require registration. 49 M.L.J. 675=1925 M. 1149. The section covers only cases of present rights being created. 69 I. C. 608. An agreement to divide property at a future date need not be registered. 27 Bom.L.R. 1441=1926 B. 24; nor is an agreement by a person that, after the acquisition of the proprietary rights, he would have a mutation made in the names of his brothers jointly with himself. 165 I.C. 156 =1936 L. 576. For operation of section, interest created may be absolute or contingent. Case of creation of contingent interest which was held to require registration. 1936 L. 1002. The value of property transferred must be determined as on the date of transfer. 39 I.C. 931. An agreement to transfer land it must be registered. 1925 L. 78. (See now Act II of 1927.) In a suit for specific performance of a contract, the agreement ran as follows: "I have executed this contract in respect of Jiroyati land . . . . . I shall execute a sale deed (in one month) and get the same registered." Held, the document was only a contract to sell and not a sale and that by virtue of the retrospective provisions of Act II of 1927 which nullified the effect of. 53 I.A. 214=51 M.L.J. 788 (P.C.), it did not require to be registered. 1931 M.W.N. 297. See also 124 I.C. 606. Transfer of property where registration is compulsory can only be effected by registration or a decree of Court. 33 A. 728=12 I.C. 109. An assignment of a decree does not require registration. 107 I.C. 603 (2)=1928 L. 70. See also 106 I.C. 485=1928 M. 142. Registration of a deed transferring mortgage decree is unnecessary, especially where the transfer deed does not disclose on its face what kind of decree is transferred. 1931 M. 302=131 I.C. 151; nor security bond executed to Court. 52 B. 72=1928 B. 42. A deed of assignment of arrear of maintenance charged on the income of tarwad lands executed by a member of a Malabar tarwad, requires registration. 43 L. W. 711 =1936 M. 573. An instrument which is not testamentary, but is final, irrevocable and immediately operative against immovable property must be registered. 33 A. 344= 38 I.A. 104=21 M.L.J. 637 (P.C.). A deed of transfer in lieu of dower fixed at less than Rs. 100 does not require registration; but where the dower is fixed not in money but in property itself, a deed which transfers such immovable property (which is worth more than Rs. 100) requires registration even if the deed is stamped with a stamp of one rupee only. 172 I.C. 447=1937 Pesh 107. See also 1937 Pesh. 39. L. T. (Sup.) 1. A compromise which does not create or declare any new right but only recognizes a pre-existing right does not require registration. When such a compromise has been accepted by the Revenue Court and embodied in its order, no question of registration arises as proceedings of mutation and orders thereon are not "instruments" within the meaning of S. 17. 1933 O. 347; 1940 O.W.N. 1092. A compromise which merely defines or varies some of the terms of an already existing tenancy does not require registration and is admissible even though unregistered. 1933 P. 457. An attachment before judgment does not create any title or interest but merely prevents any alienation to the prejudice of the attaching creditor. Hence an agreement by the attaching creditor consenting to sale of the property does not require registration, as he has no right or interest in such property by virtue of his attachment before judgment. 151 I.C. 683 =1934 P. 413. Where the charge created by compromise amounts to a mortgage and is not registered, it is of no effect. 148 I.C. 417=1934 A. 444. An admission of title in an application in mutation proceedings need not be registered. 1924 A. 304. On a partition of property, A got a house and B got a vacant site adjacent to it. A executed a document containing an agreement permitting B to build a house on the vacant site irrespective of any sources of light or air in that portion of the house which fell to the share of A. Held, registration was not necessary. 1936 L. 905. MORTGAGES AND EQUITABLE MORTGAGE BY DEPOSIT OF TITLE-DEEDS.—As to when registration is necessary in case of an equitable mortgage by deposit of title-deeds, see 50 C. 338=44 M.L.J. 602=50 I.A. 77 (P. C.). Ordinarily a mortgage by deposit of title deeds would be an oral transaction. But, as a matter of practice, it is not unusual for the deposit to be accompanied by a memorandum in writing. If there is such a writing, the question is whether it creates the mortgage or whether the mortgage is complete without the writing, the writing being merely the statement of facts which would evidence the mortgage. If the writing creates the mortgage, it must be registered. Where the writing embodies the terms of the loan and it is contemporaneous with the transaction and it accompanies the delivery of title deeds and also contains a calculation of the amount of interest, it creates the mortgage and should, therefore, be registered. I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 187= 1937 Cal. 741; 102 I.C. 34=54 M.L.J. 179; 59 C. 781=36 C.W.N. 420=1932 C. 589; 59 C. 586=36 C.W.N. 193=1932 C. 356; 139 I.C. 95=1932 S. 73; 138 I.C. 247 (L.); 55 B. 677=1931 B. 337; 141 I.C. 541=1933 Pesh. 35; 11 R. 481=1933 R. 307; 42 P.L. At the time of making a deposit of title-deeds as security for money lent, the mortgagor gave a memorandum which contained a list of the title-deeds with the introductory words: "As agreed upon in person, I have delivered to you the undermentioned documents as security". It did not create or declare any interest in the property included in the deeds. It was and remained a list of the document deposited and nothing more. It did not embody the terms of the agreement between the parties and therefore did not require registration. 60 M.L.J. 506=58 I.A. 68=1931 P.C. 36 (P.C.). See also 61 C.L.J. 473; 164 I.C. 63 (L.); 1937 Cal. 741=I.L.R. Lah. 65; 1937 Lah. 135; 42 P.L.R. 29= 1940 Lah. 166 (List of documents deposited does not require registration); 1940 Lah. 285. Where the parties professing to create a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds contemporaneously enter into a contractual agreement, in writing, which is made an integral part of the transaction and is itself an operative instrument and not merely evidential, such a document must under the statute be registered. If a memorandum relating to deposit of title-deeds states that it is hereby agreed between the parties that in consideration of the sums advanced the title-deeds of the property shall be held as security on the said property and refers to any proceedings which may be had for the protection of this security or for procuring payment of the moneys hereby secured; and then it not only sets out all the terms on which the moneys were advanced but expressly confers a power of sale on the mortgagee, the memorandum does not merely evidence a transaction already completed but it is contractual in form and constitutes the agreement between the parties, and therefore requires registration. The mere fact that in a parenthetical passage the title-deeds are stated to have been previously delivered with intent to create a security does not alter the character of the memorandum itself, which if the parenthetical passage be disregarded is an instrument effective to create an interest in the property in favour of the mortgagee. 66 I.A. 184=I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 243=43 C.W.N. 806=1939 A. L. J. 869=1939 P.C. 167=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 522 (P.C.). In deciding the question as to whether a document evidencing an equitable mortgage requires registration under S. 17 or not, the question to be considered is whether the document constituted the bargain between the parties or it was merely a record of an already completed transaction. In the former case the document would come within the purview of S. 17 and would require registration; but in the latter case it would not be a document which would create, etc., a right in immovable property and would not require registration. For the purpose of considering whether the document is to be taken as embodying a bargain between the mortgagor and mortgagee or as merely evidencing a transaction which has already been completed before the document was executed or delivered, not only the terms of the document must be looked into but also the attending circumstances. 180 I.C. 813=1938 Cal. 823. A memorandum signed by the mortgagor in relation to a mortgage by deposit of documents of title may be a document which S. 17 requires to be registered, even though it does not embody all the particulars of the transaction, but registration is not so required unless the memorandum on its face embodies such terms and is signed and delivered at such time and place and in such circumstances as to lead legitimately to the conclusion that so far as the deposit is concerned it constitutes the agreement between the parties. If the document is not the operative instrument and it does not contain the conditions of the transaction and it is merely a record of the title-deeds that had been deposited as collateral security for the amount agreed to be advanced, it need not be registered. 43 P.L.R. 177=1941 Lah. 224. A mortgage by deposit of title-deeds can be inferred from the mere fact of such a deposit accompanying a loan, and no agreement whether in writing or by word of mouth is necessary for the purpose. But, if the parties choose to reduce their bargain to writing, the question will arise: "Does the writing, constitute bargain between the parties or was it merely the record of an already completed transaction?" The answer to this question must necessarily depend upon the facts of each case. The fact that a memorandum evidencing an "equitable" mortgage is contemporaneous with the deposit of title-deeds does not per se render the memorandum inadmissible in evidence for want of registration. To be inadmissible in evidence the memorandum must in itself purport to create a mortgage of immovable property and not be a mere record of an already completed transaction. A mere list of documents showing that the documents included therein had been deposited by way of security or an entry on a voucher (prepared in ordinary course of business), though written on the same day when the deposit is made, cannot be considered to embody the terms of the mortgage transaction, and hence inadmissible in evidence for want of registration. 1930 L. 920; 121 I.C. 878=1930 S. 159. A letter accompanying deposit of title-deeds need not be registered if it mentions merely the fact of deposit of title-deeds. 3 L.L.J. 373; 45 I.C. 918; 31 C.W.N. 703=1927 C. 538; 22 S.L.R. 222=105 I.C. 765=1928 S. 17; 164 I.C. 63 (L.). A letter written by the mortgagor the next day after an agreement to deposit the title-deeds had been concluded ran as follows: "I am sending you the title-deeds with the intention of depositing the same with you as per the memorandum of yesterday executed by me and then referred to the schedules annexed to the letter. Held, the two documents must be read together and so read, they embodied the terms of the transaction, and not having been registered, the mortgage was not valid. 1931 M. 124=60 M.L.J. 309. See also 1940 Sind 204; 1940 Mad. 671=51 L. It was not registered. Held, that it did not create, declare or extinguish any right, but that it only contained a statement of fact that there was no money due under the bond, and promised that another document would be executed if so required by the mortgagor; and that consequently it did not require registration. 40 L.W. 727=67 M.L.J. 690. PARTITION.—The question whether a document is a partition deed or a mere list of partition is one of fact to be gathered from its contents. 87 I.C. 285=1925 M. 1097; 30 M.L.J. 404. A mere memorandum containing a list of bonds allotted to the plaintiff's share on a partition does not require registration. 37 C.W.N. 112. See also 1937 M. W. N. 393. Mere lists of property allotted to different members at a partition do not form an instrument of partition requiring registration. But the question in each case would be whether these lists merely contain the recital of past events or in themselves embody the expression of will necessary to effect the change in the legal relationship contemplated. 1941 N.L.J. 266=1941 Nag. 209. Where a document described as a list of shares of immovable properties equally divided between co-sharers purports to effect a partition of the properties comprised therein between the co-sharers and the allotment thereunder is intended to be final, the document clearly falls within S. 17 (1) (b) of the Registration Act requiring registration; and if unregistered, must be held to be inadmissible in evidence. The mere fact that the parties contemplate the execution of a more comprehensive partition deed later on does not make the document purporting to effect a division any the less operative to create interests in the immovable properties comprised therein so as to justify the view that it does not require registration. In such a case even if a co-sharer happens to be in sole enjoyment of a particular piece of property, he cannot sue in ejectment, basing his title on such a document, if another co-sharer disturbs such enjoyment. 54 L.W. 499 =1941 M.W.N. 944=(1941) 2 M. An unregistered document styled a "share list" set out "particulars of the immovable property which fell to the share of one member" in the decision of the family properties effected between two brothers. It was of the same date as the alleged oral agreement to divide. L. J. 558; 1936 A.L.J. 1165=1936 All. 16. The question whether a particular document falls within the scope of S. 17 (1) (b) has to be decided on a perusal of that document and rulings upon other documents not shown to be of an exactly similar character are no guide to a proper decision of the question. Where, while the proceedings before the Revenue Officer for partition of land were pending, the parties entered into a compromise, whereby the joint property was divided in a certain manner, an application made to the Revenue Officer embodying the terms on which the partition had been effected by the parties and requesting him to give effect to the same, does not require registration. The document itself is not an instrument of partition. Either it is an application to effect a partition or it is a recital of partition which had already been effected by the parties. 38 P.L.R. 567=1936 L. 708. Even for a collateral purpose, an unregistered partition deed cannot be admitted in evidence. 35 P.R. 1916=33 I.C. 948. But see 10 L.L.J. 75, infra. It can be looked into to prove a separation in status, though inadmissible to prove the actual distribution of the property. 10 L.L.J. 75=29 Punj. An agreement not to execute a decree for partition need not be registered. 49 M.L.J. 675. A father and a son with a view to partition, exchanged two documents, one by which the son agreed in consideration of certain property to give up his claim to the rest and the other by which the father agreed to transfer the property to the son's name and to execute in writing any legal document that may be necessary. Possession was not given. Held, the documents did not require registration. 33 Bom.L.R. 802 =1931 B. 419 (1).

PARTNERSHIP.—Where on the dissolution of a partnership which owned immovable properties held in the names of some of the partners among its assets, the partners agree, inter alia, that they (three persons) who had constituted the partnership had equal rights in the immovable properties which had been purchased out of the profits, and such agreement is set out in the firm's day-book and signed by all the partners, it amounts to a declaration falling within S. 17 and if unregistered cannot be admitted in evidence by reason of S. 49. It cannot be said that it is a mere recital of fact as opposed to something which creates title. On the other hand it is an instrument which declares the rights of the partners in the properties from the date of the dissolution of the partnership and therefore requires registration. The fact that it is entered in the day-book and not drawn up separately makes no difference. I.L.R. (1939) Mad. 971=50 L.W. 331=1939 Mad. 884=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 649. See also 1938 Mad. 133= (1938) 2 M.L.J. 511. Dissolution of partnership—Assignment of his interest in partnership assets which included immovable property of over Rs. 100 in value by one of the partners requires registration. 132 I.C. 305=1931 M. 580=60 M.L.J. 527. See also 49 M. 738=51 M.L.J. 410.

POWER OF ATTORNEY.—The only circumstances in which a power-of-attorney is compulsorily registrable under S. 17 (1) (b) are where it has been executed to authorise the donee to recover the rent of an immovable property to the donor for the donee's own benefit; for, in such a case, it amounts to an assignment and hence under Cl. (b) it requires registration. Similarly a power-of-attorney, which is intended to create a charge in favour of the donee on immovable property referred to therein requires registration. 1939 R.D. 203=1939 A.W.R. (B. R.) 200.

RECEIPT OF MONEY.—S. 17 (1) (b) does not apply to a receipt for payment of money due under a mortgage when the receipt does not purport to extinguish the mortgage. 132 I.C. 66=1931 O. 288. See also 133 I. C. 867=32 P.L.R. 407; 35 C.W.N. 861 (kistibundi receipt); 52 L.W. 401.

422. Whether gratuitous surrender requires registration: see 1925 L. 183; 132 I.C. 66=1931 O. 288. See also 63 C.L.J. 52=1936 Cal. 774. An unregistered deed of relinquishment does not become effective by being acted upon in a partition proceeding affecting a wholly different property. 85 I.C. 285=1925 L. 125; 26 C.W.N. 201=49 I.A. 16 (P.C.). Cf. 26 I.C. 790=27 M.L.J. 396. An unregistered agreement relinquishing immovable property and not acted upon by the parties is inadmissible in evidence. 103 I.C. 369=28 P.L.R. 258; 35 P.L.R. 570=1934 L. 604.

RECEIPT AND RELINQUISHMENT.—There is obviously a distinction between a receipt for money and a relinquishment of a claim by a creditor. Where a receipt does not purport to extinguish a mortgage-deed, but merely operates to do so, it may be admissible in evidence without registration on account of exception (xi) mentioned in sub-S. (2) of S. 17 of the Registration Act. But when a document is not a receipt of money but something more and does not come within the ambit of S. 17 (2) (xi) it would require registration to be admissible in evidence. 1940 M.W.N. 895=52 L.W. 401. So also a document surrendering a lease. 28 Bom.L.R. 152=1926 B. 573. Also agreement giving up claim to balance of sale price from vendee after deducting amount due on previous mortgage-deed. 43 Bom.L.R. 1014. An agreement by reversioners to forego their right to question an alienation by a widow need not be registered. 40 A. 384. See also 1933 A. 854. An agreement surrendering reversionary rights must be registered. 12 P.L.R. 1915=27 I.C. 699; 11 I.C. 211. See also 1939 Lah. 414; 15 R.D. 91=12 L.R. 1 (Rev.) (agreement to give up exproprietary rights). A document executed by a Hindu widow by which she surrenders her estate in the immovable properties of her husband worth more than Rs. 100 clearly requires registration and, if unregistered, it is inadmissible in evidence; but it can be looked at to see the nature of the possession of the persons to whom the documents have been executed. 116 I.C. 186. An agreement by a widow surrendering her rights to certain properties of her husband must be registered. 14 I.C. 749. An agreement relinquishing portion of mortgage-debt must be registered. 24 M.L.J. 79; 10 I.C. 733. See also 20 I.C. 429; 45 L.W. 602=1937 M.W.N. 132=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 467. But relinquishment by usufructuary mortgagee of right to take possession need not be registered. 31 I.C. 565. Release of rights in immovable property must always be registered. 66 I.C. 705=25 C.W.N. 990; 145 I.C. 691=1933 L. 422; 50 I.C. 922. If value of property is less than Rs. 100, it need not be registered. 57 I.C. 949. A document by which the defendant relinquished his interest in a mortgage bond in favour of his brother, the plaintiff, and authorised the latter to collect the full amount of the debts is inadmissible in evidence in so far as it operates to extinguish his right, in the mortgage security; but there is no bar to its being admitted for showing the transfer of the debt itself, apart from the security. 66 M.L.J. 380=1934 M. 178. A document by which a partner releases his interest in the property for consideration need not be registered, though the partnership owns immovable property. 49 M. 738=51 M.L.J. 410. An agreement by which a partner assigns his interests in a firm owing immovable property in favour of another partner requires to be registered. 132 I.C. 305=60 M.L.J. 527. The registration is compulsory, even though the title of the party relinquishing is doubtful. 39 P.R. 1919=51 I.C. 391. But a letter stating that the writer has nothing to do with certain property is not a relinquishment and need not be registered. 40 I.C. 455; 37 L.W. 677=1933 M. 432. No registration is necessary in the case of a surrender by tenant to landlord. 53 I.C. 17. The right to hold a market is an incident to the ownership of the land. The allocation of a particular day for holding the bazaar, coupled with the condition that the parties are not to be allowed to hold the bazaar on certain other days is a restriction on the general right possessed by the owner to hold the market, and so where an agreement deals with such a right and the value of the same is more than Rs. 100, the document requires registration. 5 Luck. 504. Endorsement on mortgage bond releasing certain items does not require registration. 37 C.W.N. 424=1933 C. 586.

SALE AND AGREEMENT FOR SALE AND RESALE.—Sale of property above Rs. 100 in value cannot be effected by an unregistered deed. 78 P.L.R. 1917=36 I.C. 374. Agreement for sale of earth and sand requires registration. 1932 M. 734=63 M.L.J. 587. The construction of a sale-deed must be based on the recitals. 44 B. 961. An entry relating to payment in advance for a shop which is to be sold is no more than a memo. of a sum advanced and cannot be considered as a receipt of money received for a sale of an immovable property, and, therefore, does not need registration. 41 P.L.R. 513=1939 Lah. 562. An unregistered bynapatra under which certain money was paid and which provided that the sale-deed was to be executed at a later date is admissible in evidence. Effect of Amending Act II of 1927 indicated. 34 C.W.N. 881=58 C. 449=1931 C. 171. Where the language employed in an agreement of sale clearly purports to transfer the vendor's interest in the immovable property which he had inherited from his deceased brother, particulars of which are set out in the schedule annexed to the agreement, it requires registration. 56 I.A. 363=1929 P.C. 269=57 M.L.J. 765 (P.C.). An agreement to sell immovable property does not require registration under S. 17 and, therefore, even if unregistered, is admissible in evidence. 125 I.C. 549=1930

NOTES.

M. 683=58 M.L.J. 688. An agreement to sell need not be registered. 1924 L. 337; 63 I.C. 22; 37 I.C. 132=98 P.R. 1916; 21 I.C. 778=1925 L. 284; 31 P.L.R. 636=1930 L. 1020. An agreement to re-convey property sold by a contemporaneous deed does not require registration, nor does the agreement to relinquish the right so created. 1930 A.L.J. 799=1930 A. 101; 1934 M. 703=67 M.L.J. 635. But see 35 P.L.R. 337=1934 L. 453, contra. The purchaser of certain property passed a certain document to the vendor in the following terms:—"I pass this agreement to you that on receipt of Rs. 2,500 for that bhag, I will re-convey it to you or your heirs or your assigns. In case I fail to re-convey or in case I raise any sort of objection to such re-conveyance, then you can on the basis of this writing file a suit against me and obtain a decree and take it back through Court." Held, that the document did not in itself create any right, title or interest or limit the title of the vendor so as to require compulsory registration under S. 17 and would be admissible in evidence in a suit for recovery of damages for breach of the agreement. Held, further, that the document, though it required registration under the law as it existed at the time of the execution of the document, namely, Act VIII of 1871 as being a conveyance of an equitable estate, yet it can get the benefit of the mitigation of the rigour of the law by virtue of the enactments contained in S. 17 (h) of Act III of 1877 and S. 17 (2) (v) of Act XVI of 1908. 31 Bom.L.R. 493=1929 B. 290. See also 11 O.W.N. 1184=1934 O. 447. Document conveying properties in lieu of mortgage-debts needs registration. 46 C.L.J. 573. A turn of worship is not an interest in immovable property and a sale thereof does not require registration. 97 I.C. 332=1927 P. 7=6 P. 245. A letter showing that a prior sale-deed is a nominal transaction is admissible in evidence without registration. 91 I.C. 452=1926 M. 362. See also 1936 Lah. 1002 (agreement creating contingent interest in immovable property is also compulsorily registrable).

SECURITY BOND TO COURT—ASSIGNMENT.—Where a Court obtains a security bond hypothecating immovable property to secure a proper disposal of the money due to minors deposited with it, an assignment of the security bond in favour of the minors on their attaining majority in order to enable them to realise the money from the surety can be made by an order of the Court without any registered deed of transfer. 133 I.C. 904 =1931 A. 389 (F.B.). A security bond executing in pursuance of an order of Court, whereby the judgment-debtor hypothecates his immovable property for satisfaction of the decree passed against him, falls within S. 17 (1) (b). The Court's acceptance of such a bond merely indicates that the Court considers the security sufficient and does not give validity to the bond. In other words, the Court approves the substance not the form of the security, the execution of the bond being the mode and the bond the form in which the security is subsequently furnished. In such circumstances, it cannot be said that the execution of the bond is an act of the Court or "a step of judicial procedure," or that the Court merely by approving the substance of the security tendered can, or purport to, convert the security bond—which by law is incapable of affecting the title to immovable property—into an operative, valid and admissible document of title. (31 M. 330, Foll.; 52 B. 72 and 15 L. 282, Not foll.) 13 R. 359=1935 R. 168. A security bond executed in accordance with an order passed under O. 41, Rr. 5 and 6 staying execution of a decree pending decision of the appeal, whereby the surety hypothecates his immovable property for satisfaction of such decree as might be passed by the appellate Court, and which is duly accepted by the Court and execution stayed accordingly, does not require registration as it is a step in judicial proceeding, and the decree-holders can move the Court to realize the decretal amount from the immovable property of the surety mentioned in the bond, even though it had not been registered. 15 L. 282=1934 L. 138 (F.B.).

SURETY BOND.—A security bond charging immovable property executed by a receiver for the due discharge of his functions requires to be registered under the Registration Act. 45 C. W. N. 298. Where the surety bond is not registered, the creditor cannot claim the amount secured as a charge on the property in the hands of the surety. 132 I.C. 798 (1)=1931 O. 310.

SOLENAMA—EVIDENCE OF DISCHARGE OF MORTGAGE DEBT.—There is nothing in law to exclude oral evidence of the discharge or release of a mortgage-deed, when the plea is that the payment was made partly by payment of money or partly by release of the debt. Where a solenama was not entered into for the purpose of varying the terms of a mortgage security, but was a mere contract for discharge or satisfaction of the mortgage, held, that the deed did not require registration for the purpose of being used in evidence. 58 C. 532=1931 C. 667.

TRANSFER OF FUTURE RIGHTS.—An assignment of future rents requires registration. 59 C. 586=36 C.W.N. 193=1932 C. 356. See also 1938 Lah. 721; 1936 Lah. 576 (agreement to have mutation when proprietary rights are acquired). An agreement to re-convey does not require registration. 1924 B. 174=48 B. 166. A bond containing a covenant to re-convey and not to encumber immovable property is not compulsorily registrable. 8 Pat.L.T. 137=1927 P. 17. Where a registered sale and an unregistered agreement to re-convey are executed, if the transaction is really one of mortgage, the second deed is inadmissible for want of registration, as it limits the rights of the ostensible owner. If it is a sale with a contract of re-purchase, the second document does not require registration. 28 Bom.L.R. 954=50 B. 566=1926 B. 497 (F.B.). See also 27 Bom. L. R. 1465. An assent of a reversioner to a conveyance need not be registered since his interest is only a spes successionis. 38 B. 224=22 I.C. 292; 4 L.L.J. 52=1922 L. 95. See also 56 I.C. 272=1 L. 124; 6 L. 87.

TRUSTS.—A deed appointing trustees but not vesting property in them need not be registered. 42 A. 609=47 I.A. 224=39 M. L.J. 263 (P.C.). Though a declaration of trust executed by the donees of certain properties specifying the objects for which they would hold them and reserving a power of revocation of the trust at the will of the donor, does declare or extinguish a right or title to an immovable property, where there is no evidence of the real value of the properties which, in all probability, might be less than Rs. 100 in value, in view of the donor's power of revocation, the document is admissible in evidence even though not registered. 34 Bom.L.R. 218=1932 B. 188. A vendor under an unregistered contract for the sale of immovable property cannot be treated as holding the property as a trustee for the purchaser by reason of what he had said or done. 1934 R. 209=12 R. 589.

VENDOR'S LIEN.—The unpaid vendor's lien under S. 55 (4), T. P. Act, is an interest in immovable property and therefore an instrument assigning such a right, when the property with respect to which the right exists, is worth more than Rs. 100 in value, is compulsorily registrable under S. 17, Registration Act, despite the provisions of S. 8, T. P. Act. 142 I.C. 730=1933 M. 181. A document creating a charge for vendor's lien under S. 55 (4), T. P. Act, requires registration; and it follows from this that any document which purports to transfer what the vendor has under such document, also requires registration under S. 17 (1) (b). 40 L.W. 481=1934 M. 615.

Sec. 17, sub-S. (1) (b): LEASE DEEDS.—Very strict interpretation is to be placed on the words in S. 17 (1) (b), and if there is doubt the document should be admitted. 1939 Rang. 410=188 I.C. 228. S. 17 (1) (b) must be deemed entirely to exclude leases as there is a separate Cl. (d) which deals with leases. Lease of agricultural land may be by oral agreement. But when an instrument is executed for that purpose, it comes under S. 17 (1) (d) and requires registration. 62 C.L.J. 534=1936 C. 770. A lease not falling under Cl. (d) does not require registration. 9 L.R. 186 (Rev.)= 12 R.D. 426; 17 R.D. 8=13 L.R. 387 (Rev.); 41 L.W. 351=1935 M. 305; 11 O. W.N. 1565=1935 Oudh 90; 152 I.C. 757= 1934 All. 902; 13 L.R. 387 (Rev.). Document purporting to be a lease or an agreement to lease must be registered. 82 I.C. 949=1925 C. 370; 52 I.C. 695. An agreement to lease not importing a present demise is not compulsorily registrable. 54 I. C. 134=21 Bom.L.R. 1130; 35 Bom.L.R. 722 =1933 Bom. 381. The word "declare" in S. 17 is ejusdem generis with the other words create, assign or limit with which it is in contiguity. 11 R. 481=1933 R. 307; 1935 Pesh. 69; 44 M. 399=40 M.L.J. 161. See for cases of immediate demise. 27 I. C. 91; 6 N.L.J. 151=1923 N. 171. A document admitting a lessee to statutory tenancy does not require registration. 14 L. R. 381 (Rev.)=17 R.D. 503. Permission to plant a grove in sir land need not be in writing or registered. 14 L. R. 284 (Rev.) =17 R.D. 399. Under the T. P. Act, a permanent lease can be created only by a registered instrument. Where the document is not registered, no title passes. It cannot be construed as an agreement to lease, but even if it could be so construed, it would require registration before it can be put forward as an agreement on the basis of which a claim for specific performance could be made. 37 C.W.N. 473. Acceptance of the highest bid in an auction for farming out the rents of some villages does not by itself give the purchaser any right in the property which he could obtain only by the execution of a muchalika. In the absence of a muchalika, there is no agreement which requires registration. 1933 M.W.N. 818. A conditional agreement to execute a lease is not compulsorily registrable. 1925 S. 54; also 14 Pat.L.T. 628=1933 P. 544; nor lease for drawing toddy. 38 M. 883= 23 I.C. 102. A subsequent unregistered lease, fixing a smaller rent than the one in a prior registered lease, cannot be admitted in evidence. 41 C. 493=40 I.A. 223=26 M.L.J. 25 (P.C.); 148 I.C. 558=1934 L. 743. But where a solenamah was executed modifying the rental payable under a prior darputni and excluding one of the items originally included, it was held to be not compulsorily registrable. 55 C. 701=32 C. W.N. 268=1928 C. 441. See also 60 C.L. J. 384=1935 C. 261. A jamabandi prepared on the basis of a survey made subsequent to an oral settlement of an agricultural jama with a tenant, showing an increase in the area of agricultural land in the jama and consequent enhancement of rent, and signed by the tenant, does not fall under either Cl. (b) or Cl. (d) of sub-S. (1) of S. 17 and is not compulsorily registrable when such a lease can be created orally. It is therefore admissible in evidence to prove an increase of rent in respect of increased area. 40 C. W.N. 1330. A compromise filed in Court agreeing to an enhancement in rent, unless registered, is not admissible in evidence. 3 O.W.N. 60. See also 197 I.C. 360.

VALUE—INTEREST CONVEYED AND NOT CONSIDERATION.—The value of Rs. 100 refers to the value of the right, title or interest conveyed thereby and not necessarily the consideration. Where the defendant executed a deed out of affection towards his wife granting her the life-interest in property producing Rs. 90 a year, held, the value of

(c) non-testamentary instruments which acknowledge the receipt or payment of any consideration on account of the creation, declaration, assignment, limitation or extinction of any such right, title or interest; and

(d) leases of immovable property from year to year, or for any term exceeding one year, or reserving a yearly rent;

NOTES.

the interest conveyed was more than Rs. 100 and that the document required registration. 138 I.C. 274=34 Bom.L.R. 459=1932 B. 217. Where a mortgage decree concerning immovable property is assigned for a consideration of less than Rs. 100, the deed does not require registration under S. 17 of the Registration Act, although the amount due under the decree assigned, is more than Rs. 100. The test for registration is the value of the property affected by the deed of assignment and the pecuniary consideration stated in the deed of assignment for the transfer is the amount to be taken into consideration for the purpose of determining whether it is compulsorily registrable. 44 Bom.L.R. 164. See also 2 Bom. 97; 2 Bom. 353. A document releasing a charge created on immovable property comes directly within the terms of S. 17 (b) and requires registration. 62 I. A. 23=59 B. 180=65 M.L.J. 339=39 C.W. N. 440 (P. C.). Applicability—"Composition deed"—"Decree or order"—Agreement between debtor and creditor creating charge over immovable properties—If exempt from registration. 1934 M. 697=67 M.L.J. 836.

VALUE OF 100 RUPEES.—There is nothing illegal in the parties splitting, what is apparently one mortgage transaction of more than Rs. 100, into several mortgages of even date, each for a sum of less than Rs. 100. In such a case, the charge on the particular plot dealt with in each instrument is below Rs. 100 and therefore none of them requires registration under S. 17. 188 I.C. 502 =1940 Lah. 98. Different mortgage-deeds between same parties—Each relating to separate land—Valued at less than Rs. 100 —Each deed containing clause that mortgagor would redeem his land when he would pay up entire money —Need for registration. 41 P.L.R. 585=1939 Lah. 173. A husband executed a deed of transfer of his house to his wife in lieu of dower. The dower was fixed at a certain sum below hundred. The market value of the house was over hundred rupees. Held, it is the amount for which the property is transferred that determines the necessity for registration, and not the market value of the property transferred. The deed does not require registration. 168 I.C. 390=1937 Pesh. 39. A sale-deed executed by the mortgagor conveying the equity of redemption to the mortgagee for a consideration less than Rs. 100 does not require registration, even though the mortgage debt is for more than Rs. 100. 60 B. 220=38 Bom.L. R. 205=1936 B. 175.

Sec. 17, sub-S. (1) (c).—Receipt of earnest money must be registered. 37 I.C. 132=98 P.R. 1916.

RECEIPT.—Receipts purporting to put an end to the mortgage rights do not come within the exception embodied in S. 17 (2) (xi). It follows therefore that these receipts are compulsorily registrable under S. 17 (1). These receipts can be relevant only as evidence of payments of mortgage-debts either in full or in part. Otherwise they would be irrelevant. And if they are relevant only for proving payments of the mortgage-debts, they certainly would affect the mortgage-debts by reducing them considerably. Hence the mortgagor cannot rely on these receipts as evidence of payment of the mortgage-debts in question. 1938 Mad. 533=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 586. See also 41 P. L.R. 38=1939 Lah. 185; 40 P.L.R. 833=1938 Lah. 497. There is a clear distinction between a discharge of a debt and the extinguishment of a mortgage contract, though one may be the result of the other. All that the S. 17 (2) (xi) exempts is a receipt for the payment of money due under a mortgage. A receipt which merely acknowledges payment and refers to the payment as a naked fact does not fall within S. 17 (1) (c), unless the fact is referred to as a consideration for a contractual engagement whereby the interest created by the principal registered instrument is limited or extinguished. 60 Bom. 220=38 Bom.L.R. 205 =1936 Bom. 175. Sale-deed—Money left with vendee to pay off vendor's creditor—Amount paid not to creditor but to vendor—Receipt by vendor to vendee—Registration not necessary. 1937 A. L. J. 749 =1937 All. 636. Where a sale of mortgagee rights took place two months before the execution of the receipt, the receipt cannot be regarded as a contract of sale. It merely evidences the payment of consideration for a contract that has been completed two months previously, and is therefore admissible in evidence without registration. Even if it is compulsorily registrable under S. 17 (1) (c), the payment can be proved by means of oral evidence. 151 I.C. 884=35 P.L.R. 491=1934 L. 472. S. 17 (1) (c) is perfectly clear and the simple meaning of it is that any document which records the receipt of money due on a mortgage, or on any other instrument indicated in S. 17 (1) (b) comes within it. Therefore, a document which is a receipt and which recites certain oral mortgages said to have been executed previously and records the receipt of the consideration for all those mortgages on the date of the execution of the receipt, requires to be registered under S. 17 (1) (c). 36 P.L.R. 211=1934 L. 970. See also 23 Pat.L.T. 46=1942 P.W.N .444.

meaning of tenancy from year to year, see 36 I.C. 378=10 Bur.L.T. 109; 105 I.C. 43. Where a lease is for a fixed period of one year, the mere fact that a certain amount mentioned therein is to be paid under it for the year to which it relates, does not make the lease one from year to year or reserving an yearly rent. 41 P.L.R. 29=1939 Lah. 234. See also 42 P.L.R. 75; 1940 M. 379. A lease which is for one year certain with the option to the landlord to permit the tenant to continue to live thereafter, is a lease for a term not exceeding one year and is not compulsorily registrable when it does not reserve a yearly rent. 42 P.L.R. 442 =1940 Lah. 409. See also 1939 Lah. 558 =41 P.L.R. 646. For this sub-section to apply it must effect an actual present demise. 45 C. 485=46 I.A. 240=37 M.L.J. 525 (P.C.). See also 64 I.C. 747=25 C. W.N. 550; 1930 P. 601; 116 I.C. 630= 1929 C. 186. Lease-deed creating tenancy at will does not require registration. 34 Bom.L.R. 959=1932 B. 493; nor lease for one year only. 152 I.C. 757=1934 A. 902. Agricultural leases which do not exceed the term of one year are exempt from stamp duty and registration. A consent statement in the form of an agreement by a tenant to pay the landholder rent in money for the crops raised is, however, on a different footing, as it amounts to an agreement to pay rent in money instead of in grain and contemplates a permanent tenancy at a definite money rent. Such an agreement which varies the rent payable by the lessee under the patta requires registration. I. L. R. (1940) Mad. 487=1940 Mad. 379=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 391 (F.B.). Lease for more than one year must be in writing and registered. 63 C. 31; 39 P.L.R. 590. A document which is a definite lease of immovable property for seven years requires registration, and if unregistered cannot be received in evidence. 38 P.L.R. 590. "Reserving a yearly rent"—meaning of, see 193 I.C. 786 =1941 Pesh. 30. A compromise petition which did nothing more than express an agreement that a lease would be interpreted in a particular way does not create a new lease and no registration is necessary. 1941 Cal. 536. An agreement to lease, in order to be compulsorily registrable under S. 17 (1) (d) must be one which effects an actual demise or creates a present and immediate interest in the land which is the subject of the agreement. Although the parties to an agreement might intend that a formal lease should be executed and registered, if possession of the property is given under the agreement and parties act as though the tenancy is in force, it must be held that there is a present demise and the agreement to lease requires registration, and not merely an agreement to execute a lease at a later date under S. 17 (2) (v) of the Act. The fact that the tenancy is to commence at a date subsequent to the agreement would not prevent there being a present demise. 43 Bom. L.R. 603=1941 Bom. 346. All decrees and orders are not excluded from compulsory registration by reason of the provisions of S. 17 (2) (vi) of the Registration Act, but only those are excluded which partake of the character of documents mentioned in Cls. (b) and (c) of S. 17 (1); a decree embodying a compromise purporting to grant a lease within the meaning of Cl. (d) of S. 17 (1) is not exempt from registration. 194 I.C. 428=1941 Pat. 536. Clause in lease-deed creating charge for rent requires registration. 11 P. 98=12 Pat.L.T. 871=1932 P. 97. As to deed containing double contract, see 140 I.C. 681=1932 S. 217. The right to levy toll under the Bombay Tolls on Road and Bridges Act is independent of the ownership of Government in the soil of the road and is therefore not immovable property as defined by the Registration Act. A right conferred by a lease or kabuliyat to recover toll for a period of one year from carriages or vehicles passing over a particular public road, is not an incident of ownership of immovable property so as to come under the expression "benefits to arise out of land" within the meaning of S. 2 (6) of the Registration Act. The right of Government to levy toll is not an incident of ownership of land. Toll is collected in exercise of a statutory right. Consequently a writing which purports to be an assignment or extinguishment of the rights of the lessee of the tolls is not compulsorily registrable under S. 17 (1) (b). 42 Bom.L.R. 780=1940 Bom. 369. An agreement purporting to vary the rent reserved in a previous registered lease requires registration, even though the previous lease is not compulsorily registrable. 69 C.L.J. 163=1939 Cal. 416. Where the terms of the grant of sanad are that a person is to claim land within certain boundaries and that at the end of the period of three years a lease would be entered at a rent to be fixed of the portions of the land re-claimed, the sanad is not a lease and it is not a title to land and therefore it is unnecessary to register it for being admissible in evidence. 1930 P. 356. A license which is not a lease, does not require compulsory registration. 120 I.C. 673 (1). A letter which was passed between the parties stated as follows: "I beg to note that I have agreed to take a lease from you of the vacant land.....The lease is to be for a period of five years, I am to pay rent for every month in advance at.....I am not to use the demised premises for any purpose other than that of storing timber. A formal lease is to be executed and such lease will contain besides other terms a covenant for re-entry in case of default in payment of rent." The letter constituted a present demise of the land and the condition that a formal lease was to be thereafter drawn up and executed was in the nature of a further assurance only. Consequently the letter falls under S. 17 (1) (d). 32 Bom.L.R. 188=1930 B. 210. Memo. granting reclamation lease, if unregistered, is inadmissi-

Where no date was fixed for expiry of the lease, but the landlord could terminate it on the happening of a particular event named, it must be registered. 41 B. 458=39 I.C. 625. His rights cannot be held to have disappeared merely because the assignments by him have been found to be invalid for want of registration. 178 I.C. 278=1938 Lah. 430. See also 17 Pat.L.T. 536. A Kobala transferring a rent decree for more than Rs. 100 requires to be registered under S. 17 (1) (e), as the decree creates a charge on the property. 1929 with reference to S. 17 (2) (vi) has no retrospective operation. 14 Luck. 763 =1939 O.W.N. 809=1939 Oudh 269. A compromise decree passed prior to 1st April, 1930, is not a decree of which registration is necessary under S. 17 of the Registration Act, even though the consent decree may include properties not the subject-matter of the suit. The fact that the decree has not been made in accordance with O. 23, R. 3, C. P. Code, does not make it any the less a compromise decree not requiring registration for its validity. 64 C.L.J. 431=40 C. W.N. 1176. See also 1937 Lah. 708=39 P.L.R. 496; 40 C.W.N. 585; 1939 Oudh 269; 1937 A.L.J. 1090; 1936 Lah. 603; 1938 Mad. 202; I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 607=1939 Nag. 233; 42 Bom.L.R. 1023; 1941 Bom. 1. S. 17 (2) (vi) does not exempt from registration documents coming within S. 17 (1) (d). 65 C.L.J. 590=1938 Cal. 172. See also I.L.R. (1937) Cal. 65=40 C.W. N. 974. S. 17 (2) (vi) which exempts certain classes of decrees from registration applies only to documents falling under Cls. (b) and (c) of S. 17 and not to those falling under Cl. (d) of that section. 178 I. C. 760=40 P.L.R. 567=1938 Lah. 685. A final decree for sale on a simple mortgage drawn up in the ordinary form must be regarded as immovable property for the purposes of Ch. III of the Transfer of Property Act, relating to sale of immovable property and a deed of assignment of such a decree is compulsorily registrable under S. 17 (1) (e) of the Registration Act as amended by the T. P. (Amendment) Supplementary Act of 1929, if the value thereof is Rs. 100 or upwards. I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 306=1940 Mad. 140=(1940) 1 M.L. J. 922.

SCOPE.—The saving clause in S. 17 (2) (vi) has no application to the case of a lease created by decree, compromise decree or order of a Court and it falls under S. 17 (1) (d). 1930 C. 94; 39 C.W.N. 485; 37 P.L.R. 238. Only such decrees and orders which partake of the character of the documents mentioned in cl. (b) and (c) of sub-S. (1) are excluded from compulsory registration. If, however, a consent decree operated to create a lease, it requires to be compulsorily registered. 11 P. 98=136 I. C. 54=1932 P. 97. Cl. (vi), S. 17, exempts from registration "any decree or order, of a Court" and not "any final decree or order, etc." Thus the exemption is not restricted to decrees, which have become final and conclusive but includes within its purview, decrees which have been set aside wholly or in part on appeal or review or have otherwise become inoperative. The circumstance that the decree is subsequently varied or reversed, might affect its enforceability but not its value as a "method" of proof of the terms of the transaction, which were embodied in it. Therefore, it is open to a party in a later suit to have the terms of the compromise proved by reference to the decree. 6 L. 217=1934 L. 721. "Court," meaning of. See 132 I. C. 537=1931 O. 296. An application for attachment is a "proceeding" within the meaning of S. 17 (2) (vi). 41 L.W. 301 =1935 M. 232=68 M.L.J. 41. A memorandum or agreement requires registration if the parties intend it to be a declaration of rights and if it is so worded, but a memorandum drawn up for the purpose of obtaining another document to declare rights, for example, a compromise decree to be obtained later on in terms of the agreement—does not require registration. 1940 M. 897=52 L.W. 339=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 319. Exchange of shares in immovable property among co-owners under a compromise decree, does not create or extinguish title and does not require registration. 1937 P. W. N. 51=1937 P. 232. Even where a material which does not concern the subject-matter of the suit has been embodied in a decree, there is no necessity for registration. This means in effect that the document embodying that material can be given in evidence and used as proof of title. 1930 A. L. J. 324=1930 A. 118; 33 P.L.R. 761; 133 I.C. 403=1931 A.L.J. 835=1931 A. 745. Where an unregistered solenama was held before the Collector in proceedings taken under the Land Registration Act for mutation of names and the name of a co-sharer was registered in respect of certain property and it was stated in the solenama that he was in exclusive possession for over 30 years and the other co-sharer gave up all rights to the property on payment of some money, held, that the solenama did not form a part of the decree of the Land Registration Collector; that there should have been a deed of sale which in order to be effective was necessary to be registered, having regard to the provisions of S. 54, T. though no doubt a copy of a decree may be presented for registration, there is no obligation to do so. 120 I.C. 218=1930 N. 17. A decree or order adjusting the claim of the judgment-creditor in execution of his decree, whereby a charge is created in his favour on immovable property, of the value of more than Rs. 100, not the subject-matter in suit, which is compulsorily registrable under S. 17 (1) of the Registration Act is not required to be sent to the Registrar for registration; a copy of such decree or order can be accepted for registration. There is nothing in the Act which prevents any party from applying that a true copy of the decree or order should be sent to the Registrar for being registered. The decree or order should always remain on the records of the Court. 174 I.C. 954=40 Bom.L.R. 160=1938 Bom. 212.

AWARDS.—Award may under certain circumstances amount to a partition deed. Then it requires registration. 19 C.L.J. 123=20 I.C. 860=18 C.W.N. 475; 42 I.C. 617. See also 46 I.C. 685; 39 I.C. 912=77 P.W.R. 1917; 42 I.C. 116; 1936 Sind 79=30 S.L.R. 115. Where an award is made without the intervention of the Court and filed under para. 20 of Sch. II, C. P. Code, it is the application to the Court which is to be registered and numbered as a suit, and the application must contain and show what the award is, and it is on the award that the Court has to pronounce judgment and pass a decree which must be in accordance with the award. When a charge is created by the award on the immovable properties of one of the parties to the arbitration and award, and mentioned in the award, it cannot be said that the compromise relates to properties outside the suit and not the subject-matter of the suit, within the meaning of S. 17 (2) (vi). Such an award and the decree passed thereon do not require registration under S. 17. 42 Bom.L.R. 1123. An award which merely directs one of the parties to pay a certain sum of money to the other periodically does not require registration and therefore must be treated as a valid award to that extent. 168 I.C. 213=1936 Lah. 794. An award made by arbitrators appointed by the Court with a view to having its terms incorporated in a decree of the Court is not an award which is compulsorily registrable. 154 I.C. 557=1935 R. 16. See also 1935 Pesh. 69; 31 S.L.R. 8=1937 Sind 156. An award made by arbitrators under orders of the Court has no force until a decree is passed on it. A private award, if it is valid, is operative, even though neither party has sought to enforce it by a regular suit. A private award therefore falls within the class of documents specified in S. 17 (1) (b), whereas an award of the other class does not. By the amendment of S. 17, Registration Act, by S. 10 of T. P. Supplementary Act, 1929, the exception contained in S. 17 (2) (vi) having been removed, a private award, if it satisfies the requirement as to value, is compulsorily registrable. 62 C. 201=39 C.W.N. 54=1934 C. 815; 36 Bom.L.R. 174=1934 B. 140. See also 30 S.L.R. 337=1937 Sind 7; 44 Bom.L.R. 158; 1937 Cal. 201; 42 Bom.L.R. 1113; 1937 Pat. 183=15 Pat. 579; 6 Cut. An award under which claims to property were relinquished, though unregistered, is still admissible in evidence. 1936 L. 877. An award which only recognises the fact that the mortgagee never had any interest in a portion of the mortgaged property for the simple reason that the mortgagor had also no interest in that property, does not create, or extinguish or limit any right, and therefore does not need registration. 1938 Lah. 481. An award altering the rate of interest in a mortgage deed does not require registration, as a change in the rate of interest is not a change in the mortgagee's interest in the property. 180 I.C. 917=40 P.L.R. 291=1938 Lah. 481. A document signed by the arbitrators as their award does not cease to be an award, merely because the settlement was arrived at by the parties and was also signed by them. Though it may take effect as a partition, it does not require registration as an award. (22 I.C. 412, Rel. on.) 51 A. 659=1929 A. 365; 1933 A. 49. Mere signature of the parties in the award does not remove the same from the category of an award. 81 P.R. 1913=20 I.C. 868; 66 I.C. 118; 10 P.R. 1917. But see 102 I.C. 277=1927 S. 206. A document signed by the arbitrators as their award does not cease to be an award, merely because over and above the signatures of the panchas, the parties themselves signed it in token of their acceptance of the partition and as such the document does not require registration. (51 A. 659 and 1927 B. 656, Rel. on). 146 I.C. 937 (2)=1934 P. 48. An award made on arbitration comes under S. 17 (1) (b) of the Registration Act, and if it purports or operates to create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish any right, title or interest of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards to or in immovable property, it is compulsorily registrable; where the award is compulsorily registrable but not registered, the Court is not competent to file it and pass a decree upon it, as that is contrary to the provisions of S. 49 of the Registration Act. If the Court passes a decree on the award without adverting to S. 49, the decree may be set aside on review on the ground of a mistake or error apparent on the face of the record, as the Court has been misled into making an order contrary to the statute. 40 Bom.L.R. 952=1938 Bom. 422.

COMPROMISE.—A compromise in a criminal case agreeing to give up possession of certain lands does not require registration. 43 I.C. 26. A compromise embodied in a decree does not require registration. 6 L. 344=1925 L. 542. Decree in terms of a solenama, see 30 C.W.N. 307=1926 C. 666. See also 40 C.W.N. 585; 42 C.W.N. 107. As to whether portions of a compromise recorded in a decree but which are not embodied in the decree require registration. See 27 L.W. 544=1928 M. 713 (F.B.) following 43 M. 688 (F.B.); 98 I.C. 169 (1) =1927 A. 156; 1930 A.L.J. 324=1930 A. 118; 17 Pat.L.T. 164=162 I.C. 787=1936 P. 300. See also I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 312= 1939 Cal. 235; 1936 Pat. 300=17 Pat.L.T. 164; 1938 Lah. 737; 1941 A.L.J. 587. As to terms of compromise not incorporated in the decree, see 100 I.C. 783; 28 M.L.J. 548. Where, in a compromise deed, executed between the parties to a suit, a charge is created on immovable property in favour of a third party, the latter cannot enforce the charge in the absence of registration of the compromise deed, even though its terms are incorporated in the decree. 1936 A.L.J. 288=1936 A. 621. See also 1937 A.L.J. 120=1937 All. 282; 1938 Pat. 140 (Compromise decree granting occupancy right is compulsorily registrable). The same is the case even when charge is created in favour of a party to the suit where the charged property is not the subject-matter of the suit. 164 I.C. 1009=40 C.W.N. 974. To attract the operation of S. 17 (2) (vi), specific immovable property must be the subject-matter of the litigation. There must be a claim or right in or to the specific immovable property asserted in the litigation and relief sought in respect thereof in order to make the said property the subject-matter of a suit. A claim to have a liability satisfied out of the general estate of a person is not enough. 45 L.W. 501= 1937 M. 504. See also 1936 Pesh. 125; 42 Bom.L.R. 165=1940 B. 143. Where therefore a claim is made in a suit on a promissory note executed by a Hindu, impleading his sons also, to a decree against the joint family properties of the father and sons, and a compromise decree is passed in and by which a charge is created on certain items of immovable property as security for the due payment of the decretal amount, the decree is not exempt from registration under S. 17 (2) (vi); and unless so registered, the charge in favour of the decree-holder cannot prevail in law. 1937 Mad. 504. As to what property would be the subject-matter of suit, see 43 P.L.R. 9=1941 Lah. 164. If a decree or order is made on a compromise which comprises immovable property other than that which is the subject-matter of the suit or proceeding, the decree requires registration. A decree in a purely money suit which creates or purports to create a charge on immovable property prima facie falls within S. 17 (2) (vi) of the Registration Act and requires registration. The fact that the immovable property over which a charge is created by the decree is attached before judgment does not make it the subject-matter of the suit, as the application for attachment before judgment cannot be considered to be a "proceeding" within the meaning of S. 17 (2) (vi). The natural meaning of "proceeding" in S. 17 (2) (vi) is an independent originating proceeding which may be constrasted with a suit, a proceeding that is under some special Act. Nor can the land be said to be the subject-matter of the order for attachment before judgment, because an order for attachment is merely an injunction restraining the defendant from disposing of certain land, which operates in personam and not in rem, and which does not create any right or interest in the land. 42 Bom.L.R. 1016. Where a money suit was compromised by a decree which provided that the defendant should not dispose of his share in certain property until the debt had been discharged, held, that the decree was sufficient evidence of its terms and that it did not require registration though it affected lands. 6 O. W.N. 908=1929 O. 539. The decree is evidence of the terms of compromise, even apart from the compromise deed itself. The decree as such is exempt from registration under S. 17 (2) (vi). A decree though set aside or modified, is a decree within the abovementioned clause. 1930 L. 937. The parties having compromised, the Court passed an order to the following effect: "Parties and counsel present. They have compromised. In accordance with the terms of the compromise the suit is dismissed. No costs." It appeared that under the compromise one party was to retain possession of certain immovable property on payment of a sum of money. There was a substantial compliance with the reservation in S. 17 (2) (vi) of the Registration Act and the compromise was not inadmissible for want of registration. 128 I.C. 300=1930 L. 855 (2). A compromise not incorporated in a decree is compulsorily registrable. 100 I.C. 783=28 Punj.L.R. 143. Even though a suit is dismissed in accordance with the terms of a deed of compromise, if that compromise has not been recorded under the provisions of O. 23, R. 3, C. P. Code, the deed is not exempt from registration (1927 L. 865, Foll.) 165 I.C. 199=1936 L. 605. Where, while passing a decree on a compromise, the Judge does not comply with the provisions of O. 23, R. 3, C. P. Code, and the compromise, so far as it concerns certain lands, was never ordered to be recorded in the suit, this portion of the compromise does not become a part of the judicial proceedings and is not exempt from registration. 1937 L. 353=39 P.L.R. 591. In the case of a compromise beyond the scope of the suit, even though the decree might not embody the terms of the compromise, if the parties have acted on its terms, the parties are not entitled to resile therefrom. 42 C. 801=42 I.A. 1=28 M.L.J. 548 (P.C.). A compromise petition requires no registration. 78 P.R. 1917 =40 I.C. 675; 90 P.W.R. 1915=29 I. C. 311; 34 I.C. 446; 46 I.C. 913; 39 I.C. 545. But see 96 I.C. 227=1926 L. 585 (2). A compromise effecting a family settlement does not necessarily involve a transfer of rights and the parties cannot resile from the same. 43 A. 1=18 A.L.J. 877. See also 37 A. 105=27 I.C. 497. Though a compromise may amount to a conveyance of properties of more than Rs. 100 in value, if it is embodied in a decree, it need not be registered. 88 P.R. 1917=42 I.C. 380; 54 I.C. 538=24 C.W.N. 328; 4 L. 363=1923 L. 581; 45 I.C. 331; 20 I.C. 817=20 P.R. 1914; 43 M. 688=39 M.L.J. 77 (F.B.); 37 I.C. 764; 36 M. 46=21 M.L.J. 870. See also 42 Bom.L.R. 1016; 1938 Bom. 461. Where under a compromise decree there has been an exchange of shares in immovable property amongst co-owners, such compromise does not create or extinguish title in immovable property so as to affect it. Such exchange is not a transfer of immovable property within the meaning of the Transfer of Property Act, and it does not therefore require registration. 1937 P. W. N. 51=1937 Pat. 232. A compromise of a disputed claim in a Revenue Court is not a decree and unless registered, the compromise is ineffective. 38 A. 366=35 I.C. 701 (F.B.). Proceedings under S. 145, Cr. P. Code, in respect of a site valued less than Rs. 100 was compromised by which defendant was allowed to erect a building and plaintiff also was allowed to build a new room on the site and Rs. 50 were paid to the plaintiff. The compromise was acted on by the parties but subsequently the plaintiff sued for the removal of the defendant's building. Held, that the compromise, though not registered, was admissible and that, as the parties had enjoyed benefit under it, plaintiff could not be allowed to resile from it. (1922 A. 248, Ref.; 35 C. 1010, Dist.) 148 I.C. 867=11 O.W.N. 450=1934 O. 116. An order of Court made prior to the amendment of S. 17 (2) (vi) in 1929 is admissible without any qualification and is admissible in evidence for the purpose of proving a charge on immovable property. Where in proceedings under S. 145, Cr. P. Code, a compromise is filed by the parties creating a charge on immovable property which was the subject-matter of the proceedings, and the Court passes an order on the compromise, merely stating "lodged", the order must be taken to convey a good deal more than a mere order of dismissal; such an order is meant to incorporate the statements made by the parties in the compromise and to convey that in view of those statements it was unnecessary to proceed with the case any further; the charge created by the compromise "lodged" by the Court falls under S. 17 (2) (vi). 47 L.W. 435=1938 Mad. 531=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 536. Where in a money suit the immovable property of the defendant is provisionally attached before judgment, but such attachment is subsequently cancelled on the defendant giving an undertaking not to alienate the property by mortgage or sale till the suit was decided, and subsequently a consent decree is made by which the very property which is attached and released from attachment is charged under the consent decree, the decree does not require registration, because the property attached has been the subject-matter of a proceeding, viz., the attachment proceeding, under S. 17 (2) (vi) of the Registration Act. The undertaking of the defendant not to alienate operates in law as an injunction against him with regard to the property till disposal of the suit. I.L.R. 1938 Bom. 738=40 Bom.L.R. 929=1938 Bom. 461. See also 175 I. C. 256=1938 Pat. 212. Where a property is mortgaged by the owner who subsequently sells it and the purchaser redeems the mortgage out of the money left with him, the receipt reciting the fact of extinction of the mortgage is admissible in evidence on the ground that the transaction is not between original parties to the mortgage. The purchaser can enforce the contract by means of a suit and also can raise the question by way of defence in a suit brought by the mortgagee. (7 All. 820 and 27 All. 305, Foll.). 178 I.C. 168=40 P. L. R. 776=1938 Lah. 485. A transfer of decree for sale of immovable property requires no registration. 35 A. 524=21 I.C. 462.

payment of money due under a mortgage when the receipt does not purport to extinguish the mortgage; or (xii) any certificate of sale granted to the purchaser of any property sold by public auction by a Civil or Revenue officer.

NOTES.

Sec. 17 (2) (xi).—The words "purport to extinguish" in S. 17 (2) (xi) cannot mean "have the effect of extinguishing". A receipt saying "whole of the mortgage debt has been paid is not to be taken to purport" the extinction of the mortgage. 41 P.L.R. 104=1939 Lah. 272. An endorsement of payment on a mortgage-deed which does not on its face purport to extinguish the mortgage, does not require registration. The return of the mortgage-deed, by the mortgagee is not conclusive in such cases nor even of itself any indication that the mortgage is extinguished. 34 L.W. 921=1932 M. 141. See also 1940 O.W.N. 1293=1941 Oudh 193; 1941 O.A. 123. An endorsement on the back of the mortgage-deed releasing some of the mortgaged properties does not extinguish the mortgage, but falls within sub-S. (2), Cl. (xi) of S. 17 and does not require registration. 61 C. 894=1934 C. 775. An endorsement on a mortgage-deed acknowledging the payment of the whole or any part of the mortgage money is exempt from registration under S. 17 (2), (xi) even if it purports to extinguish the mortgage. It is only an independent receipt for payment of mortgage money that requires registration when it purports to extinguish the mortgage. 43 P.L.R. 214=1941 Lah. 246. A receipt for payment of money due under a mortgage does not require registration, unless it purports to extinguish the mortgage. A receipt acknowledging payment of a smaller sum of money in full satisfaction of a larger amount due under the mortgage is not admissible without registration, as it purports to exonerate the mortgagor from any liability under the mortgage. 36 C.W.N. 738=55 C. L. J. 571. See also 42 P.L.R. 27; 1937 Nag. 402. Where the document merely amounted to a promise to release part of the mortgage debt in the event of the promisee performing his obligation and there was no provision that the mortgage-deed should be returned for endorsement of any kind and the mortgage interest was not referred to, it was not a receipt within Cl. (xi) of sub-S. (2) of S. 17, nor would it fall within either Cl. (b) or (c) of sub-S. (1) of the section and it was admissible in evidence without registration. 8 R. 257=1930 R. 277; 68 M.L.J. 91. See also 1941 Mad. 197. A receipt alleged to be executed by the mortgagee purporting to remit a portion of the mortgage dues is, without registration, inadmissible in evidence. 1931 M.W.N. 261. An agreement relinquishing portion of principal and interest in mortgage-debt must be registered. 35 A. 202=19 I. C. 449. But see 37 C.W.N. 424; 1931 M. W.N. 261=1931 M. 601. Endorsement on the mortgage-deed releasing certain items does not require registration. 145 I.C. 657 =37 C.W.N. 424=1933 C. 588. Where the receipt makes no reference at all to the extinction of the mortgage, but being a receipt for the last payment, it may have had the effect of extinguishing the mortgage, it does not require registration unless it purports to extinguish the mortgage. 10 L. 709=118 I.C. 533 (2)=1929 L. 312. It is not the law that, unless there was a recital clearly expressed that a mortgage was extinguished, a receipt for payment of money due on the mortgage, extinguishing the mortgage, would fall under S. 17 (2) (xi) and become admissible though unregistered. 64 C.L.J. 10=1937 Cal. 178. A receipt executed by the mortgagee recited: "On receiving Rs. 5,000 in cash in respect of your entire debt and our entire dues, after amicably giving remissions, I release you from your entire debt. Be it mentioned that from to-day nothing is due to us." The receipt was unregistered. Held, it was not admissible in evidence. 64 C.L.J. 10=1937 Cal. 178. Where the debt is a mortgage-debt it may be that a document in writing purporting to extinguish the mortgage is inadmissible in evidence, but the payment itself cannot be inadmissible. 30 L. W. 293=1929 M. 794. A receipt showing that simple and not compound interest has been charged on a mortgage-bond need not be registered. 30 I.C. 804=42 C. 546. An agreement between the mortgagor and the mortgagee superseding the agreement embodied in the mortgage-deed, whereby the mortgagee agrees to receive only the principal amount secured by the mortgage and impliedly undertakes to forego his claim with regard to interest must be registered if the interest is Rs. 100 or more, because it extinguishes the claim for interest which is a charge upon the mortgaged property; consequently, if it is unregistered, it is not admissible in evidence under S. 49 of the Registration Act. 119 I.C. 690. The essence of redemption consists in either the cancellation and return of the mortgage-deed or where the mortgage is with possession, in the restoration of possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagor after the mortgage-money has been paid. Where a receipt recites that the balance of the mortgage-money had been paid to the mortgagee and possession had been given back, the receipt is inadmissible in evidence if it is not registered. 1940 Lah. 68.

Sec. 17 (2) (xii): SCOPE—SALE OF, BY RECEIVER IN INSOLVENCY—IF EXEMPT FROM REGISTRATION.—A deed of transfer executed by an O.R. in insolvency, in pursuance of a public auction held by him, conveying to the highest bidder at the sale promissory

[1][Explanation.—A document purporting or operating to effect a contract for the sale of immovable property shall not be deemed to require or ever to have required registration by reason only of the fact that such document contains a recital of the payment of any earnest money or of the whole or any part of the purchase-money.]

(3) Authorities to adopt a son, executed after the first day of January, 1872, and not conferred by a will, shall also be registered.

Documents of which registration is optional.

18. Any of the following documents may be registered under this Act, namely:—

(a) instruments (other than instruments of gift and wills) which purport or operate to create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish, whether in present or in future, any right, title or interest, whether vested or contingent, of a value less than one hundred rupees, to or in immovable property;

(b) instruments acknowledging the receipt or payment of any consideration on account of the creation, declaration, assignment, limitation or extinction of any such right, title or interest;

(c) leases of immovable property for any term not exceeding one year and leases exempted under section 17;

[2][(cc) instruments transferring or assigning any decree or order of a Court or any award when such decree or order or award purports or operates to create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish, whether in present or in future, any right, title or interest, whether vested or contingent, of a value less than one hundred rupees, to or in immovable property;]

notes, mortgage-debts, etc., belonging to the insolvent, the sale being afterwards confirmed by the Court, is not exempt from registration under S. 17 (2) (xii). 40 L. W. 747=67 M.L.J. 746.

EXPLANATION.—53 I.A. 214=51 M.L.J. 788 (P.C.) and 51 B. 231=29 Bom.L.R. 269 holding that a document evidencing payment of earnest money should be registered is no longer good law. The explanation is retrospective as its wording shows. See 1928 N. 216; 49 A. 806=25 A.L.J. 513 =1927 A. 287 (F.B.). S. 2 of the Registration Amendment Act (II of 1927), which added the Explanation to S. 17 is clearly retrospective. It does not, however, deal with those contracts in which a lien has been specifically created, as a specific charge would certainly "affect" immovable property within the meaning of S. 49. 13 P. 620=15 P.L.T. 443=1934 P. 495.

Sec. 17 (3).—Authority to adopt not contained in a will must be registered. 55 I.C. 38. An authority to adopt executed in a Native State by a person domiciled there need not be registered. 43 M. 288=38 M. L.J. 149. Whether a document is a will or merely an adoption deed is a question of fact. 44 M. 733=48 I.A. 482=41 M.L.J. 648 (P.C.). See also 49 I.C. 929; 18 I.C. 1008=1913 M.W.N. 199. Authority to adopt, even though contained in a minor's will, need not be registered. 60 I.C. 146=12 L.W. 596. A family arrangement under which one person consents to another adopting a son is not an authority to adopt. 114 I.C. 711=1929 L. 16. A deed executed after adoption reserving life interest in property for the adoptive mother must be registered. 38 Bom. 227=24 I.C. 716.

Secs. 17 and 28.—In determining whether the requirements of the law as to registration have been complied with, the intention of the parties is the criterion by which the matter must be decided. Where it could not be said that there was no intention on the part of a donor to vest the property in the donee, the inclusion of a particular plot in the gift, though the title of the donor with reference to it was doubtful, cannot lead to the inference that the donor was guilty of any fraud, in so including it. In the absence of collusion between the donor and donee, the registration of such a deed cannot be challenged as being defective. 1941 O.W.N. 532=1941 Oudh 348.

Sec. 18.—An unregistered document of transfer of property of value of less than Rs. 100 can be adduced in evidence to prove nature of possession transferred. 41 I.C. 273=41 B. 550. A will legally made can operate, though illegally registered. 62 I. C. 246=4 N.L.J. 46.

(e) wills; and

(f) all other documents not required by section 17 to be registered.

Documents in language not understood by registering officer.

19. If any document duly presented for registration be in a language which the registering officer does not understand, and which is not commonly used in the district, he shall refuse to register the document, unless it be accompanied by a true translation into a language commonly used in the district and also by a true copy.

Documents containing interlineations, blanks, erasures, or alterations.

20. (1) The registering officer may, in his discretion, refuse to accept for registration any document in which any interlineation, blank, erasure or alteration appears, unless the persons executing the document attest with their signatures or initials such interlineation, blank, erasure or alteration.

(2) If the registering officer registers any such document, he shall, at the time of registering the same, make a note in the register of such interlineation, blank, erasure or alteration.

Description of property and maps or plans.

21. (1) No non-testamentary document relating to immovable property shall be accepted for registration unless it contains a description of such property sufficient to identify the same.

(2) Houses in towns shall be described as situate on the north or other side of the street or road (which should be specified) to which they front, and by their existing and former occupancies, and by their numbers if the houses in such street or road are numbered.

(3) Other houses and lands shall be described by their name, if any, and as being in the territorial division in which they are situate, and by their superficial contents, the roads and other properties on which they abut, and their existing occupancies, and also, whenever it is practicable, by reference to a Government map or survey.

(4) No non-testamentary document containing a map or plan of any property comprised therein shall be accepted for registration unless it is accompanied by a true copy of the map or plan, or, in case such property is situate in several districts, by such number of true copies of the map or plan as are equal to the number of such districts.

NOTES.

Sec. 20.—The registering officer must refuse registration when an interlineation is not admitted by the parties. 30 I.C. 507=1915 M.W.N. 543. As to whether appeal lies against a refusal to register a document, see 15 I.C. 370=1912 M.W.N. 412.

Sec. 21: SCOPE OF SECTION—INADEQUATE DESCRIPTION—EFFECT OF.—S. 21 only lays down certain particulars to be complied with before registration of a document. If the properties are sufficiently identifiable, there is no reason why the document, if registered, would not be operative in respect of such properties as would be found to answer the description contained in the document. 60 C.L.J. 243=39 C.W.N. 120. Registration is not vitiated by an immaterial error in the description of the property. 35 A. 250=18 I.C. 923; 49 B. 40=1925 B. 34. As to the meaning of the section, see 52 M.L.J. 140=99 I.C. 846=1927 M. 369. Where one item of property could not be identified, misdescription invalidates the whole deed. 32 C.W.N. 241=1928 C. 385. Registration without map referred to in the document is ineffective. 43 I.C. 455. Absence of description of property as required does not render the registration null and void. 16 I.C. 337=10 A.L.J. 33. It cannot be held that a Registrar has no jurisdiction to register a mortgage-deed or a sale-deed on the ground that the description of the property given in the deed is inadequate to identify the property. 19 Pat. 578=1940 Pat. 504. In a partition "all the family property" is a sufficient description. 16 L.W. 287=1923 M. 81; 52 M.L.J. 482=25 L.W. 563=1927 M. 586=102 I.C. 360. Proper description of a house in town is by street name and door number. 41 C. 972=41 I.A. 110=27 M.L.J. 80 (P.C.).

Sec. 21 (3).—"Practicable"—Meaning of. See 52 M.L.J. 140.

22. (1) Where it is, in the opinion of the Provincial Government, practicable to describe houses, not being houses in towns, and lands by reference to a Government map or survey, the Provincial Government may, by rule made under this Act, require that such houses and lands as aforesaid shall, for the purposes of section 21, be so described.

Description of houses and land by reference to Government maps or surveys.

(2) Save as otherwise provided by any rule made under sub-section (1), failure to comply with the provisions of section 21, sub-section (2) or sub-section (3), shall not disentitle a document to be registered if the description of the property to which it relates is sufficient to identify that property.

PART IV.

OF THE TIME OF PRESENTATION.

Time for presenting documents.

Provided that a copy of a decree or order may be presented within four months from the day on which the decree or order was made, or, where it is appealable, within four months from the day on which it becomes final.

Sec. 22 (2).—See 52 M.L.J. 140. Where the description given of the mortgaged properties in the mortgage-deed is inadequately meagre and not in compliance with the terms of Ss. 21 and 22, the document can nevertheless be admitted for registration, if description given is not misleading and if from a very careful study of the document it would be possible to discover the property mortgaged. 7 R. 118=1929 R. 117. As to misdescription of sub-registry in which the property is situated, see 33 C.W.N. 1211.

Sec. 23.—Registration after the time fixed is invalid. 43 M. 288=38 M.L.J. 149. Parties cannot agree to extend time for registration. 1923 N. 76. Registration can be enforced only by proper proceedings under the Act, and by a suit if necessary under S. 77, and in no other way. 1923 N. 76. Where the presentation for registration is made after the expiry of the four months allowed by S. 23 but the document is still registered, the person presenting the document must prove that the days prior to the presentation of the document were holidays or that the office of the Sub-Registrar was closed and the presumption is against the person who presented the deed for registration. Where no such proof is forthcoming the registration is invalid. 11 R. 15=1933 R. 5. The words "the date on which decree was made" in the proviso to S. 23 mean the day when the decree was signed. 41 C. W. N. 945. Where an original award is merely re-written by the arbitrators, the award comes within the mischief of S. 23 and must be presented for registration within four months from the date of execution. 1941 Pat. 215.

Secs. 23 and 24.—"Execution," meaning of—Date of execution where there are several executants. See 24 N.L.R. 106=1928 N. 239.

Secs. 23, 25 and 75: DOCUMENT PRESENTED AFTER MORE THAN FOUR MONTHS—VALIDITY OF REGISTRATION.—Where five months after its execution, a document was presented for registration when the executant denied execution and on application under S. 73, the Registrar found that it had been executed and requirements of law had been complied with and registered it under S. 75 even without there being an application under S. 25 to extend the original period of four months, the registration is illegal and the mere fact that Registrar found that the document was actually executed does not validate it as the original delay of more than four months was never excused. 42 P.L.R. 267=1939 Lah. 292.

Sec. 23-A: CONSTRUCTION—"PERSON NOT DULY EMPOWERED"—MEANING OF.—The section applies to all cases where the former presentation was by a person not entitled to

Provided that, within three months from the twelfth day of September, 1917, any person claiming under a document to which this section applies may present the same, or cause the same to be presented for re-registration in accordance with this section whatever may have been the time when he first became aware that the registration of the document was invalid.]

Documents executed by several persons at different times.

present. Whenever the presentation by a person who (not entitled in his own right to present) has not got a proper authority of another to present the document is accepted, it is the case of a person not duly empowered to present. It may be that the section often comes in to play when the presentation is by a person who purports to act as agent but without a power of attorney, but that does not mean the section is confined only to such cases. The section is on the face of it intended to cure a technical defect in the registration which though technical is also a vital defect. It applies to all cases where the person presenting the document for registration, is one other than a person properly empowered, whether he was one acting under a defective or imperfect power but not entitled at all to present it. 1933 M.W.N. 1148. If the will confers an authority to the widow to adopt a son, the son subsequently adopted by the widow is a "person claiming under the document," even though the adopted son is not named in the document and the document by itself does not confer all the rights of an adopted son. The phrase "claiming under such document" in Ss. 71, 73, 77 and 23-A is intended to cover all the persons specifically enumerated in Ss. 32 and 40 and perhaps to include other persons not falling under the list of persons enumerated but certainly not to cut down the list. 1933 M.W.N. 1148.

RE-REGISTRATION—OBJECTION TO, AS BEING OUT OF TIME—PRESUMPTION.—The presumption of law is that all official acts are properly performed. It is for the Registrar before whom the re-presentation was made under S. 23-A to satisfy himself that the re-presentation was made within the proper time and if he proceeded to register the document, the presumption is that he was so satisfied. 1933 M.W.N. 1148.

DOCUMENT REGISTERED AS WILL—WILL FOUND INVALID, BUT DOCUMENT GOOD AS POWER TO ADOPT—RE-REGISTRATION AS POWER—PERMISSIBILITY.—All that the section requires before it can be applied is that the document which was erroneously registered when it was accepted for registration by the registration officer should be one requiring registration. There is no further condition in the section that the former presentation must have been made on the footing of the correct description of the document, and the section is inapplicable if the former presentation was made on the basis of an incorrect description of it. The section does not say "a document requiring registration and presented for registration under its correct description." So, where a document was originally registered as a will, but as a will it was found to be invalid and valid only as a power to adopt, re-registration of the document as a power can be sought under S. 23-A notwithstanding the fact that it was originally presented for registration only as a will. 1933 M.W.N. 1148.

VALIDITY OF REGISTRATION DISPUTED IN SUIT—APPELLATE COURT HOLDING REGISTRATION INVALID—PERIOD OF FOUR MONTHS,—STARTING POINT.—The object of S. 23-A is to enable parties to get technical defects cured and removed, and when a document is re-registered under the section, it takes effect from the date of the prior registration; and evidence of such re-registration can be produced in appeal or second appeal. When validity of the registration is disputed in a suit, but the registration is held to be invalid only on appeal, the period of four months starts

Provision where delay in presentation is unavoidable.

25. (1) If, owing to urgent necessity or unavoidable accident, any document executed, or copy of a decree or order made, in British India is not presented for registration till after the expiration of the time hereinbefore prescribed in that behalf, the Registrar, in cases where the delay in presentation does not exceed four months, may direct that, on payment of a fine not exceeding ten times the amount of the proper registration fee, such document shall be accepted for registration.

(2) Any application for such direction may be lodged with a Sub-Registrar, who shall forthwith forward it to the Registrar to whom he is subordinate.

Documents executed out of British India.

26. When a document purporting to have been executed by all or any of the parties out of British India is not presented for registration till after the expiration of the time hereinbefore prescribed in that behalf, the registering officer, if satisfied—

(a) that the instrument was so executed, and

(b) that it has been presented for registration within four months after its arrival in British India, may, on payment of the proper registration fee, accept such document for registration.

Wills may be presented or deposited at any time.

27. A will may at any time be presented for registration or deposited in manner hereinafter provided.

PART V.

OF THE PLACE OF REGISTRATION.

Place for registering documents relating to land.

Save as in this part otherwise provided, every document mentioned in section 17, sub-section (1), clauses (a), (b), (c), [1][(d) and (e), section 17, sub-section (2) in so far as such document affects immovable property], and section 18, clauses (a), (b) and (c), shall be presented for registration in the office of a Sub-Registrar within whose sub-district the whole or some portion of the property to which such document relates is situate.

only from the date of the appellate decree, and if it is re-registered within four months from that date, it is valid. 152 I.C. 611 =1935 L. 32. See also 1942 Pesh. 37.

Sec. 25.—The Registrar is given a discretion to extend the time condoning the delay in the presentation of a document for registration, and the Civil Court has no right to question the propriety of such discretion vested in the Registrar 11 L. 218=120 I.C. 488=1931 L. 710. A Sub-Registrar has no power to extend the time beyond the standard four months for the registration of document and he has no jurisdiction to proceed with the registration of a document which is already four months old. Where therefore a document already four months old is registered by a Sub-Registrar, the registration is bad. 174 I.C. 490=1938 Rang. 53. See also 1939 Lah. 292. A Civil Court cannot compel registration when the presentation was after four months. 39 P.R. 1917=41 I.C. 64. But see contra 34 I.C. 769. See also 41 A. 389=49 I.C. 543; 41 I.C. 3=39 A. 523; 26 I.C. 52; 29 I.C. 413; 3 L. 242; 31 Bom.L.R. 676.

Sec. 28.—Inclusion of property not belonging to mortgagor or of non-existing property, and not intended as security, to enable registration at a particular place, renders registration invalid. 48 C. 509=48 I.A. 127 (P.C.); 40 M.L.J. 489 (P.C.); 41 C. 972=41 I.A. 110=27 M.L.J. 80 (P.C.); 43 M. 436=38 M.L.J. 327. So also in the case of a conveyance, the registration would be a fraud on the Registration Law, and would not be effective, nor would the deed be valid as a conveyance. 63 I. party to such fraud cannot be allowed to plead his own fraud as a basis of his claim or a necessary step towards the success of his claim); 28 Bom.L.R. 75=1926 B. 165; 1927 A. 797; 9 P.L.T. 829=1928 P. 89; 5 O.W.N. 725; 100 I.C. 25; 4 Luck. 13. See also 1940 Pat. 504. Where the property is not in existence at all and has been included in an instrument for the purposes of registration, the registration would be invalid. Similarly, if the property exists and the parties did not intend it to be affected by the document, the registration would be invalid. But if the property actually exists and the parties intended to transfer it, the registration would not be affected merely because the mortgagee or transferee fails to prove the title of the mortgagor or transferor. I.L.R. (1941) All. 320=1941 A.L.J. 168 =1941 O.W.N. 295=1941 All 179. Unless both the parties had the intention to evade the registration law by including a property simply to give jurisdiction to the Sub-Registrar, the document is not necessarily invalid. 25 L.W. 327=1927 M. 92. As to whether motive of parties is material, see 10 L. 381=116 I.C. 457 (2)=1929 L. 812. The crucial question always is "Did the parties intend or not that a certain item should form part of the security?" If the parties did, then fraud is out of question. 117 I.C. 124=1929 M. 432. Assignment of mortgage right—Registration in place in which one item of property lay without intention to pass that item under assignment—Assignor having no title to such item—Effect on registration—Assignment not valid. 49 L.W. 387=1934 M. 467.

FRAUD ON REGISTRATION.—The word "fictitious" used in 41 C. 972 (P.C.) is not confined to non-existing properties. It is satisfied if the deed does not 'relate' to a specified property for any effective purpose of enjoyment or use. An insignificant item of property included in the sale-deed was of no value, both in respect of the interest taken in it and in respect of its complete inaccessibility. It was incapable either of being utilized or enjoyed by the purchaser; the vendor refused to include in the sale any property to which these disadvantages did not attach in the place where registration was effected. Held, that one of two inferences alone was possible, either that it was never intended by either party that the item should, for any purpose other than that of registration, be subject of sale at all, or that the vendor only included it because he knew that it never could become an effective subject of enjoyment or occupation by the purchaser. The so-called sale was a mere device to evade the Registration Act. 61 I.A. 286=56 A. 468=67 M.L.J. 274 (P.C.). [52 A. 793 is not good law.] Where a small item of land, about a yard of land, is included in a sale-deed, in order to get the deed registered in the place where the small items is situate, the other items being situate in another district, and no value is placed on the included item and it also appears that the title to that item was not intended to be conveyed and the purchaser lives in another place and has no use for it and never attempts to take possession of it or to regard it as his property, the inclusion of the item must be held to be a mere device to evade the Registration law, and the registration of the deed is neither effective nor valid as a coeveyance. 63 I.A. 169=59 Mad. 539= 63 C.L.J. 382=40 C.W.N. 545=43 L. W. 456=1936 A.L.J. 258=38 Bom.L.R. 457=1936 P.C. 91=70 M.L.J. 378 (P. C.). There is no doubt that the mere fact that a part of the land which is said to have been situated in a particular place for the purpose of registration is unsubstantial in character will not, by itself, be a bar to registration at that particular place. S. 28 of the Registration Act is satisfied by registration being effected in the place where any portion of the registered property is situated. It is not necessary that such portion should be a substantial portion. But it is, however, necessary that the alleged portion which is said to be situated within the sub-district, should have a real existence. It sometimes happens that parties to a deed of conveyance include in the deed a parcel or piece of land described as situated in a particular place but which does not in fact exist, and they get the document registered in the office of the Sub-Registrar within whose sub-district the parcel or piece of land is alleged to be situated. In such a case, if the fictitious entry was intentionally made use of by the parties solely for the purpose of obtaining registration in a particular sub-district, where in fact no part of the property actually transferred or intended to be transferred in fact exists, it is a fraud on the registration law, and no registration obtained by means thereof is valid. It is permissible and right that the Court should go behind the face of the instrument, whether conveyance or mortgage, and ascertain for itself upon evidence whether or not the property which is said to be within the jurisdiction of the Court, is a real property included in the conveyance or mortgage as the case may be and fit for registration and whether it was the intention of the parties that a particular property should really be the subject-matter of a sale or mortgage as the case may be. 41 C. W.N. 854. See also 1941 O.W.N. 532= 1941 Oudh 348; 1937 Nag. 330. As in the case of every other kind of fraud, a party, who sets up in defence the plea of fraud on the Registration Law, is bound to make it out by clear and cogent evidence. There should be the strongest evidence of collusion between the transferor and the transferee, before the latter can be deprived of the benefit of the transfer by reason of its registration being invalid, because a small item of property not belonging to the transferor is included in it. A mere failure to make out a good title to the property dealt with will not amount to fraud so as to invalidate the instrument. The real question is whether it was intended or not that the document should take effect as regards the particular item. The fact that it is a fictitious item may be evidence of fraud. But when the item does exist, the transaction cannot be invalidated, merely because the party has not adduced satisfactory evidence of his title. 1935 M. 26=40 L.W. 749. Where a property included in a document has an existence in fact, and the document relates to that property, transferring it from the exclusive ownership of one party to the joint ownership of the family, and the property is also capable of effective enjoyment, it cannot be said that the inclusion of the property is a fraud on the law of registration. There is no flaw in the act of presentation of the document to the Sub-Registrar within whose jurisdiction that property is situate. An inquiry as to whether the Sub-Registrar had jurisdiction to register a document should relate to the time when the document was presented before him under S. 28 of the Registration Act. If the parties intended that the document should relate to a property lying within the territorial jurisdiction of the particular Sub-Registrar, S. 28 is complied with; and if later on, by operation of law, a fact contrary to the intention of parties is obtained because of non-registration, for any reason whatever, that matter is foreign and should not affect the original enquiry. The fact that because of the Sub-Registrar's refusal, the deed does not perhaps operate on the particular item of property has no effect on the original question of his jurisdiction. It is only the act of the parties that has to be considered, and if the parties themselves intended to perpetrate a fraud on the law of registration, the matter then assumes a different complexion; but if on account of any action of the Sub-Registrar certain consequences flow, the act of presentation itself would not become invalid. I.L.R. (1938) All. 125=1938 A.L.J. 23=1938 All. 170. Where property which does not in fact exist at all is included in a deed to enable registration being effected in a particular place, it is a fictitious inclusion and the registration is invalid; so also where property which exists, but to which the grantor has no title, is included in the deed, but neither party to the deed intends to include it as a fact as a subject-matter of the deed, the registration is invalid as the inclusion is made only with a view to effect registration in the particular place fraudulently. But where existing property, which is not proved to belong to the grantor is included, and the grantee bona fide believes that it belongs to the grantor, the registration is not invalid, and the burden is on the party challenging the validity to prove that the inclusion of the property was intended to be fictitious by both the parties. In the absence of proof that the grantee was aware of the want of title of the grantor or that the grantee colluded with the grantor in committing a fraud on the registration office, the registration would not be fraudulent or invalid. 152 I. C. 715=36 Bom.L.R. 738. Where the parties intended to hoodwink the Sub-Registrar by entering a piece of property within his jurisdiction in the sale-deed, in order to give that officer jurisdiction, the parties contemplated a fraud on the Law of Registration and so should not be granted any relief in a Court of justice. 118 I.C. 589=1929 A. 578 (2). The inclusion of fictitious property in the deed for the purpose of giving jurisdiction to the Sub-Registrar is a fraud on the registry and the effect is that there is no proper registration. There is no material difference in principle between the inclusion of a property not intended to pass by a deed and a property to which the vendor has no title. 13 P. 111 =15 P.L.T. 73=1934 P. 127. See also 39 C.W.N. 120=60 C.L.J. 243. Where a small spot of land belonging to the mortgagees themselves was inserted in the mortgage-deed with the object of obtaining registration in Sub-Registrar's office, not having jurisdiction otherwise, and it was found that the mortgagees, through their agent had knowledge of this inclusion and the purpose therefor, the insertion was fraud on the Registration Law which rendered the mortgage-deed void. 1929 M. 426. See also 19 Pat. 578=1940 Pat. 504; 70 M.L.J. 378=63 I.A. 169=59 Mad. 539 (P.C.); 1937 Nag. 330; 1937 Mad. 32; 1937 O.W.N. 944=1937 Oudh 493; I.L.R. chase of new property and including it in the document to give jurisdiction to a particular office, is not fraud but is satisfying requirements of law. 2 O.W.N. 947=91 I. C. 512=1926 O. 136. See also 49 B. 821. A finding of fraud on registration can be based on the conduct of the parties to render registration invalid. 89 I.C. 367=1925 N. 460; 91 I.C. 1018=1926 N. 93. In such cases it is the knowledge of the mortgagee as well that is material. The mortgagor cannot be permitted to take advantage of his own fraud to get the registration rendered invalid. 1922 A. 231; 41 A. 22; 1925 M. 430 (1); 117 I.C. 124=1929 M. 432. Where owing to a bona fide mistake of every one including the Sub-Registrar a document is registered at a place where it could not be registered, as the properties concerned were not within the jurisdiction of the Sub-Registrar concerned, the document is inoperative. But in such a case the document can be presented for re-registration and the Registering officer could proceed as if it is presented for registration for the first time. No question of limitation could arise as there is no limitation for re-registration of documents. 1938 N. L. J. 403=1938 Nag. 550. See also 1940 Nag. 13. The fact that an item of property not belonging to the mortgagor has been included in the mortgage will not render the registration invalid unless such inclusion was made with a view to commit a fraud on the registration and the mortgagees were parties to that fraud. If the properties were non-existent, its inclusion would invalidate the mortgage, but where it is existent, there should be strong evidence of the mortgagee's collusion. The onus of proving such collusion is on those who attack the validity of the registration. 60 M. L. J. 302=1931 M. 335. The burden of proving fraud on registration lies on the party setting up the plea. 54 M. 352=1931 M. 45 =60 M.L.J. 701. See also 1938 All. 170 =1938 A.L.J. 23=I.L.R. (1938) All. 125. A mortgagor defendant is not precluded from pleading that the registration of the mortgage-deed sued on is invalid under S. 28 as being a fraud on registration, on the ground that he is a party to the fraud on the registration law. 19 Pat. 578=1940 Pat. 504; 1930 A.L.J. 926=1930 A. 786; Though in such cases the mortgage right falls through, the deed being registered would be operative so far as any personal covenant may go and the 6 years rule of limitation under Art. 116 of the Limitation Act will apply. 44 M.L.J. 373=46 M. 435. See also 107 I.C. 517=1928 N. 1; 102 I.C. 326=1927 O. 214. See also 18 Pat. 429= 1939 Pat. 502. Where the registration of a mortgage bond was obtained by fraud by representing that a certain property was within the jurisdiction of the registering officer in order to entitle him to register the said deed when such property was a fictitious property and had no existence in fact, the registration is invalid for all purposes. The deed must be treated as unregistered even for the purpose of the personal covenant to pay, and the proper article applicable to a suit on such covenant is Art. 66 of the Limitation Act which allows only three years from the due date. 41 C.W.N. 783 =1937 Cal. 347. If a mortgage document requiring registration is registered in a district where no part of the mortgaged property is situate, the registration is invalid and the document cannot be sued upon in a Court of law. It the document happens to be a mortgage with possession with no personal covenant to pay, it cannot be treated even as a registered bond so as to enable the mortgagee to obtain a money decree on the basis of the document. 1937 A.L.J. 815=1937 All. 711. See also 1939 Pat. 502.

Secs. 28 and 29.—A compulsorily registrable mortgage, registrable under S. 28 by reason of its being registered in a wrong Registrar's office, cannot be treated as an optionally registrable document falling within S. 29. Sec. 30.—A conveyance dealt with several plots of land some of which were described to be within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Sub-Registrar and the others within the local limits of the Sadar Sub-Registrar, both of whom were subordinate to same Registrar. The office of the Sub-Registrar was amalgamated with that of the Registrar and the conveyance was registered with the Registrar, and the Registrar did not state that he was acting as Registrar pursuant to discretion under S. 30. It was found subsequently that the plots of land described to be within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Sub-Registrar had no existence. Held, that having regard to S. 87 the fact that the Registrar did not state that he was acting as Registrar pursuant to discretion under S. 30 did not make the registration invalid and ineffective. 58 C. 133=1931 C. 478. The registration of a document by a Registrar who has no jurisdiction to register under S. 28, would be valid if he is empowered to act under S. 30 of the Act, although he does not purport to act under that section and the fee charged for registration was the fee chargeable under S. 28 and not the fee chargeable for registration under S. 30. 41 C. W.N. 854. The discretion conferred by S. 30 (1) of the Registration Act is wide and unfettered. But it should not be lightly exercised and should not be exercised at all when there is gross negligence or carelessness or fraud. In a case where even the registering authorities themselves were misled and accepted a document and registered it, and were thus instrumental in lulling the parties into a sense of security, it is preeminently right and proper that resort should be had to the exercise of these exceptional powers. The Act does not prohibit re-registration or impose a time limit between which it must be done and hence in order to prevent injustice to the parties flowing from the mistaken act of the registering authorities themselves, these authorities have, like Courts, inherent powers to remedy their own wrongs. It is open to the Registrar to order re-registration by a proper officer, when there has been a bona fide mistake which had resulted in a registration in a wrong place. I.L.R. The fact that the Sub-Registrar accepted a document from the executant and duly registered it, is prima facie proof that the executant was not in an intoxicated condition when he presented it for registration. 1931 S. 78. Even if the endorsement by a Sub-Registrar on a mortgage-deed as regards presentation purports to show an invalid presentation, there is nothing in the Act to prevent a person from showing that the endorsement made by the Sub-Registrar was inaccurate and proving the real facts. 58 I.A. 115=9 R. 170=60 M. Where on first presentation, registration was refused but on appeal it was ordered to be registered, a fresh presentation is unnecessary. 49 I.A. 375=44 A. 514=1922 P.C. 279 (P.C.). Under S. 33 a special power-of-attorney is required. A general power-of-attorney will not do. 34 A. 331. On appeal, see 28 I.C. 422=37 A. 49 (P.C.). A power-of-attorney to do all acts "in the District Registration Office" is sufficient under this and the next section. 23 C.W. N. 534. See also 1938 Lah. 255. A mortgage-deed, dated 4—8—1910, was presented for registration and registered by a person who produced a power-of-attorney, dated 9—2—1910, for purposes of presentation which stated that the executants authorised him to present the deed which they had already executed on 8—2—1910 which was subsequently changed to 4—10—1910. Held, that the date of deed in the power-of-attorney was obviously altered and that the registration of the mortgage of the 4th October, 1910, was not effected in accordance with the provisions of the Registration Act. 35 C.W.N. 354=1931 P.C. 52=60 M.L.J. 441 (P.C.). When a deed is not properly registered having been presented for registration by an agent not duly authorised, the executants cannot be estopped from urging its invalidity because there can be no estoppel against the statute. 60 M.L.J. 441. See also 56 M.L.J. 218 (P.C.). Hence, where a document which is executed by several persons is presented for registration by a person having a general power-of-attorney from only one of them, and the power-of-attorney authorizes him to represent his principal in various matters including the registration of documents, there is sufficient compliance with the law regarding presentation. SECURITY-BOND FILED IN COURT—BY WHOM TO BE PRESENTED.—Where, in a security bond filed in Court, no person is named as the obligee, the bond is given to the judge of the Court and therefore if not presented by the obligors, ought to be presented by the judge or by a person holding a duly authenticated power-of-attorney from him. 155 I.C. 511 =1935 R. 39.

Secs. 32 and 33.—Ss. 32 and 33, relating to the presentation of documents for registration, are imperative, and their provisions must be strictly followed; and where the agent who presented a mortgage-deed for registration has not been authorized in the manner prescribed by the Act, the deed is invalid and cannot affect the immovable property to which it relates. 1933 A.L.J. 159=1933 A. 233. The registration of a document presented by some of the representatives of an executant, who is dead at the time of the presentation of the document, is good registration. Sec. 33.—S. 33 requires that a power of attorney, in order to be recognised as giving authority to the agent to get the document registered, should be executed before, and then authenticated by, the Registrar within whose district or sub-district the principal resides. In S. 33 (1) (c), the words 'at the time aforesaid' do not relate back to S 32 which speaks about presentation, but the words obviously relate to the time mentioned in S. 33 (1) (a), viz., at the time of executing the power-of-attorney. In a suit on mortgage the fact that the principal was residing in British India at the time of presentation of mortgage-deed for registration ceases to have any relevance, unless the power-of-attorney was drafted in such a way as to cause it to cease to be operative if and when the principal returned to India. The presentation therefore of a mortgage-deed for registration by the agent of the mortgagee is proper even if the mortgagee is residing in British India at the time of such presentation. I.L.R. (a) and (b) of that section, which deal with power-of-attorney to be executed and authenticated in British India, and do not apply to Cl. (c), which provides for the manner in which powers-of-attorney are to be authenticated in a place outside British India. In such cases, the power-of-attorney must be executed before and authenticated by the officers named in

(b) if the principal at the time aforesaid resides in any other part of British India, a power-of-attorney executed before and authenticated by any Magistrate;

(c) if the principal at the time aforesaid does not reside in British India, a power-of-attorney executed before and authenticated by a notary public, or any Court, Judge, Magistrate, British Consul or Vice-Consul, or representative of His Majesty or of the Central Government:

Provided that the following persons shall not be required to attend at any registration office or Court for the purpose of executing any such power-of-attorney as is mentioned in clauses (a) and (b) of this section, namely:—

(i) persons who by reason of bodily infirmity are unable without risk or serious inconvenience so to attend;

(ii) persons who are in jail under civil or criminal process; and

(iii) persons exempt by law from personal appearance in Court.

(2) In the case of every such person the Registrar or Sub-Registrar or Magistrate, as the case may be, if satisfied that the power-of-attorney has been voluntarily executed by the person purporting to be the principal, may attest the same without requiring his personal attendance at the office or Court aforesaid.

(3) To obtain evidence as to the voluntary nature of the execution, the Registrar or Sub-Registrar or Magistrate may either himself go to the house of the person purporting to be the principal, or to the jail in which he is confined, and examine him, or issue a commission for his examination.

(4) Any power-of-attorney mentioned in this section may be proved by the production of it without further proof when it purports on the face of it to have been executed before and authenticated by the person or Court hereinbefore mentioned in that behalf.

Enquiry before registration by registering officer.

34. (1) Subject to the provisions contained in this Part and in sections 41, 43, 45, 69, 75, 77, 88 and 89, no document shall be registered under this Act, unless the persons executing such document, or their representatives, assigns or agents authorized as aforesaid, appear before the registering officer within the time allowed for presentation under sections 23, 24, 25 and 26:

NOTES.

S. 33 (c) personally and execution and authentication before a Commissioner will not be a sufficient compliance with that section. 1933 A.L.J. 159=1933 A. 233. Where a power-of-attorney was executed before and authenticated by the Sub-Registrar under S. 33 (1) and he did not keep a copy of the original, held, that it was open to a party to prove the document by a private copy and that S. 74 (2) of the Evidence Act was not applicable to such a case. 1931 A.L.J. 666=1931 A. 649.

Sec. 34.—The non-compliance with the provisions of this section is a mere defect cured by S. 87. 11 I.C. 925=14 O. C. 207. The scheme of the Act is that the Registrar should not go into questions as to whether the parties understood the nature of document or meant it to be something else than what it is. The only question which he has to decide under S. 34 is whether it bears the genuine signature of the alleged executant. If the executant admits his signature, but says that he put his signature under a misapprehension as to the contents of the document, the Registrar is not entitled to refuse execution. Execution, if admitted as a matter of fact, is good for registration, though it may be invalid for enforcing the document. 1933 M.W.N. 1373. Under S. 34, an enquiry as to whether any of the parties concerned in the registration is a major or not is not one of the duties imposed on the Registrar. The opinion of the Sub-Registrar as to the executant's age when the document was presented for registration cannot be accepted as evidence of his age at all, much less conclusive evidence. I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 324=1938 Nag. 385. One of the parties, executing on behalf of himself and another, can present a document for registration and the presence of the other is not necessary. 57 I.C. 226= 31 C.L.J. 447. See 48 M.L.J. 221, for nature of enquiry.

Sec. 34 (1), proviso: EXTENSION OF TIME. —Where from the form of the order it appeared to be clear that the order under S. 34 (1), proviso, extending time, was issued Provided that, if owing to urgent necessity or unavoidable accident, all such persons do not so appear, the Registrar, in cases where the delay in appearing does not exceed four months, may direct that on payment of a fine not exceeding ten times the amount of the proper registration fee, in addition to the fine, if any, payable under section 25, the document may be registered.

(2) Appearances under sub-section (1) may be simultaneous or at different times.

(3) The registering officer shall thereupon—

(a) enquire whether or not such document was executed by the persons by whom it purports to have been executed;

(b) satisfy himself as to the identity of the persons appearing before him and alleging that they have executed the document; and

(c) in the case of any person appearing as a representative, assign or agent, satisfy himself of the right of such person so to appear.

(4) Any application for a direction under the proviso to sub-section (1) may be lodged with a Sub-Registrar, who shall forthwith forward it to the Registrar to whom he is subordinate.

(5) Nothing in this section applies to copies of decrees or orders.

Procedure on admission and denial of execution respectively.

35. (1) (a) If all the persons executing the document appear personally before the registering officer and are personally known to him, or if he be otherwise satisfied that they are the persons they represent themselves to be, and if they all admit the execution of the document, or

(b) if in the case of any person appearing by a representative, assign or agent, such representative, assign or agent admits the execution, or by the District Registrar but signed for him by the District Sub-Registrar. Held, that it might be more proper for the District Registrar, when he makes an order of this kind to sign it himself, but the effect of his order cannot be regarded as invalid because the District Sub-Registrar signed it for him. 16 Pat. 660=19 Pat.L.T. 67=1938 Pat. 136.

Secs. 34 and 35.—If the representatives of a deceased executant, when summoned by the Sub-Registrar, do not deny execution but raise another objection, the Court will be justified in holding that this failure to raise the point of non-execution amounts to a recognition on their part that they have no grounds to deny execution. 1940 O.W.N. 600=1940 Oudh 318. A sale-deed was presented for registration by one of the vendees. On that date all the vendors except K were present. The Sub-Registrar registered the document, noting in the endorsement that K was absent and that the deed was being registered on behalf of the other executants. Presence of K was not secured; possession of the land was taken by the vendees. Held, that the appearance of K before the Sub-Registrar should have been secured and the deed registered after hearing him. As this was not done the registration was not valid quoad his share. Held, further, that as the sale-deed was actually given effect to by all the vendors including K, the doctrine of "part performance" clearly applied to the case and the plaintiff was entitled to retain possession of the whole land. 154 I.C. 1088=1934 L. 751.

Secs. 34, 35 and 87.—Where after the death of the executant of a deed of gift, a deed is presented for registration by the donee within four months from the date of execution, the failure to issue notices within that period to the representatives of the deceased executant to admit or deny execution is a mistake of procedure on the part of the Sub-Registrar to which S. 87 applies, and the action of the Sub-Registrar in registering the document cannot be deemed invalid when the only objection is that there was a defect in procedure. 1940 O.W.N. 600=1940 Oudh 318.

Secs. 34 and 38: ADMISSION OF EXECUTION OBTAINED ON COMMISSION—IF CAN AFFECT TIME FIXED UNDER S. 34.—Where a Sub-Registrar visits an executant on commission and obtains an admission of execution from the executant, the date of his doing so under S. 38 has no bearing on the provision in S. 34 which is for persons not exempt from appearing under that section to appear before the Sub-Registrar. 1939 A.L.J. 604=1939 All. 486.

Sec. 35.—No act done in good faith will invalidate registration, merely because of defect in procedure. 4 L. 284=45 M.L.J. 497 (P.C.); 1 R. 22=1923 R. 176. S. 35 only requires that the document should be admitted to have been executed by the person by whom it purports to be executed, and the registration of it can be refused as against him only if he denies the execution. I.L.R. (1938) All. 125=1938 A.L.J. 23=1938 All. 170. An admission on wife's behalf by husband is an irregularity curable under S. 87. 47 A. 294=1925 A. 215. A registration after limitation period is valid, if the delay is excused. 40 I.C. 215. A document cannot be registered on the admission of only one of many executants. 43 I.C. 777. A document may, under S. 35 be registered as against persons admitting execution, about whom no defect appears, and its registration may be refused as against persons about whom there is some defect. I.L.R. (1938) All. 125=1938 A. L.J. 23=1938 All. 170. An admission of execution by one agent holding a power-of-attorney is sufficient. 55 I.A. 81=55 C. 532=54 M.L.J. 473 (P.C.). Person executing does not mean merely person signing. 55 I.A. 81 (P.C.). "Assign" includes a donee under a gift deed. 37 I.C. 362=20 C.W.N. 1345. An instrument by a minor cannot be admitted to registration. 40 M. 308=31 M.L.J. 575 (F.B.). Endorsement by Registrar as to age of executant is no proof of age. 25 I.C. 645=1 C.L.J. 366. See also 96 I.C. 332=1926 A. 674. When execution is denied, no registration is allowable. 96 I.C. 56. Failure of the executant to appear amounts to a denial of execution by him. 53 M. 491=1930 M. 490=59 M.L.J. 585. An illiterate person stating to the Registrar that he sold only a part of the property included in a sale-deed, amounts to a denial of execution. 37 P.R. 1918=45 I.C. 161. For purposes of the Registration Act, execution means signing or affixing a mark. Where the executants admitted to the Registrar that they had marked the document but added that their marks had been obtained by fraud, it is nevertheless a sufficient admission of execution on the basis of which the registering officer is competent to register the document. 27 N.L.R. 116=1931 N. 159. Where a person is accepted by the registration officer as the representative of a deceased person though in fact he may not be legally entitled to represent the deceased and the document is registered, this constitutes merely an error in procedure on the part of the registering officer and does not invalidate the registration. 1934 M. 425=39 L.W. 715=66 M.L.J. 677. The effect of Ss. 35 and 58 to 61 is that if the person executing the document is dead, the Sub-Registrar should have before him the admission of all the legal representatives of the deceased person before he can proceed to register it. And his registering the document on the admission of only some of them is not proper registration. 1933 A.L.J. 318=1933 A. 302. The registration of a document presented by some of the representatives of an executant who is dead at the time of the presentation of the document is good registration. Even assuming the procedure adopted is defective, such a defect is curable by S. 87. 58 C. 876=133 I.C. 191. Registration is a solemn act and if there is a registration endorsement it shows that necessary formalities required by law have been complied with. Consequently where the effect of a document registered is sought to be avoided by the party executing the same by pleading insanity at the time of the execution of the same, the registration endorsement cannot be discarded or ignored in deciding the issue about the mental condition of the party when the deed was executed. The decision in ignorance of or discarding same will not bind the second appellate Court. 177 I.C. 80=1938 Nag. 204. There is no presumption from the fact of registration of a mortgage-deed that at the time of its execution the mortgagor was a major and not a minor. 68 C. L. J. 28=1939 Cal. 183. Document presented by one of mortgagees—Registrar registering it in absence of executant—Validity of registration. 16 L. 1019=1935 L. 416. Where in an enquiry under S. 35 (2), a person makes an untrue statement, without any intention to benefit himself and cheat any body, but solely with a view to save certain ladies of the household not accustomed to go to office from appearing in the Registrar's Office, no doubt the act constitutes an offence making such person liable under S. 82, but as the lie is harmless, a sentence of imprisonment should not be passed. 40 C.W.N. 1059=1936 C. 418.

Secs. 35 (2) and 82: HARMLESS LIE—SENTENCE OF IMPRISONMENT—PROPRIETY.—Where in an enquiry under S. 35 (2) a person makes an untrue statement, without any intention to benefit himself and cheat anybody, but solely with a view to save certain ladies of the household not accustomed to go to office from appearing in the Registrar's Office, no doubt the act constitutes an offence making such person liable

(3) (a) If any person by whom the document purports to be executed denies its execution, or

(b) if any such person appears to the registering officer to be a minor, an idiot or a lunatic, or

(c) if any person by whom the document purports to be executed is dead, and his representative or assign denies its execution, the registering officer shall refuse to register the document as to the person so denying, appearing or dead:

Provided that, where such officer is a Registrar, he shall follow the procedure prescribed in Part XII:

[1][Provided further that the Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare that any Sub-Registrar named in the notification shall, in respect of documents, the execution of which is denied, be deemed to be a Registrar for the purposes of this sub-section and of Part XII.]

PART VII.

OF ENFORCING THE APPEARANCE OF EXECUTANTS AND WITNESSES.

Procedure where appearance of executant or witness is desired.

36. If any person presenting any document for registration or claiming under any document, which is capable of being so presented, desires the appearance of any person whose presence or testimony is necessary for the registration of such document, the registering officer may, in his discretion, call upon such officer or Court as the Provincial Government directs in this behalf to issue a summons requiring him to appear at the registration office, either in person or by duly authorized agent, as in the summons may be mentioned, and at a time named therein.

Officer or Court to issue and cause service of summons.

37. The Officer or Court, upon receipt of the peon's fee payable in such cases, shall issue the summons accordingly, and cause it to be served upon the person whose appearance is so required.

Persons exempt from appearance at registration office.

38. (1) (a) A person who by reason of bodily infirmity is unable without risk or serious inconvenience to appear at the registration office, or

(b) a person in jail under civil or criminal process, or

(c) persons exempt by law from personal appearance in Court, and who would but for the provision next hereinafter contained be required to appear in person at the registration office, shall not be required so to appear.

(2) In the case of every such person the registering officer shall either himself go to the house of such person, or to the jail in which he is confined, and examine him or issue a commission for his examination.

Law as to summonses, commissions and witnesses.

39. The law in force for the time being as to summonses, commissions and compelling the attendance of witnesses, and for their remuneration in suits before Civil Courts, shall, save as aforesaid and mutatis mutandis, apply to any summons or commission issued and any person summoned to appear under the provisions of this Act.

PART VIII.

OF PRESENTING WILLS AND AUTHORITIES TO ADOPT.

Persons entitled to present wills and authorities to adopt.

40. (1) The testator, or after his death any person claiming as executor or otherwise under a will, may present it to any Registrar or Sub-Registrar for registration.

(2) The donor, or after his death the donee, of any authority to adopt, or the adoptive son, may present it to any Registrar or Sub-Registrar for registration.

Registration of wills and authorities to adopt.

41. (1) A will or an authority to adopt, presented for registration by the testator or donor, may be registered in the same manner as any other document.

(2) A will or authority to adopt presented for registration by any other person entitled to present it shall be registered if the registering officer is satisfied—

(a) that the will or authority was executed by the testator or donor, as the case may be;

(b) that the testator or donor is dead; and

(c) that the person presenting the will or authority is, under section 40, entitled to present the same.

PART IX.

OF THE DEPOSIT OF WILLS.

Deposit of wills.

42. Any testator may, either personally or by duly authorized agent, deposit with any Registrar his will in a sealed cover superscribed with the name of the testator and that of his agent (if any) and with a statement of the nature of the document.

Procedure on deposit of wills.

43. (1) On receiving such cover, the Registrar, if satisfied that the person presenting the same for deposit is the testator or his agent, shall transcribe in his Register-book No. 5 the superscription aforesaid, and shall note in the same

NOTES.

Sec. 40.—S. 40 does not exclude the provisions of S. 32, and under it the presentation of an authority to adopt may be made by the adopted son's representative; and under S. 14, the Registrar is made judge to decide whether the person presenting is entitled to do so. 56 I.A. 21=52 M. 175=56 M.L.J. 218 (P.C.). An authority to adopt not registered at the instance of the persons mentioned in sub-S. (2) is invalid. 48 M. 614=52 I.A. 305=49 M.L.J. 247 (P.C.); 51 M. 462=1928 M. 537=55 M.L.J. 102. Per Ramesam, J.—I doubt if a person intended to be adopted but not actually adopted will come under the phrase 'adoptive son'. 1933 M.W.N. 1148.

Sec. 41.—Deposition of witnesses in an enquiry by Registrar as to the genuineness of a will, can be used as evidence in subsequent suits. 42 M. 103=35 M.L.J. 657; 56 I.A. 21=52 M. 175=56 M. L. J. 218 (P.C.).

Secs. 42 and 43: WILL CONTAINED IN SEALED COVER—COVER WHETHER FORMS PART OF WILL—ATTESTATION.—Where a sealed cover containing a will was presented before the Sub-Registrar and a pleader signed on the cover as identifier and the Sub-Registrar signed his name in his office register, held, that they were not attesting witnesses. Per Curiam.—It is extremely doubtful whether the cover in which the will was placed and which was presented to the Sub-Registrar for deposit under S. 42 can be treated as part of the will. 8 P. 419=1929 P. 401.

book and on the said cover the year, month, day and hour of such presentation and receipt, and the names of any persons who may testify to the identity of the testator or his agent, and any legible inscription which may be on the seal of the cover.

(2) The Registrar shall then place and retain the sealed cover in his fire-proof box.

Withdrawal of sealed cover deposited under section 42.

44. If the testator who has deposited such cover wishes to withdraw it, he may apply, either personally or by duly authorized agent, to the Registrar who holds it in deposit, and such Registrar, if satisfied that the applicant is actually the testator or his agent, shall deliver the cover accordingly.

Proceedings on death of depositor.

45. (1) If, on the death of a testator who has deposited a sealed cover under section 42, application be made to the Registrar who holds it in deposit to open the same, and if the Registrar is satisfied that the testator is dead, he shall, in the applicant's presence, open the cover, and, at the applicant's expense, cause the contents thereof to be copied into his Book No. 3.

(2) When such copy has been made, the Registrar shall re-deposit the original will.

Saving of certain enactments and powers of Courts.

46. (1) Nothing hereinbefore contained shall affect the provisions of section 259 of the Indian Succession Act, 1865, or of section 81 of the Probate and Administration Act, 1881, or the power of any Court by order to compel the production of any will.

(2) When any such order is made, the Registrar shall, unless the will has been already copied under section 45, open the cover and cause the will to be copied into his Book No. 3 and make a note on such copy that the original has been removed into Court in pursuance of the order aforesaid.

PART X.

OF THE EFFECTS OF REGISTRATION AND NON-REGISTRATION.

Time from which registered document operates.

47. A registered document shall operate from the time from which it would have commenced to operate if no registration thereof had been required or made, and not from the time of its registration.

NOTES.

Sec. 47.—There is nothing in S. 47, which shows that it only relates to S. 17 of the Act; it relates to any requirement of registration made by any other statute for the time being in force. 1937 Rang.L.R. 375=1937 Rang. 446 (F.B.). A sale-deed operates from the date of sale and not from the date of registration. 35 I.C. 347; 27 I.C. 802; 95 I.C. 138=1926 A. 549. See also 1938 A.L.J. 557=1938 All. 431. The question as to when title passes on a sale to the vendee depends on the intention of the parties. If it is intended between the parties that the title should not pass until payment of the consideration money, registration alone is insufficient to pass the title without such payment. 147 I.C. 767=1934 P. 68. A document which has been registered dates back to the date of its execution. S. 47 is clear in this respect. A sale-deed of immovable property operates immediately after its registration not from the date of registration of the deed but from the date of its execution. A subsequent sale-deed in respect of the same property executed after the first but registered earlier than the first can give to the purchaser under the second deed no title. 22 Pat. L. T. 116=1941 Pat. 247. See also 1937 Pat. 96. Though the effect of registration of a sale-deed is that the deed under S. 47 takes effect, from the date of execution, if the deed is not registered, it cannot have any legal effect as a sale-deed under S. 54, T. P. Act, when the property is over Rs. 100 in value; and a valid sale can be said to be made only when the deed is registered. 1934 M. 637 =67 M.L.J. 380. Where a deed of gift has been accepted by the donee its registration after his death does not affect its validity. 41 C.W.N. 1201. A sale-deed executed before but registered after institution of suit is not affected by lis pendens. 83 I.C. 133=1925 M. 359. Of two sale-deeds the earlier one will prevail, though its registration is only after registration of the later one. 25 I.C. 725=12 A.L.J. 993. A registered document operates from the date of its execution and not from that of its registration; so a document executed on February, 2, but registered only in the following December should be given priority over another deed executed and registered on February 13, even though the latter was accompanied by possession. 124 I.C. 371; 42 I.C. 616; 37 I.C. 817=22 C.W.N. 318; 13 I.C. 653=16 C.W.N. 612; 52 I.C. 99; 16 I.C. 29=105 P.R. 1912. Neither by reason of a decree on it nor by an order of attachment in its execution can an unregistered deed have priority over a registered one. 32 I.C. 431. Registration is a necessary solemnity in order to enable the enforcement of a mortgage of immovable property, but it does not suspend the mortgage until registration actually takes place. So, where subsequent to the execution of a mortgage and prior to its registration, the property is attached, the attachment does not affect the mortgage lien. 59 C. 1176=36 C. W. N. 733. So also in the case of sale. 1937 N. 143; 1938 Pat. 134=19 Pat.L.T. 383; 162 I.C. 900=1936 Pesh. 103. S. 47 refers to a registered document and its operation from the date on which it would have operated, if no registration had been required or made. Where a compromise decree creating a charge was passed in February, 1932, but was registered in June, 1933 and a mortgage of the same property was made in April, 1932, the mortgagee takes priority over the decree-holder. The Registrar had no jurisdiction to register the decree, if the decree were taken to operate from February, 1932. 178 I.C. 505=1939 Pat. 96.

OPERATION OF—TRANSFEROR LOSING INTEREST IN PROPERTY AFTER EXECUTION AND BEFORE REGISTRATION.—It is nowhere laid down that a person who has executed a document requiring registration renders registration of the document impossible by his being deprived of transferable interest in the property involved subsequent to the execution of the deed and before its registration. Registration, in such circumstances, does take effect so as to bring S. 47, Registration Act, into operation. 1935 R. 133.

Secs. 47 and 49: SALE-DEED EXECUTED BEFORE, BUT REGISTERED AFTER, ANOTHER—PRIORITY.—A sale-deed, dated 29-12-1920 was executed in favour of A but it was registered only on 13-5-1921. On 6-1-1921, the vendor executed and registered a sale-deed of the same properties in favour of B. Held, that once the sale-deed in favour of A was registered on 13-5-1921. S. 49 had no application and by virtue of S. 47 the deed began to operate from 29-11-1920 and was therefore entitled to priority. 146 I.C. 159 =1933 A.L.J. 1200; see 18 I.C. 46. A purchaser by registered deed having knowledge of a prior oral sale can claim no priority. 52 I.C. 245=132 P.R. 1919. A subsequent registered mortgage is entitled to priority over an earlier oral charge, not accompanied by delivery of possession, of which the mortgagee has no notice. 152 I.C. 267=36 Bom.L.R. 277=1934 B. 189. A mortgagee by registered deed cannot claim priority over a prior equitable mortgagee. 31 P.R. 1916=34 I.C. 937. A mortgage by deposit of title-deeds cannot be looked upon as a mere oral transaction, as the act of deposit is the essential part of it. In fact the intention to create security is inferred in such cases from the mere deposit of deeds coupled with the loan "without more, without writing, without word of mouth". A mortgage of this type does not fall within the purview of S. 48. 1930 L. 920. A subsequent registered mortgage has priority over a prior oral gift not accompanied by delivery of possession. 30 P.R. 1916=34 I.C. 920. An oral mortgage is postponed to a registered one. 19 I.C. 2. But there is no priority when there has been a delivery of possession. 12 I.C. 905.

ORAL SALE TO MORTGAGEE IN POSSESSION—SUBSEQUENT REGISTERED SALE—TRANSFER.—An oral sale to a mortgagee, who is already in possession of the land, prevails over a subsequent registered sale, especially where the vendee under the latter sale has notice of the former sale. 1935 L. 164.

DOCUMENT UNREGISTERED—EFFECT.—The fact that a sale-deed was unregistered may give priority to a third person claiming under a registered deed, but it has no bearing on the question whether the vendor did sell the land to the vendee. 1929 P.C. 303.

Sec. 48.—The principle underlying S. 48 is that possession is tantamount to notice of the interest or claim in the property of the person in possession and whoever deals with such property is put on enquiry as to the title of the person in possession. If a person, who is in possession of the property already by virtue of another title, subsequently secures another title to that property by means of a document, which requires registration but which has not been registered, the factum of possession prior to the subsequent acquisition of title puts a subsequent purchaser of the same property by means of a registered document on enquiry as to the title of the person already in possession and has the effect of postponing him to the title subsequently acquired by the person in possession. (8 Pat. 316, Appl.) 1938 Lah. 39.

Secs. 48 and 50: SCOPE.—All duly registered documents shall take effect against an oral agreement or declaration relating to property, unless where the agreement or declaration has been accompanied or followed by delivery of possession. In spite of the explicit wording of S. 48, it has for long been held that a subsequent registered deed will not prevail over a prior unregistered deed or a prior oral transaction if the subsequent transferee had notice of the prior transaction, and the onus lies on the person claiming under an unregistered document or under an oral transfer to establish the facts necessary to exclude the operation of S. 50 or S. 48. 119 I.C. 754=1929 L. 500.

Sec. 49: SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY OF SECTION.—The rule laid down in S. 49 is not that of adjective law. S. 49 is as much a portion of substantive law as S. 17, and they go hand in hand. S. 49 will rule out only the documents which were registrable under S. 17. S. 49 cannot therefore go beyond S. 17 and rule out documents at the time of their production which were not registrable at the time they were executed. 163 I.C. 64=1936 Pesh. 125. See also 50 L. W. 331; 1939 P.W.N. 880; 17 Pat.L.T. 217; 1940 M.W.N. 895. S. 49 is mandatory, and a document which, is required to be registered but is not registered shall not be received in evidence. The mere fact that the opposite party raises no objection to its admissibility will not affect the question. 15 Pat. 579=18 Pat.L.T. 41=1937 Pat. 183. No equitable doctrine can override the specific provisions of S. 49 and operate so as to make an unregistered document create title if it requires registration. 43 P.L.R. 656=1941 Lah. 407 (F.B.). There is no warrant whatever for the proposition that the provisions of Ss. 17 and 49 are inapplicable, where the contest is not between the executants of an unregistered deed inter se, but is between them and a third party. 36 P.L.R. 25=1934 L. 759. Compromise of criminal case—Admissibility without registration. 148 I.C. 867=11 O. W.N. 450=1934 O. 116. S. 49 is mandatory. The mere fact that the opposite party raises no objection to admissibility of the document will not affect the question. 15 P. 579. Section should be construed strictly and unless a document is clearly brought within the purview of the Act, non-registration is no bar to its being acted upon or received in evidence; and in case of doubt the benefit of the doubt should be given to the person who wants the Court to act upon or receive it in evidence. 30 S.L.R. 115=1936 S. 79 (F.B.). When a Registrar admits a document to registration he does so with jurisdiction. Hence the resulting registration cannot be regarded as void though at the same time the fact that it is registered does not in the least cure the defects in the deed so that if it deals with a prohibited subject, the ordinary law should be applied and the question whether it is good or bad should be determined with reference to that law. I.L.R. (1941) Nag. 743=1941 Nag. 328. Under S. 49 document required by law to be registered cannot if it is not registered be received as evidence of any transaction affecting the property concerned. The document itself does not create any rights or liabilities. At best it can serve only as an admission, but it is not conclusive evidence of the fact admitted. It can no doubt operate as estoppel if the necessary conditions are present. 1942 R.D. 501.

Cl. (a).—An equitable mortgage is ineffective where the memo. of deposit was not registered. 24 Bom. L. R. 502=1922 B. 440; 138 I.C. 247; 40 M. 547; 53 M.L. J. 179; 1931 P.C. 36; 58 I.A. 68=60 M. L.J. 506 (P.C.). Though an agreement embodied in a written document requiring registration under S. 17 and not so registered cannot be proved by the written document or by oral evidence, yet where there is no written agreement, there is no reason why the intent to create a security by deposit of title-deeds under the exception provided for in S. 59, T. P. Act, should not be evi-

A decree for specific performance of lease does not affect the land, if the agreement to lease was unregistered. It is only a personal decree. 42 I.C. 633; 13 P. 620 =1934 P. 495=15 P.L.T. 443. An unregistered sale-deed has no priority over a subsequent registered one, even with notice of the prior sale. 9 I.C. 55=9 M.L.T. 270.

MOVABLES AND IMMOVABLES.—Where an unregistered deed relates both to movables and immovables, a suit on the document in respect of movables is not barred. 51 I.C. 954=21 Bom.L.R. 716; 47 I.C. 563. Even movable property cannot be affected by an unregistered document, unless they were intended to be separate apart from immovables dealt with by the document. 30 M.L.J. 62=32 I.C. 486 (F.B.). Cf. 1 Bur. L.J. 111=1923 R. 57; 60 M.L.J. 527; 1931 R. 65 (1); 138 I.C. 495=1932 L. 545; 132 I.C. 305=1931 M. 580. As to agreement for sale of earth and sand, see 1932 M. 734 =63 M.L.J. 587. Separate parts in a document relating to immovable property of less than Rs. 100 in value can be admitted in evidence, though the document may as a whole require registration but has not been registered. 10 I.C. 748=10 Bom. L. R. 162. A registered deed of sale not only makes the transfer but proves it as well. 36 I.C. 547=12 N.L.R. 139. Document registered without jurisdiction, as a document registered on presentation not by a proper person or at proper time, cannot be considered as properly registered and so cannot be received in evidence. 11 R. 207 =1933 R. 194.

Sec. 49 (c): AFFECTING IMMOVABLE PROPERTY.—The establishment of a title by adverse possession is a transaction affecting immovable property. 38 M. 158=27 M.L.J. 497. The right to hold a market is an incident to the ownership of the land. The allocation of particular days for holding the bazaar, coupled with the condition that the parties are not to be allowed to hold the bazaar on certain other days, is a restriction on the general right possessed by the owner to hold the market, and so where an agreement deals with such a right and the value of the same is more than Rs. 100, the document requires registration. 5 Luck. 504= 1931 O. 110.

ADMISSIBILITY IN EVIDENCE—GENERAL.—The inadmissibility applies only to those which are compulsorily registrable and the section does not forbid admissibility of a document whose registration is optional, but has been illegally registered. 62 I.C. 246. Unless there has been a transaction independent of the written instrument and capable of proof without evidence thereof, the right, title and interest in question has not been declared, etc. The Registration Act cannot be defeated by a contention to the effect that, as no written instrument was necessary, the transaction itself is independent of the written instrument which can be regarded simply as evidence thereof. 58 C. 136=131 I.C. 689=1931 C. 23. Section applies to compromise deed also. 27 A.L.J. 487; 11 P. 98=136 I.C. 54=1932 P. 97. Document inadmissible as evidence of the transaction may be admitted as admission. 49 C.L.J. 532.

AWARD.—A decree based on an award which is compulsorily registrable but not registered, cannot be set aside on the ground of want of registration under S. 49 in an independent suit by a stranger to the decree. There is no warrant for saying that if any inadmissible evidence is admitted and a decree is passed, the same can be challenged in another suit by any party. I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 526=42 Bom.L.R. 486=1940 Bom. 289. See also 40 Bom.L.R. 952; 1937 Cal. 201; 6 Cut.L.J. 47. Where part of an award is invalid as being in excess of the arbitrator's powers and is separable from the rest, the rest of the award can be maintained. But where the award partitioning the properties is, for want of registration, inadmissible in evidence as regards the immovable properties dealt with by it and it is obvious that the arbitrators had the relative values of the movables and immovables in making the partition and allowing for the differences, the award is indivisible and it cannot be admitted in evidence even so far as it relates to the movables only. 1932 A.L.J. 1090=1933 A. 59. An acknowledgment contained in a communication addressed to a third party does not require registration. 59 I.A. 130=11 P. 272=1932 P. C. 55=62 M.L.J. 296 (P.C.). See also 137 I.C. 155=1932 L. 400; 140 I.C. 387= 1932 L. 592; 1936 Lah. 276.

LEASES.—Lease of agricultural land may be made orally. But when an instrument is executed for that purpose, it must be registered under S. 17 (1) (d); and if not registered, it would be inadmissible under this section. 62 C.L.J. 534=1936 C. 770. An unregistered agreement to lease effecting a present demise cannot be received in evidence in a suit for specific performance. 10 I.C. 892; 1922 L. 329; 49 C. 507=1922 C. 436; 42 I.C. 948=33 M.L.J. 596; 42 I.C. 633; 1939 Mad. 391=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 82. But an unregistered lease can be admitted to prove the amount of damages for use and occupation: 11 I.C. 23; 32 P.L.R. 361=1931 L. 501; 137 I.C. 136=1932 S. 60; 95 I.C. 957=1926 O. 304 (kabuliyat admitted); 1930 L. 915; to prove a lease for less than one year: 1931 M. 352=60 M.L.J. 293; also to prove lease from month to month. 32 P.L.R. 361=1931 L. 501. See contra 42 I.C. 948=33 M.L.J. 596. An unregistered lease deed can be used to prove the relationship of landlord and tenant. 45 I. C. 217; 1930 P. 110; but not to prove the terms of the relationship. 22 I.C. 65=9 N.L.R. 179. But where the defendant admits the lease the fact that the lease deed is unregistered does not affect the admission. 57 I.C. 262; 3 Lah.L.J. 253. An unregistered lease which requires registration under S. 107 of the T P. Act is admissible in evidence if it had been acted upon by the parties for a long time. [28 I.C. 930 (P. C.), Rel. on.] 1937 O.W.N. 1030=1937 Oudh 505. A sub-lease which requires registration but not registered is void; so a condition in the original lease against transfer is not broken by such sub-lease. Such illegal sub-letting would not entail forfeiture for breach of condition against transfer. 15 P. 460=17 Pat.L.T. 217=1936 P. 372.

SALES.—An agreement for the sale of immovable property is a transaction "affecting" the property within the meaning of S. 49, inasmuch as, if carried out, it will bring about a change of ownership; and to allow a document which does itself create such an interest to be used as the foundation of a suit for specific performance is an evasion of the Registration Act. (1922 C. 436; 1926 M. 530 and 1926 B. 375, Appr.) 56 I. A. 363=33 C.W.N. 1150=1929 P.C. 269=57 M.L.J. 765 (P.C.). An unregistered sale, though ineffective to pass title, may nevertheless be used to explain the nature of possession taken under it. 1940 N.L.J. 509=1941 Nag. 72. An unregistered sale-deed is not admissible in evidence so as to affect the interests of a person not a party to it. 110 P.W.R. 1916=36 I.C. 374. The position of a purchaser who has been let into possession by his vendor under an unregistered and consequently inoperative sale-deed after there has first been an oral agreement to sell and after the whole of the consideration has been made good, under the mistaken belief on both sides that the transaction is complete, whereas in fact it has remained incomplete for want of registration of the instrument purporting to effect the transfer, must be regarded as that of a purchaser under a contract for sale which has not yet been completed or rescinded with the consent of both parties and the purchaser cannot claim any title as owner in the property, whether as legal or as equitable owner. The purchaser, however, has a charge on the property for the amount paid by him in advance as purchase-money. The lien is not created by any agreement between the parties, but arises by operation of law, on payment of the purchase-money independently of the sale-deed. Though the unregistered instrument is not admissible to prove transfer of title it can be used in evidence for the purposes of showing that the purchaser entered upon the property under a contract of sale. The unregistered document is also admissible for the purpose of showing that the purchaser obtained a lien by passing of the consideration. 43 P.L.R. 656=1941 Lah. 407 (F.B.). See also 1941 Nag. 72. An unregistered sale-deed cannot be used to prove a contract of sale. 37 M. 480=16 I.C. 587; 1 Pat.L.J. 455=37 I.C. 994; 67 I.C. 144. See also 41 B. 550=41 I.C. 273. Contra 1929 R. 293.

EXCHANGE.—S. 49 prevents an unregistered deed of exchange of immovable property from having any effect, and the title remains in the transferor. 42 P. L. R. 294=1940 Lah. 311. An unregistered deed of exchange of land is inadmissible in evidence. But the inadmissible deed cannot deprive a party to it from claiming possession of land which admittedly belonged to him before the date of the deed. He can treat the other party who has taken possession of the land under the inadmissible deed as a trespasser. 40 P.L.R. 224.

MORTGAGES.—If a document does not refer to a mortgage-debt or purport to create a mortgage or charge on the mortgage debt itself, but points to something being done in the future concerning the immovable property, the document is not inadmissible in evidence for want of registration. 123 I.C. 297=1930 S. 77. See also 33 P.L.R. 323. A document purporting to create an equitable mortgage is admissible in evidence though unregistered, if it is only a narrative of facts constituting the mortgage. 40 M. 547=34 I.C. 853; 31 C.W.N. 703=1927 C. 538; 53 M.L.J. 179=102 I.C. 34. See also 1932 A.L.J. 101=1932 A. 259; 36 C.W.N. 738=55 C.L.J. 571 (proof of payment of mortgage-debt which extinguishes the mortgage). Unregistered mortgage-deed is admissible to prove character of possession. 8 R. 556=1931 R. 40; 144 I.C. 312=1933 N. 270; or other collateral purpose, 56 B. 101. See also I.L.R. Unregistered mortgage bond can be referred to in suit not to enforce charge but simply to recover the money. 37 C.W.N. 915; 131 I.C. 500=1931 R. 65; 1931 S. 151. See also 1937 Rang.L.R. 442 (Admissibility to prove nature of possession). 42 P.L.R. 660=1940 Lah. 486 (Admissibility to prove personal covenant to pay). Where a usufructuary mortgage of certain lands for a sum of less than Rs. 100 is made by an unregistered deed accompanied by delivery of possession, the terms of the document could only be proved by the document under S. 91 of the Evidence Act even though there is delivery of possession, and the document which requires to be registered under S. 59 of the T. P. Act is inadmissible in evidence under S. 49 of the Registration Act, as amended in 1929. 1939 Rang. 188=1939 Rang. L. R. 39. A document evidencing an agreement between the mortgagor and the mortgagee to vary the terms of the registered mortgage-deed relating to the rate of interest payable under that deed, which is in effect an agreement to relinquish a portion of the mortgage-debt exceeding Rs. 100, falls under S. 17 (1) (b) and cannot be received, when not registered, as evidence of any transaction affecting the mortgaged property. 132 I.C. 66=1931 O. 288. See also 1933 L. 422. An unregistered receipt for mortgage-money extinguishing the mortgage-debt cannot be received as evidence of payment of money due under the mortgage. 64 C.L.J. 10. See also 1938 Mad. 533.

PARTITIONS.—A partition deed, if not registered, is inadmissible in evidence. 35 P. R. 1916=33 I.C. 948; 1922 N. 36; 90 I.C. 1016=1925 M. 1195; 96 I.C. 367=1926 N. 329; 141 I.C. 487=34 P.L.R. 194. An unregistered agreement in writing arranging a partition between the parties is not available as evidence of the transaction under the Registration Act. 56 I. A. 6=52 M. 83 =1929 P.C. 13=56 M.L.J. 165 (P.C.). See also 151 I.C. 787=1934 Pesh. 100. See also 39 Bom.L.R. 1102. This is so even for the purpose of proving an unilateral declaration of an intention to divide. 46 M. 349=44 M.L.J. 45; 151 I.C. 787=1934 Pesh. 100. A butwara chitta, is a mere list of shares, and does not require registration. 62 C.L.J. 513=1936 C. 700; (1938) 1 M. L.J. 582=1938 Mad. 568. Under Hindu Law partition is only a change in the mode of enjoying the joint property coupled with an alteration in status, the joint title being divided into a number of separate ones. No formality is required. A document by which parties had intended to have this division effected may in the result prove ineffective for that purpose. But their common desire to act upon it, and their action in doing so would amount to a confirmation of the original agreement. If that becomes unprovable, such confirmation would itself constitute a fresh and subsequent agreement which would be provable like any other agreement. This is 'a collateral transaction not required to be effected by a registered instrument' within the meaning of S. 49. Therefore the unregistered document can be used as material in proof of it. It could be used to corroborate other evidence or facts. It could be used to show the character of the possession and the nature of the title, provided there is other evidence to establish separate possession. 1941 N.L. J. 266=1941 Nag. 209. Although documents or papers connected with a partition of immovable properties which are unregistered cannot be admitted in evidence to prove actual partition and to prove what was allotted to any person by that partition, yet they are clearly admissible to establish the status of a party or to establish separation in the family, and to rebut any case that that party died in a state of jointness. 21 Pat. L.T. 1063=1941 Pat. 167. List of partition, though unregistered, would be admissible in evidence when the question of division of status alone is sought to be proved: 1928 M. 865; 37 C.W.N. 112; 1935 L. 448; 29 Punj.L.R. 413; 99 I.C. 448; 54 M. 27 =59 M.L.J. 558; 1929 M. 291=116 I.C. 137; 117 I.C. 720; 1938 Mad. 568=(1938) 1

M.L.J. 582; (1941) 2 M.L.J. 707. Unregistered document may be admissible to prove or determine nature of possession. 108 I.C. 892. See also 1933 L. 422; 1927 A. 763; 109 I.C. 795; 100 I.C. 153. An unilateral declaration of an intention to get divided contained in an unregistered instrument prior to division by metes and bounds needs no registration. 40 I.C. 36. But where a partition deed has been acted upon, it is admissible in evidence in a suit for specific performance even though it be unregistered: 4 Pat.L.T. 657=1924 P. 244. There can be valid partition in a Hindu family without any document. But if a document or list which requires registration is in existence, they cannot be received in evidence under S. 49, for proving any of the terms of the partition. Oral evidence also would be barred under S. 91, Evidence Act. 45 L. W. 639=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 676. In cases where the unregistered deed is inadmissible in evidence, secondary evidence of its contents is also inadmissible. 44 I.C. 91.

PATTA.—A person relying on an unregistered patta who is admittedly in possession is entitled to refer to the unregistered patta for the purpose of explaining the nature of his possession, e.g., that he was let into possession as a tenant of the land in suit. 187 I.C. 583=1940 Pat. 498. The terms of a tenancy cannot be determined by looking at an unregistered kabuliyat or patta. 189 I.C. 745=1940 Pat. 37. See also 1939 Pat. 296.

TRANSFER OF IMMOVABLE AND MOVABLE PROPERTY—ADMISSIBILITY AS REGARDS MOVABLE PROPERTY.—Where movable as well as immovable property is transferred by a document for a single consideration, which document, though compulsorily registrable in order to affect the immovable property, is not registered, it is equally ineffectual to affect movable property, the reason being that the document embodies one transaction for one consideration and there is no separate transaction concerning the movable property. The document is therefore inadmissible in evidence even as regards a claim in respect of movable property. 152 I. C. 431=1934 R. 303.

RELEASE.—A release need not be in writing. But if written it must be registered. If not, S. 49, Registration Act, excludes the document from evidence and S. 91, Evidence Act, shuts out all oral evidence of its terms, so the actual transaction of release is unprovable. An unregistered written deed of release cannot be used to show that there must have been an agreement to release and that the parties acted on it. Hence doctrine of part performance or equitable estoppel would not apply. 174 I.C. 7=1937 Nag. 402. A document by which the defendant relinquished his interest in a mortgage bond in favour of his brother, the plaintiff, and authorised the latter to collect the full amount of the debts is inadmissible in evidence in so far as it operates to extinguish his right in the mortgage security; but there is no bar to its being admitted for showing the transfer of the debt itself, apart from the security. 1934 M. 178=66 M.L.J. 380. A document purporting to declare that the executants held no title in a house and had relinquished their connection with it and also purporting to record a payment of money described as having been spent by them in rebuilding the house, requires to be registered, and is inadmissible without registration. 35 P.L.R. 570=1934 L. 604 (2).

RELINQUISHMENT.—Where a document is produced not for any collateral purpose but for the purpose of proving the actual transfer or relinquishment of certain rights, and the property which is the subject-matter of relinquishment is valued at more than Rs. 100 the document ought to be properly stamped and registered otherwise it is inadmissible in evidence. 162 I.C. 733=1936 Lah. 109.

drawn between the use of an unregistered document as evidence of a transaction affecting immovable property and the use of such document in evidence; the proviso permits the use in evidence of an unregistered document, though that document affects immovable property, if the purpose of its use is any purpose other than that of creating, declaring, assigning, limiting or extinguishing a right to immovable property. An unregistered deed of partnership which, among others, makes reference to leases of immovable properties, may therefore be admitted and used in evidence in a suit for accounts of the partnership after its dissolution to prove the partnership and profits and losses arising from the same, which is only a collateral transaction. I. L. R. (1941) Kar. 483. Per Weston, J.—A "collateral transaction" is to be taken as one collateral to the transaction affecting immovable property by reason of which registration is necessary, rather than one collateral to the document. The proviso speaks not of collateral purpose but of collateral transaction. I.L.R. (1941) Kar. 483. An unregistered deed is admissible to prove the fact of possession though not its terms. 41 B. 466= 40 I.C. 83; 1923 L. 371; 57 I.C. 965; 41 I. Where a party is in possession of land, a document which is unregistered but which requires registration can be used for the collateral purpose of showing the nature of his possession. 37 P.L.R. 459. A mortgagor may refer to an unregistered deed of mortgage for Rs. 100 or more in order to show the character of the possession of the mortgagee and can give evidence as to the circumstances under which the defendant obtained possession; 8 R. 656=1931 R. 40; see also 40 P.L.R. 833=1938 Lah. 497. Unregistered sale-deed may be admitted for proving acknowledgment of liability under a pronote. 162 I.C. 306=1936 L. 276. But an unregistered sale-deed is inadmissible even for the collateral purpose of ascertaining the nature of property sold: 61 P.L.R. 1919; or as to what was the consideration. 1929 N. 115. An unregistered lease cannot be admitted in evidence to prove the permanent nature of tenant's possession. 42 I.C. 375. Documents which are compulsorily registrable but which are unregistered can be admitted for a collateral purpose. In the case of partition memorandum relating to a joint Hindu family a reference to arbitration for the purpose of division of the family property may be regarded as constituting proof collateral of the fact that the parties intended to sever. The declaration of will to divide can be made even by a unilateral act, and if such declaration was manifested by a joint reference to arbitration by all the adult coparceners calling upon the arbitration to effect a division of the family property and apportion it to the respective shares, the partition memoranda can be made use of in proof of the change of status or the declaration of will to separate. Obiter Per Wossodew, J.

Per Thakoor, J.—Partition memoranda cannot be admitted in evidence to prove the fact of partition. That purpose is not a collateral purpose, nor is the purpose of showing that by these memoranda a severance in interest was created a collateral purpose. Severance in interest, which is only another expression for partition under the Hindu Law, being itself the object of the documents cannot be regarded as a purpose collateral to the main purpose and object of the documents in any sense. 175 I.C. 361=40 Bom. L.R. 202=1938 Bom. 257. See also 1941 Nag. 209; 1941 Pat. 167; 41 P.L.R. 123. An unregistered kobala is admissible to prove contract which must be deemed to have preceded it. 7 Pat.L.T. 730=1926 P. 89. In a suit for rent on basis of a perpetual lease, if the deed is unregistered, it is not admissible in evidence as the purpose cannot be described as collateral. The object is to establish the plaintiffs' right to recover a specific sum of money as rent by the landlord; that is, to establish the title and terms. 1936 N. 295. Where a sale-deed by which the purchaser purchased the mortgaged property from the widow of the mortgagor may be inadmissible in evidence as not having been registered, it can nevertheless be used for collateral purposes, e.g., to show that he undertook thereby to pay the mortgage amount, in order to be entitled to be paid that amount before the reversioner is allowed to take possession of the property mortgaged. 13 P. 111=15 P.L.T. 73= 1934 P. 127.

COMPROMISE PETITION.—Neither an unregistered compromise, nor an order of a Revenue Court based on it, can confer a valid title. 33 A. 728. See also 40 P.L. R. 115. Where the compromise petition is incorporated in a decree of a Court it requires no registration. 91 P. R. 1915=31 I.C. 537; 36 M. 46=21 M.L.J. 870. Where compromise is not incorporated, see 100 I.C.

50. (1) Every document of the kinds mentioned in clauses (a), (b), (c) and (d) of section 17, sub-section (1), and clauses (a) and (b) of section 18, shall, if duly registered, take effect as regards the property comprised therein, against every unregistered document relating to the same property, and not being a decree or order, whether such unregistered document be of the same nature as the registered document or not.

Certain registered documents relating to land to take effect against unregistered documents.

NOTES.

783=28 Punj.L.R. 143. The exemption from registration applies even when the compromise petition relates to matters not within the scope of the suit in which it is filed. 1 Pat.L.J. 208=36 I.C. 290. The proviso cannot have retrospective effect in the case of an agreement to sell, which is sought to be filed for the first time in appeal. 12 L. 172=1930 L. 1004; 98 I. C. 1069 (1)=1927 A. 156. Where one of the terms of a compromise refers to immovable properties of one of the parties, but no new rights are either created or declared by the compromise but the reference merely relates to the pre-existing state of things with regard to which there is no dispute, even though the deed may be unregistered, still it is admissible. 1935 L. 307. See also 1937 Lah. 939.

Sec. 49, proviso.—The proviso to S. 49 added by the amending Act of 1929, is necessarily retrospective. It is a rule of evidence and normally as it does not create or defeat substantive rights, according to the recognised canons of construction, it should be accepted as retrospective. 42 Bom.L.R. 382=1940 Bom. 193. See also 1937 M.W. N. 440; 1937 All. 711=1937 A.L.J. 815; 1940 Pat. 92=19 Pat. 90. An unregistered document is admissible as evidence to prove part performance of a contract under the proviso to S. 49 in a suit instituted after it came into effect, even though that document was executed prior to its coming into effect. 64 C.L.J. 558=1937 Cal. 467. See also 43 C.W.N. 956. See also 1937 Pesh. 58; 1940 O.W.N. 753; 43 C.W.N. 956; 16 Luck. 39=1941 Oudh 41. As to non-applicability of doctrine of part performance to any claim which does not relate to retention of immovable property of which a party might be in possession, see 45 L.W. 639=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 676. An unregistered deed of mortgage is not itself sufficient to support a suit for specific performance of an agreement to transfer. The document being a document of transfer and intended to be such must be registered in order to give it validity as a mortgage. It is not open to a party to ignore the provisions of the law of registration and to treat it as a contract to transfer—which it is not—and to compel the transferor to execute a formal transfer. The unregistered mortgage cannot itself be regarded as the contract for purposes of the new proviso added to S. 49, when there is no proof of any separate agreement to mortgage prior to the execution of the mortgage-deed. 48 L.W. 522=1938 Mad. 801=(1938) 2 M.L. J. 362.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—A question of law relating to the admissibility of a document by reason of non-registration cannot for the first time be allowed to be raised before the Privy Council when the plea cannot be disposed of without deciding nice questions of fact on which the evidence is not clear and the parties are at variance. 59 I. A. 161=10 R. 242=63 M.L.J. 131 (P.C.).

Sec. 50.—S. 50 of the Registration Act applies to cases in which the property conveyed by the unregistered and registered documents is the same, or in which the property conveyed by one document includes the property conveyed by the other. In other words, it applies where the two documents are antagonistic, but not where effect can be given to each without infringement of the other. 38 P.L.R. 928=164 I. C. 577=1937 Lah. 57. Thus, if A executes an unregistered mortgage of his property to B, and afterwards sells the same property out and out to C by a registered deed, the two documents are of an antagonistic character, and C is, therefore, entitled to have priority over the unregistered mortgage. But he is not so entitled, if his conveyance is, in terms, only a conveyance of the equity of redemption, for then the two documents are separate and distinct and can exist together without impugning one another. 1937 Lah. 57. The wording of S. 50 would seem prima facie to apply to previous unregistered deeds, whether they have taken effect by delivery of possession or not. It would be unduly restricting the scope of the section to say that it does not apply at all, when the previous unregistered transaction has taken effect by delivery of possession. I.L.R. (1939) Lah. 261=41 P.L.R. 19=1939 Lah. 29. A person who takes a property by a registered deed, with full knowledge of a previous transaction, is obviously a party to the vendor's fraud, and consequently he cannot succeed merely on the strength of his registered deed. Delivery of possession may amount to notice of the previous title and the subsequent alienee may fail owing to such notice, but that would depend upon the nature and circumstances of the possession under the prior title. 38 P.L.R. 928=1937 Lah. 57. A charge created by award prior to the amending Act of 1929, which is not registered, retains seniority over a subsequent mortgage-deed which is registered. 1933 S. 151=27 S.L.

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) applies to leases exempted under the proviso to sub-section (1) of section 17 or to any document mentioned in sub-section (2) of the same section, or to any registered document which had not priority under the law in force at the commencement of this Act.

Explanation.—In cases where Act No. XVI of 1864 of the Indian Registration Act, 1866, was in force in the place and at the time in and at which such unregistered document was executed, "unregistered" means not registered according to such Act, and, where the document is executed after the first day of July, 1871, not registered under the Indian Registration Act, 1871, or the Indian Registration Act, 1877, or this Act.

PART XI.

Book 2—"Record of reasons for refusal to register;"
Book 3—"Register of wills and authorities to adopt;"

For the application of this section it is not necessary that the executants of the two conflicting deeds must be the same individual. 16 I.C. 625=10 A.L.J. 114. Two documents must be of the same kind. 101 I.C. 836=1927 M. 699. Section would not apply where effect can be given to each document without infringement of the other. 30 Bom.L.R. 720=1928 B. 269. Section applies only where the prior document is optionally registrable and the transaction is not completed. 1928 M. 546. Where both the documents are registered, S. 50 has no application. 147 I.C. 767=1934 P. 68. The section does not give priority to a registered deed where it was obtained by fraud. 49 I.C. 839. The section does not apply where the subsequent registered-deed-claimant has notice of the prior unregistered deed. 18 C.W.N. 657. See also 146 I.C. 40=1933 L. 69; 1930 R. 188. Where the lands in dispute were sold to the defendant in three parcels for a consideration in each of the sale-deeds of less than Rs. 100 and the sale properties were subsequently conveyed to another person by a registered sale-deed, but it appeared that the purchasers under the oral sale had already obtained possession, held, that the oral sales were valid and that the registered sale-deed could not take effect in derogation of the same. 10 Pat. L.T. 449=1929 P. 620. An unregistered mortgage-deed cannot be enforced against a bona fide purchaser under a registered sale-deed without notice. 47 A. 338=1925 A. 325; 18 I.C. 724; 10 I.C. 233. See also 119 I.C. 754=1929 L. 500. Sec. 51.—There is no valid registration when the document is entered in the wrong book. 52 I.C. 213. But see contra 1927 M. 586=52 M.L.J. 482. Where a document is intended to be registered as a partnership deed under the order of the Registrar but is by mistake entered in the book pertaining to alienations, the document is not validly registered as an alienation but is only validly registered as a partnership deed. 1938 Lah. 255=181 I.C. 747.

DOCUMENT ENTERED IN WRONG BOOK—VALIDITY OF REGISTRATION.—Where a document which should have been entered in Book 1 was entered in Book 4 and the mistake was made by the registering officer in good faith and did not injure any innocent person. Held, that this error did not make the registration invalid. 39 C.W.N. 1191=1935 P.C. 165=69 M.L.J. 503 (P.C.); 40 C.W.N. 1012=162 I.C. 650=1936 C. 212.

(2) In Book 1 shall be entered or filed all documents or memoranda registered under sections 17, 18 and 89 which relate to immovable property, and are not wills.

(3) In Book 4 shall be entered all documents registered under clauses (d) and (f) of section 18 which do not relate to immovable property.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to require more than one set of books where the office of the Registrar has been amalgamated with the office of a Sub-Registrar.

Duties of registering officers when document presented.

52. (1) (a) The day, hour and place of presentation, and the signature of every person presenting a document for registration, shall be endorsed on every such document at the time of presenting it;

(b) a receipt for such document shall be given by the registering officer to the person presenting the same; and

(c) subject to the provisions contained in section 62, every document admitted to registration shall without unnecessary delay be copied in the book appropriated therefor according to the order of its admission.

(2) All such books shall be authenticated at such intervals and in such manner as is from time to time prescribed by the Inspector-General.

Entries to be numbered consecutively.

53. All entries in each book shall be numbered in a consecutive series, which shall commence and terminate with the year, a fresh series being commenced at the beginning of each year.

Current indexes and entries therein.

54. In every office in which any of the books hereinbefore mentioned are kept, there shall mbe prepared current indexes of the contents of such books; and every entry in such indexes shall be made, so far as practicable, immediately after the registering officer has copied, or filed a memorandum of, the document to which it relates.

Indexes to be made by registering officers, and their contents.

55. (1) Four such indexes shall be made in all registration offices, and shall be named, respectively, Index No. I, Index No. II, Index No. III, and Index No. IV.

(2) Index No. I shall contain the names and additions of all persons executing and of all persons claiming under every document entered or memorandum filed in Book No. 1.

(3) Index No. II shall contain such particulars mentioned in section 21 relating to every such document and memorandum as the Inspector-General from time to time directs in that behalf.

(4) Index No. III shall contain the names and additions of all persons executing every will and authority entered in Book No. 3, and of the executors and persons respectively appointed thereunder, and after the death of the testator or the donor (but not before) the names and addtions of all persons claiming under the same.

NOTES.

Sec. 52.—Omission on the part of the Sub-Registrar to give particulars as to day, hour and place of registration is a mere irregularity which can be cured under S. 87. 132 I.C. 881=1931 L. 677.

Cl. (1) (a): COMPLIANCE WITH—PERSON PRESENTING A DOCUMENT—WHO IS.—To constitute a presentation under S. 52 (1) (a). it is not necessary that the executant should himself or herself personally hand the document to the registering officer; it is immaterial by whom the physical act is performed. Where the document is handed at first by an unauthorised person to the Registrar, who, however, registers it only after the executant admits execution of the deed; there is no invalidity and the requirements of S. 52 (1) (a) are sufficiently complied with. 1931 L. 677=132 I.C. 881.

(5) Index No. IV shall contain the names and additions of all persons executing and of all persons claiming under every document entered in Book No. 4.

(6) Each Index shall contain such other particulars, and shall be prepared in such form, as the Inspector-General from time to time directs.

56. [Repealed by Act XV of 1929.]

Registering Officers to allow inspection of certain books and Indexes, and to give certified copies of entries.

57. (1) Subject to the previous payment of the fees payable in that behalf, the Books Nos. 1 and 2 and the Indexes relating to Book No. 1 shall be at all times open to inspection by any person applying to inspect the same; and, subject to the provisions of section 62, copies of entries in such books shall be given to all persons applying for such copies.

(2) Subject to the same provisions, copies of entries in Book No. 3, and in the Index relating thereto shall be given to the persons executing the documents to which such entries relate, or to their agents, and after the death of the executants (but not before) to any person applying for such copies.

(3) Subject to the same provisions, copies of entries in Book No. 4, and in the Index relating thereto shall be given to any person executing or claiming under the documents to which such entries respectively refer, or to his agent or representative.

(4) The requisite search under this section for entries in Books Nos. 3 and 4 shall be made only by the registering officer.

(5) All copies given under this section shall be signed and sealed by the registering officer, and shall be admissible for the purpose of proving the contents of the original documents.

(B) As to the Procedure on admitting to Registration.

Particulars to be endorsed on documents admitted to registration.

58. (1) On every document admitted to registration, other than a copy of a decree or order, or a copy, sent to a registering officer under section 89, there shall be endorsed from time to time the following particulars, namely:—

(a) the signature and addition of every person admitting the execution of the document, and, if such execution has been admitted by the representative, assign or agent of any person, the signature and addition of such representative, assign or agent;

NOTES.

Sec. 56.—S. 56 which has been repealed by Act XV of 1929 ran as follows:—

"Every Sub-Registrar shall send to the Registrar to whom he is subordinate, at such intervals as the Inspector-General from time to time directs, a copy of all entries made by such Sub-Registrar, during the last of such intervals, in Indexes Nos. I, II and III.

Copy of entries in Indexes Nos. I, II and III to be sent by Sub-Registrar to Registrar and filed.

(2) Every Registrar receiving such copy shall file it in his office.

Sec. 57.—A copy of a deed granted under sub-S. (5) is admissible in evidence. 36 I.C. 673=3 O.L.J. 482; but only subject to the provisions of S. 65 of the Evidence Act. 103 I.C. 752.

Sec. 57 (5): CONSTRUCTION.—S. 57 only shows that, when secondary evidence has in any way been introduced as by proof of the loss of the original document, a copy certified by the Registrar shall be admissible for the purpose of proving the contents of the original, that is, it shall be admitted without other proof than the Registrar's certificate of the correctness of the copy and shall be taken as a true copy. But that does not make such a copy a document which may be given in evidence without other evidence to introduce it. 1929 R. 277. Under S. 57 (5) a copy is admissible to prove the contents of the original and the registrar's endorsements appearing in the copy is a relevant fact under S. 35 of the Evidence Act as regards presentation and admission of execution. 1940 N.L.J. 437=1940 Nag. 382.

Sec. 58.—Since the section does not enjoin the registering officer to endorse an admission of execution, such an endorsement, even if present, is not evidence of an admission of execution. 1924 L. 389. An

(b) the signature and addition of every person examined in reference to such document under any of the provisions of this Act; and

(c) any payment of money or delivery of goods made in the presence of the registering officer in reference to the execution of the document and any admission of receipt of consideration, in whole or in part, made in his presence in reference to such execution.

(2) If any person admitting the execution of a document refuses to endorse the same, the registering officer shall nevertheless register it, but shall at the asame time endorse a note of such refusal.

Endorsements to be dated and signed by registering officer.

59. The registering officer shall affix the date and his signature to all endorsements made under sections 52 and 58, relating to the same document and made in his presence on the same day.

Certificate of registration,

60. (1) After such of the provisions of section 34, 35, 58 and 59 as apply to any document presented for registration have been complied with, the registering officer shall endorse thereon a certificate containing the word "registered", together with the number and page of the book in which the document has been copied.

(2) Such certificate shall be signed, sealed and dated by the registering officer, and shall then be admissible for the purpose of proving that the document has been duly registered in manner provided by this Act, and that the facts mentioned in the endorsements referred to in section 59, have occurred as therein mentioned.

NOTES.

endorsement of payment under sub-S. (1) (c) raises a presumption that money was so paid and onus to disprove it lies on him who questions its truth. 90 I.C. 229=1926 C. 73.

Secs. 58 and 59: ENDORSEMENT OF REGISTRATION ON BACK OF DOCUMENT—IF ATTESTATION UNDER T. P. ACT.—The signatures of the registering officer and of the identifying witnesses affixed to the registration endorsement on the back of a document under Ss. 58 and 59 of the Registration Act, are a sufficient attestation under the T. P. Act, although under S. 59 of the Registration Act, the registering officer is only required to affix his signature to all endorsements made in his presence on the same day, and does not require him to sign in the presence of the executant. 61 C. 523 =38 C.W.N. 753=1934 C. 772.

Secs. 58, 59 and 60: EFFECT OF REGISTRATION.—The facts mentioned in the endorsement of the registering officer may be proved by those endorsements provided the provisions of S. 60 have been complied with. 32 Bom.L.R. 1385=1931 B. 105.

Sec. 60.—The endorsement of a Sub-Registrar, duly made under S. 60, is relevent evidence for proving the execution of the document. 17 L. 686=1936 L. 946. No presumption of due attestation of a document can be made from the registration endorsement. 1939 O.A. 507=1939 Oudh 213=1939 O.W.N. 581. No presumption of correctness attaches under S. 60 to a statement of relationship made in the endorsement of the Sub-Registrar. 41 P.L.R. 376=1939 Lah. 458.

Sec. 60 (2) and Evidence Act (1872), Sec. 67.—If the contention that the Sub-Registrar's endorsement proving admission of execution is sufficient proof of execution is accepted, in a large majority of cases proof of execution such as is contemplated by S. 67 of the Evidence Act would become unnecessary. The effect of the registration endorsement is not to prove execution as is required by S. 67 of the Evidence Act but only to prove an admission made by the executant to the Registrar or Sub-Registrar in solemn circumstances, and the certificate of the Sub-Registrar is admissible not to prove execution of the deed but merely to prove the admission of execution. The effect of the admission is in every case a separate question. 1941 O. W. N. 906= 1941 Oudh 529. But see 1941 Lah. 400 infra. A Sub-Registrar's endorsement, duly made under S. 60 is relevant evidence for proving the execution of the document. 1941 Lah. 400. The certificate of registration has an evidentiary value attached to it by S. 60 of the Registration Act. But it is made applicable only for the purpose of proving that the document has been duly registered and that the facts mentioned in the endorsements made under Ss. 52 and 58 of the Act has occurred as there mentioned. It proves the admission of execution by the person who purported to execute the document. It may be considered for the purpose of corroboration, but it cannot serve as substantive evidence. Admission of execution though good against executants and their representatives would not be binding on third parties. Mere proof of admission of execution would not satisfy the re-

61. (1) The endorsements and certificate referred to and mentioned in sections 59 and 60 shall thereupon be copied into the margin of the Register-book, and the copy of the map or plan (if any) mentioned in section 21 shall be filed in Book No. 1.

Endorsement and certificate to be copied and document returned.

(2) The registration of the document shall thereupon be deemed complete, and the document shall then be returned to the person who presented the same for registeration, or to such other person (if any) as he has nominated in writing in that behalf on the receipt mentioned in section 52.

62. (1) When a document is presented for registration under section 19, the translation shall be transcribed in the register of documents of the nature of the original, and, together with the copy referred to in section 19, shall be filed in the registration office.

quirements of S. 67 of the Evidence Act which requires that the signature of the executant must be proved to be in his handwriting. 1942 N.L.J. 214. A certificate of registration though prima facie evidence that the document has been duly registered according to law is not conclusive evidence of valid registration. 11 R. 207=1933 R. 194. Under S. 60 the certificate signed by the registering officer is evidence of the fact that the payment of money referred to in the endorsement was made as therein mentioned. But the mention in the endorsement of a certain person as mortgagor does not prove the execution of the deed as a mortgage-deed. 157 I.C. 567=1935 O.W.N. 892. Where at the back of a mortgage-deed there is an endorsement of the Sub-Registrar that a certain sum was paid to the mortgagor in his presence, the onus lies on the party disputing its correctness to rebut the endorsement. If no evidence is given on his behalf to prove either that the endorsement is incorrect and no payment was actually made or to show that the money which was paid before the Sub-Registrar was afterwards returned, it must be taken that the sum named was paid to the mortgagor and that consideration to that extent did pass. 13 Luck. 455=1937 O. W.N. 760=1937 Oudh 443. See also 1938 P.W.N. 773. Applicability, where provisions of the section have been complied with. 40 A. 434. Registration endorsement is complete proof of matters stated therein. 96 I. C. 401=1926 N. 482. Notwithstanding the certificate of registration, the registration is invalid, if the document has been presented by an unauthorised person. 37 A. 49=42 I. A. 22=28 M.L.J. 577 (P.C.). Even if the endorsement by a Sub-Registrar on a mortgage-deed as regards presentation purports to show an invalid presentation, there is nothing in the Act to prevent a person from showing that the endorsement made by the Sub-Registrar was inaccurate and proving the real facts. 35 C.W.N. 577=1931 P.C. 75 (P.C.). On the section, see also 1928 P. 304; 102 I.C. 283. The endorsement of registration no doubt raises a presumption that the executants or their duly accredited agents had appeared before the Registrar. But if a document is executed by several persons and the same is presented for registration by one who had a registered power-of-attorney but the Registrar's endorsement does not state on whose behalf this power-of-attorney was, nor is there a note by the Registrar of the absence of the signature of one of the executants, the omissions are sufficient to rebut the presumption. 35 P.L.R. 316=1934 L. 262. An endorsement by the registering officer, on a sale-deed registered by him, of payment of cash thereunder in his presence by the vendee to the vendor, is not only admissible in evidence under S. 60 but constitutes evidence of the fact of payment of the amount noted as consideration for the deed. The onus of proving the contrary is thereby shifted on to the party who derives payment of consideration. 1935 O. W. N. 11=1935 O. 86.

ACTS DONE BEFORE REGISTERING OFFICER—PRESUMPTION.—Registration is a solemn act to be performed in the presence of a competent official appointed to act as Registrar, whose duty it is to attend to parties during the registration and see that the proper persons are present and are competent to act and are identified to his satisfaction. And all things done before him in his official capacity and verified by his signature will be presumed to be done duly and in order. 4 Luck. 452=1929 O. 193. A certificate as to registration endorsed on a sale-deed by the Registering officer under S. 60 can be looked upon as a relevant piece of evidence for the purpose of proving its execution. 116 I.C. 911 =1929 L. 711.

Secs. 60 and 61: OMISSION OF DEED FROM INDEX DOES NOT INVALIDATE REGISTRATION.—Compliance with the provisions of Ss. 60 and 61 is quite enough for the completion of registration of a deed. Therefore an omission of the particulars pertaining to such deed from the index kept in the registration department does not invalidate the registration as such, but is only a matter of importance for the purposes of notice. 11 O.W.N. 770=1924 O. 283.

59 and 60 shall be made on the original, and, for the purpose of making the copies and memoranda required by sections 57, 64, 65 and 66 the translation shall be treated as if it were the original.

Power to administer oaths and record note to substance of statements.

63. (1) Every registering officer may, at his discretion, administer an oath to any person examined by him under the provisions of this Act.

(2) Every such officer may also at his discretion record a note of the substance of the statement made by each such person, and such statement shall be read over, or (if made in a language with which such person is not acquainted) interpreted to him in a language with which he is acquainted, and if he admits the correctness of such note, it shall be signed by the registering officer.

(3) Every such note so signed shall be admissible for the purpose of proving that the statements therein recorded were made by the persons and under the circumstances therein stated.

(C) Special Duties of Sub-Registrar.

Procedure where document relates to land in several-sub-districts.

64. Every Sub-Registrar on registering a non-testamentary document relating to immovable property not wholly situate in his own sub-district shall make a memorandum thereof and of the endorsement and certificate (if any) thereon, and send the same to every other Sub-Registrar subordinate to the same Registrar as himself in whose sub-district any part of such property is situate, and such Sub-Registrar shall file the memorandum in his Book No. 1.

Procedure where document relates to land in several districts.

65. (1) Every Sub-Registrar on registering a non-testamentary document relating to immovable property situate in more districts than one shall also forward a copy thereof and of the endorsement and certificate (if any) thereon, together with a copy of the map or plan (if any) mentioned in section 21, to the Registrar of every district in which any part of such property is situate, other than the district in which his own sub-district is situate.

(2) The registrar on receiving the same shall file in his own Book No. 1 the copy of the document and the copy of the map or plan (if any) and shall forward a memorandum of the document to each of the Sub-Registrars subordinate to him within whose sub-district any part of such property is situate; and ever Sub-Registrar receiving such memorandum shall file it in his Book No. 1.

(D) Special Duties of Registrar.

Procedure after registration of documents relating to land.

66. (1) On registering any non-testamentary document relating to immovable property the Registrar shall forward a memorandum of such document to each Sub-Registrar subordinate to himself in whose sub-district any part of the property is situate.

(2) The Registrar shall also forward a copy of such document, together with a copy of the map or plan (if any) mentioned in section 21, to every other Registrar in whose district any part of such property is situate.

(3) Such Registrar on receiving any such copy shall file it in his Book No. 1, and shall also send a memorandum of the copy to each of the Sub-Registrars subordinate to him within whose sub-district any part of the property is situate.

(4) Every Sub-Registrar receiving any memorandum under this section shall file it in his Book No. 1.

67. On any document being registered under section 30, sub-section (2), a copy of such document and of the endorsements and certificate thereon shall be forwarded to every Registrar within whose district any part of the property to which the instrument relates is situate, and the Registrar receiving such copy shall follow the procedure prescribed for him in section 66, sub-section (1).

Procedure after registration under section 30, sub-section (2).

(E) Of the controlling Powers of Registrars and Inspector-General.

68. (1) Every Sub-Registrar shall perform the duties of his office under the superintendence and control of the Registrar in whose district the office of such Sub-Registrar is situate.

Power of Registrars to superintend and control Sub-Registrars.

(2) Every Registrar shall have authority to issue (whether on complaint or otherwise) any order consistent with this Act which he considers necessary in respect of any act or omission of any Sub-Registrar subordinate to him or in respect of the rectification of any error regarding the book or the office in which any document has been registered.

69. (1) The Inspector-General shall exercise a general superintendence over all the registration offices in the territories under the Provincial Government, and shall have power from time to time to make rules consistent with this Act—

Power of Inspector-General to superintend registration offices and make rules.

(c) declaring what territorial divisions shall be recognized under section 21;

(e) regulating the exercise of the discretion reposed in the registering officer by section 63;

(f) regulating the form in which registering officers are to make memoranda of documents;

(g) regulating the authentication by Registrars and Sub-Registrars of the books kept in their respective offices under section 51;

(h) declaring the particulars to be contained in Indexes Nos. I, II, III and IV, respectively;

(i) declaring the holidays that shall be observed in the registration offices; and

LEG. REF.

[1] The words "and also for the destruction of such books, papers and documents as used no longer be kept" were omitted by Act V of 1917.

NOTES.

Sec. 68 (2).—The Registration Act does not give any power to the Sub-Registrar or Registrar to order the production of a document after it has been registered and delivered to the party concerned with a view to examining the stamp-duty thereon and making a reference to the Collector, if necessary, under S. 33. The subsequent production through made in compliance with an illegal demand is not sufficient to bring the case within S. 33. 13 L. 745=1932 L. 495 (F.B.). S. 68 (2) does not confer upon the Registrar the power of cancelling the registration of a document, the execution of which is not denied and which has been already registered by a Sub-Registrar. 1933 L. 786.

(2) The rules so made shall be submitted to the Provincial Government for approval, and after they have been approved, they shall be published in the Official Gazette, and on publication shall have effect as if enacted in this Act.

Power of Inspector-General to remit fines.

70. The Inspector-General may also, in the exercise of his discretion, remit wholly or in part the difference between any fine levied under section 25 or section 34, and the amount of the proper registration fee.

PART XII

OF REFUSAL TO REGISTER.

Reason for refusal to register to be recorded.

71. (1) Every Sub-Registrar refusing to register a document, except on the ground that the property to which it relates is not situate within his sub-district, shall make an order of refusal and record his reasons for such order in his book No. 2 and endorse the words "registration refused" on the document; and, on application made by any person executing or claiming under the document, shall, without payment and unnecessary delay, give him a copy of the reasons so recorded.

(2) No registering officer shall accept for registration a document so endorsed unless and until, under the provisions hereinafter contained, the document is directed to be registered.

Appeal to Registrar from orders of Sug-Registrar refusing registration on ground other than denial of execution.

72. (1) Except where the refusal is made on the ground of denial of execution, an appeal shall lie against an order of a Sub-Registrar refusing to admit a document to registration (whether the registration of such document is compulsory or optional) to the Registrar to whom such Sub-Registrar is subordinate, if presented to such Registrar within thirty days from the date of the order; and the Registrar may reverse or alter such order.

(2) If the order of the Registrar directs the document to be registered and the document is duly presented for registration within thirty days after the making of such order, the Sub-Registrar shall obey the same, and thereupon shall, so far as may be practicable, follow the procedure prescribed in sections 58, 59 and 60; and such registration shall take effect as if the document had been registered when it was first duly presented for registration.

73. (1) When a Sub-Registrar has refused to Register a document on the

NOTES.

Sec. 72.—Under S. 72 all that the Registrar need do is to reverse or alter the order of the Sub-Registrar without necessarily directing the document to be registered. In other words, it is in the power of the Registrar, if the Sub-Registrar has refused registration on some ground which did not entitle him to do so, to remand the case to him with a direction to continue in accordance with the Registration Act from the stage immediately before that where the Sub-Registrar had acted contrary to that Act. 1940 O.W.N. 600=1940 Oudh 318. The Act makes a distinction between refusal to admit to registration and refusal to accept for registration: see 73 I. C. 182. Wilful failure of the executant to appear before the Sub-Registrar amounts to denial of execution. The partners' remedy is only under S. 73: 41 I.C. 57; 88 I.C. 494 =1925 O. 445=29 O.C. 87. A return of the document on the ground of the executant's non-appearance amounts to a refusal to register though the order be not actually written thereon. 23 I.C. 23=26 M.L.J. 397. A suit to compel registration lies where a document was not registered owing to non-appearance of executants in time. 47 B. 290=16 I.C. 614; 34 A. 165; or owing to presentation out of time. 54 I.C. 562= 24 C.W.N. 304. Appeal under this section is a pre-requisite for a suit under S. 77. 58 C. 681=133 I.C. 591.

Sec. 73.—The section is not complied with when an application under it is described as an appeal and there is no verification. 88 I.C. 149=1925 N. 235. See contra 5 L.L.J. 217=1924 L. 28. The words "as aforesaid" in the phrase "or agent authorisground that any person by whom it purports to be executed, or his representative or assign, denies its execution, any person claiming under such document, or his representative, assign or agent authorized as aforesaid, may, within thirty days after the making of the order of refusal, apply to the Registrar to whom such Sub-Registrar is subordinate in order to establish his right to have the document registered.

(2) Such application shall be in writing and shall be accompanied by a copy of the reasons recorded under section 71, and the statements in the application shall be verified by the applicant in manner required by law for the verification of plaints.

Procedure of Registrar on such application.

ed as aforesaid" in S. 73 (1) are not mere surplusage, and they can only refer to the special agent mentioned in S. 32 and S. 33 of the Act. An application to the Registrar under S. 73 (1) by a person who is not such an agent does not lie, and the Registrar's order on such an application is, therefore, illegal and invalid. I. L. R. (1938) Lah. 716=40 P.L.R. 718=1938 Lah. 763.

PRESENTATION FOR REGISTRATION.—Where a minor married woman presented before a Sub-Registrar a relinquishment deed executed in her favour for registration and the Sub-Registrar having refused to register it, she executed a power-of-attorney in favour of her husband who preferred an appeal to the Registrar and got the document registered, held, that the presentation by the minor claiming under the document sought to be registered was perfectly valid; that the power-of-attorney in favour of the husband was valid in law by virtue of S. 5 of the Powers of Attorney Act (1882), even though his wife was a minor, and that he was competent to present the appeal to the Registrar under S. 73 (1). 142 I.C. 646= 64 M.L.J. 449. On an application under S. 73 being dismissed for default, the Registrar can restore the matter and re-hear the case. 41 I.C. 57; 34 A. 253=13 I.C. 531 =9 A.L.J. 188. "Making of order"—Meaning—Limitation—Starting point. See 31 L.W. 487=1930 M. 490.

Sec. 74.—The provisions of S. 74 are mandatory, and the Registrar has no jurisdiction to refer the matter to the Sub-Registrar. Consequently, any order passed by a Sub-Registrar on such reference ordering prosecution is illegal. 10 P.L.T. 889=1929 P. 500. The enquiry is a summary one. The result of a criminal trial under S. 83 may be considered by the Registrar in an enquiry under S. 74: 46 I.C. 878. A special Registrar acting under the rules has also power to record statements of witnesses. 20 I.C. 661=18 C.W.N. 605. Failure to pay penalty ordered by registering officer is non-compliance with the requirements of law within S. 74: 94 I.C. 251=1926 L. 451.

Sec. 75.—If in proceedings under S. 73, the counsel for the executant states that his client has no objection to registration, but only he does not concede the validity of the document, it is an implied admission of execution and the District Registrar has jurisdiction to order registration. 139 I.C. 61= 1932 O. 178. A deed of gift can be registered by the donee after donor's death even without consent of the legal representatives of the deceased. 40 M. 204=31 M. L. J. 690. The Registrar acts merely as if he were a Civil Court and no revision lies from his order to the High Court under S. 115, C.P. Code. 51 M. 245=54 M.L.J. 595 (1). Where a Court finds that a sale-deed registered under this section is forged, no question of burden of proof arises. 28 I.C. 138. Where a decree directs registration, limitation is 30 days from date of decree. 1 P. 146=1922 P. 408. The registering officer has no jurisdiction to register a document presented after the lapse of 30 days from the date of the order passed by the Registrar under S. 75 (1). It is wholly immaterial when the order made by the Registrar was known by or made known to the party concerned. The Registrar has no power under the Act to extend the time for presentation of a document. The registration of a document presented after the statutory period cannot, therefore, but be void. 42 C.W.N. 1174.

document for registration, as the case may be, so as to entitle the document to registration.

Order by Registrar to register and procedure thereon.

75. (1) If the Registrar finds that the document has been executed and that the said requirements have been complied with, he shall order the document to be registered.

(2) If the document is duly presented for registration within thirty days after the making of such order, the registering officer shall obey the same and thereupon shall, so far as may be practicable, follow the procedure prescribed in sections 58, 59 and 60.

(3) Such registration shall take effect as if the document had been registered when it was first duly presented for registration.

(4) The Registrar may, for the purpose of any enquiry under section 74, summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses, and compel them to give evidence, as if he were a Civil Court, he may also direct by whom the whole or any part of the costs of any such enquiry shall be paid, and such costs shall be recoverable as if they had been awarded in a suit under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

Order of refusal by Registrar.

76. (1) Every Registrar refusing—

(a) to register a document except on the ground that the property to which it relates is not situate within his district or that the document ought to be registered in the office of a Sub-Registrar, or shall make an order of refusal and record the reasons for such order in his Book No. 2, and, on application made by any person executing or claiming under the document, shall, without unnecessary delay, give him a copy of the reasons so recorded.

(b) to direct the registration of a document under section 72 or section 75,

(2) No appeal lies from any order by a Registrar under this section or section 72.

Suit in case of order of refusal by Registrar.

77. (1) Where the Registrar refuses to order the document to be registered, under section 72 or section 76, any person claiming under such document, or his representative, assign or agent, may, within thirty days after the making of the order of refusal, institute in the Civil Court, within the local limits of whose original jurisdiction is situate the office in which the document is sought to be registered, a suit for a decree directing the document to be registered in such office if it be duly presented for registration within thirty days after the passing of such decree.

NOTES.

Sec. 75 (2): PRESENTATION UNDER—IF CAN TAKE THE PLACE OF PRESENTATION UNDER S. 34.—A presentation of documents under S. 75 (2) does not take the place of a presentation under S. 34. The procedure to be followed after presentation under S. 75 (2) is different from the procedure to be followed after a presentation under S. 34 and this might make a vital difference in a particular case. 181 I.C. 747=1938 Lah. 255.

Sec. 75 (4): CONSTRUCTION—ORDER OF REGISTRAR AWARDING COSTS.—Sub-S. (4) of S. 75 expressly empowers a Registrar to send his order for costs for execution exactly as if they had been awarded in a suit, and the method of their recovery is to be in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure, i.e., under O. 21. A Civil Court receiving such an order for execution cannot refuse execution on the ground that it has no power to execute it. 45 L.W. 540=1937 Mad. 585=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 635.

Sec. 76.—Section covers all orders refusing registration. 48 M.L.J. 221. An order of refusal under this section gives a fresh starting point and a fresh cause of action. 19 M.L.T. 397=34 I.C. 769.

Sec. 77: CIRCUMSTANCES FOR CONSIDERATION.—In a suit under S. 77 all that is required to be shown by the plaintiff is as to whether the document was executed by the alleged executant, and whether the requirements of law as to presentation for registration in due time to the proper officer and in the manner generally prescribed by the Act had been complied with by the person presenting the document for registration. Where a document is alleged to have been executed by a pardanashin lady, the question whether the document was executed under circumstances which would make it operative as against a pardanashin lady is alien to the enquiry under S. 77: 139 I.C. 234=55 C.L.J. 107=1932 C. 588. S. 77 controls S. 34. See 1933 M.W.N. 1373. It is settled law that in a suit under S. 77 all that is required to be shown by the plaintiff is whether the document was executed or not (or also in some cases whether certain requirements of the law as to presentation for registration have been complied with). In such a suit, the Court is concerned not with the validity but with the genuineness of the document sought to be registered, that is, whether the document has been executed by the person by whom it is alleged to have been executed. 1938 Rang.L.R. 102=1938 Rang. 176. In interpreting an order of a Registrar one should not merely look to the form but should look to its substance as well. See 179 I.C. 708=1939 Rang. 50. A suit for compulsory registration of a deed is liable to be dismissed if its execution is not proved. The fact that the alleged executant did not appear before the registration officers does not amount to an admission on his part in regard to the execution of the document. 39 P.L.R. (J. & K.) 45. No suit for compulsory registration under S. 77 can be based on a tampered document. 56 C.L.J. 413. Before a plaintiff can institute a suit under this section, he must have followed the other provisions of this Act to get the document registered. 44 I. C. 361; 27 C.L.J. 538=73 I.C. 182. So when the Sub-Registrar's refusal has not been appealed against to the Registrar, the suit is not maintainable. 102 P.R. 1917; 43 I.C. 294; 4 R. 500=99 I.C. 998. See also 134 I.C. 481; 58 C. 681=133 I.C. 591 (appeal under S. 72 is pre-requisite of a suit under S. 77); 134 I.C. 482 (where order of refusal is not made, suit will be premature). Registration is an act of the Registrar of an administrative character and any error committed by him may be regarded as an error of procedure covered by S. 87. The registration of a deed is not necessarily invalid by reason of a failure on the part of the registering officer to comply with the provisions of the Act. There is a clear distinction between a defect in procedure that is the fault of the registering officer for which the person presenting the document is in no way responsible, and a mistake made by such a person in complying with the statutory provisions of the Act. The requirements of the Act must be followed by the person presenting the document. 116 I.C. 317=1929 L. 409. Where on a reference under S. 34 (4), the Registrar refused registration, but there was no note of the Sub-Registrar's refusal, the party need not apply to the Registrar again, but can file a suit. 1925 M. 619=48 M.L.J. 221. See also 1942 Pesh. 37. Dismissal of an application for registration for absence of parties, amounts to refusal of registratiin entitling the applicant to sue. 54 I.C. 570. Where registration of a document is effected pursuant to an ex parte decree in a suit under S. 77, but the ex parte decree is later on set aside, the registration effected under the decree is ipso facto cancelled even without an application by the contesting party to have the original registration cancelled. NOTES.

(2) The provisions contained in sub-sections (2) and (3) of section 75 shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to all documents presented for registration in accordance with any such decree, and, notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, the document shall be receivable in evidence in such suit.

SUIT FOR SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE—MAINTAINABILITY.—S. 77 does not provide the exclusive relief to a plaintiff who has paid consideration and earnest money to the defendant who has promised the transfer to him of the immovable property. The mere failure of a suit under that section or its infructuous termination cannot operate as res judicata in a suit brought for the specific performance of the original contract and for recovery of possession of the immovable property. 54 A. 68=136 I.C. 561. See also 1935 Pesh. 12.

SUIT UNDER S. 77—OTHER CLAIMS—JOINDER OF.—No other claim can be coupled with the prayer to enforce registration of a document under S. 77: 56 C. L. J. 413. Suit under—Decree by trial Court — Appellate Court ordering that plaintiff was not entitled to registration but entitled to return of consideration—Effect of order—Second appeal —Held, that the decision was merely a decision on a question of law, and the High Court was, therefore, entitled to interfere in second appeal. 164 I.C. 315.

LIMITATION.—A suit within 30 days from the date of dismissal of a review petition on a prior order refusing to register, is in time. 17 C.W.N. 585=18 I.C. 450; 40 M. 759 =33 M.L.J. 51; 141 I.C. 384=1933 Pesh. 24. See also 1942 Pesh. 37. When the 30th day is a holiday the suit can be filed on the next reopening day. 14 I.C. 173=16 C.W.N. 721. The period of limitation starts from the date of communication of order of refusal to register. 12 I.C. 33= 16 C.W.N. 20; 41 P.R. 1917=41 I.C. 76. Cf. 38 M. 291=20 I.C. 914. Where an order of refusal to register is passed in the presence of the parties immediately after enquiry by the Registrar, so that the person concerned knows that his request has been refused, then time should be calculated from the date of the order. But if the order was not so pronounced and the person concerned does not know that his request has been refused, then time should be calculated only from the date when the order was communicated to the party. 59 M.L.J. 585. Per Venkatasubba Rao, J.—There can be no valid order unless it is made after notice to parties affected by it or it is communicated to them in the absence of such notice. 53 M. 491=1930 M. 490=59 M.L.J. 585. A suit is competent under S. 77, where the Registrar has made an order under S. 25, which in effect is a refusal to excuse delay in presentation for sufficient cause, called in the Act "urgent necessity" or "unavoidable accident." 53 B. 644=31 Bom.L.R. 676; 1929 B. 365. The rejection of an application on the ground that it is time barred is as much an order of refusal as a refusal to register on the merits. 53 M. 491=1930 M. 490=59 M.L.J. 585. Time provided under this section for a suit cannot be extended under S. 14, Limitation Act. 24 C. W.N. 4=30 C.L.J. 455 (F.B.); also 54 I.C. 228=24 C.W.N. 29; 89 I.C. 884 (1) =1926 N. 126. Appellate Court can stay registration decreed by lower Court. 1925 M. 401 (1)=47 M.L.J. 735. Independently of S. 77 of the Act, a suit to compel the registration of a document does not lie. 95 I.C. 187=1926 P. 89. Only parties to the deed can be made parties in a registration suit and a third person is not entitled to challenge the decision in such suit in a collateral proceeding. 116 I.C. 317=1929 L. 409. Registration of a document was refused on 3-11-1928, the suit under S. 77 was filed on 1-12-1928. Publication of fees.

80. All fees for the registration of documents under this Act shall be payable on the presentation of such documents.

OF PENALTIES.

81. Every registering officer appointed under this Act and every person employed in his office for the purposes of this Act, who being charged with the endorsing, copying, translating or registering of any document presented or deposited under its provisions, endorses, copies, translates or registers such document in a manner which he knows or believes to be incorrect, intending thereby to cause or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby cause, injury as defined in the Indian Penal Code, to any person, shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years, or with fine, or with both.

Penalty for incorrectly endorsing, copying, translating or registering documents with intent to injure.

82. Whoever—

Penalty for making false statements, delivering false copies or translations, false personation, and abetment.

(a) intentionally makes any false statement, whether on oath or not, and whether it has been recorded or not, before any officer acting in execution of this Act, in any proceeding or enquiry under this Act; or

(b) intentionally delivers to a registering officer, in any proceeding under section 19 or section 21, a false copy or translation of a document, or a false copy of a map or plan; or

(c) falsely personates another, and in such assumed character presents any document, or makes any admission or statement, or causes any summons or commission, to be issued, or does any other act in any proceeding or enquiry under this Act; or

(d) abets anything made punishable by this Act;

18-1-1929. Held, the suit was not barred by limitation; it cannot be said that there was no legally instituted suit on 1-12-1928, simply because no guardian ad litem was appointed; nor can it be said that the suit was instituted only on the date of substitution of the heirs of the original defendant. 38 C.W.N. 900=1934 C. 833.

Sec. 82.—Fraudulent or dishonest intention is not a necessary ingredient for an offence under S. 82: 23 Cr.L.J. 303=1922 N. 86. Conviction based on a comparison of a thumb impression on the document with that taken in Court is not legal. 1 P. 242 =23 Cr.L.J. 638. But see 6 P. 305=104 I.C. 626 (2)=28 Cr.L.J. 850 (2).

Sec. 82 (c): APPLICABILITY—ASSUMING NAME OF NON-EXISTENT PERSON—IF OFFENCE.—The wording of S. 82 (c), Registration Act, is "whoever falsely personates another" which is quite different from "whoever falsely assumes a fictitious name." To constitute an offence under S. 82 (c), the accused should have personated another person. Merely assuming the name of a person not in existence is not an offence under the section. (Cr. Appeal No. 1930 of 1922 and 4 M.H.C.R. 18. Foll.) 42 L.W. 662=1935 M. 913. As to sentence in case of a harmless lie, see 1936 Cal. 418.

Sec. 82 (d).—Where a person assists another in wrongful personation before the registration officer, he is guilty of an offence under S. 82 (d). 143 I.C. 15=1933 C. 481.

Secs. 82 and 83: SANCTION FOR PROSECUTION—IF CONDITION PRECEDENT.—Permission of the authorities mentioned in S. 83 is necessary before an accused can be prosecuted under S. 82. A prosecution without sanction is illegal and not merely an irregularity which can be cured. A sanction obtained after committal to sessions and before the hearing commences in the Sessions Court is of no avail and does not validate the trial. Nor is the defect one curable by S. 537 of the Criminal Procedure Code. 1934 A.L.J. 965=1934 A. 963 (F.B.).

shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years, or with fine, or with both.

Registering officer may commence prosecutions.

83. (1) A prosecution for any offence under this Act coming to the knowledge of a registering officer in his official capacity may be commenced by or with the permission of the Inspector-General [1][* * *] the Registrar or the Sub-Registrar, in whose territories, district or sub-district, as the case may be, the offence has been committed.

(2) Offences punishable under this Act shall be triable by any Court or officer exercising powers not less than those of a Magistrate of the second class.

Registering officers to be deemed public servants.

84. (1) Every registering officer appointed under this Act shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

(2) Every person shall be legally bound to furnish information to such registering officer when required by him to do so.

(3) In section 228 of the Indian Penal Code, the words "judicial proceeding" shall be deemed to include any proceeding under this Act.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Destruction of unclaimed documents.

85. Documents (other than wills) remaining unclaimed in any registration office for a period exceeding two years may be destroyed.

Registering officer not liable for thing bona fide done or refused in his official capacity.

86. No registering officer shall be liable to any suit, claim or demand by reason of anything in good faith done or refused in his official capacity.

Nothing so done invalidated by defect in appointment or procedure.

87. Nothing done in good faith pursuant to this Act or any Act hereby repealed, by any registering officer, shall be deemed invalid merely by reason of any defect in his appointment or procedure.

NOTES.

Sec. 83.—There can be no trial under this section without permission from the officer referred to in S. 83: 22 Cr.L.J. 750 =64 I.C. 142; 38 A. 354. See also 4 R. 437=99 I.C. 401=1927 R. 61, overruling 1 R. 229. S. 83 of the Registration Act is not prohibitory either in terms or in intention. On the contrary it is an enabling section and provides that a prosecution for any offence which comes to the knowledge of a registering officer in his official capacity may be commenced by or with the permission of specified registration officers. The section has no application whatever to cases in which offences are committed under the Act, but those offences do not come to the knwledge of the registering officer. I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 359=39 Bom.L.R. 85=1937 Bom. 191. The first two lines in S. 83 (1) of the Registration Act clearly shows that the section applies only to prosecutions for offences under the Registration Act which have come to the knowledge of the Registering Officer in his official capacity as Registering Officer. Where an offence has not come to the knowledge of such an officer before a complaint in respect of it was made to a Court on the information of a Revenue Officer, no question of obtaining permission from the officer of the Registration Department arises. 1939 A.M.L.J. 132. On this point, see also 40 M.L.J. 211; 40 M. 880; 39 A. 293; 87 I.C. 913=26 Cr.L.J. 1025. Where Registrar refuses to sanction prosecution, High Court cannot interfere. The remedy of the aggrieved party is by a petition to the Board of Revenue. 23 Cr.L.J. 415=1923 P. 155.

Sec. 87.—The operation of S. 87, does not extend to those cases in which an application for registration is made out of time. 178 I.C. 505=1939 Pat. See also 1940 Oudh 318. Where there is nothing on the record to show that an official has not been duly appointed, the presumption would be that he has been duly appointed by the Registrar. Registration of documents executed by Government officers or certain public functionaries.

tion in the registering officer, S. 87 does not apply. 35 O.W.N. 354=1931 P.C. 52=60 M.L.J. 441 (P.C.). Where a registering officer acts with due care but takes a mistaken view of the law, the mistake must be treated as a defect in his procedure, to which the provisions of S. 87 apply. 27 N.L.R. 116=134 I.C. 286=1931 N. 159. In seeking to apply S. 87 it is important to distinguish between defects in the procedure of the Registrar and lack of jurisdiction. Where the Registrar has no jurisdiction to register, as where person, not entitled to do so, presents for registration, or where there is lack of territorial jurisdiction or where the presentation is out of time, S. 87 is inoperative. On the other hand, if the Registrar having jurisdiction has made a mistake in the exercise of it, S. 87 takes effect. Where, therefore, a document not duly stamped is admitted for registration, the mistake is an error in procedure and is cured by S. 87; 56 I.A. 379=7 R. 624=1929 P.C. 279 (P.C.), 1935 L. 416. Where a document is presented for registration after four months from date of execution, and the delay is not accounted for, the Registrar has no jurisdiction to register it, and the mere fact that he registers such document does not take the document out of the ambit of S. 49. Presentation at the wrong time stands on the same footing as a presentation by the wrong person, and in either event, the defect is not a mere defect in procedure on the part of the Registrar so as to bring into play the provision of S. 87. In either case the Registrar has no jurisdiction to register. 11 R. 207 =1933 R. 194. A registration by a Registrar in good faith, though having an interest in the property registered, is valid. 42 A. 609=47 I.A. 224=39 M.L.J. 263 (P.C.). As regards curing of defects in procedure; see 47 A. 294=84 I.C. 786. Where a document is presented to the Sub-Registrar for registration after the expiry of four months from the date of the execution, under S. 23, the Sub-Registrar has no jurisdiction to entertain the application or to register the document, and the defect cannot be cured by S. 87: 11 R. 15=141 I.C. 705. A Court cannot take cognizance of any irregularity in registration of a document when it appears to be duly stamped and registered. 36 B. 564=14 I.C. 353. Registration of a mortgage bond written on wrong stamp is not rendered invalid. 5 R. 666. An improper registration could not affect the validity of a document. 29 C. L.J. 305=51 I.C. 88=23 C.W.N. 534. Fraud on registrar is equivalent to non-registration. 50 I.C. 220=21 O.C. 341. A conveyance dealt with several plots of land, some of which were described to be within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Sub-Registrar and the others within the local limits of the Sadar Sub-Registrar, both of whom were subordinate to same Registrar. The office of the Sub-Registrar was amalgamated with that of the Registrar and the conveyance was registered with the Registrar and the Registrar did not state that he was acting as Registrar pursuant to discretion under S. 30. It was found subsequently that the plots of land described to be within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Sub-Registrar had no existence. Held, that, having regard to S. 87, the fact that the Registrar did not state that he was acting as Registrar pursuant to discretion under S. 30 did not make the registration invalid and ineffective. 58 C. 133=133 I.C. 110. Omission by Sub-Registrar to give the particulars (as to date, hour and place) mentioned in S. 52, is one which can be cured under this section. 132 I.C. 881=1931 L. 677. The registration of a document presented by some of the representatives of an executant who is dead at the time of the presentation of the document is good registration. Even assuming the procedure adopted is defective, such a defect is curable by S. 87; 58 C. 876=1932 C. 110. See also 1940 Oudh 318.

(3) Every officer granting a loan under the Agriculturists' Loans Act, 1884, shall send a copy of any instrument whereby immovable property is mortgaged for the purpose of securing the repayment of the loan, and if any such property is mortgaged for the same purpose in the order granting the loan, a copy also of that order, to the registering officer within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the whole or any part of the property so mortgaged is situate, and such registering officer shall file the copy or copies, as the case may be, in his Book No. 1.

(4) Every Revenue-officer granting a certificate of sale to the purchaser of immovable property sold by public auction shall send a copy of the certificate to the registering officer within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the whole or any part of the property comprised in the certificate is situate, and such officer shall file the copy in his Book No. 1.

Exemption of certain documents executed by or in favour of Government.

(a) documents issued, received or attested by any officer engaged in making a settlement or revision of settlement of land-revenue, and which form part of the records of such settlement; or

(b) documents and maps issued, received or authenticated by any officer engaged on behalf of Government in making or revising the survey of any land, and which form part of the record of such survey; or

THE RELIGIOUS ENDOWMENTS ACT (XX OF 1863).[1]

PREFATORY NOTE.—The Religious Endowments of the country in the early part of the 19th century were under the direct charge and superintendence of the Board of Revenue. But owing to missionary agitation in England and from the Government's consistent and old fixed policy of non-connection with the religious or the religious endowments of the Indians, the endowments were restored to their former trustees by the middle of the 19th century. The Religious Endowments Act is the result of the decision of the Government to divest its officers of all direct superintendence and control of religious and charitable institutions in India, transferring their functions to managers or managing committees, and merely making provision for intervention by the Civil Courts on application made by any person interested in the institution. This policy, however, did not long remain unchallenged, and since 1866 there have been constant complaints, especially in the Madras Presidency, as to the inefficacy of the Act to prevent the squandering or misappropriation of the funds of such endowments. The Dharma Rakshana Sabah of Madras is a Society formed with the object of facilitating the working of this Act and prevent abuse. An Act to enable the Government to divest itself of the management of religious Endowments.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to relieve the Boards of Revenue, and the Local Agents, in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal, and the Presidency of Fort Saint George, from the duties imposed on them by Regulation XIX 1810, of the Bengal Code (for the due appropriation of the rents and produce of lands granted for the support of Mosques, Hindu Temples, Colleges and other purposes; for the maintenance and repair of Bridges, Sarais, Kattras and other public buildings; and for the custody and disposal of Nazul Property or Escheats), and Regulation VII, 1817, of the Madras Code (for the due appropriation of the rents and produce of lands granted for the support of Mosques, Hindu Temples and Colleges or other public purposes; for the maintenance and repair of Bridges, Choultries, or Chattrams, and other public buildings; and for the custody and disposal of Escheats), so far as those duties embrace the superintendence of lands granted for the support of Mosques or Hindu Temples and for other religious uses; the appropriation of endowments made for the maintenance of such religious establishments; the repair and preservation of buildings connected therewith, and the appointment of trustees or managers thereof; or involve any connection with the management of such religious establishments; [1][* *] It is enacted as follows:—

1. [Repeal of parts of Bengal Regulation XIX of 1810 and Madras Regulation VII of 1817:]

LEG. REF.

[1] The words and figures "and whereas it is expedient for that purpose to repeal so much of Regulation XIX, 1810, of the Bengal Code, and Regulation VII, 1817 of the Madras Code, as relate to endowments for the support of Mosques, Hindu Temples or other religious purposes," were repealed by the Repealing Act, 1874 (XVI of 1874).

NOTES.

Sec. 1.—The religious Endowments Act does not apply to an endowment which is not a public one. 195 I.C. 313=22 P.L.T. 699=1941 Pat. 260. The Religious Endowments of 1863 applies not only to those endowments which were in existence at the time that Act was passed and had been taken control of by the Board of Revenue under Regulation XIX of 1810, but also to later institutions which come within its purview. 18 Pat. 417=20 Pat.L.T. 863=1940 Pat. 9. A dedication of a small plot of land to an idol is valid if made orally, and writing and registration are unnecessary 26 N.L.R. 60 =1924 N. 254. See also 3 P. 842. Public temple—Test of. 29 C.W.N. 112=19 L.W. 253=1924 P.C. 44 (P.C.). Facts and circumstances, in order to be accepted as sufficient proof of dedication of a temple as a public temple, must be considered in their historical setting; and dedication to the public is not to be readily inferred when it is known that the temple property was acquired by grant to an individual or family. Such an inference if made from the fact of user by the public is hazardous, since it would not in general be consonant with Hindu sentiments or practice that worshippers should be turned away; and as worship generally implies offerings of some kind it is not to be expected that the managers of a private temple should in all circumstances desire to discourage popularity. The value of public user as evidence of dedication depends on the circumstances which give strength to the inference that the user was as of right. Where the general effect of the evidence was that a particular family have treated the temple as family property, dividing the various forms of profit whether offerings or rents, closiug it so as to exclude the public from worship when marriage or other ceremonies required the attendance of the members of the family at its original home, and erecting Samadhs to the honour of its dead, it was held that it was not enough, in such a case, to deprive the family of their private property, to show that Hindus willing to worship had never been turned away or even that the deity had acquired considerable popularity among Hindus of the locality or among persons resorting to the annual mela. 67 I.A. 1=15 Luck. 1=44 C. A public temple is res extra commercium, and it is not open to a private individual to acquire by prescription any private ownership in regard thereto. The character of a temple as a public temple cannot be taken away by any assertion of private rights, especially when there is no evidence that the public have ever been excluded therefrom. 1940 Mad. 208=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 867. See also 1938 Mad. 209; 1936 Lah. 744; 1941 Pat. 354=1941 P.W.N. 75=22 Pat.L.T. 239. There is no legal presumption that all property acquired by individual members of a religious fraternity belongs to the religious institution to which they are attached. Ascetics and religious institutions exhibit great diversity of character and Udasis in particular conform to no single type. In any case to presume that a particular Udasi shrine followed a certain practice because on account of all religious institutions throughout the province the practice was found to obtain in a majority of the cases is a course of reasoning unwarranted by principle or authority. 1941 A.L.J. 610=43 Bom.L.R. 998=1941 O.W.N. 970=1941 P.C. 56 (P.C.). The case of dedication is not made out merely by evidence of neighbourly or considerate conduct towards a religious institution or by showing that small profits have not been churlishly exacted by the proprietor from persons held in general esteem. 1941 P.C. 56 (P.C.); 1941 Pat. 601. The fact that a light is kept eternally burning in a building will not by itself be sufficient to convert the building into a public temple. 38 P.L.R. 289=164 I.C. 313=1936 L. 744. With regard to hereditary offices, whether religious or secular, partition can be had of such property by means of the performance of the duties of the office and enjoyment of the emoluments by the different coparceners in rotation. 47 B. 529. A temporary division of lands forming the emoluments of a religious office among the joint trustees is not per se objectionable, especially if it tends to convenient management. 42 M.L.J. 272= 1922 M. 8. Properties dedicated to the office of Granthi of the darbar sahib are inherited by the person who succeeds to the office. But properties acquired by the Granthi descend to his natural heirs. 59 I.C. 734=1 L. 540. Where a deed of endowment prescribes a time, of succession for its management and also gives a power to alter it, the law is that if the power is given to two persons by name, the power can be exercised by both or not at all. But if power is given to two persons not by name, but as office holders, the power can be exercised even by the survivor of the two. In cases where power is given to two persons by name coupled with their description of their office, then, in order to decide whether the power can be exercised by the survivor, the Court has to gather the intention from the terms of the deed, whether the power was given as persona designata or has holders of the office and the rule set forth above, has then to be applied. The law and custom of gosavis of maths is that chela who has been declared unfit or nalayak by his guru is debarred from all interest and cut off from the guru family; there is nothing to prevent a guru from severing the spiritual connection between himself and an unfit chela. And when the presiding Mahant of a math declares a chela unfit, the latter is excluded from the family and is not entitled to claim heirship at all in any event; he is not merely postponed to a fitter chela as the immediate heir. 39 Bom.L.R. 867=1938 Bom. 23. The mere fact that in the revenue papers the Mahant is named as owner of the revenue-paying land does not amount to anything. The usual entry in the revene papers is in the Mahant's name. 146 I.C. 432=38 P.L.R. 1052=1937 Lah. 14.

Although muth property may not vest in the Mahant as owner it is he that has the right to its possession. The property is attached to the office of mahant and none but the mahant has the right to hold the property. The property passes with the office. There is no distinction between the property and the office of the endowment. The one is attached to the other. Where the office of mahant devolves by succession, the successor not only succeeds to the office of mahant, but, by virtue of such office, he acquires the right to possession of the muth property. Although the position of a mahant is that of a manager, it does not follow that the mahant has no higher right than a mere manager. He has large powers over the property of the muth akin to those of an owner in trust. He has some interest in the muth property which on his death devolves by inheritance on his successor. 1941 P.W.N. 755. Where the testator dedicated the house in the first instance in the name and honour of his family deity and provided that his Vamsathar were to live in the house and arranged for the performance of various festivals and charities, held, the provisions did not offend the rule against perpetuities and that more than one object of bounty in themeslves could not go to defeat the trust, so long as they did not conflict with each other; further; the persons who were entitled to be trustees or managers of the trust were sufficiently indicated; they had to be in the line of the founder's heirs and willing to take up the duties imposed by the trust. 8 Mys.L.J. 351. An alienation of a religious office, such as that of an archakaship of a temple, is not invalid when it is made in favour of one in the line of the alienor's heirs, and when it is neither for consideration, nor in any way opposed to or inconsistent with the interests of the institution. The right of delegation has been expressly recognised in the case of archakas by permitting the system of proxies. Consequently, a devise by will of the archakaship to the testator's sister's son who is not in any way personally unfit or disqualified from performing the duties of the office, is valid. 1935 M. 220=68 M.L.J. 295. See also 55 L. A trustee cannot delegate his trusteeship to a stranger. But that principle does not apply to case where all the trustees of a religious endowment, fifty in number, in order to facilitate management, authorise a Committee of five of the trustees to look after the management of the temple. Such a delegation of the power of management is not invalid; and a suit by such a Committee on behalf of the endowment is maintainable, even if the other trustees are not impleaded, especially when the plaintiffs have obtained permission to sue on behalf of all the trustees. 40 L.W. 540=1934 M. 672. An agreement by a mahant of an Udasi institution under which he hands over the management of a strictly Udasi institution, to a committee, the majority of which are Sikhs belonging to a different sect, is null and void and not enforceable. 41 P.L.R. 777=1939 Lah. 239. A transfer of the office of trustee of a temple for a monetary consideration is opposed to public policy and cannot be recognised as being in accordance with law. 1938 Mad. 713=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 517. Trustee — Duty of — Temple committee directing trustee to perform temple festival at fixed amount—Trustee notifying that amount inadequate—Festival conducted on grand scale and at expense exceeding sanctioned amount—If guilty of breach of trust—Trustee submitting accounts immediately—Committee acquiescing and making no complaint—Right to sue for recvery of excess amount spent by trustee. 46 L.W. 782=1937 M. 970=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 660. An alienation or relinquishment of the office of trustee of a religious endowment in favour of a person who is not the next heir would be invalid as contravening the intention of the founder if there is a deed which says that the office should be enjoyed by a trustee and his heirs. An alienation of the office of trustee, in order to be valid, must be in favour of the immediate heir. An alienation or release or relinquishment of an office of trustee not for value in favour of the next or immediate heir would be valid; otherwise, it is invalid, even though the person in whose favour it is alienated or released or relinquished is in the line of heirs, e.g., a brother. 53 L.W. 290=1941 Mad. 552=(1941) 1 M. Religious procession. Right to conduct—Nature and limits of such right. In India there is a right to conduct a religious procession with its 'appropriate observances' through a public street provided it does not interfere with the right of the public to use such street. A civil suit for its enforcement against those who interfere with the exercise of the right is maintainable. It is necessarily a question of fact in each case to what constitutes an "appropriate observance" in this connection. I.L.R. (1939) All. 237=1939 AL.J. 19=1939 All. 280. Right to conduct in public streets and before mosques—Limitations to exercise of such right. The law is well settled that any community can use a public street for processions attended with music, provided that they do not thereby cause a disturbance to any other community when assembled for prayer or worship. Where a decree entitled the Hindus to take processions through the public streets with music, etc., "except during the hours of public congregational worship in the mosque," it was held, that the exception introduced was a proper one, but that it should have been limited to the neighbourhood of the mosque prescribing a certain radius with the mosque as the centre, within which area there should be no music during the prescribed time. Held, further, that though the prohibition of music before a mosque at all times, may be a practical solution of the ever recurrring disputes between the two communities, it is not possible to give a judicial imprimatur to such a solution, as it would be inconsistent with the existing state of the law. 47 L.W. 683=1938 Mad. 305=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 165.

Secs. 1 and 3.—A compromise by the manager of the Court of Wards, in whose hands the management of the idol's property is placed, which is not for the benefit of the idol, is bad. 22 P.L.T. 699=1941 Pat. 260. The scheme of the Act in so far as religious institutions in the Madras Presidency are concerned, is that, in all cases where Regulation VII of 1817 applied, or in cases where the appointment of trustee was either made by the Government of Madras or one of its officers, or where the confirmation of such appointment had to be made by Government or by its officers, such powers were transferred to Temple Committees, and that in all other cases, property which was subject to the endowment was transferred to the then legally entitled trustee, and the Board of Revenue had no other control over such property. In order, therefore, to give jurisdiction to Temple Committees over a temple, they must show that the case falls under s. 3. Where it is found that the Board of Revenue in Madras never exercised any control over a religious endowment in the Madras Presidency, nor was the power of appointment of trustee, manager, or superintendent vested in, or exercised by the Government of Madras or by any public officer under the Government of Madras, the Temple Committee appointed under this Act has no right or control over such a religious endowment. Whenever from any cause a vacancy shall occur in the office of any trustee, manager or superintendent, to whom any property shall have been transferred under the last preceding section, and any dispute shall arise respecting the right of succession to such office, it shall be lawful for any person interested in the mosque, temple or religious establishment to which such property shall belong; or in the performance of the worship or of the service thereof, or the trusts relating thereto, to apply to the Civil Court to appoint a manager of such mosque, temple or other religious establishment, and thereupon such Court may appoint such manager to act until some other person shall by suit have established his right of succession to such office.

Powers of managers appointed by Courts.

The manager so appointed by the Civil Court shall have and shall exercise all the powers which, under this or any other Act, the former trustee, manager or superintendent, in whose place such manager is appointed by the Court, had or could exercise in relation to such mosque, temple or religious establishment, or the property belonging thereto.

Rights, etc., of trustees to whom property is transferred under section 4.

6. The rights, powers and responsibilities of every trustee, manager or superintendent, to whom the land and other property of any mosque, temple or other religious establishment is transferred in the manner prescribed in section 4 of this Act, as well as the conditions of their appointment, election and removal, shall be the same as if this Act had not been passed, except in respect of the liability to be sued under this Act, and except in respect of the authority of the Board of Revenue and local agents, given by the Regulations hereby repealed, over such mosque, temple or religious establishment, and over such trustee, manager or superintendent, which authority is hereby determined and repealed.

Appointment of committees.

All the powers which might be exercised by any Board or local agent for the recovery of the rent of land or other property transferred under the said section 4 of this Act, may, from the date of such transfer, be exercised by any trustee, manager or superintendent to whom such transfer is made.

Constitution and duties of committees.

7. In all cases described in section 3 of this Act the Provincial Government shall once for all [1]appoint one or more committees in every division or district to take the place, and to exercise the powers, of the Board of Revenue and the local agents under the Regulations hereby repealed.

COMMITTEE—POWERS OF.—Under the Act of 1863, the Committee appointed under S. 7 was to have the same powers that the Board of Revenue had under Regulation XIX of 1810, the powers being of supervision and control. The power to suspend or remove a mutwalli for just cause, which was properly incident to the principal duties ad responsibilities of the Board of Revenue under Regulation XIX of 1810 was impliedly given to the Committee. The trustee, manager or superintendent of the religious establishment appointed by the Committee, has no possession strictly so called. The property is vested in the Committee, and the manager is only an agent or servant of the Committee. The Committee can always under the law take over such custody or management from the manager, provided they act in the interest of the institution. (1) The powers of the Committee appointed under Act XX of 1863 are not the powers exercisable under the general Mahomedan Law in the matter of appointment of mutwallis and not the powers exercised by the creator of the endowment itself, but the power vested in the Ruling power, the power exercised by the Board of Revenue under Regulation XIX of 1810 and the powers conferred upon the Committee under the Act of 1863. The mutwalli appointed under the Regulation has no power to appoint his successors and that was the scheme followed by the Board of Revenue in supersession of the general rule of Mahomedan Law. The Committee has the power vested in them under the law to decide the duration of tenure of a mutwalli and the conditions of service, and regard being had to the past history of the institution their decision to appiont a mutwalli for a term and subject to good behaviour is bona fide and in the interests of the institution. (2) The position of a mutwalli appointed by the Committee is that of a servant of the Committee; he has no freehold in his office. He is not a mutwalli under the endowment or under the general Mahomedan Law. (3) The onus would be on the defendant to show that his dismissal was actuated by improper motives. 61 C. 80=38 C.W.N. 214=1934 C. 328. A Committee constituted under Act XX of 1863 have all the powers which the Revenue Board had under Regulation VII of 1817, and in general terms their powers can be described as powers of superintendence. 1937 M. 327=46 L.W. 695=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 477. It may take all steps which may seem to them reasonably necessary for the due preservation of the properties of the temple and the only limitation to be imposed upon their powers is that they should not unnecessarily interfere with anything that may be described as the existing management. The management of the temple is prima facie in the dharmakarthas and the Committee ought not to exercise their powers arbitrarily nor reduce them to the position of servants nor interfere with the internal affairs of the temple. (1937) 2 M.L.J. 477. The Committee has also power to appoint overseers to be in joint possession and cuctody of temple jewels and other movables of the temple along with the trustees and may also appoint additional trustees without bringing any chargee against the existing trustees. (1937) 2 M.L.J. 477. A trustee of a kattalai or a minor endowment can be removed only by the Court and in a properly instituted suit. 150 I.C. 156 =39 L.W. 513=1934 M. 381.

Secs. 7 and 12.—The powers of a Committee are not suspended by the occurrence of a vacancy among its members. 39 M. 700 =30 M.L.J. 29. The Committee under S. 7 is a corporation having a legal entity and is similar in all respects to every other corporation. If one member is dead, the survivors can act until another is appointed. 1 Pat.L.J. 437=38 I.C. 13. See also 61 C. 80 =38 C.W. N. 214=1934 C. 328. Tenure of office.

and no such member shall be removed except by an order of the Civil Court as hereinafter provided.

Vacancies to be filled.

10. Whenever any vacancy shall occur among the members of a committee appointed as above, a new member shall be elected to fill the vacancy by the persons interested as above provided.

Procedure.

The remaining members of the committee shall, as soon as possible give public notice of such vacancy, and shall fix a day, which shall not be later than three months from the date of such vacancy, for an election of a new member by the persons interested as above provided, under [2]rules for elections which shall be framed by the Provincial Government; and whoever shall be then elected, under the said rules, shall be a member of the committee to fill such vacancy.

When Court may fill vacancy.

If any vacancy as aforesaid shall not be filled up by such election as aforesaid within three months after it has occurred, the Civil Court, on the application of any person whatever, may appoint a person to fill the vacancy or may order that the vacancy be forthwith filled up by the remaining members of the committee, with which order it shall then be the duty of such remaining members to comply; and, if this order be not complied with, the Civil Court may appoint a member to fill the said vacancy.

Secs. 8 and 9.—If a District Judge appoints, against the clear intention of the Act under S. 8, an improper and unfit person by reason of his religious qualifications or moral conduct, such person could be removed by procedings equivalent to proceedings by Quo warranto in England. 29 M.L.J. 671. On this section, see also 40 M. 793 (P.C.), under s. 10

Sec. 10.—Where on the occurrence of a vacancy in a Temple Committee the remaining members of the Committee have failed to fill it by holding an election as provided by S. 10 and they have been ordered to fill up the vacancy forthwith, they must themselves make the appointment. The Civil Court has no power, after expiration of the said three months, to direct the remaining members of the Committee to fill up the vacancy by election or to validate the appointment of the person so elected. If the Court does so, the order is without jurisdiction and is open to revision by the High Court. 40 M. 793=44 I.A. 261=33 M.L.J. 69 (P.C.). (On appeal from 38 M. 594). Where "the remaining members" of a committee are ordered by the District Court to fill up a vacancy in the Committee under S. 10 it is not necessary for all of them to be unanimous in their selection of a candidate. The duty of filling up the vacancy is conferred upon them as a body; and therefore the ordinary rule that the opinion of the majority suffices would prevail. The very wording of S. 10 shows that the remaining

No member of committee to be also trustee, etc., of mosque, etc.

12. Immediately on the appointment of a committee as above provided for the superintendence of any such mosque, temple or religious establishment, and for the management of its affairs, the Board of Revenue, or the local agents acting under the authority of the said Board, shall transfer to such committee all landed or other property which at the time of appointment shall be under the superintendence, or in the possession of the said Board or local agents, and belonging to the said religious establishment, except as is hereinafter provided for, and thereupon the powers and responsibilities of the Board and the local agents, in respect to such mosque, temple or religious establishment and to all land and other property so transferred, except as above, and except as regards acts done and liabilities incurred by the said Board or agents previous to such transfer, shall cease and determine.

On appointment of committee, Board and local agents to transfer property.

members are not the Committee, they are a select body given statutory powers under the section to fill up the existing vacancy. The nature of that body is very similar to that of a corporation with one sole object and power. Their power is an alterative to exercise his powers to fill the vacancy, the power and once the District Judge fails other provision in S. 10 operates, under which the remaining members of the Committee are empowered to fill the vacancy. They are not specified persons but such members of the Committee as are still alive. An appointment of a member by the majority only is a valid appointment, and cannot be set aside by the District Judge. Having referred the matter to the surviving members, he cannot express dissatisfaction with their choice and attempt to override their decision and avoid it. 1937 Mad. 597= (1938) 1 M.L.J. 386. Neither R. 94 of the Madras Civil Rules of Practice nor S. 41, C. P.C., has application to proceedings under S. 10 by the District-Court for the appointment of a Committee member. 29 M.L.J. 671. REVIEW.—There being no explicit provision in the Act for a review, a District Judge has no power to review an order passed by him under S. 10; nor has he any inherent power to do so. 37 M.L.J. 162 (40 C. 552; 33 M. 65; 22 C. 419, Rel.).

Sec. 11.—The members of a Temple Committee are not trustees; but if they usurp the trustee's functions, they become liable as trustees de son tort for all acts of breach of trust. 23 M.L.J. 278. If a managing committee appointed by Court in respect of a debutter estate executes repairs without any reference to the Court, it would be open to the Court to overlook the fact that sanction for incurring the costs had not been previously asked for, and the Court may properly sanction the payment of costs which had been actually incurred on being satisfied that the repairs done were really necessary. 43 C.W.N. 435.

Sec. 12.—There is no warrant for holding that the Madras Hindu Devasthanam Committee can only appoint trustees for life. The committee has an unfettered discretion, subject to the special conditions of a particular endowment to make an appointment for a term of years. If it considers that it is better in the interests of a particular trust that an appointment for life should not be made, the committee has in the absence of some overriding factor, the right of making the appointment for a term of years. So far as Madras is concerned, it must be held that a trustee is not a servant of the committee. I.L.R. 1941 Mad. 942=1941 Mad. 546=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 35 (F.B.). A trustee is not a mere servant of the Devasthanam Committee which appoint him; nor is he liable to be dismissed at the committee's will and pleasure. A trustee can only be dismissed on good and sufficient grounds and after an enquiry into the fact; a dismissed which is ot soo so justiled may be set aside by the Courts of law. See 52 L.W. 185= 1940 Mad. 823=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 5; 1939 Mad. 346=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 9.

Commencement of powers of committee.

All the powers which might be exercised by any Board or local agent for the recovery of the rent of land or other property transferred under this section may from the date of such transfer be exercised by such committee to whom such transfer is made.

Duty of trustee, etc., as to accounts;

13. It shall be the duty of every trustee, manager and superintendent of a mosque, temple or religious establishment to which the provisions of this Act shall apply to keep regular accounts of his receipts and disbursements in respect of the endowments and expenses of such mosque, temple or other religious establishment; and of committee.

and it shall be the duty of every committee of management, appointed or acting under the authority of this Act, to require from every trustee, manager and superintendent of such mosque, temple or other religious establishment, the production of such regular accounts of such receipts and disbursements at least once in every year; and every such committee of management shall themselves keep such accounts thereof.

NOTES.

Secs. 12 and 13.—A Devasthanam Committee has no power to interfere with the acts of the temple trustee in a question of purely temporal honours to definite persons. An archaka of a temple is bound to obey the orders of the trustee and not those of the Committee in those matters. 54 I.C. 281= 10 L.W. 616.

Secs. 13 and 14.—Held, (1) that under S. 13 of the Act it is the duty of the trustees to keep accounts of receipts and disbursements and it is the duty of the committee to require production of the accounts at least once a year. Only if his conduct amounts to misfeasance, breach of trust or neglect of duty as mentioned in S. 14 of the Act could the Civil Court be empowered to dismiss the trustee. The Committee could not have greater powers than the Court has in regard to the matter. The trustee is not a clerk or a servant of the Committee to be dealt with in any way at their pleasure. The acts complained of by the committee would not amount to neglect of duty, if the acts of neglect are not of the same seriousness as misfeasance or breach of trust. The committee could not without jurisdiction dismiss the trustee from office; (2) that without proper enquiry into the matter, that is, without charges being framed and opportunity for explanation being given the trustee to meet the charges, the dismissal would be invalid; (3) notice of the meeting at which enquiry will have to take place should set out the subjects of enquiry in the agenda; (4) it is irregular and opposed to natural justice to dismiss the trustee without the necessary requirements of an enquiry; (5) the trustee though appointed interim, has what might be called a freehold in his possession, where his appointment is up to the event of a permanent holder of the office being found; and until that event occur he is entitled to hold office of a trustee; (6) where the dismissal of the interim trustee was irregular and invalid, it would follow that the committee has no power to appoint any fresh person in his place. 184 I.C. 378= 1939 Mad. 346=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 9; see also (1941) 1 M.L.J. 35.

Sec. 14.—S. 14 applies where the object is to protect the endowment against misfeasance, breach of trust or neglect of duty. The Act applies to all trusts whether established prior to 1863 or after. 4 P. 741=88 I.C. 1035=1925 P. 544. The provisions of S. 14 are not applicable to temples for the maintenance of which no endowment has been made. 137 I.C. 42=1932 O. 152 (F.B.) In a suit under section 14 the Court has not to pass any order against a person who is alleged to have intruded into management without authority, but the only question to be considered is whether a person in whom property has vested should be removed for misfeasance or malfeasance, etc. A suit under the section can lie only against those persons in whom the property has been vested or to whom certain funds are confided. No suit can lie against a person who is a mere trespasser. I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 362=40 Bom.L.R. 365=1938 Bom. 311. Secs. 14 and 18.—All that is necessary in order to attract the provisions of S. 14 and S. 18 of the Act of 1863 is to show that the endowment is of a nature that the superintendence of it could vest in the Board of Revenue under Regulation XIX of 1810 if it were in force. As the preamble of that Regulation stated that when endowments had been granted in land by an individual for the support of a Hindu temple, such endowments were to be considered as for public purposes to which the Regulation would be applicable, the Act of 1863 would equally be applicable to them. 11 P. 594=1932 P. 177. Where an office of the mutawalli of a wakf falls vacant, the District Judge is entitled under proper circumstances to make an appointment to fill the vacancy but he has no general power to remove a mutawalli in miscellaneous proceedings on an application by one of the beneficiaries, his power in this respect being limited and defined by Ss. 18 and 14, Religious Endowments Act, 1863 and S. 92, C.P. Code; nor has he power in sueh proceedings to require the mutawali of a private endorsement to render account. 19 Pat.L. T. 934=1938 Pat. 5v7. The worts "any mosque, Trustee or religious endowment" in S. 14 mean a mosque, temple or religious endowment to which the provisions of Regulation XIX of 1810, would have applied if they were in force now, and therefore include religious endowments of a public character which came into existence, not only before 1863 but also afterwards. NOTES.

Sec. 58. Reserve Bank Rules, R. 22 (iii): ENQUIRY UNDER—SCOPE.—When a servant who is entitled to an inquiry under R. 22 (iii) of the Reserve Bank Rules is afforded an inquiry it must not be wholly illusory. If he submits an explanation with regard to the charges made against him the bank cannot take any action till they are satisfied that a charge (or charges) is proved; it is not enough that it is merely made. The framing of charges is not an enquiry and if it is proved, they must be satisfied that the act or omission which form the basis of the charge (or acts or omissions which form the basis of the charges) justify them in taking disciplinary action. And he must know exactly what is the nature of his offence and what is considered proved at the time when such action is taken. The fact that he does not desire to answer charges in person, but puts in a written statement, does not absolve the employer from paying regard to the elementary rules of justice and fairplay. Since a right of appeal is clearly given against dismissal of employee of Reserve Bank there must be satisfactory evidence upon which an appellate authority can act. 186 I.C. 339=1939 Rang. 357.

(b) the final decision of doubts or disputes regarding the qualifications of candidates for election or regarding the validity of elections;

(c) the maintenance of the share register, the manner in which and the conditions subject to which shares may be held and transferred, and, generally, all matters relating to the rights and duties of shareholders;

(d) the manner in which general meetings shall be convened, the procedure to be followed thereat and the manner in which votes may be exercised;

(e) the manner in which notices may be served on behalf of the Bank upon shareholders or other persons;

(f) the manner in which the business of the Central Board shall be transacted, and the procedure to be followed at meetings thereof;

(g) the conduct of business of Local Boards and the delegation to such Boards of powers and functions;

(h) the delegation of powers and functions of the Central Board to the Governor, or to Deputy Governors, Directors or officers of the Bank;

(i) the formation of Committees of the Central Board, the delegation of powers and functions of the Central Board to such Committees, and the conduct of business in such Committees;

(j) the constitution and management of staff and superannuation funds for the officers and servants of the Bank;

(k) the manner and form in which contracts binding on the Bank may be executed;

(l) the provision of an official seal of the Bank and the manner and effect of its use;

(m) the manner and form in which the balance-sheet of the Bank shall be drawn up, and in which the accounts shall be maintained;

(n) the remuneration of Directors of the Bank;

(o) the relations of the scheduled banks with the Bank and the returns to be submitted by the scheduled banks to the Bank;

(p) the regulation of clearing-houses for the scheduled banks;

(q) the circumstances in which, and the conditions and limitations subject to which, the value of any lost, stolen, mutilated or imperfect currency note of the Central Government or bank note may be refunded; and (r) generally, for the efficient conduct of the business of the bank.

(3) Copies of all regulations made under this section shall be available to the public on payment.

THE INDIAN SALE OF GOODS ACT (III OF 1930).

PREFATORY NOTE.—HISTORY OF THE ACT.—The history of this enactment has been explained as follows by the First Select Committee in their report. The Committee was composed of lawyers of eminence, as Sir D.F. Mulla, Mr. Jayakar, Mr. Alladi Krishnaswami Iyer, the Advocate-General, Madras, with the Hon. Sir B. L. Mitter, Law Member of the Council of the Governor-General as Chairman.

REPORT OF THE FIRST SELECT COMMITTEE.....A Bill to amend and define the law relating to the sale of goods, with the notes setting forth the reasons for the proposed amendments, which had already been prepared in the Legislative Department of the Government of India, was placed before us, and formed the basis of our discussions.

Before the passing of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, Chapter VII of which contains the law relating to the sale of goods or movables, the law on this subject was not only not uniform throughout British India but was also outside the limits of the original jurisdiction of the High Courts, extremely uncertain in its application. Within the limits of the presidency-towns, the rules of English law, including those in the Statute of Frauds, were applied, whilst in the mufassal it was doubtful whether the Statute of Frauds was applicable and, as observed by the Indian Law Commissioners in their second report, the Judge was to a great extent without the guidance of any positive law beyond the rule that his decision should be such as he deemed to be in accordance with "justice equity and good conscience". To remedy this unsatisfactory state of affairs, the Indian Law Commissioners framed, in their second report, dated the 28th July, 1866, a set of rules relating to the general law of contracts including therein provisions relating to the sale of movables. The draft of the Law Commissioners underwent several changes at the hands of the then Law Members, Sir Henry Maine and Sir James Stephen, and also in the Select Committee of the Indian Legislature. But, as stated by Sir James Stephen himself while presenting the report of the Select Committee on the Indian Contract Bill, the chapter on the sale of goods except in regard to the rule as to market overt, represented generally the English law on the subject as if then stood.

The rules of English law relating to the sale of goods had grown up mainly out of judicial decisions. Along with the general law of contract, they were the product of many generations and were adapted to the circumstances and exigencies of the times and the dealings of the people. They were, however, largely dominated by the provisions of the Statute of Frauds which was passed in the reign of Charles the Second. The Law Commissioners, as well as those who were ultimately responsible for framing the Indian Contract Act, at once realized that the provisions of the Statute of Frauds, although followed in the presidency towns, were not suitable to the conditions prevailing in this country, and that "any law relating to this important subject must at any rate be free from the inexpressible confusion and intricacy which is thrown over every part of that Statute in consequence of its vague language".

In 1870, various branches of law were being codified in British India. The main object in view was, in the words of Sir James Stephen, "that of providing a body of law to the Government of the country so expressed that it might be readily understood both by English and Native Government servants without extrinsic help from the English law libraries". What was urgently needed was a guide for the Judge or Magistrate who had but little legal training, derived little or no assistance from the Bar and worked at a distance from any law library.

Whatever merit the simple and elementary rules embodied in the Indian Contract Act may have had, and however sufficient and suitable they may have been for the needs which they were intended to meet in 1872, the passage of time has revealed defects the removal of which has become necessary in order to keep the law abreast of the developments of modern business relations. The law relating to the sale of goods appertains mainly to mercantile transactions. There can be no doubt that during the last half century conditions in this country relating to trade and business have undergone material changes. Methods of business have largely altered and new relations have arisen between man and man. In dealing with these relations, it has been necessary to give recognition to new principles, and the Indian Courts have found that a law enacted more than fifty years ago is entirely inadequate to enable them to deal with these new relations or give effect to the new principles. The result has been that on various occasions the Courts have had to hold that Chapter VII of the Indian Contract Act is not exhaustive, and to import therein analogies from the decisions of the English Courts.

The English law relating to the sale of goods which was admittedly the basis of Chapter VII of the Indian Contract Act has itself since 1872 undergone drastic changes, and was finally codified in 1893 by the present Sale of Goods Act (56 & 57 Vict., c. 71), which discards many of the old common law rules upon which Chapter VII of the Indian Act was based, in favour of provisions more suited to modern conditions or more convenient in actual practice.

By the Bill referred to for our consideration, the law relating particularly to the sale of goods is embodied in a separate enactment, although many of the general principles contained in the Indian Contract Act will continue to be applicable thereto. When Sir James Stephen moved the Indian Contract Bill, he admitted that it was not, and could not pretend to be, a complete Code upon the branch of law to which it related. He, however, expressed a hope that in later years it would be easy to enact supplementary chapters relating to the several branches of the law of contract which the Bill did not touch. This hope has never been fulfilled. In later years it was found more convenient to have separate enactments for the several branches of the law of contract, e.g., the Transfer of Property Act, the Negotiable Instruments Act, and the Merchant Shipping Act. In our opinion, in view of the Complexity of modern conditions, the time has now come when this process should be accelerated by embodying the different branches of law relating to contract in separate self-contained enactments; and we hope that the Bill which we attach to our Report may be passed into law at an early date and may be but the first of the series required to complete the task which we have outlined above.

The Bill referred to us was mainly based on the English Sale of Goods Act, 1893. This Act has stood the test of nearly thirty-five years of practical application, and in the words of Lord Parker in The Parchim, (1918) A.C. 157 at pages 160-161, "is a very successful and correct codification of this branch of English mercantile law." As is shown in the note below, most of the Colonies and Overseas Dominions have adopted and re-enacted the Act with only such small variations as have been found necessary to adapt its provisions to local circumstances. It is also remarkable that the Uniform Sales Act, passed in 1906 in the United States of America and adopted in twenty out of fifty-three States and territories, is based very largely on the English Act. These facts constitute striking evidence of the completeness and the universal suitability of its provisions.

In mercantile transactions a conflict of laws should, as far as possible, be avoided. Uniformity of law in various countries, particularly in those which have business or trade dealings with one another, is highly convenient and desirable. We, therefore, approve of the proposal to adopt the provisions of the English Sale of Goods Act so far as they are suitable to Indian conditions as the basis for the present Bill, and thus to make the Indian Law relating to the sale of goods as nearly as possible uniform with the law in force in other parts of the British Empire.

The provisions of the English Act are far more elaborate and comprehensive than those of Chapter VII of the Indian Contract Act, and in their arrangement the English Act is more logical and methodical. As we have already observed, it has revised and brought up to date the rules of the English Common Law. Moreover, the adoption of the English Act as the basis of the present Bill will enable Indian Courts to interpret its provisions in the light of the decisions of the English Court.

In adopting the provisions of the English Act we have not been unmindful of the needs and exigencies of this country. Wherever it has been found that a rule obtaining in England, such as that relating to market overt, is not suitable to Indian conditions the rule has been rejected. We have moreover, carefully scrutinised the provisions of the English Act in the light of the decisions of English Courts since 1893, and where those decisions have shown the provisions of the English Act to be defective or ambiguous, we have attempted to improve upon them. We have also retained several of the provisions of the Indian Contract Act which we consider necessary or useful to meet special conditions existing in India. The Bill as revised by us on the above lines is attached to our Report as Appendix C.

A detailed explanation of the various clauses of the Bill is set out in our notes on clauses. But we think it desirable to draw attention to the following few points of importance:

(a) The present Bill embodies the principle that the question whether a contract for the sale of goods does or does not pass the property in the goods from the buyer to the seller must in all cases be determined by the intention of the parties to the contract. The provisions of Chapter VII of the Indian Contract Act are vague and conflicting on this point. The Bill codifies the rules by which that intention may be ascertained, but the operation of these rules will be displaced by any terms of the contract defining the intention or by any attendant circumstances, including the conduct of the parties, rendering it ascertainable. In following this principle, we have borne in mind that in mercantile matters the certainty of the rule is often of more importance than the substance. If the parties know beforehand what their legal position is, they can provide for their particular wants by express stipulations. Sale, after all, is a consensual contract, and the Bill does not prevent the parties from making any bargain they please. Its object is to lay down clear rules for the cases where the parties have either formed no intention or failed to express it.

(b) The distinction between a sale and an agreement to sell, which was not clear in Chapter VII of the Indian Contract Act, has been clearly brought out. This distinction is very necessary to determine the rights and liabilities of the parties to the contract.

(c) It is made clear that a contract of sale can be made by mere offer and acceptance. Neither payment nor delivery is necessary for the purpose.

(d) Before 1893 the law in England relating to warranties and conditions was in a very confused state. In the Indian Contract Act the word "warranty" has been used in a very vague sense. In some provisions it denotes a condition which would enable a party aggrieved by its breach to repudiate the contract, while in others it enables him to claim damages only. In the Bill this ambiguity has been removed.

(e) There is much conflict of decisions in India regarding the meaning of section 108 of the Indian Contract Act which relates to sales by ostensible owners. This is to a certain extent due to the obscure phraseology of the section itself. We had tried to remove this obscurity in clauses 27 to 30 of the Bill to simplify the law on the subject.

(f) We have elaborated the rules relating to delivery to carriers, stoppage in transit and auction sales.

(g) We have anxiously considered the question of the retention of the illustrations appearing in Chapter VII of the Indian Contract Act and of the insertion of illustrations to new provisions. Our decision is that the better policy is to forego all illustrations, leaving the Courts to construe the sections as they stand.—(Report of the First Select Committee.)

REPORT OF THE SECOND SELECT COMMITTEE:—This being a highly technical piece of Legislation, the Bill was again referred to another Select Committee who, in the course of their report, said:

"After considering the opinions received, we find ourselves in agreement with almost all the provisions contained in the Bill. We entirely approve of the scheme followed in the Bill in adopting as far as possible the provisions of English Sale of Goods Act, 1893, in arrangement as well as wording. As pointed out in paragraph 9 of the Committee's Report referred to above, that Act has met with uniform approval and has stood the test for more than a third of a century. It has been adopted in most of the overseas Dominions and Colonies and also in the United States of America. We find in commercial transactions there ought to be as far as possible uniformity of law in countries which have dealings with one another."—(Report of the Second Select Committee.)

As stated above, the Act is based to a very large extent on the English Sale of Goods Act. It may also be useful to refer to the history of legislation on this subject in England.

The history of the English Sale of Goods Act is as follows:—The English Sale of Goods Bill was originally drafted by Mr. Chalmers in 1888. He then settled it in consultation with Lord Herschel, who kindly consented to take charge of it. In 1889, Lord Herschel introduced it in the House of Lords, not to press it on, but to get criticisms on it. In 1890 there was no opportunity of proceeding with it, but in 1891, the Bill was again introduced in the Lords, and referred to a Select Committee. It had, in the meantime, been criticised by Lord Bramwell, Mr. Walter Ker, and other lawyers, and the Bar Committee, had submitted a valuable memorandum on it. In the Lords it was carefully considered by a Select Committee consisting of Lords Herschel, Halsbury, Bramwell, and Watson. Professor Richard Brown and Mr. Spens of Glasgow took an infinity of pains to suggest the necessary amendments. In 1893 the Bill was again passed through the Lords in the form in which it was settled in 1892. It was then considered by a Select Committee of the House of Commons and further amended. The Committee consisted of Sir Charles Russell, A. G. Sir R. Webster, Q.C., Mr. Asher, Q.C. (the Scotch Solicitor-General), Mr. Shiress Will, Q.C., Mr. Bousfield, Q.C., Mr. Ambrose, Q.C.; and Mr. Mather. Some of the amendments introduced by the Commons were modified on its return to the Lords, and it was finally settled in its present form. The Bill, in its original form, was drafted on the same lines as the Bills of Exchange Bill. On Lord Herschel's advice it endeavoured to reproduce as exactly as possible the existing law, leaving any amendments that might seem desirable to be introduced in committee on the authority of the Legislature. In mercantile matters, the certainty of the Rule is often of more importance than the substance of the rule (Cf. Lockyer v. Offley, 1 T.R. at p. 259). If the parties know beforehand what their legal position is, they can provide for their particular wants by express stipulation. Sale is a consensual contract, and the Act does not seek to prevent the parties from making any bargain they please. Its object is to lay down clear rules for the case where the parties have either formed no intention, or failed to express it.

The codification in England of the law relating to the sale of goods has produced a somewhat unexpected benefit. It has to a great extent produced uniformity in this branch of the law throughout the dominions of the Crown. Most of the Colonies have adopted and re-enacted the Act, with, of course, small variations to adapt it to local circumstances.

GENERAL OPERATION OF THE ENGLISH SALE OF GOODS ACT.—"The English Sale of Goods Act, 1893", says Lord Parker, "is in fact merely a codification, and, as is generally admitted, a very successful and correct codification of this branch of English mercantile law. It embodies the principle that the question whether a contract for sale of goods does or does not pass the property in the goods contracted to be sold must in all cases be determined by the intention of the parties to the contract. The Act codifies the rules by which that intention is to be ascertained, but the inference based on the rules may always be displaced by terms of the contract itself, or the surrounding circumstances, including the conduct of the parties. No doubt the municipal law with reference to which the parties enter into the particular transaction is material in considering their intention as to the passing of the property; and if it appears that they contracted with reference to a municipal law other than English and if it be further proved that that municipal law is different in any material respect from the English law, this will of course be taken into account in determining their intention. But having regard to the presumption that, unless the contrary be proved, the general law of a foreign country is the same as the English law the mere fact that the contract was entered into with reference to the law of another country will be immaterial." Sec. 1.—The provisions of this Act do not apply to a case relating to immovable property. 9 R. 13=134 I.C 511=1931 R. 109. The provisions of a Special Act, as the Sale of Goods Act cannot, except in the branch of law to which it specially applies, cover a statute of the nature of the General Clauses Act. 9 R. 13. It is doubtful if the Act applies to electricity. 1936 C. 753.

SHOPKEEPER — WHETHER BOUND TO SERVE MEMBER OF PUBLIC—Apart from special legislation it is open to a shopkeeper at any time to refuse to deal with any member of the public and it is not necessary for the shopkeeper to assign any reason for his refusal. 147 I.C. 982 =1934 A.L.J. 43=1934 A. 203.

Sec. 2.—Cf. English Sale of Goods Act, S. 62 and the English Factors Act.

(2) "delivery" means voluntary transfer of possession from one person to another ;

(3) goods are said to be in a "deliverable state" when they are in such state that the buyer would under the contract be bound to take delivery of them ;

(4) "document of title to goods" includes a bill of lading, dock-warrant, warehouse-keeper's certificate, wharfinger's certificate, railway receipt, warrant or order for the delivery of goods and any other document used in the ordinary course of business as proof of the possession or control of goods or authorizing or purporting to authorize, either by endorsement or by delivery, the possessor of the document to transfer or receive goods thereby represented ;

(5) "fault" means wrongful act or default ;

(6) "future goods" means goods to be manufactured or produced or acquired by the seller after the making of the contract of sale ;

(7) "goods" means every kind of moveable property other than actionable claims and money ; and includes stock and shares, growing crops, grass, and things attached to or forming part of the land which are agreed to be severed before sale or under the contract of sale ;

NOTES.

Sec. 2 (2).—"Symbolic delivery" may be effected by giving the buyer the key of the place where the goods are stored. The key is not the symbol of the goods, but the transaction "consists of such a transfer of control in fact, as the nature of the case admits, and as will practically suffice for causing the new possessor to be recognised os such." Sec. 2 (6): "READY GOODS".—A contract for sale of "ready goods" would be sufficiently complied with if at the time of entering into the contract or during the period intervening between that date and the due date the seller could at any moment, if called upon by his buyer, deliver the goods. 57 I.C. 140=47 C. 458.

(Report of the First Select Committee.) The Second Select Committee said: "In the definition of 'goods' we have substituted 'stock and share' for the words 'stock and share certificates' for greater accuracy."

MONEY is excluded from the definition of the term "goods" because, in a sale the goods and the price are contrasted, and wholly different considerations apply to them. 3 C. 379; 18 P. R. 1905. This applies only to current coins. So also currency notes are not "goods". 18 P.R. 1905; 3 C. 379 ; so also are other emblems of money which constitute legal tender. Plaintiff brought an action on the original side of the High Court claiming an injunction and damages for the wrongful and tortious act of the defendants in the fact that they prevented him from carrying out his contract to remove the buildings and materials in his original agreement. The defence was that the buildings and materials in dispute or some of them were the property of the defendants and were not covered by his contract and he was not entitled to take them away. Held, that the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act could not apply to the case because the suit related to immovable property. such falls within the definition of "goods" in S. 2 (7). A sale of a decree may be made orally and it is not necessary that the assignment of a decree to be valid should be in writing. O. 21, R. 16, C. P. Code, can only be construed as laying down that the requirement of a transfer in writing is a mere requirement of procedure. CHAPTER II.

FORMATION OF THE CONTRACT.

Contract of Sale.

4. (1) A contract of sale of goods is a contract whereby the seller transfers or agrees to transfer the property in goods to the buyer for a price. There may be a contract of sale between one part-owner and another.

Sale and agreement to sell.

(2) A contract of sale may be absolute or conditional.

(3) Where under a contract of sale the property in the goods is transferred from the seller to the buyer, the contract is called a sale, but where the transfer of the property in the goods is to take place at a future time or subject to some condition thereafter to be fulfilled, the contract is called an agreement to sell.

(4) An agreement to sell becomes a sale, when the time elapses or the conditions are fulfilled subject to which the property in the goods is to be transferred.

Formalities of the Contract.

5. (1) A contract of sale is made by an offer to buy or sell goods for a price and the acceptance of such offer. The contract may provide for the immediate delivery of the goods or immediate payment of the price or both, or for the delivery or payment by instalments, or that the delivery or payment or both shall be postponed.

Contract of sale how made.

(2) Subject to the provisions of any law for the time being in force, a contract of sale may be made in writing or by word of mouth, or partly in writing and partly by word of mouth or may be implied from the conduct of the parties.

Subject-matter of Contract.

6. (1) The goods which form the subject of a contract of sale may be either existing goods, owned or possessed by the seller, or future goods.

Existing or future goods.

(2) There may be a contract for the sale of goods the acquisition of which by the seller depends upon a contingency which may or may not happen.

NOTES.

sion, when there has been no suggestion of it in the trial Court. 20 N.L.J. 108=1937 N. 198.

Sec. 4: PRICE.—There can be no sale without a price. 9 M. 141; 11 M. 459 at p. 467. In a contract for the sale of goods the most essential condition is the price. Where there is no evidence as to price, there is no binding contract. 147 I.C. 982=1934 A.L.J. 43=1934 A. 203. The supply of liquor as wages to a watchman does not amount to sale since 'price' means money only. 9 M. 141. See also 18 P.R. 1905; 11 M. 459. Where a contract is for a chattel to be made and delivered, it is clearly a contract for the sale of goods. A contract to make and deliver a set of false teeth is therefore contract for the sale of goods and the principles of the Sale of Goods Act apply to such a contract. 1939 N.L.J. 118=1939 Nag. 19. A plea that an agreement is not a sale but merely an agreement to sell as defined in S. 4 (3) cannot be raised for the first time in revision, where there has been no suggestion of it in the trial Court. 20 N.L.J. 108=1937 Nag. 198.

Sec. 5.—Cf. S. 3 of the English Sale of Goods Act and S. 78 of the Indian Contract Act. A sale is complete on the purchase-money being agreed to be paid. 21 P.R. 1875; 85 P.R. 1879; 4 C. 801; 27 M. 540; 32 C. 816 at p. 823. In the absence of contract to the contrary, delivery of possession or the compliance with any other condition cannot be regarded as essential to completion of sale. 62 P.R. 1879. Acceptance of hundi or cheque operates as payment, though it may be only conditional payment. 27 M. 540. Right to reject the goods which are not in accordance with the description of goods bargained for is different from and independent of the question whether the property therein has passed to the purchaser or not. 15 C. 1 (5). A deposit or earnest is not only part-payment but is also a guarantee for the performance of the contract, and the depositor, who fails to perform the contract within a reasonable time, has no right to a return of the deposit. 19 A. 489 (492). If, on the other hand, the seller is in default and unable to give the title contracted for, he should return the deposit earnest-money to the purchaser. 21Bom.827

PART DELIVERY means delivery of part of goods in progress of the delivery of the whole. 15 C. 1 at 6.

Sec. 5 (2).—See S. 88 of Act VII of 1913 (Companies Act).

WRITING.—Cf. General Clauses Act, S. 3 (58). Where a contract is partly in print and partly in writing, if there is doubt as to the meaning, the written words must be given effect to as having been written with greater deliberation. 30 B. 1. But the whole document should be construed as a whole so as to make, if possible, an intelligible transaction. 30 Bom. L.R. 415. If the typewritten and printed portions of a contract can be read together effect must, be given to all the provisions, but if they cannot be reconciled the typewritten portion must prevail. I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 33 =(1941) 2 M.L.J. 281.

Secs. 6 to 8.—Cf. Eng. Act, S 5 and Contract Act, S. 88.

(3) Where by a contract of sale, the seller purports to effect a present sale of future goods, the contract operates as an agreement to sell the goods.

Goods perishing before making of contract.

7. Where there is a contract for the sale of specific goods, the contract is void if the goods without the knowledge of the seller have at the time when the contract was made, perished or become so damaged as no longer to answer to their description in the contract.

Goods perishing before sale but after agreement to sell.

8. Where there is an agreement to sell specific goods, and subsequently the goods without any fault on the part of seller or buyer perish or become so damaged as no longer to answer to their description in the agreement before the risk passes to the buyer, the agreement is thereby avoided.

The Price.

Ascertainment of price.

9. (1) The price in a contract of sale may be fixed by the contract or may be left to be fixed in manner thereby agreed or may be determined by the course of dealing between the parties.

(2) Where the price is not determined in accordance with the foregoing provisions, the buyer shall pay the seller a reasonable price. What is a reasonable price is a question of fact dependent on the circumstances of each particular case.

Agreement to sell at valuation.

10. (1) Where there is an agreement to sell goods on the terms that the price is to be fixed by the valuation of a third party and such third party cannot or does not make such valuation, the agreement is thereby avoided :

Provided that, if the goods or any part thereof have been delivered to, and appropriated by, the buyer, he shall pay a reasonable price therefor.

(2) Where such third party is prevented from making the valuation by the fault of the seller or buyer, the party not in fault may maintain a suit for damages against the party in fault.

Conditions and warranties.

Stipulations as to time.

11. Unless a different intention appears from the terms of the contract, stipulations as to time of payment are not deemed to be of the essence of a contract of sale. Whether any other stipulation as to time is of the essence of the contract or not depends on the terms of the contract.

Condition and warranty.

12. (1) A stipulation in a contract of sale with reference to goods which are the subject thereof may be a condition or warranty.

(2) A condition is a stipulation essential to the main purpose of the contract, the breach of which gives rise to a right to treat the contract as repudiated.

NOTES.

Sec. 7.—Cf. S. 6, English Sale of Goods Act ; also S. 20, Indian Contract Act.

Secs. 7 and 8.—The Select Committee said: "This clause follows S. 6 of the English Sale of goods Act. The rule is based either on the ground of mutual mistake or on the ground of impossibility of performance. (Chalmers' Sale of Goods, p. 30, 10th Ed; Rep. of Sel. Com.)

Sec. 8—Cf. S. 7, English Sale of Goods Act.

Sec. 9.—Cf. S. 8, English Sale of Goods Act.

In a contract for sale of goods, if, before goods are tendered, customs duty is increased, the seller is entitled to claim the excess duty imposed from the buyer, provided he proves that such excess duty on the goods tendered has been already paid. It is immaterial whether such duty has been paid by the seller himself or that some one else has paid it. (21 B. 628 and 1933 M. 21, Explained) 1933 S. 404.

Sec. 9 (2)—Mixed contract for storage of paddy and its subsequent sale—Provision for exercise of option by seller—Price payable on exercise of option. 165 I.C. 308=1936 R. 419.

Sec. 10.—Cf. S. 9, English Sale of Goods Act.

Sec. 11.—The First Select Committee said: "This clause is based on S. 10 of the English Act. The principle underlying that section is to be found in S. 55 of the Indian Contract Act. In our opinion, the present Bill should contain a specific provision on the point. As the General Clauses Act, 1897, contains a definition of the word 'month,' sub-S. (2) of the English section has been omitted." (Report of the First Select Committee.)

Sec. 12.—Cf. S. 11, English Sale of Goods Act.

(3) A warranty is a stipulation collateral to the main purpose of the contract, the breach of which gives rise to a claim for damages but not to a right to reject the goods and treat the contract as repudiated.

(4) Whether a stipulation in a contract of sale is a condition or a warranty depends in each case on the construction of the contract. A stipulation may be a condition, though called a warranty in the contract.

When condition to be treated as warranty.

13. (1) Where a contract of sale is subject to any condition to be fulfilled by the seller, the buyer may waive the condition or elect to treat the breach of the condition as a breach of warranty and not as a ground for treating the contract as repudiated.

(2) Where a contract of sale is not severable and the buyer has accepted the goods or part thereof, or where the contract is for specific goods the property in which has passed to the buyer, the breach of any condition to be fulfilled by the seller can only be treated as a breach of warranty and not as a ground for rejecting the goods and treating the contract as repudiated, unless there is a term of the contract, express or implied, to that effect.

(3) Nothing in this section shall affect the case of any condition or warranty fulfilment of which is excused by law by reason of impossibility or otherwise.

Implied undertaking as to title, etc.

14. In a contract of sale, unless, the circumstances of the contract are such as to show a different intention there is—

(a) an implied condition on the part of the seller that, in the case of a sale

Sec. 13.—Cf. S. 11, English Sale of Goods Act; also Ss. 117 and 118, Indian Contract Act.

The Select Committee said: "Having regard to the conflict which has arisen over the right of the buyer after he has accepted the goods, we have endeavoured to make it clear that once the buyer has accepted the goods, he cannot reject them on any ground. If there be a breach of condition disclosed for instance on subsequent inspection of the goods, he can treat the breach as a breach of warrantv only and not as a breach of condition. The word 'acceptance' has been explained in cl. 41 and 42. Cl. 13 (1) and cl. 40 of the Bill take the place of S. 118 of the Indian Act; Cl. 13 (2) takes the place of S 117 of the Indian Act." (Report of the first Select Committee).

CLAUSE (1)—WAIVER.—A party may waive a stipulation which is for his own benefit. See 70 I.C. 877=24 Bom.L.R. 991=1923 B. 92. If a stipulation operates for the benefit of both parties, it can only be waived by mutual consent. (1917) 23 Commercial Cases, 216 (219). See also 14 I.C. 135. When there has been a contract of sale of unascertained goods, with warranty and the warranty is broken, the buyer may accept the goods or refuse to accept them when tendered. It is however open to the buyer to keep the goods for a reasonably sufficient time in order to examine or try them in order to decide whether he would refuse or accept them. The user of the goods, however, must be limited to the trial and must not go beyond that. 27 A.L.J. 674=119 I.C. 853=1929 A. 801. See also 7 L.B.R. 110; 27 A.L.J. 674=1929 A. 801; 65 I.C. 464=1922 L. 127; 4 C. 801. Vendee who decides to reject the goods must object within reasonable time on the ground of breach of warranty; but where damage is nil he must pay contract price if he did not object within reasonable time. 1925 M. 221. Onus is upon the vendees to prove that they had rejected them as of inferior quality within a reasonable time, 34 I.C. 290=23 C. L. J. 415. See also 5 P.R. 1870; 13 I.A. 60=13 C. 237. Mere acquiescing in delivery of goods, in order to avoid further loss, does not necessarily show acceptance. 14 I.C. 248; 70 I. C. 877=24 Bom.L.R. 991=1923 B. 92. So also mere receipt of goods for inspection and examination is no legal acceptance. 65 I.C. 464=1922 L. 127; 23 C.L.J. 415; acceptance will be presumed in the above case if goods are not rejected within a reasonable time. 1922 L. 127; 1925 M. 221; 34 I.C. 290; 1929 A. 801. In a contract by instalments or a contract which according to its terms is treated as an instalment contract, the buyer can reject the quantity under any instalment. But under an indivisible contract, the buyer loses his right to reject if he accepts part. 59 C. 928=1932 C. 879.

Sec. 13 (2).—S. 13 (2) has been framed with an eye to the special case of "bargain and sale"; and its operation is limited to genuine cases of "bargain and sale" according to the Common Law of England as distinguished from cases of goods "sold and delivered." In the case of a transaction giving rise to a claim on account of "goods sold and delivered," where the sale is a sale of specific goods by sample, the buyer, in the event of the goods being inferior to sample, has not only a right to damages, but also a right to reject the goods. 63 C. 736=1937 Cal. 140.

Sec. 14.—Cf. S. 12 of the English Sale of Goods Act and S. 109, Indian Contract Act.

he has a right to sell the goods and that, in the case of an agreement to sell, he will have a right to sell the goods at the time when the property is to pass ; title to goods which he contracts to sell. The cases in which an implied undertaking as to title has been negatived appear to have arisen out of Court sales or forced sale by public auction, where the circumstances were such as to indicate that the seller was only selling such right as he might have in the goods. A Court officer selling an execution debtor's goods gives no implied undertaking as to title. Ex parte V Ilars; (1874) L.R. 9 Ch. App. 432 (437). See also 3 Pat.L.J. 516; 46 I.C. 614; 74 I.C. 134; 37 C. 67; 42 I.C. 453; 46 I.C. 783; 4 N.L.J. 274; 25 C.W.N. 756; 63 I.C. 126.

CASE-LAW.—The application of the English legal maxim of caveat emptor to the sale of goods seems, so far, at least, as concerns title, to be excluded under the Indian law (see S. 109 of the Contract Act) and so, the seller is responsible to the buyer for loss caused to the latter, by reason of the invalidity of the seller's title. 2 B. 258 (263). The purchaser's right to recover consideration money was held to depend upon establishing that he was fraudulently induced by the seller to pay the sum by a false representation that he had a good title or that the seller warranted and covenanted with the purchaser that he had a good title. 6 W.R. 152 (153). See also 7 W.R. 196. There is an implied warranty of title in the case of the sale of goods and the onus is on the seller to prove his title to the goods sold by him. 86 I.C. 1020=1925 L. 366 (2). Where one of the conditions of sale of land is that the vendor shall not be bound to show any title prior to an instrument of a certain date, the purchaser may, nevertheless, insist upon a defect of title appearing aliunde and before that date, and may, on proof of such defect, rescind the contract and get back his earnest money. Where the ability of the vendor to make a good title to the thing sold depended on a doubtful question of fact or law, the title would not be deemed a good or sufficient title as between the vendor and purchaser and the purchaser is entitled, in an action against the vendor, to recover back his deposit and interest and the expenses of investigating the title. 1 B.H.C.O. C.J. 77. On a fraudulent concealment of the defect in the vendor's title, the purchaser would be entitled to damages, even though he had not insisted on a covenant for title. 9 M. 89. An advertisement in this respect to the property to be sold, calling upon purchasers to come forward, is substantially an implied warranty of title and would, in any case, make the vendor responsible to the purchaser deceived by any misrepresentation therein. 9 W. R. 371. Shares in a company are goods within the meaning of the Sale of Goods Act. In the case of a contract of sale of such shares therefore, there is an implied warranty under S. 14 (c) of that Act, that the shares are free from any charge or incumbrance in favour of any third party not declared or known to the buyer before or at the time when the contract is made, unless the circumstances of the contract are such as to show a different intention. Assuming that the circumstance that the shares are sold by a pledgee of those shares under a power of sale shows a different intention within the meaning of the section, that circumstances can show a different intention on the part of the parties to the contract only if it is known to the buyer. The burden is on the seller to show that the buyer was aware that the seller was selling not as owner but as pledgee. A buyer of shares in a company must, no doubt, be presumed to have notice of the provisions of the Articles of Association of the company with respect to the shares generally. But it does not follow from that that he is to be presumed to have notice of circumstances affecting particular shares. If therefore, the Articles of Association of a company provide that the directors may decline to register any transfer of shares upon which the company has a lien, the buyer will be presumed to have notice that shares in the company are liable to be affected by a lien where the registered shareholder is indebted to the company, but the buyer is still entitled to rely on the implied warranty given by the seller under S. 14 (c) that the shares with which he proposes to fulfil the contract are not shares which are so affected. 44 C.W.N. 505. The condition in a sale-deed that the purchaser shall take the thing sold with "such title only as the vendor can give him" implies that the vendor had some title, however defective it might be. 12 B. 1. Where there is a breach of the implied warranty under S. 14 (c), the remedy of the buyer is to sue for damages. He is not entitled to ask for rescission of the contract. 44 C.W.N. 505.

EXECUTION SALE.—A purchaser of goods, seized and sold in execution in the ordinary course by the sheriff, cannot recover the purchase-money he has paid, by reason that it turns out that the goods did not belong to the execution debtor. The reason is, that the fact of the sale taking place under such circumstances, is notice to buyers, who consequently, buy at their own peril. 2 B. 258 (264). See also 3 Pat.L.J. 516=46 I.C. 614 ; 74 I.C. 134 ; 37 C. 67 ; 25 C.W.N. 756 ; 63 I.C. 136 ; 4 N.L.J. 274 ; 42 I.C. 453 ; 46 I.C. 783 ; C. P. Code, O. 21, R. 91. A sheriff has the authority under a writ of Fieri Facias, to seize the property of the judgment-debtor and to pass on his title to it to the execution purchaser, without warranting that title to be good, and consequently if the purchaser is afterwards evicted under a title paramount to that of the judgment-debtor, he has no remedy against either the sheriff or the judgment-creditors. 3 C. 806 (813)=2 I.A. 116. But if, in sale by the sheriff, there is not only no disclaimer of warranty of title, but even an express assertion that the goods are the property of the execution debtor, the sheriff, or the execution creditor may be held bound by such warranty. 2 B. 258 (264). The fact that the purchase-money had actually passed to some other person can make no difference. U.B.R. (1892-1896) 306.

Where there is a contract for the sale of goods by description, there is an implied condition that the goods shall correspond with the description; and, if the sale is by sample as well as by description, it is not sufficient that the bulk of the goods corresponds with the sample if the goods do not also correspond with the description.

Sec. 15.—Cf. S. 10, English Sale of Goods Act; also S. 113, Indian Contract Act.

The section is based on the principle that a man is not bound, unless he has altered his position by some conduct of his own, to accept and to pay for goods which are not in accordance with the description of the goods he bargained for. 15 C. 1 (4, 5). There has been a growing strictness in the matter of regarding the particulars in the contract as part of the description of the goods. If a stipulation is a part of the description, the only question that remains is if the goods supplied conformed to it, and it is irrelevant to enquire whether it was considered in the trade a matter of importance or whether it affected market-value of the goods. 59 C. 928 =1932 C. 879. Where a sale of goods is by description as well as by sample, the goods supplied must be in accordance with both the description and sample. 44 C.W.N. 1069. Purchaser is not bound to examine all the articles delivered under an entire contract; and purchaser can reject all the articles in toto, even when some only of the articles have been found not equal to the sample. 79 P.R. 1888; 6 C. W.N. 495=29 C. 323. When seller sues for price, purchaser can prove breach of warranty in reduction of the claim. 62 P.R. 1866. If goods delivered do not answer to the contract, the buyer may return them; but he is not bound to do so; if he gives notice that the goods are not accepted and remain at the risk of the seller, that will be sufficient. But if he exercises any act of dominion, he would be taken to have accepted the goods. 4 A.L.J. 245. Where there is a dispute between a buyer and a seller with reference to quality the onus would generally be on the seller to prove that the goods were of the quality contracted for. 80 I.C. 151=1924 C. 490=28 C.W.N. 261; 1925 L. 366. Sec. 16.—Cf. S. 14 of the English Sale of Goods Act; also Ss. 110 to 116, Indian Contract Act. On this section, see 1929 S. 161=116 I.C. 588; 55 I.C. 201; 7 L.B.R. 110; 12 B. 50; 35 M.L.J. 180. According to S. 16 (1), there is an implied condition that the goods should be reasonably fit for the particular purpose for which they are required and a purchaser, if he does not find the goods to be reasonably fit for the purpose for which they are required, is legally entitled to reject them. 1939 N.L.J. 118 =1939 Nag. 19. The article is not to be fit generally, not to be fit for the "purpose" of the buyer; it must be fit for a particular purpose notified to the seller and notified in a particular way so that the seller shall know that his skill and judgment is relied upon to supply an article which shall be fit for that purpose. I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 88=182 I.C. 397=1939 Cal. 210. Per Ameer Ali, J.—The warranty of fitness implied by law is not logically different in principle from the warranty implied by law of merchantability. The condition as to merchantability requires the goods to be reasonably fit to be sold as goods of the particular description. The other condition as to fitness requires the goods to be reasonably fit for use for the particular purpose for which they were ordered. In both cases they are required to be intrinsically fit, and not fit having regard to some particular legislation or particular rules framed by the state or a third patty. I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 88=1939 Cal. 210. In the case of sale of tyres by person who is the distributor of Continental Solid tyres, and those tyres only, there is no implied condition as to the fitness of the tyres for any particular purpose, though the goods sold must be of merchantable quality. 157 I.C. 12. To recover special damages for a breach of warranty in a resale, it is necessary that the buyer should not have been negligent in failing to detect the inferiority of goods before he re-sells or deals with them. 22 P.L.R. 1921=59 I.C. 424. See also 34 M. 453=21 M.L.J. 1110 (P.C.) Where goods offered for sale in execution of a decree are described as of a particular denomination and the goods tendered do not answer that description, the purchaser is entitled to reject them and if he has paid for them, to recover the price as money had and received for his use. 54 I.C. 315. Where a contract was made for the supply of goods at the seller's godowns and the purchasers complained the goods were not of the quality stipulated for, the purchasers have no right to ask for a sample of the goods to be delivered before taking delivery. Their only right is to take delivery, and if, on delivery, they found the goods were not as stipulated for, to make their claim for damages. [(1913) M.W. N. 895.] If the buyers expressly communicated to the sellers the purpose for which the goods are wanted (and the other conditions are pre-

(1) Where the buyer expressly or by implication, makes known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required, so as to show that the buyer relies on the seller's skill or judgment, and the goods are of a description which it is in the course of the seller's business to supply (whether he is the manufacturer or producer or not), there is an implied condition that the goods shall be reasonably fit for such purpose :

Provided that, in the case of a contract for the sale of a specified article under its patent or other trade name, there is no implied condition as to its fitness for any particular purpose.

(2) Where goods are bought by description from a seller who deals in goods of that description (whether he is the manufcaturer or producer or not), there is an implied condition that the goods shall be of merchantable quality :

Provided that, if the buyer has examined the goods, there shall be no implied condition as regards defects which such examination ought to have revealed.

sent), then there is an implied condition of fitness. Apart from express communication, that knowledge may be imputed to the sellers by reason of the circumstances of the case. Where the goods may be utilised for a variety of purposes known to the supplier, then, unless he is notified of the particular purpose for which these goods are wanted, there is no condition of fitness that they shall be fit for that particular purpose. 59 C. 928=1932 C. 879. "Fitness" for particular purpose—Meaning—Sale of boiler —Boiler not conforming to Government regulations and therefore not fit for use—Breach of implied warranty of fitness. See 1939 Cal. 210.

Sec. 16 (2) : APPLICABILITY.—When there is an express condition as to the quality of the goods in the contract itself, such as that the goods shall be of "fair average quality," it is unnecessary to invoke S. 16 (2). Such an express condition gives the purchaser a higher right than he would possess under a contract when the term would be merely implied by law. I.L.R. 1937 M. 479=1937 M. 40=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 131.

"MERCHANTABLE" — MEANING OF.—"Merchantable" in S. 16 (2) means not merely marketable or saleable in the ordinary sense of the term, and goods to be merchantable under S. 16 (2) should be not only marketable or saleable ; in the statutory sense the significance of the word "Merchantable" is relative, the test being, whether the goods are merchantable or not according to the particular description in the contract of sale. In other words, a term that the goods shall be of merchantable quality is fulfilled, when they do not differ from the normal quality of the described goods, including under the term "quality" the state or condition as required by the contract. I.L.R. 1937 M. 479=1937 M 40=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 731.

Sec. 16 (2), proviso.—Section does not apply to a sale of specific goods which were before the parties at the time of the negotiations, because such a sale is not one of goods as being of a certain denomination, as to give rise to the warranty referred to in the section, that the goods were such as are "commercially known by that denomination." 7 O.L.J. 312=57 I.C. 481; 35 M.L.J. 180. Under S. 16 (2) and the proviso thereto, in the case of a sale by description, the implied condition extends to merchantable quality less patent defects. The defects contemplated by S. 16 (2) are those "apparent on reasonable examination" within the meaning of S. 17 of the Act. The implied warranty will be excluded only as regards any defects which a buyer of ordinary diligence and experience would have detected by due diligence in the use of all ordinary and usual means. If merchants possessed of ordinary skill, using due care and diligence, would not have thought of the existence of the particular defect which gives rise to the action, such a defect would be a latent or hidden defect as distinguished from a patent defect, and for such a latent defect, the seller is liable under the section. I.L.R. 1937 M. 479=1937 M. 40=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 131. Where a person purchases goods on his own independent judgment, he cannot make the seller responsible on the ground that the article has turned out to be unfit for the purpose for which it was required; but if he relied upon the judgment of the seller and informed him of the use to which the article is to be applied, the transaction carries with it an implied warranty that the thing shall be fit and proper for the purpose for which they were designed. 116 I.C. 588=1929 S. 161 (2). Where goods are sold by description there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be of merchantable quality. This is so even when the purchase is after inspection, but if the buyer has examined the goods there is no implied warranty as regards defects which such examination would have revealed. 35 M.L.J. 180=47 I.C. 555. See also 54 I.C. 315; 1913 M.W.N. 895. The most important exceptions to the rule of caveat emptor are the implied conditions of fitness for a particular purpose and merchantableness. See 43 M.L.J. 208. When there is no express warranty in the sale of goods, there is an implied warranty of merchantability. The question whether goods are "merchantable" in law is a question of mixed fact and law. 43 M. L.J. 208. A bale of a thousand pieces of piece-goods of which nine-tenths are damaged, however slightly, is radically unmerchantable and a seller cannot force such goods on an unwilling buyer. In such cases, there is no room for the application of the principle of de minimis. 43 M.L.J. 208=1923 M. 252.

Sec. 17.—Cf. S. 14, English Sale of Goods Act; also S. 112, Indian Contract Act.

The Select Committee said: "This clause relates to sale by sample. Although old text writers were inclined to the view that the term 'bulk shall correspond with sample' is a warranty collateral to the contract, Abbott, C. J., held, that the buyer was entitled to reject the commodity, if it did not correspond with a sample. [Parker v. Palmer, (1821) 4 B. & Ald. 387.] Benjamin after reviewing all the cases observes that this so-called warranty was even at Common Law really a condition. (Benjamin on Sale, p. 736.) The buyer is also entitled to have reasonable facilities for inspecting the bulk independently of any local or trade usage to that effect. [Larymer v. Smith, (1822) 1 B. & C. 1]; and if there is any latent defect in the sample, i.e., a defect not discernible by the ordinary examination of a prudent buyer which if present in the bulk would render the bulk unmerchantable, the sample is to be taken as if free from it. [Heilbut v. Hickson, (1872) 7 C.P. 438.] These rules have now been embodied in S 15 of the English Act. S. 112 of the Indian Act refers only to the right of the buyer to reject the goods if the bulk does not correspond with the sample. The use of the word 'warranty' in the section is also misleading. The section therefore has been drafted on the lines of S. 15 of the English Act." (Report of the Select Committee.) See also 21 P.R. 1879. Provided a specimen of the goods sold has been in existence on the basis of which an offer was made and the offer was accepted, the sale remains a sale by sample, notwithstanding the disappearance or destruction of the specimen. Though the specimen has turned into formula, the offer and acceptance must be regarded as having been made on the basis of the accepted specimen. 63 C. 736=1937 Cal. 140.

Sec 18.—Cf. S. 16, English Sale of Goods Act, also Ss. 79, 82 and 87, Indian Contract Act.

The Select Committee said: "This clause follows S. 16 of the English Act. It provides that property in unascertained goods does not pass till they are ascertained. Ss. 79, 80 and 87 of the Indian Act deal with the same point, but as they overlap one another, we have adopted the English section." (Report of the Select Committee.)

SCOPE OF SECTION.—Where the goods agreed to be sold are not ascertained at the time of the contract, it is necessary for the completion of contract that goods shall be ascertained. 3 S. L.R. 156=14 I.C. 1147, [and property in the goods is not transferred to buyer unless and until the goods are ascertained. See 35 I.C. 440 =10 S.L.R. 14; 68 I.C. 969=1923 O. 15; 103 I.C. 222.] See also 1941 Mad. 769=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 571. The intention of the parties, and the circumstances of the case, determine the time when, and the conditions subject to which, the property in the goods is to pass. 15 B.L.R. 276 (289). Question of appropriation is one of fact. 9 I.C. 255=21 M.L.J. 413. Law does not require any particular mode of appropriation. (Ibid.) The commonest form of appropriating goods to a contract for sale of unascertained goods is by delivering them to a carrier. 24 Bom.L.R. 1140=70 I.C. 138. According to the principle underlying Ss. 18 and 19 of the Sale of Goods Act the property in the goods does not pass to the purchaser until he exercises an option and selects the article. Consequently where it was left to the purchaser to choose one of the two tins of 'Rung' the sale would not be complete until he had exercised his choice and on his failure to do so he could not be held liable for the price. 1939 Mar.L.R. 103 (Civ.).

English Act; while cl. 19 (3) and cls. 20 to 24 follow S. 18. The four rules annexed to S. 18 of the English Act are stated in separate cls. 20 to 24. Cl. 19 is based on the principle of the English Law that the property may pass by the contract itself, if such be the intention of the parties (Chalmers' Sale of Goods, p. 58). On this point there appears to be conflict of opinion in Indian Courts. Dealing with a question of the passing of property Sir William Markby observed: 'I think this is not a question to be decided simply upon the construction of the Contract Act, but upon the intention of the parties upon which all questions of this kind ultimately depend.' 15 B.L.R. 276 (289). A contrary view was held by Maclean, C.J. in 32 C. 816 in which, without referring to Sir William Markby's judgment, the learned Chief Justice held that S. 78 of the Indian Act laid down a rule which the parties could not by their arrangement vary. In a recent case the Bombay High Court was of opinion that Maclean, C. J's view in the above case was unsound. 25 Bom. L.R. 778. This conflict is due to the rigid terms of S. 78 which fails to state that its provisions will be subject to the intention of the parties. S. 78 provides that when an offer and acceptance have taken place, the property in the thing does not pass until any one of the following conditions have been complied with:—(i) earnest or tender, payment or part payment of the price, or (ii) delivery or part delivery of the thing, or (iii) an agreement, expressed or implied, for the postponement of delivery or of payment, or of both. It is, however, clear that neither the payment of the price nor the delivery, either whole or in part, is necessary for the completion of a sale. S. 89 of the Indian Act shows that not only is there no necessity for such payment, but that the price need not even be fixed. As far back as 1833, it was stated in England that the sale of a specific chattel passes the property in it to the vendee without delivery. [Dixon v. Yates, 5 B. & Ad. 313 (346).] The last paragraph in S. 78 regarding the agreement about the postponement of the payment of price or delivery has been held to imply that it restores the old English common law rule. Cunningham and Shepherd are of opinion that it revives the necessity for an agreement to postpone payment or delivery in cases where there it neither payment, tender, earnest or delivery (p. 316, Ed. II). Pollock and Mulla are of opinion that the wording of the last paragraph does not show how readily an agreement to give credit is to be inferred (p. 449). S. 78, therefore, lays down a rule which is vague and indefinite. The passing or transfer of property constitutes the most important element in the law relating to contracts for the sale of goods. In mercantile contracts, the certainty of the rule is often of more importance than the substance of the rule. (Lockyer v. Offley, 1 T.R. 259). In our opinion it is desirable to follow the clear and definite rule recognized in English Law that unless a contrary intention appears by the contract, the contract itself is sufficient to pass the property in the goods sold. That rule is laid down in S. 17 of the English Act and is adopted in cl. 19 (1) and (2). The parties, no doubt, may make any bargain they like and the law will give effect to it. When the parties express their intention clearly, no difficulty arises. See 44 C. 98=36 I.C. 119=22 C.W.N. 1224. The contract may pass the property at once, or at a future time or contingently on the performance of some condition. But in many cases, the parties either form no intention on the point or fail to express it. To meet such cases, the Courts have worked out a series of definite rules for determining when the property is to be deemed to pass according to the imputed intention of the parties. These rules have been reproduced in S. 18 of the English Act (Chalmers on Sale of Goods, pp. 9 and 10) and they have been adopted in cls. 20 to 24.

Cl. 19 (3) states the general proposition that, unless a different intention appears, the property passes in accordance with rules mentioned in cls. 20 to 24. Cl. 20 makes it clear that in the case of an unconditional contract for the sale of specified goods, the payment of the price or the delivery of the goods is not necessary for passing the property. Cl. 21 following R. 3 in S. 18 (English Act) provides that the property does not pass until the goods are put in a deliverable state. The same principle is laid down in S. 80 of the Indian Act. Cl. 22 embodies R. 4 in S. 18 of the English Act and corresponds to S. 81 of the Indian Act. Cl. 23 (1) following R. 5 of the English section provides for a case of unascertained or future goods sold by description. This sub-clause corresponds to S. 83 of the Indian Act. S. 84 of the Indian Act contains a proposition which appears to be subordinate to the principle laid down in S. 83, and it is rather difficult to see why it was embodied in a separate section. Sub-cl. (2) of cl. 25 which relates to delivery to a carrier is based on R. 5 (2) of S. 18 of the English Act. The principle has been recognized in Indian Law (see Pollock and Mulla's Contract Act, pp. 472-473; 24 Bom.L.R. 1146). (See Report of the Select Committee).

Sec. 19.—SCOPE AND APPLICATION OF SEC-

20. Where there is an unconditional contract for the sale of specific goods in a deliverable state, the property in the goods passes to the buyer when the contract is made, and it is immaterial whether the time of payment of the price or the time of delivery of the goods, or both, is postponed.

Specific goods in a deliverable state.

21. Where there is a contract for the sale of specific goods and the seller is bound to do something to the goods for the purpose of putting them into a deliverable state, the property does not pass until such thing is done and the buyer has notice thereof.

Specific goods to be put into a deliverable state.

NOTES.

TION.—The intention of the parties determines whether property in the goods sold has passed to the buyer or not. Ascertainment of price may precede or follow the ascertainment of goods by weighing or measurement. Local trade usage may help to ascertain the intention and to interpret the ambiguous terms of an agreement. 44 C. 98=20 C.W.N. 1224. See also 35 I.C. 449=10 S.L.R. 44; 68 I.C. 969=1923 O. 15; 22 S.L.R. 32. The fact that the goods are not to be re-measured by the buyer would not be sufficient by itself to prevent the property in the goods passing to the buyer. 95 I.C. 453=1926 S. 246. See also 33 C. 547. Although the incidence of risk is a good test in determining in which of the two parties the property in the goods vests, it is not a conclusive test and the question always is as to intention of the parties, as otherwise circumstances may show that the property in the goods was retained by one party in spite of the fact that they were shipped or booked and thereafter remained at the risk of the other party. Where therefore the dominion over the goods, i.e., the right to dispose of them is retained by the sellers and they do not intend that the goods should be delivered to the purchasers till they pay for the same, the property in goods does not pass to the purchasers and a suit by the sellers for recovery of the price of the goods does not lie. 134 I.C. 1110=1931 L. 260. In a mixed contract for storage of paddy and for its subsequent sale, the paddy was in the first instance handed over by seller to the purchaser for storage, and, although the purchaser was entitled to do as he liked with the paddy and convert it into rice, yet under the terms of agreement, he was looked upon nominally as being the bailee only of the paddy until such time as the seller decided that time was favourable for him to sell and exercised that option thereby compelling purchaser to purchase it at the daily buying rate of the purchaser prevailing on the date of exercise of option. Held, that the property in the paddy did not pass to the purchaser until the seller exercised his option. Held, further, that if there be no daily buying rate of the purchaser on the date fixed for exercise of option, provided the option is exercised by the seller, the purchaser must purchase at a reasonable rate, which must be fixed in accordance with the market price on that date. 165 I.C. 308=1936 R. 419.

Sec. 20.—In case of sale of shares, sale is complete as soon as the seller hands over the certificates and the buyer accepts them. 50 B. 360=53 I.A. 92=51 M.L.J. 1=1926 P.C. 38 (P.C.). Where the defendant instructed plaintiff to send him rice on board a ship and defendant sent it without any further conditions, the property in the rice passed to the purchaser when the rice is shipped. 31 I.C. 334=18 M.L.T. 457. Where there is a contract non-severable for the sale of specific goods and of an agreement to sell an interest in land, the transfer of the property in the goods is prima facie conditional on the conveyance of the interest in land. [Lanyon v. Toogoowd, (1844) 13 M. & W. 27, even although separate prices may have been fixed for the goods and for the interest in land: Neal v. Viney, (1808) 1 Camp. 471]. As to contracts for sale of property, partly movable and partly immovable, see 12 I.C. 805=4 Bur.L.T. 127. As to contract for sale of 'ready goods', see 47 C. 458.

Secs. 20 and 22.—The mere fact that goods are bought by lot after inspection will not make S. 20 applicable so as to pass property in the goods to the buyer the very moment the sale is effected. Where the seller has to deliver the goods to the buyer at a place different from that where the contract of sale is effected and to tranship the goods by rail to the place of delivery, and the buyer has to pay only for the actual weight of goods delivered to him at the place of delivery, property in the goods cannot pass to the buyer until the goods, if so required by the buyer, are weighed at the place of delivery. In such a case S. 22 applies. This is particularly so in the case of goods such as scrap iron, the weight of which decreases to certain extent in transit. 173 I.C. 535=A.I.R. 1938 Sind. 18

Secs. 21 and 23.—A contract to sell some liquor out of a big cask containing much larger quantity, the required quantity not being separated or bottled, cannot be held to be a contract of sale of specific goods within the meaning of S. 21 of the Sale of Goods Act. The expression "Specific goods" necessarily means goods capable of being ascertained with certainty—certum est quod certum reddi potest. A sale of some specified quantity of liquor out of a store house or cask would not be capable of ascertainment until it was removed or separated. "Specific goods" would, according to their natural interpretation, mean goods whose delivery can be demanded in specie. A contract of sale of a small quantity of liquor stored in bulk would more appropria-

22. Where there is a contract for the sale of specific goods in a deliverable state, but the seller is bound to weigh, measure, test, or do some other act or thing with reference to the goods for the purpose of ascertaining the price, the property does not pass until such act or thing is done and the buyer has notice thereof.

Specific goods in a deliverable state, when the seller has to do anything thereto in order to ascertain price.

23. (1) Where there is a contract for the sale of unascertained or future goods by description and goods of that description and in a deliverable state are unconditionally appropriated to the contract, either by the seller with the assent of the buyer or by the buyer with the assent of the seller, the property in the goods thereupon passes to the buyer. Such assent may be express or implied, and may be given either before or after the appropriation is made.

Sale of unascertained goods and appropriation.

(2) Where, in pursuance of the contract, the seller delivers the goods to the buyer or to a carrier or other bailee (whether named by the buyer or not) for the purpose of transmission to the buyer, and does not reserve the right of disposal, he is deemed to have unconditionally appropriated the goods to the contract.

Delivery to carrier.

tely be regarded as a contract for sale of unascertained goods and would fall under S. 23 of the Sale of Goods Act. The ownership will not pass till the quantity ordered by the purchaser is ascertained and appropriated. The bottling of the quantity of liquor ordered would be an act of ascertainment and appropriation. Where the servant of a licensed vendor of liquor goes about canvassing order for liquors and gets orders from customers and thereafter gets the quantities so canvassed measured off at the shop of the vendor and carries the quantities to the respective houses of the customers it cannot be held that the sale is completed at the houses of buyers upon delivery of liquor and not before. Under S. 23 (2), the servant of the seller can very well be treated as a bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer, and delivery to such servant at the place of the licensed vendor would be effective delivery to the buyer himself. It is immaterial whether the price of the liquor is paid at the shop of the vendor or at the house of the buyer, for the completion of the sale does not depend upon payment of the price of the goods sold. The sale must be taken to be completed within the premises of the licensed vendor and the latter cannot therefore be convicted under S. 45 ( ) of the Bombay Abkari Act for contravention of a clause in his licence prohibiting sale of liquor at any place except the licensed premises. 194 I.C. 302=43 Bom.L.R. 95=A.I.R. 1941 Bom. 106.

Sec. 22.—See 24 I.C. 833; 35 I.C. 449; 1923 O. 15; 32 I.C. 720; 68 I. C. 969. Where a contract for sale of specific goods, which were in a deliverable state, did not contain any express intention of parties as to when the property was to pass to the buyer, but the price of goods was expressed at certain rate and the quantity sold was mentioned in the notes exchanged between the parties, and it required only a simple calculation to determine the total price to be paid. Held, that the parties to the contract intended that the buyer should become the owner of the property on payment of the total price, and that the passing of the property did not depend upon the measurment to be done by the seller. The measurement, if any, was to be made by the buyer in order to satisfy himself that he had got the quantity he had bargained for, and that the price paid by him was really due. Such measurement did not affect the transfer of the property in the goods. 69 M.L.J. 467=62 I.A. 242=39 C.W.N. 1217=1935 P.C. 182 (P.C.)

Sec. 23.—Cf. S. 18, cl. (5), English Sale of Goods Act; also S. 83, Contract Act. In case of the sale of unascertained goods, the ownership does not pass till the goods are ascertained and appropriated by the purchaser. Goods are not ascertained until the appropriation by one party has been assented to by the other. The performance of a contract of sale is not complete until there is a complete sale; for, the contract being for the sale of goods, it cannot be performed in absence of a sale. 4 S.L.R. 20=7 I.C. 593. See also 1925 L. 581; 24 Bom.L.R. 991=1923 B 92. Where goods agreed to be sold are not ascertained at the time of making the agreement but goods answering the description in the agreement are subsequently appropriated by one party for the purposes of the agreement and that appropriation is assented to by the other, the sale is complete, and the property in the goods passes to the buyer. 24 Bom.L.R. 991=1923 B. 92. In order that the property may pass to the buyer, it is necessary that the goods appropriated to the contract by the seller must answer the description in the agreement. 1923 B. 92. Mere appropriation by the seller does not pass the property in the goods to the buyer. The effect of appropriation is that the seller loses the possibility of withdrawing the goods from the contract and he would break his contract with the buyer if he offered any other goods to him. The appropriation must be assented to by the buyer to pass the property. 1923 B 92. See also 88 I C. 910=29 C.W.N. 808. The question of appropriation is one of fact; no particular mode of appropriation is prescribed by law. Once there has been an appropriation, the consignor, if still in possession, holds as trustee for the consignee. 9 I.C. 255=21 M.L.

Goods sent on approval or "on sale or return."

24. When goods are delivered to the buyer on approval or "on sale or return" or other similar terms, the property therein passes to the buyer—

(a) when he signifies his approval or acceptance to the seller or does any other act adopting the transaction ;

(b) if he does not signify his approval or acceptance to the seller but retains the goods without giving notice of rejection, then, if a time has been fixed for the return of the goods, on the expiration of such time, and, if no time has been fixed, on the expiration of a reasonable time.

Reservation of right of disposal.

25. (1) Where there is a contract for sale of specific goods or where goods are subsequently appropriated to the contract, the seller may, by the terms of the contract or appropriation, reserve the right of disposal of the goods until certain conditions are fulfilled. In such case, notwithstanding the delivery of the goods

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—An offer of performance is not valid, if the buyer being entitled, under the contract, to some time for inspection, is not given any such opportunity, or, being entitled to goods free from demurrage, is offered goods under demurrage. 26 C. 142=3 C.W. N. 116; 4 C.W.N. 313. So also, where the contract is for delivery by plaintiff of certain goods to arrive by a particular ship, and the same not bringing him the subject-matter of the contract the plaintiff procures some other goods of the same or similar quality and tenders them, the defendant will not be bound to accept. 2 B.L.R. (O.C.) 154. Where defendants had given orders that the goods to be supplied to them should be ordered out from England by the plaintiff, an offer by the latter of goods not got from England, would not be fulfilment of the contract. 12 B. 50. When the thing sold is in the hands of the bailee of seller, the bailee must, in order to effect a delivery, agree to hold it for the buyer. There must be a triplicate agreement. 8 B. 501. If the bailee agrees to hold the goods on behalf of the buyer, the delivery is complete and the property in the goods sold passes to the buyer. So, where a person accepts bills of exchange, on the security of a railway receipt, on which the Railway Company has promised to act, the possession of the goods has passed to that person, and the authority given to him to receive the goods cannot be revoked. 8 B.L.R. 581. See also 17 W.R. 533; 5 C. 669. When a vendor is unable to complete the sale by delivery of possession the purchaser may rescind the contract of sale. 3 N.W.P. 336. The obligation of a common carrier to properly deliver goods shipped with him under a bill of lading, is subject expressly to the condition inserted in the bill. 25 C. 654. Where a delivery order is sold to a person, the purchaser contracts not merely for the delivery order, but also for the goods. So, a refusal by him to take the delivery order, unless the assent of the firm which should deliver the goods is obtained, does not entitle the seller to rescind the contract. 21 C. 173.

Sec. 24.—Cf. S. 18, cl. (4) of the English Sale of Goods Act; and Illustration (b) of S. 78 of the Indian Contract Act.

APPLICABILITY OF SECTION—SALE OR RETURN—JANGAD TRANSACTION.—A jangad transaction is a "sale or return" and involves a representation that the purchaser will (a) signify his approval or acceptance of the goods and pay for it ; and (b) if not, return the same within the period fixed, or where no time is fixed on the expiration of a reasonable period. But until one or the other condition is fulfilled, no property passes to the buyer. In such a transaction, the owner of the goods gives credit to the delivery, though it is subject to certain conditions. 58 B. 646=152 I.C. 706=36 Bom.L.R. 731=1934 B. 360.

Secs. 24 and 27.—There is no reason to assume that goods entrusted jangad are goods to be sold on approval, rather than goods to be shown for approval. By delivery of goods to a broker even on jangad terms, no property can pass to him under S. 24 of the Sale of Goods Act. Goods or jewellery may be delivered by the owner to the buyer, with the intention that he may inspect the same and ultimately purcase them. The goods in such cases are stated to be delivered for approval, i.e., jangad. S. 24 covers such a situation. Where goods are handed over to a mercantile agent jangad to be shown for approval to his customers, if the mercantile agent effects a sale, the title of the purchaser is protected under S. 27, provided there is no want of good faith. On a comparison of the words of Ss. 24 and 27 of the Act, it is clear that a mercantile agent who receives goods on jangad acquires no property by reason of S. 24, and if want of good faith is established, the sale can be avoided under S. 27. But if the case is covered by S. 24, no question of want of good faith arises and property must pass. Where the owner delivers goods to an agent who is not a mercantile agent as defined by the Sale of Goods Act, on terms arranged between the owner and the agent, jangad, for approval by a prospective customer or to be shown for approval, neither S. 24 nor S. 25 applies to the case. In that case too no property can pass from the owner to the agent under S. 24, nor is a sale by the agent protected by S. 27. I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 454=41 Bom.L.R. 609=1939 Bom. 435.

Sec. 25.—Cf. S. 19, English Sale of Goods Act. The principle of this section has been laid down in 24 Bom.L.R. 1140=70 I.C. 138=1923 to a buyer, or to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer, the property in the goods does not pass to the buyer until the conditions imposed by the seller are fulfilled.

(2) Where goods are shipped and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the order of the seller or his agent, the seller is prima facie deemed to reserve the right of disposal.

(3) Where the seller of goods draws on the buyer for the price and transmits the bill of exchange and bill of lading to the buyer together, to secure acceptance or payment of the bill of exchange the buyer is bound to return the bill of lading if he does not honour the bill of exchange and if he wrongfully retains the bill of lading, the property in the goods does not pass to him.

Risk prima facie passes with property.

26. Unless otherwise agreed the goods remain at the seller's risk until the property therein is transferred to the buyer but when the property therein is transferred to the buyer, the goods are at the buyer's risk, whether delivery has been made or not :

Provided that, where delivery has been delayed through the fault of either buyer or seller, the goods are at the risk of the party in fault as regards any loss which might not have occurred but for such fault :

Provided also that nothing in this section shall affect the duties or liabilities of either seller or buyer as a bailee of the goods of the other party.

Transfer of title.

Sale by person not the owner.

27. Subject to the provisions of this Act and of any other law for the time being in force, where goods are sold by a person who is not the owner thereof and who does not sell them under the authority or with the consent of the owner, the buyer acquires no better title to the goods than the seller had, unless the owner of the goods is by his conduct precluded from denying the seller's authority to sell :

NOTES.

B. 125. A provision in a contract of sale for postponement of delivery until payment of the entire price will not per se stay the passing of the property in the goods sold. The fact that the seller is also given a right to re-sell after notice on default of payment. does not reserve to the seller the right to sell the goods pending the fulfilment of a condition precedent. 39 P. L.R. 778=1938 Lah. 30.

Sec. 25 (2) and (3).—The same or a similar principle applies where the seller takes in his own name or in that of his agent, a mate's receipt, boat master's receipt, or other document giving control of the goods. 22 I.C. 311=41 C. 670=18 C.W.N. 457 (P.C.). Where the seller sends the goods to the buyer by rail taking out the railway receipt in his own name, and sends the railway receipt to his banker instructing him as his agent not to part with the railway until payment by the buyer. S. 25 (2) of the Sale of Goods Act applies and there is a prima facie presumption that the seller intends to reserve to himself the right of disposal of the goods and that the property in the goods does not pass to the buyer until the condition as to actual payment is fulfilled. The fact that the buyer accepts a bill of exchange or hundi presented by the banker, drawn on the seller, has not effect of the transferring the property in the goods to the buyer, especially when the goods after arrival have got to be weighed and the buyer has to be satisfied that they are in accordance with the contract and that the price charged is correct according to the actual weight of the goods which the buyer gets. 173 I.C. 535=1938 Sind 18.

S. 27 which deals with the transfer of title incorporates the well-known rule that a person who is not the owner of goods and who does not sell them under the authority or with the consent of the owner cannot give to the buyer a better title than the seller himself has. Even in the case of a mercantile agent, it must be shown that he was in possession of the goods with the consent of the owner ; if that is not shown, the words of the proviso to S. 27 will not apply even apart from the question of good faith and notice. I. L.R. (1939) Bom. 454=41 Bom.L.R. 609=1939 Bom. 435. The relation of a dealer and a broker is that of a principal and agent and not of a seller and buyer. The extent of the authority of the agent is to be found in the document under which the goods are delivered to him. In order that the buyer may be absolved of his liability for having purchased goods from person not owner thereof and in order that the plea of purchase in good faith may be available to him, he must bring his case within the proviso to S. 27. 164 I.C. 1100=1936 R. 383. The principle of law on which S. 108 of the Contract Act is based is that where one of two innocent parties must suffer from the fraud of the third, the loss should be borne by him who has enabled the third party to commit the fraud if he has neglected some duty owing to the other or has done something which has in fact misled the other. 27 S. L.R. 249=1933 S. 401. The possession contemplated by the proviso 1 does not extend to every case of detention of chattels with the owner's consent. It particularly covers cases of persons allowed by owners to have possession under such circumstances, as may naturally induce others to regard the former as real owners and constituting some degree of negligence or defect of precaution imputable to the true owners. 11 B. 704 ; 81 P.L.R. 1902 ; U.B.R. POSSESSION UNDER HIRE PURCHASE AGREEMENT. —To draw the operation of the proviso, the possession must be unqualified, and not be restricted otherwise than by the owner giving instructions to the person who has it. The section does not, therefore, apply to a person in possession under a hire-purchase agreement. The possession intended must be similar to that of a factor or agent. 20 W.R. 467=12 Beng.L.R. 42 ; 27 M. 424 (426)=14 M.L.J. 69 ; 56 C. 367 ; 3 Lah.L.J. 249 ; 46 C. 342=22 C.W.N. 1042. "GOOD FAITH."—Nothing is said to be done in "good faith" which is done without due care and caution; that is, the care and caution expected of a man of ordinary prudence. 12 I.C. 809. Mere good faith of purchaser or pledgee is not enough to confer a good title on him; he must also show that by some act or omission, the real owner has forfeited his right to get back his possession. 1 Bur.L.J. 164=1923 R. 98; see also 59 I.C. 965=(1920) 3 U.B.R. 217. STOLEN PROPERTY.—Criminal Court cannot return stolen property to an innocent purchaser as the thief could confer no title, the purchaser has no right against the real owner. The loss in case of theft should fall on the purchaser. The thief cannot be said to be in possession "with the consent of the owner." [L.B.R. CHAPTER IV.

PERFORMANCE OF THE CONTRACT.

Duties of seller and buyer.

31. It is the duty of the seller to deliver the goods and of the buyer to accept and pay for them, in accordance with the terms of the contract of sale.

Payment and delivery are concurrent conditions.

32. Unless otherwise agreed, delivery of the goods and payment of the price are concurrent conditions, that is to say, the seller shall be ready and willing to give possession of the goods to the buyer in exchange for the price, and the buyer shall be ready and willing to pay the price in exchange for possession of the goods.

Delivery.

33. Delivery of goods sold may be made by doing anything which the parties agree shall be treated as delivery or which has the effect of putting the goods in the possession of the buyer or of any person authorized to hold them on his behalf.

34. A delivery of part of goods, in progress of the delivery of the whole, has

Sec. 2.—Cf. S. 28, English Sale of Goods Act, also S. 51 of the Indian Contract Act.

The Select Commitee said: "The general rule is that the obligation of the seller to deliver and that of the buyer to pay are implied concurrent conditions in the nature of mutual conditions precedent, and that neither can enforce the contract against the other without showing performance or offering to perform or averring readiness and willingness to perform his own promise. (Benjamin on Sales; pp. 682-683.) The words 'unless, otherwise agreed' save sales on credit or such special contracts as c.i.f. contracts. The rule has been embodied in S. 28 of the English Act and has been adopted in this clause. The principle of this rule is implied in S. 51 of the Indian Contract Act." Inability of vendor to deliver possession will justify rescission of contract by buyer. 15 C. 1. Repudiation of contract by buyer on one ground—Subsequent justification of refusal on another ground after expiry of time for delivery—Not permissible: 56 M. 304=141 I.C. 632=1933 M. 176=64 M.L.J. 119; 11 R. 201=146 I.C. 440=1933 R. 79.

Sec. 33.—Cf. S. 90, Indian Contract Act.

The Select Committee said: "This clause provides for the manner in which delivery of goods can be made and corresponds to S. 90 of the Indian Contract Act. The words 'which the parties agree shall be treated as delivery', have been added to make it clear that delivery may also be made by means of an act or thing which the parties agree shall be treated as a delivery." [Halsbury's Laws of England, Vol. 25, p. 206.] Constructive delivery must have the effect of putting the goods in the possession of the person entitled: 22 I.C. 952=7 Bur.L.T. 93; 8 B. 501; 38 C. 127. The liability of the seller ceases with the transmission of the delivery order, on receipt of which the buyer should, under the terms of the contract for sale, clear the goods, and from that date the seller can claim interest and godown rent. The seller's holding of the goods for the buyer is as effective as physical delivery to the buyer. 41 B. 518=37 I.C. 271 =18 Bom.L.R. 532. Where the wood of certain trees which had fallen down was sold, the mere fact that the buyer had cut up the fallen trees does not amount to taking possession of them, so long as the wood still remained in the grove of the seller. Possession would pass to the buyer when he puts that wood into carts and takes it away. Where he is prevented from doing this, the buyer does not get possession and there is no delivery of goods within the meaning of S. 33. 1936 A.L.J. 1270=1936 A.W.R. 1010=1936 A. 880.

Secs. 33 and 36.—A buyer of goods obtained from his seller a delivery order on a third person. But he was not in fact able to obtain delivery from that third person. Meanwhile the seller unaware of such non-delivery paid the price to the third person and sued to recover it from the buyer on the ground that he was made to pay the third person by the failure of the buyer to inform him as to non-delivery of goods. It was held that the seller could not recover from the buyer the price for the goods which though were purchased, were not in fact delivered. It was further held that a buyer who had obtained a delivery order was not in law bound to inform the seller of the goods that he had failed to obtain delivery. 1940 A.L.J. 395=1940 All. 405.

Sec. 34.—The Select Committee said: "This clause repeats the provisions of S. 92 of the Indian Act. It affirms the English common law rule that the delivery of the part may be a delivery of the whole, if it is so intended and agreed, but not otherwise. (Pollock and Mulla's Buyer to apply for delivery.

35. Apart from any express contract, the seller of goods is not bound to deliver them until the buyer applies for delivery.

Rules as to delivery.

36. (1) Whether it is for the buyer to take possession of the goods or for the seller to send them to the buyer is a question depending in each case on the contract, express, or implied, between the parties. Apart from any such contract, goods sold are to be delivered at the place at which they are at the time of the sale, and goods agreed to be sold are to be delivered at the place at which they are at the time of the agreement to sell, or, if not then in existence, at the place at which they are manufactured or produced.

(2) Where under the contract of sale the seller is bound to send the goods to the buyer, but no time for sending them is fixed, the seller is bound to send them within a reasonable time.

(3) Where the goods at the time of sale are in the possession of a third person, there is no delivery by seller to buyer unless and until such third person acknowledges to the buyer that he holds the goods on his behalf :

Sec. 35.—Cf. S. 93 of the Indian Contract Act.

PREVIOUS AND PRESENT STATE OF LAW.—The Select Committee said : "In this clause the provisions of S. 93 of the Indian Act are repeated. It is true that there is no specific provision in the English Act corresponding to it. But the principle seems to have been well recognized in England also. There was some difference of opinion amongst us on the question as to whether the expression 'apart from any contract or in the absence of a contract to the contrary' should be substituted for the expression 'apart from any express contract,' and Cls. 5, 36 (1) and 62 of the Bill were referred to. We have, however, retained the expression 'apart from any express contract' as the rule enunciated in Cl. 35 has been in existence since 1872 and has been adopted in actual practice".—(Report of the Select Committee.) It is for the purchaser to apply for delivery on tendering the price, in the absence of a contract to the contrary. 7 L. 442 = 94 I.C. 304 = 1926 L. 318. See also 15 B. 1 : 1928 L. 20; 8 L. 501 (mutual contract). Vendor of goods is not liable to damages, for failure to deliver goods contracted for, unless purchaser has made an application for delivery. 24 W. R. 178 ; 1928 L. 20. Even where the contract provides that as soon as the railway receipt and the invoice arrive, the buyers would receive the same on payment of price, the buyers must apply for delivery, although the seller gives notice of arrival. 9 L. 148 = 111 I.C 498 = 1928 L. 20 ; 2 N.W.P. 60 ; 6 C. 681; 1 M.H.C.R. 162 ; 3 B.L.R. 103 (O.C.J.). Sec. 36.—Cf. S. 29, English Sale of Goods Act ; also S. 94 of the Indian Contract Act. The Select Committee said : "This clause is a combination of S. 29 of the English Act and S. 94 of the Indian Act. We have omitted the second part of S. 29 (1) of the English Act and substituted in its place the provisions of S. 94 of the Indian Act, adding the words 'manufactured or' before the word 'produced' in sub-Cl. (2) corresponding with S. 94 of the Indian Act. Sub-Cl. (1) corresponds to sub-S. (1) of S. 29. The latter part of S. 29 (1) of the English Act provides that apart from any contract, express or implied, the place of delivery is the seller's place of business if he has one, and if not, his residence. Before this provision was made by the English Act, there was no settled rule in England. In the opinion of Chalmers a more definite prima facie rule ought to have been included in the English Act. (Chalmer's Sale of Goods, p. 86.) The rule embodied in S. 94 has been found to have caused no difficulty in India and we propose to retain it."—(Report of the Select Committee.) Section applies only when the contract is silent as to place of delivery. 24 C. 8 ; 5 Bom.H.C.R. 126. Vendors who had agreed to supply a certain number of tins of matches at a particular rate refused to give delivery to vendee under the contract, unless in addition to the contract price, the vendee paid the sum equal to the proposed excise duty imposed on such goods by the Tariff Act : which was published in the Gazette and which had come into force subsequently. Held, that the vendors were not entitled to refuse delivery, as no excise duty had been imposed when they refused to give delivery and that S. 20, Contract Act, had no application to the case. 1933 R. 79.

Sec. 36 (2) : "REASONABLE TIME" is a question of fact. See S. 63, infra. Where the choice of the place for delivery had been given originally to the buyer, a mention by him of a reasonable place would be sufficient. 24 C. 8 = 23 I.A. 119

Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the operation of the issue or transfer of any document of title to goods.

(4) Demand or tender of delivery may be treated as ineffectual unless made at a reasonable hour. What is a reasonable hour is a question of fact.

(5) Unless otherwise agreed, the expenses of and incidental to putting the goods into a deliverable state shall be borne by the seller.

Delivery of wrong quantity.

37. (1) Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods less than he contracted to sell, the buyer may reject them; but if the buyer accepts the goods so delivered he shall pay for them at the contract rate.

(2) Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods larger than he contracted to sell, the buyer may accept the goods included in the contract and reject the rest or he may reject the whole. If the buyer accepts the whole of the goods so delivered, he shall pay for them at the contract rate.

(3) Where the seller delivers to the buyer the goods he contracted to sell mixed with goods of a different description not included in the contract, the buyer may accept the goods which are in accordance with the contract and reject the rest, or may reject the whole.

(4) The provisions of this section are subject to any usage of trade, special agreement or course of dealing between the parties.

Instalment deliveries.

38. (1) Unless otherwise agreed, the buyer of goods is not bound to accept delivery thereof by instalments.

(2) Where there is a contract for the sale of goods to be delivered by stated instalments which are to be separately paid for, and the seller makes no delivery or defective delivery in respect of one or more instalments, or the buyer neglects or refuses to take delivery of or pay for one or more instalments, it is a question in each case depending on the terms of the contract and the circumstances of the case, whether the breach of contract is a repudiation of the whole contract, or whether it is a severable breach giving rise to a claim for compensation, but not to a right to treat the whole contract as repudiated.

NOTES.

(P.C.). A contract of sale differs from a contract to pay an existing debt in specific articles. In the latter case, the obligor is not bound to carry the articles about him, but must first go to the obligee and ascertain where he will receive them and deliver the same there; and where the creditor fails to fix a place, the debtor himself may name a reasonable place, giving notice to the creditor, and a tender of the articles at that place will be good. 5 B.H.C.R. 127 (A.C.).

Sec. 37.—Cf. S. 30 of the English Sale of Goods Act; also S. 119 of the Indian Contract Act. The Select Committee said: "S. 119 of the Indian Act provides for one of the contingencies with regard to the quantity of the goods. S. 30 of the English Act is comprehensive and deals with all possible contingencies which generally occur. We have, therefore, adopted the provisions of the English section."—(Report of the Select Committee.) Where the contract is divisible the rule in sub-S. (1) does not apply. See 5 L. Sec. 37 (3).—Where the buyer refused to take delivery of goods on the ground that, contrary to the custom of trade, delivery was not made as and when the bales were ready at the Mills, he is not entitled after the time for delivery has expired, to justify his refusal on another ground, viz., that some of the goods tendered were not of the kind or quality contracted for. In a contract by instalments or a contract which according to its terms is treated as an instalment contract, the buyer can reject the quantity under any instalment. But under an individual contract, the buyer, loses his right to reject if he accepts part. 59 C. 928=1932 C. 879.

WRONGFUL REFUSAL to accept goods sold is a breach of contract. 19 I.C. 93=80 P.R. 1913; 36 C. 736. In deciding whether there has been a repudiation of the contract regard must be had to the ratio quantitatively which the breach bears to the contract and the degree of probability or improbability that the breach will be repeated. When there is a contract for the sale of goods to be delivered in two equal instalments and the buyer wrongly refuses to take delivery of the first instalment the breach of contract is

SCOPE OF SECTION and the corresponding English Law. See 24 Bom.L.R. 1140=70 I.C. 138=1923 B. 125.

Sec. 39 (2): SELLER'S DUTY.—Delivery of goods to carrier or wharfinger, with due care and diligence by the seller is sufficient to charge the purchaser, 73 I.C. 537=1924 M. 517; 24 I.C. 423=1914 M.W.N. 803; 1 M.H.C.R. 200; 40 P.L.R. 789=1937 Lah. 785. Section does not impose a legal restriction on the freedom of buyer and seller to make their own arrangements as to the terms on which the goods are to be delivered to a carrier for transit from seller to buyer. It applies only to cases where there is no specific arrangement or course of dealing between the parties that posits the absence of any such condition of liability against the carrier being secured. Hence where parties to a transaction agree between themselves that the seller should send the goods to the buyer at the owner's risk, the effect of the agreement notwithstanding S. 91, Contract Act, that the delivery to the carrier holds good as a delivery to the buyer. 117 I.C. 136=1929 M. 685=57 M.L.J. 110. Where goods are consigned to a Railway Company property passes to the consignee, and he alone can thereafter sue the Railway Company for loss arising out of the contract of freight. 73 I.C. 537=1924 M. 517. As S. 91, Contract Act, does not provide for cases where the seller delivers the goods to a carrier and reserves the right of disposal, Courts of British India resort to the rules of English common law so far as they are not inconsitent with the text of the Contract Act. One of those rules is that where in pursuance of the contract, the seller delivers the goods to a carrier for the purpose of transmission to the buyer, but retains a jus disponendi until certain conditions are fulfilled, the property in the goods does not pass to the buyer until the conditions imposed by him are not fulfilled. This rule applies not only to delivery of goods to be carried by sea, but to delivery to carriers by land and to canal boat companies. 24 Bom.L.R. 1140=70 I.C. 138=1923 B. 125. The legal effect of the transaction of a purchase of specified goods by a commission agent has not the effect of turning his contract as between principal and agent wholly or partly into one as between vendor and purchaser. The agency contract is in some respects analogous to that of a contract of purchase and sale and not identical with it, analogous in the sense that it will attract to the commission agent certain reliefs ordinarily open to a vendor, for example, the rights of stoppage in transitu. On the other hand, property in goods specified would pass to the principal immediately on purchase by the agent. The passing of the property in the goods would not depend on the manner of delivery. Hence if the commission agent is liable for the loss of the goods it must be on proof of negligence or proof of breach of duty as agent [e.g., where the purchaser had not indicated any particular railway to which the goods sold were to be handed over, so as to make the company liable to him, the goods should be held to have been at the vendor's risk until they reached the purchaser's hands] 76 P.R. 1876. Where a buyer and seller reside in different places, the cause of action for a suit by the seller for balance of accounts due from the buyer arises where the goods are consigned by the Railway. 24 I.C. 423=1914 M.W.N. 803. See also 89 I.C. 751=1925 L. 555; 82 I.C. 536=1925 M. 46=47 M.L.J. 312. Where a railway receipt for transmission of the goods through the railway was taken in the name of the consignor and subsequently endorsed by him and delivered to the consignee, the railway becomes responsible to the consignee for delivery of goods and where loss or damage occurs to the goods during transit, the consignee cannot proceed against the consignor for the damages. 108 I.C. 758.

Sec. 40.—Cf. S. 33 of the English Sale of Goods Act. The Select Committee said: "This clause is based on S. 33 of the English Act. It was pointed out in the course of the discussion that this clause might be deleted, as it might be them during their sea transit, and if the seller fails so to do, the goods shall be deemed to be at his risk during such sea transit.

Risk where goods are delivered at distant place.

40. Where the seller of goods agrees to deliver them at his own risk at a place other than that where they are when sold, the buyer shall, nevertheless, unless otherwise agreed, take any risk of deterioration in the goods necessarily incident to the course of transit.

Buyer's right of examining the goods.

41. (1) Where goods are delivered to the buyer which he has not previously examined, he is not deemed to have accepted them unless and until he has had a reasonable opportunity of examining them for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed, when the seller tenders delivery of goods to the buyer, he is bound, on request, to afford the buyer a reasonable opportunity of examining the goods for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract.

Acceptance.

42. The buyer is deemed to have accepted the goods when he intimates to the seller that he has accepted them, or when the goods have been delivered to him and he does any act in relation to them which is inconsistent with the ownership of the seller, or when, after the lapse of a reasonable time, he retains the goods without intimating to the seller that he has rejected them.

NOTES.

difficult to work it side by side with the other clauses in the Bill which enjoin a duty on the seller to comply with the conditions as to merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose, and so on. And it was also urged that the principle that the buyer should bear the risk of deterioration incidental to the transit is inconsistent with the fundamental basis of the contract postulated by the section that the seller should undertake the transit, that the delivery should be after the transit and that the seller should take the risk in the meantime. We have, however, decided to retain the section, as it is in accordance with the principles recognized by the common law of England and as the section of the English Act which is based upon the common law has been in force for a long time."—Report of the Select Committee.)

Sec. 41.—Cf. S. 34, English Sale of Goods Act ; also S. 38 (2), Indian Contract Act. The Select Committee said : "This clause is based on S. 34 of the English Act. The rules stated in both the clauses are common law rules. (Benjamin on Sale, pp. 842 and 856). Sub-cl. (1) enacts the well-established proposition that no acceptance can properly be said to have taken place until the buyer has had an opportunity of rejection. The rule stated in sub-clause (2) is a corollary to the above rule and was applied in Isherwood v. Whitmore, 11 M. & W. 347. In that case, the defendants, having received notice that the goods were at a certain wharf ready for delivery on payment of the price, went there, but on application to inspect the goods were shown two closed casks said to contain them. It was held that no sufficient opportunity was given to the buyer to examine the goods and the plaintiff, therefore, had not made a valid offer of delivery. Although there is no section in Chapter VII of the Indian Act laying down the rule, the principle underlying it has been embodied in S. 38 (2) of that Act. The rule has also been applied by Latham, J., in a Bombay case in 6 B. 692. The words "unless otherwise agreed" save special contract.—(Report of the Select Committee.) In contract of sale, physical possession of goods is unnecessary for seller to be held ready and willing to deliver. 86 I.C. 299=1925 M. 971=49 M.L.J. 300 ; 49 M.L.J. 530=1925 M. 1168 ; 1925 M. 1290=48 M.L.J. 522. The normal place of inspection is the place of delivery. If A agrees to deliver goods to B at Calcutta, the place of inspection is Calcutta, even though A knows B intends to ship them to New York, unless Calcutta is not suitable for inspection, having regard to the nature of the goods and the way in which they are packed. 59 C. 928=1932 C. 879.

Sec. 42.—Cf. S. 35, English Sale of Goods Act ; also Ss. 83 and 87, Indian Contract Act. See also illustrations to Ss. 83 and 87, Contract Act. The buyer's right of rejection may be lost by (i) acts of ownership such as sub-sale, shipment sending forward, etc.; (ii) delay in giving notice of rejection ; and (iii) part retention of the goods. 59 C. 928=1932 C. 879. Where the buyer, who was responsible for not discovering an alleged breach of warranty earlier, sued to recover damages after having effected a re-sale, held, that the claim was unsustainable. 32 P.L.R. 734. A reasonable time for examining goods is a question of fact depending on the circumstances of each case. Where the goods reached the plaintiffs-buyers on the 21st October, and the buyer for resale sent the intimation on 30th October, but the plaintiffs delayed another fortnight, held, that the plaintiffs were not entitled to recover damages in view of their prolonged failure to give notice. 32 P.L.R. 734.

Buyer not bound to return rejected goods.

43. Unless otherwise agreed, where goods are delivered to the buyer and he refuses to accept them, having the right so to do, he is not bound to return them to the seller; but it is sufficient if he intimates to the seller that he refuses to accept them.

Liability of buyer for neglecting or refusing delivery of goods.

44. When the seller is ready and willing to deliver the goods and requests the buyer to take delivery, and the buyer does not within a reasonable time after such request take delivery of the goods, he is liable to the seller for any loss occasioned by his neglect or refusal to take delivery, and also for a reasonable charge for the care and custody of the goods:

Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the rights of the seller where the neglect or refusal of the buyer to take delivery amounts to a repudiation of the contract.

CHAPTER V.

RIGHTS OF UNPAID SELLER AGAINST THE GOODS.

"Unpaid-seller" defined.

45. (1) The seller of goods is deemed to be an "unpaid seller" within the meaning of this Act—

(a) when the whole of the price has not been paid or tendered;

(b) when a bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument has been received as conditional payment, and the condition on which it was received has not been fulfilled by reason of the dishonour of the instrument or otherwise.

(2) In this Chapter, the term "seller" includes any person who is in the position of a seller, as, for instance, an agent of the seller to whom the bill of lading has been indorsed, or a consignor or agent who has himself paid, or is directly responsible for, the price.

NOTES.

Sec. 43.—Cf. S. 36, English Sale of Goods Act.

The Select Committee said: "This clause is based on S. 36 of the English Act. Although there is no specific provision in the Indian Contract Act laying down the rule stated in the section the rule has been applied in several cases in India." [Sumer Chand v. Ardeshir, 1907 A.W.N. 67; Buch & Co. v. Govardhandas, 24 Bom.L.R. 991.]—[Report of the Select Committee.) Purchaser who rightly refuses to take delivery is not bound to return the goods to the seller from the place of delivery at his cost. 35 A. 325=19 I.C. 254. If the buyer rightly rejects the goods, the cost of returning them must be borne by the seller. (Ibid.)

Secs. 44.—Cf. S. 37 of the English Sale of Goods Act.

The Select Committee said: "This clause is based on S. 37 of the English Act. There is no specific provision in the Indian Contract Act on the point, but the rule is based on the remarks of Lord Ellenborough in Greaves v. Ashlin, (1873) 3 Camp. 426, and is a salutary rule of law. The reference to the charge for custody shows that the clause applies to cases in which the property has passed and the buyer neglects to take possession. The proviso to the section saves all the rights of the seller which he is entitled to enforce in case of the repudiation of the contract on the part of the buyer."—(Report of the Select Committee.) Where the buyer refused to take delivery of goods on the ground that, contrary to the custom of trade, delivery was not made as and when the bales were ready at the Mills, he is not entitled, after the time for delivery has expired, to justify his refusal on another ground, viz., that some of the goods tendered were not of the kind or quality contracted for. (49 M. 791 and 42 M.L.J. 1, Foll.) 56 M. 304=141 I.C. 632=1933 M. 176=64 M.L.J. 199. Under a contract to sell paddy to the appellant, delivery to be made in the month of August, respondent delivered some paddy and then repudiated the contract with reference to the remainder on the 6th August. Appellant claimed damages on the basis of the difference between the contract price and the market price on the 6th August, i.e., the date of repudiation. Held, that the damages must be assessed on the basis of the market rate prevailing on the last due date of the delivery and not on the date of repudiation by the seller. 150 I.C. 760=1933 R. 25.

Sec. 45.—Cf. S. 38 of English Sale of Goods Act and also S. 95 of the Indian Contract Act. The Select Committee said: "This clause defines an unpaid seller and is based on S. 38 of the English Act. There is no similar provision in the Indian Act. One of the rights of an unpaid seller is dealt with in S. 95. We think it desirable to define an unpaid seller. The trend of the decisions in England before 1893 was to give rights of an unpaid seller against the goods to any one whose position can be shown to be substantially analogous to that of an ordinary seller. (Chalmer's Sale of Goods p. 102.) Sub-cl. (2) gives effect that view."—(Report of the Select Committee.)

COMMISSION AGENT, who buys on his own credit for another, is a quasi vendor and is in the position of a vendor for the purpose of stoppage in transit. 7 S.L.R. 163=24 I.C. 798.

Secs. 45, 46 and 54.—Under the Sale of Goods Act, there is no question about it that Unpaid seller's rights.

46. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act and of any law for the time being in force, notwithstanding that the property in the goods may have passed to the buyer, the unpaid seller of goods, as such, has by implication of law—

(a) a lien on the goods for the price while he is in possession of them ;

(b) in case of the insolvency of the buyer a right of stopping the goods in transit after he has parted with the possession of them ;

(c) a right of re-sale as limited by this Act.

(2) Where the property in goods has not passed to the buyer, the unpaid seller has, in addition to his other remedies, a right of withholding delivery similar to and co-extensive with his rights of lien and stoppage in transit where the property has passed to the buyer.

Unpaid seller's lien.

Seller's lien.

47. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the unpaid seller of goods who is in possession of them is entitled to retain possession of them until payment or tender of the price in the following cases, namely :—

(a) where the goods have been sold without any stipulation as to credit ;

(b) where the goods have been sold on credit, but the term of credit has expired ;

(c) where the buyer becomes insolvent.

(2) The seller may exercise his right of lien notwithstanding that he is in possession of the goods as agent or bailee for the buyer.

Part delivery.

48. Where an unpaid seller has made part delivery of the goods, he may exercise his right of lien on the remainder, unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an agreement to waive the lien.

Termination of lien.

49. (1) The unpaid seller of goods loses his lien thereon—

the commission agent is entitled to the remedy given to an unpaid seller in S. 45 and in S. 46 an unpaid seller has a right of re-sale as limited by the Act. Under S. 54, the unpaid seller can re-sell after giving a due notice. 162 I.C. 745= 1936 O.W.N. 528=1936 O. 308.

Sec. 46.—Cf. S. 39, English Sale of Goods Act; also Ss. 95 to 98, and 100 to 107, Indian Contract Act. See also notes under S. 47. Unpaid vendor's lien is dependent on possession of goods by vendor. 50 B. 360=1926 P.C. 38=51 M.L.J. 1=94 I.C. 824 (P.C.). So long as he retains possession, whether it be personal, or through an agent, he retains a right of lien and, as soon as he utterly relinquishes his possession, he generally loses his lien. 50 B. 360 (P.C.). See also 53 B. 360.

Secs. 46 and 51.—S. 46 must be read with S. 51 of the Act, and where as a matter of fact, the transit is at an end and the goods are at home, then the right of stoppage of the unpaid seller is gone. Where goods are unloaded from the Railway and delivered over to the buyer in his godowns, the transit is at an end. The fact that, later on, the Railway Company passes an order to the effect that the goods should not pass to the buyer, until freight had been paid is of no avail to the seller so as to enable him to retain or exercise his lien. 30 S.L.R. 154= 165 I.C. 559 (2)=1936 S. 200.

Sec. 47.—Cf. S. 41, English Sale of Goods Act; also Ss. 95 to 97, Indian Contract Act. The only lien which a seller of goods has under the Contract Act is his lien for unpaid purchase-money under S. 95 of the Contract Act. He has no other kind of lien. But the lien under S. 95 only exists for the purpose of enabling him to recover the price, and when the price is paid and accepted by the seller, the lien terminates, and he cannot thereafter retain the goods for any other charges which he may have incurred. 151 I.C. 117=11 O.W.N. 958=1934 O. 80.

Sec. 48.—Cf. S. 42, English Sale of Goods Act; also S. 106, Indian Contract Act, illustration).

PREVIOUS AND PRESENT STATE OF LAW COMPARED.—The Select Committee said: "This clause follows S. 42 of the English Act. The principle is to be found in the Illustration to S. 106 of the Indian Act."—(Report of the Select Committee.) See also notes under S. 57 and cited under S. 47, supra. 20 L.W. 725=1925 M. 292. The fact that a seller retains a lien on undelivered goods, even after the title has passed, by no means amounts to saying that wherever the seller retains a lien on undelivered goods, it is to be assumed that the title has passed in the sense that there has been full unconditional appropriation. 86 I.C. 794=1925 L. 586.

Sec. 49.—Cf. S. 43, English Sale of Goods Act. The Select Committee said: "Very often a

(a) when he delivers the goods to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer without reserving the right of disposal of the goods ;

(b) when the buyer or his agent lawfully obtains possession of the goods ;

(c) by waiver thereof.

(2) The unpaid seller of goods, having a lien thereon, does not lose his lien by reason only that he has obtained a decree for the price of the goods.

Stoppage in transit.

50. Subject to the provisions of this Act, when the buyer of goods becomes insolvent, the unpaid seller, who has parted with the possession of the goods, has the right of stopping them in transit, that is to say, he may resume possession of the goods as long as they are in the course of transit, and may retain them until payment or tender of the price.

Right of stoppage in transit.

51. (1) Goods are deemed to be in course of transit from the time when they are delivered to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer, until the buyer or his agent in that behalf takes delivery of them from such carrier or other bailee.

Duration of transit.

NOTES.

question arises whether the lien of a seller has terminated. There is no express provision to Chapter VII of the Indian Act on the point except such as is implied by S. 100. S. 43 of the English Act, following the common law rules, declares when such lien terminates. We consider that these rules should be adopted in the present Bill. Sub-cl. (3) of the present clause, which is based on S. 43 (2) of the English Act, recognises the principle in the following cases, viz.—Houldʻitch v. Desanges, (1818) 2 Stars. 337; Scrivener v. Great N.-W. Railway, (1871) 19 W.R. 388."—(Report of the Select Committee.)

Sec. 50.—"This clause follows S. 44 of the English Act. The principle is recognized in Ss. 99-106 of the Indian Contract Act."—(Report of the Select Committee.) The right of stoppage in transit is an equitable right which arises wholly from the insolvency of the buyer and is based upon the plain reason of justice and equity that one man's goods shall not be applied in payment of another's debts. The right continues so long as the goods are in the possession of a carrier or other bailee for transmission in his capacity as such to the buyer and are made deliverable to him, and it is immaterial whether the document obtained from the carrier or other bailee for transmission of goods is made out in the name of the buyer both as consignor and as consignee of the goods or not, provided the goods are delivered for transmission by the vendor and not by the buyer. 30 S.L.R. 148=163 I.C. 875=1936 S. 106. Right of stoppage is not a merely equitable right. Where the buyer of certain goods while they were in transit became an insolvent, but had meanwhile assigned the document of title to a third party and the vendor exercises his right of stoppage in transit it is for the assignee to show that he acted in good faith and paid valuable consideration. 50 C. 399=27 C.W.N. 231=1923 C. 182. Seller's lien is not affected by the law of limitation. 22 C. 21. The right survives though the remedy may be barred. (Ibid.)

WHO MAY EXERCISE RIGHT OF STOPPAGE.—Vendor-consignor, though he be only a commission agent. 16 I.C. 61=14 Bom.L.R. 532: 45 C. 111; 46 C. 831. Vendor includes any person standing in the shoes of the vendor. 53 I.C. 986=46 C. 831; 41 I.C. 944=45 C. 111; 24 I.C. 798=7 S.L.R. 163; 16 I.C. 61. So long as the goods are subject to a lien for freight, the transit has not ended. The goods are not at home. So also when the shipowner lands the goods and his freight has been paid, his right of control and lien over the goods is gone, and thenceforth the goods are held by the wharfingers for the consignee alone. 17 B. 62 (92). See also 14 B. 57. In order to divest the consignor's right to stop in transit, there ought to be such a delivery to the consignee as to divest the carrier's lien: and the freight due to a Railway Company has been paid and the goods have been loaded into the purchaser's carts. 14 B. 57 (65); 15 C. 573. Mere non-payment of freight, although if sometimes raises a presumption that the transitu is not at an end, is not sufficient. Where the first consignment of the goods purchased by the insolvent vendee had actually been unloaded in the godown of the vendee without payment of freight before the countermanding order was given by the vendor, the right to the freight is waived and the consignment ceases to be in transit and the vendor has no right over it. 30 S.L.R. 148=163 I.C. 875=1936 S. 106.

Sec. 51.—"This clause is based on S. 45 of the English Sale of Goods Act. The same principle is embodied in S. 100 of the Indian Contract Act, but we prefer to adopt the provisions of the English section." (Report of the Select Committee.) The right of stoppage also exists when the goods are in transit to any one who derives his title from the buyer except a sub-buyer or pledgee (as described in Ss. 102 and 103) to whom a document of title had been assigned. 7 S.L.R. 163=24 I.C. 798. As to what are documents of title, see 40 B. 630=

(2) If the buyer or his agent in that behalf obtains delivery of the goods before their arrival at the appointed destination, the transit is at an end.

(3) If, after the arrival of the goods at the appointed destination, the carrier or other bailee acknowledges to the buyer or his agent that he holds the goods on his behalf and continues in possession of them as bailee for the buyer or his agent, the transit is at an end and it is immaterial that a further destination for the goods may have been indicated by the buyer.

(4) If the goods are rejected by the buyer and the carrier or other bailee continues in possession of them, the transit is not deemed to be at an end, even if the seller has refused to receive them back.

(5) When goods are delivered to a ship chartered by the buyer, it is a question depending on the circumstances of the particular case, whether they are in the possession of the master as a carrier or as agent of the buyer.

(6) Where the carrier or other bailee wrongfully refuses to deliver the goods to the buyer or his agent in that behalf, the transit is deemed to be at an end.

(7) Where part delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer or his agent in that behalf, the remainder of the goods may be stopped in transit, unless such part delivery has been given in such circumstances as to show an agreement to give up possession of the whole of the goods.

How stoppage in transit is effected.

52. (1) The unpaid seller may exercise his right of stoppage in transit either by taking actual possession of the goods, or by giving notice of his claim to the carrier or other bailee in whose possession the goods are. Such notice may be given either to the person in actual possession of the goods or to his principal. In the latter case the notice, to be effectual, shall be given at such time and in such circumstances that the principal, by the exercise of reasonable diligence, may communicate it to his servant or agent in time to prevent a delivery to the buyer.

(2) When notice of stoppage in transit is given by the seller to the carrier or other bailee in possession of the goods, he shall re-deliver the goods to, or according to the directions of, the seller. The expenses of such redelivery shall be borne by the seller.

Transfer by buyer and seller.

Effect of sub-sale or pledge by buyer.

53. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the unpaid seller's right of lien or stoppage in transit is not affected by any sale or other disposition of the goods which the buyer may have made, unless the seller has assented thereto:

Telegram to the Railway Company by unpaid seller not to deliver is sufficient notice to effect a stoppage in transit. Sec. 52.—"This section is based on S. 46 of the English Sale of Goods Act. The rules contained in that section correspond to Ss. 104 and 105 of the Indian Contract Act." (Report of the Select Committee.) No particular form of notice is prescribed by the section and the intention of the parties prevails and it is a question of fact. 8 S.L.R. 65=26 I.C. 424. A wrongful delivery of goods by the carrier after notice to stop does not defeat right of the unpaid vendor. 17 B. 62. In order to exercise right of stoppage, it is not necessary for the vendor to take possession of the goods by a manual seizure of them, but it will be sufficient if he make claim to them, adversely to the buyer, during their passage. A telegram to Railway Company not to deliver goods is sufficient notice to effect stoppage in transit. 26 I.C. 424=8 S.L.R. 65. See also 1925 M. 292.

Sec. 53.—Cf. S. 47, English Sale of Goods Act; also Ss. 98, 101 to 103 Indian Contract Act. Apart from any established trade custom a delivery chit or a delivery order is nothing more than a token of authority to receive possession of the goods which it covers. A

Provided that where a document of title to goods has been issued or lawfully transferred to any person as buyer or owner of the goods, and that person transfers the document to a person who takes the document in good faith and for consideration, then, if such last mentioned transfer was by way of sale, the unpaid seller's right of lien or stoppage in transit is defeated, and, if such last mentioned transfer was by way of pledge or other disposition for value, the unpaid seller's right of lien or stoppage in transit can only be exercised subject to the rights of the transferee.

(2) Where the transfer is by way of pledge, the unpaid seller may require the pledgee to have the amount secured by the pledge satisfied in the first instance, as far as possible, out of any other goods or securities of the buyer in the hands of the pledgee and available against the buyer.

Sale not generally rescinded by lien or stoppage in transit.

54. (1) Subject to the provisions of this section a contract of sale is not rescinded by the mere exercise by an unpaid seller of his right of lien or stoppage in transit.

NOTES.

delivery chit which is part and parcel of a contract on Sukkur Pass Godown delivery terms and which is received without payment and which cannot be effectively used for obtaining delivery without payment of 90 per cent. of the price of the goods is not a document of title within the meaning of S. 2 (4), Sale of Goods Act. The delivery chit does not represent the goods or transfer possession thereof or entitle the holder to receive delivery from the original seller. Irrespective of whether he had received the purchase price of the goods the original seller is entitled to refuse delivery to the holder of the chit in the exercise of his right of lien as unpaid vendor. The delivery chit therefore does not fall within the purview of S. 53 (1). I.L.R. (1941) Kar. 89=1941 Sind 78. See also 18 Cal. 573.

Sec. 54.—Cf. S. 48, English Sale of Goods Act; also S. 107, Contract Act. Section is permissive and not compulsory. Seller of goods, who gives notice of his intention to re-sell the goods, in pursuance of the provisions of the section, is not bound to carry out such intention and can change his mind if he likes. 7 L.B.R. 252=25 I.C. 799. Before sellers can exercise right of re-sale, and claim damages on that footing, the property in the goods must have passed to the buyers. 66 I.C. 510=11 L.B.R. 182. See also 8 L. 514; 15 L. 496=150 I.C. 109=36 P. L.R. 348=1934 L. 191; 27 Bom.L.R. 1168=1925 B. 547; 100 I.C. 307=1927 R. 81; 1 C.W. N. 71=24 C. 124. But see also 29 I.C. 933=9 S.L.R. 20; 70 I.C. 843=1923 P. 36; 100 I.C. 795=1927 L. 269; 1923 A. 242; 1925 L. 70. Mere sending of a memorandum giving notice of appropriation of goods by seller to the buyer on the due date and the buyer's silence thereon cannot be said to justify the conclusion that there was an implied assent to appropriation. When, after a contract has been made between the parties, nothing further happens and the seller on the due date appropriates certain goods to the contract and gives notice of the same to the buyer and the buyer keeps quiet, his silence may be due either to assent to the appropriation or to refusal to perform the contract. 1929 L. 268; 76 I.C. 77=1925 L. 70.

RIGHT OF RE-SALE UNDER THE STATUTORY PROVISION AND BY AGREEMENT OF PARTIES.—The right of re-sale may be the result either of a statutory provision or of agreement between the parties. The statutory provision can only be exercised if the property in the goods has passed to the buyer. 100 I.C. 307=1927 R. 81. Where the right of re-sale is reserved by the terms of contract, it can be exercised, if any of the conditions of the sale on which the right of re-sale depends, is broken. A power of re-sale implies a power of annulling or rescinding the contract, in other words, the sale is conditional and not absolute. The property in the goods sold in such a case passes to the buyer subject to the conditions attached to the contract of the sale; and if those conditions justify a right to rescind the contract or to re-sell the goods, such a right can be enforced and is not penal. (72 Revised Report 502, Foll.) 25 O.C. 186=1922 O. 265; 72 I.C. 772=1924 L. 319. See also 25 C. 505. Re-sale by auction must be within a reasonable time. The provision in a contract that 'the company is at liberty to keep the said goods or re-sell them on our account and at our risk' cannot be construed as a power to keep the goods as along as the company liked before it re-sold them. 27 Bom.L.R. 1168=1925 B. 542. See also 1924 L. 319=72 I.C. 772.

ENGLISH AND INDIAN LAW.—"So far as the English Law is concerned, when an unpaid seller of goods re-sells them under an express power reserved by him, he thereby rescinds the contract. Under the Contract Act, there is no reason why an unpaid vendor should not re-sell the goods 'on account and risk of the purchaser' as specified in the contract, and enforce at the same time all other rights given to him by the contract in so far as those rights are not affected by the re-sale." 3 L. 296=67 I.C. 228=1922 L. 369. See also 1937 Lah. 842. If a vendor exercises the right of resale not only is the vendor bound to wait for a reasonable time after giving notice to the vendee of his intention to re-sell before actually re-selling, but he is also bound to exercise his right of re-sale within reasonable time after the date of the breach. 100 I.C. 795=1927 L. 269. See also 8 L. 501; 56 I.C. 647; 27 Bom.L.R. 1168=1925 B. 547; 19 A. 535. See also 39 P.L.R. 945 (Delay in re-sale—Measure of damages). 1938 A.L.J. 227

(2) Where the goods are of a perishable nature, or where the unpaid seller who has exercised his right of lien or stoppage in transit gives notice to the buyer of his intention to re-sell, the unpaid seller may, if the buyer does not within a reasonable time pay or tender the price, re-sell the goods within a reasonable time and recover from the original buyer damages for any loss occasioned by his breach of contract, but the buyer shall not be entitled to any profit which may occur on the re-sale. If such notice is not given, the unpaid seller shall not be entitled to recover such damages and the buyer shall be entitled to the profit, if any, on the re-sale.

(3) Where an unpaid seller, who has exercised his right of lien or stoppage in transit, re-sells the goods, the buyer acquires a good title thereto as against the original buyer, notwithstanding that no notice of the re-sale has been given to the original buyer.

(4) Where the seller expressly reserves a right of re-sale in case the buyer should make default, and, on the buyer making default, re-sells the goods, the original contract of sale is thereby rescinded, but without prejudice to any claim which the seller may have for damages.

NOTES.

=1938 All. 272 ; 41 P.L.R. 148=1939 Lah. 260. The option of re-sale is exercisable only after the lapse of a reasonable time, and it cannot be exercised before the last date up to which delivery would have been taken by the purchaser. 95 I.C. 188=1926 N. 410.

NOTICE OF RE-SALE.—Vendor agent of vendee.—Where vendees did not refuse to take delivery of the goods and all that they were asking was that delivery should be held over a little longer, held, that vendors could not sell without giving notice. Even as agents, they ought to hold the goods at the disposal of their principals, and unless they had express authority to sell them, they were not entitled to sell them without either requesting payment or asking the vendees to take delivery and giving notice that, in the event of their failure to do so, they would sell the goods for their account. 1924 P. 687. See also 1924 N. 162.

RE-SALE WITHOUT NOTICE TO VENDEE.—When the vendor re-sells the goods illegally without notice at a profit, the vendee is entitled to recover the earnest money but not damages or profits earned by vendor. 84 I. C. 472=1925 O. 310. After re-sale the defaulting purchaser has no right, under the original contract, and he cannot claim the goods upon payment of the contract price. The re-sale must be fairly conducted ; otherwise, the purchaser can recover damages as would put him in the same position as if the re-sale had been properly held and proper price obtained. 36 I.C. 252=8 L.B.R. 367. A re-sale would be invalid, if it is hurried in an unusual manner and without sufficient advertisement. 15 Beng. L.R. 276. Where a seller putting up the property for sale does not advertise such sale in the locality in which the property is situate or the advertisement is inadequate, the buyer is not responsible for the difference between the contract price and the inadequate price realised at such sale. 35 I.C. 373=10 Bur.L.T. 35. In notice of re-sale, date of re-sale whether need be mentioned. Circumstances justifying re-sale. 1927 M.W.N. 549. The giving of a notice is a condition precedent to exercising the right of re-sale and the person who re-sells must plead and prove notice. He cannot get over the statutory obligation by saying the purchaser did not suffer any loss by want of notice of the re-sale. 1924 N. 162 (2).

PLAINTIFF'S DUTY TO MITIGATE DAMAGES.—27 Bom.L.R. 1168=1925 B. 547. See also 43 C. 493=43 I.A. 6=30 M.L.J. 73 (P.C.).

LIABILITY TO ACCOUNT FOR HIGHER PRICE.—If on re-sale, the seller realizes a higher price, he is bound in claiming damages from the buyer to account for the higher price so obtained. 7 L.B.R. 252=25 I. C. 799. Where the property in the goods re-sold, has not passed to the buyer, a re-selling commission cannot be allowed. Re-selling brokerage and commission for goods not actually re-sold cannot be allowed, as they are unreasonable and as being merely imaginary and fictitious. 29 I.C. 933=9 S.L. R. 20. See also 30 C. 649=7 C.W.N. 562. (Right of vendor's broker in possession to exercise right of re-sale.)

POSSESSION THROUGH BROKER.—Where, after acts on the part of the purchaser evidencing an acceptance of the goods, they remained in the possession of the seller, through his broker, the latter has a lien on the goods, for the unpaid purchase-money, authorising a re-sale of the goods under this section. 30 C. 649=7 C.W.N. 562.

Sec. 54 (4).—If, in exercise of his right of re-sale, the unpaid vendor of certain piece-goods sold some of the unpaid-for goods, he is entitled to be reimbursed for the loss thereby sustained by him inclusive of all out-of-pocket expenses in effecting the re-sale but not to a re-sale commission in respect of goods sold by him as his own so as to inflate his claim for damages. The result is the same even where the property has passed but goods have not been parted with by the vendor. 129 I.C. 912=1931 S. 26. The contract for sale of goods gave a right of re-sale to the seller in case of default on the part of the buyer and provided that any dispute arising out of the contract whatever its nature shall, unless amicably settled, be referred to arbitration. Held, that the arbitration clause being an integral part of the contract was also wiped out on the rescission of the contract by the seller by the exercise of his right of re-sale and hence no reference to arbitration could be

CHAPTER VI.

SUITS FOR BREACH OF THE CONTRACT.

Suit for price.

55. (1) Where under a contract of sale the property in the goods has passed to the buyer and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay for the goods according to the terms of the contract, the seller may sue him for the price of the goods.

(2) Where under a contract of sale the price is payable on a day certain irrespective of delivery and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay such price the seller may sue him for the price although the property in the goods has not passed and the goods have not been appropriated to the contract.

Damages for non-acceptance.

56. Where the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to accept and pay for the goods, the seller may sue him for damages for non-acceptance.

Damages for non-delivery.

57. Where the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods to the buyer, the buyer may sue the seller for damages for non-delivery.

NOTES.

made in pursuance of the arbitration clause. Held further, that the fact that S. 54 (4) kept alive the seller's right to damages arising out of buyer's default did not entitle the seller to enforce that claim by reference to arbitration under the arbitration clause which was no longer subsisting. The only way of enforcing the claim for damages was by way of a suit in a Court of law. 43 P.L.R. 693=1941 Lah. 427.

Sec. 55.—Cf. S. 49 (1) and (2), English Sale of Goods Act. See Ss. 23 and 24 of the Contract Act, also the provisions of the Indian Abkari Act and rules made thereunder. 87 I.C. 353=1925 S. 55 ; 35 M. 582=21 M.L.J. 425 ; 27 I.C. 919=1915 M.W.N. 25. When tender is pleaded as a defence, sum tendered must be brought into Court. See also 16 B. 141 ; 89 I. C. 484 ; 1925 Oudh 533; 39 M. 959. In considering whether the terms of a transaction constitute an out-and-out sale or a mere agreement to sell, the Court must endeavour to ascertain when it was the intention of the parties that the property in the goods, the subject of the sale, was to be transferred. Where it is plain from the terms that from the time when they were entered into the seller could not have dealt with the property, and had he attempted to do so the buyer could clearly have restrained him by injunction immediately and when further the buyer was to be at liberty to deal with the property and to take steps to realise it, the intention of the parties must be held to be that the property in the goods should pass from the seller to the buyer forthwith. The fact that the buyer is given some time for paying the money fixed as the sale price can in such cases be taken only as an option given to the buyer and to amount to the seller agreeing to give credit to the buyer for that period of time. If in such a case, the buyer wrongfully refuses to pay the price the seller is entitled to maintain an action for the price, under S. 55 (1). Even if it be held in such a case that the property in the goods has not passed, the seller would be, nevertheless, entitled to maintain his claim under S. 55 (2). 180 I.C. 858 (2)=41 Bom.L.R. 33=1939 Bom. 84. See also 1937 Nag. 198.

Sec. 56.—Cf. S. 50 (1) English Sale of Goods Act ; and Ss. 73 and 74, Contract Act.

Where the property in the goods has not passed to buyer sellers' only remedy is an action for non-acceptance. Where the property passed to buyer, seller may sue, either for the price, or if he has re-sold, he must sue for damages, caused on re-sale or for damages for non-acceptance. It is however open to the parties to fix the quantum of damages by the contract itself in which case it will be deemed to be liquidated damages. See 103 I.C. 805=1927 L. 659 ; 105 I.C. 789=1927 M. 965=53 M.L.J. 562 ; 84 I. C. 865=1925 L. 284 ; 1926 A. 278=24 A.L.J. 210.

Sec. 56 (2).—In the case of a sale of a decree in which the seller is not to have any right to proceed to execute the decree from the time of the transaction, and the buyer is given the liberty to take steps to realise the decree at his cost at any moment, it cannot be said that the agreement is subject to an implied condition that the decree should remain capable of execution, in other words it cannot be said that the parties regard that the terms are subject to any implied condition that the debtor should remain solvent. If therefore the judgment-debtor becomes insolvent before the payment of the sale price and the formal execution of a deed of assignment in writing, it cannot be said that contract of sale becomes "impossible" and so void under S. 56 (2) of the Act. 41 Bom. L.R. 33=1939 Bom. 84.

Sec. 57.—Cf. S. 51 (1), English Sale of Goods Act.

"When a contract to deliver goods is broken, the proper measure of damages in general is the difference between the contract price and the market price of such goods at the time when the contract is broken. So, if a contract to accept and pay for goods is broken, the same rule may be properly applied, for the seller may take his goods into the market and obtain the current price for them." 43 C. 493=43 I.A. 6 (P.C.) ; 36 C. 617 ; 41 M. 409 ; 22 M.L.J. 413 ; 102 I.C. 628 ; 97 I.C. 871 ; 1926 Mad. 1021=57 M.L.J. 243.

Specific performance.

58. Subject to the provisions of Chapter II of the Specific Relief Act, 1877, in any suit for breach of contract to deliver specific or ascertained goods the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the plaintiff, by its decree direct that the contract shall be performed specifically, without giving the defendant the option of retaining the goods on payment of damages. The decree may be unconditional, or upon such terms and conditions as to damages, payment of the price or otherwise, as the Court may deem just and the application of the plaintiff may be made at any time before the decree.

Remedy for breach of warranty.

59. (1) Where there is a breach of warranty by the seller or where the buyer elects or is compelled to treat any breach of a condition on the part of the seller as a breach of warranty, the buyer is not by reason only of such breach of warranty entitled to reject the goods; but he may—

(a) set up against the seller the breach of warranty in diminution or extinction of the price; or

(b) sue the seller for damages for breach of warranty.

(2) The fact that a buyer has set up a breach of warranty in diminution or extinction of the price does not prevent him from suing for the same breach of warranty if he has suffered further damage.

Repudiation of contract before due date.

60. Where either party to a contract of sale repudiates the contract before the date of delivery, the other may either treat the contract as subsisting and wait till the date of delivery, or he may treat the contract as rescinded and sue for damages for the breach.

61. (1) Nothing in this Act shall affect the right of the seller or the buyer

Under S 59 the buyer is not, by reason of a breach of warranty, entitled to reject the goods; he may set up against the seller the breach of warranty "in diminution or extinction of the price." 42 P.L.R. 172. In respect of a claim for a breach of warranty under S. 59 (1) the measure of damages is not the full consideration that has passed from the defrauded party; it is only the difference between the actual value of the property and its value if the property had been what it was represented to be. 1939 O. W.N. 339=1939 Oudh 186. Where the buyer repudiates the contract on the ground that the goods were not tendered within the time agreed, he cannot afterwards plead non-liability on the ground that the goods were not of the quality contracted for. 49 M. 781; 25 Bom.L.R. 1063. (2) In the absence of a contract to the contrary the Court may award interest at such rate as it thinks fit on the amount of the price—

(a) to the seller in a suit by him for the amount of the price—from the date of the tender of the goods or from the date on which the price was payable ;

CHAPTER VII.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Exclusion of implied terms and conditions.

62. Where any right, duty or liability would arise under a contract of sale by implication of law it may be negatived or varied by express agreement or by the course of dealing between the parties, or by usage if the usage is such as to bind both parties to the contract.

Reasonable time a question of fact.

63. Where in this Act any reference is made to a reasonable time, the question what is a reasonable time is a question of fact.

Auction sale.

64. In the case of a sale by auction—

(1) where goods are put up for sale in lots, each lot is prima facie deemed to be the subject of a separate contract of sale ;

(2) the sale is complete when the auctioneer announces its completion by the fall of the hammer or in other customary manner ; and until such announcement is made any bidder may retract his bid ;

NOTES.

The injured party must act reasonably ; and if it be open to him to take steps to mitigate the loss he must do so. If he fails to take such steps, the defendant may set up the failure in mitigation of damages. 43 C. 493=43 I.A. 6=23 C. W.N. 105=30 M.L.J. 73=31 I.C. 949 (P.C.).

Sec. 61 (2).—Where there is an express agreement, the general rules laid down in the section as to award of interest between vendor and purchaser do not apply. [See 44 C. 542=32 M.L.J. 6=21 C.W.N. 500=38 I.C. 938=44 I.A. 15 (P.C.).]

Sec. 62.—Cf. S. 55, English Sale of Goods Act. It is open to the parties to agree that their rights and liabilities under a contract of sale or otherwise are to be governed by a particular law, which would ordinarily not govern their case. 41 B. 636=42 I.C. 32=19 Bom.L.R. 549. The Sale of Goods Act does not prevent parties from making any contract they please. There is nothing to prevent the parties from agreeing between themselves that in spite of the fact that the property in goods has not passed as there has been no appropriation by either of them of the goods towards the contract the seller will have the right to re-sell against the defendant in breach and also to recover godown rent, insurence charges, etc. S. 62 of the Act expressly recognises that right. 175 I.C. 552=1938 A.L. J. 227=1938 All. 272.

An agreement between two or more persons not to bid against one another at a public auction is not unlawful or against public policy. 56 I.C. 963=12 Bur.L.T. 241 ; 44 I.C. 223 ; 46 I C. 755. But see also 28 I.C. 40=8 S.L.R. 247. A bid is only an offer, and may be retracted before acceptance. 31 I.C. 689 (Punj.). A sale was held voidable at the instance of the buyer by reason of puffers being employed to raise the price by fictitious bids. 31 I.C. 689=40 P.L.R. 1916. Agreement by a person promising to pay money to another if the latter would not compete for the purchase of certain property with the former held legal. 10 I.C. 627 ; 10 M.L.T. 338. As to effect of fraud or mistake, see 6 Moore P.C. 316 ; Contract Act, Ss. 16 to 19.

(3) a right to bid may be reserved expressly by or on behalf of the seller and, where such right is expressly so reserved but not otherwise the seller or any one person on his behalf may, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained bid at the auction ;

(4) where the sale is not notified to be subject to a right to bid on behalf of the seller, it shall not be lawful for the seller to bid himself or to employ any person to bid at such sale, or for the auctioneer knowingly to take any bid from the seller or any such person ; and any sale contravening this rule may be treated as fraudulent by the buyer ;

(5) the sale may be notified to be subject to a reserved or upset price ;

(6) if the seller makes use of pretended bidding to raise the price, the sale is voidable at the option of the buyer.

[1][64-A. In the event of any duty of customs or excise on any goods being imposed, increased, decreased or remitted after the making of any contract for the sale of such goods without stipulation as to the payment of duty where duty was not chargeable at the time of the making of the contract, or for the sale of such goods duty-paid where duty was chargeable at that time,—

In contracts of sale amount of increased or decreased duty to be added or deduced.

(a) if such imposition or increase so takes effect that the duty or increased duty, as the case may be, or any part thereof, is paid, the seller may add so much to the contract price as will be equivalent to the amount paid in respect of such duty or increase of duty, and he shall be entitled to be paid and to sue for and recover such addition, and

(b) if such decrease or remission so takes effect that the decreased duty only or no duty, as the case may be, is paid, the buyer may deduct so much from the contract price as will be equivalent to the decrease of duty or remitted duty, and he shall not be liable to pay, or be sued for or in respect of such deduction.]

65. [Repeal.] Repealed by Act I of 1938.

Savings.

66. (1) Nothing in this Act, or in any repeal effected thereby, shall affect or be deemed to affect—

(a) any right, title, interest, obligation or liability already acquired, accrued or incurred before the commencement of this Act, or

(b) any legal proceedings or remedy in respect of any such right, title, interest, obligation or liability, or

(c) anything done or suffered before the commencement of this Act, or

(d) any enactment relating to the sale of goods which is not expressly repealed by this Act, or (e) any rule of law not inconsistent with this Act.

(2) The rules of insolvency relating to contracts for the sale of goods shall continue to apply thereto, notwithstanding anything contained in this Act.

NOTES.

Sec. 66.—Cf. S. 61, Cl. (1) and Cl. (4) of the English Sale of Goods Act.

The Select Committee said : "This is a saving clause. Sub-Cl. (1), items (a) to (c) save in general terms all transactions made, proceedings taken and rights and liabilities arising before this Bill comes into operation. Item (d) of the sub-clause saves any Act relating to the sale of goods which has not been expressly repealed by this Bill. Thus such enactments as the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1923, or the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, which contain special provisions relating to the sale of goods are saved. In Cl. (4) of the present Bill we have introduced an express provision that the provisions of the Indian Act which are not inconsistent with the provisions of this Bill shall continue to apply to contracts for the sale of goods. Thus, the general Law of Contract, as embodied in the Indian Act, has been made expressly applicable to contracts for the sale of goods. Sub-Cl. (3) of this clause is based on sub-S. (1) of S. 61 of the English Act and saves the rules of Insolvency Law, whereas sub-Cl. (4) which follows sub-S. (4) of the English section enacts that the provisions of this Bill shall not apply to ostensible sale." (Statement of Objects and Reasons—Report of the Special Committee.)

(3) The provisions of this Act relating to contracts of sale do not apply to any transaction in the form of a contract of sale which is intended to operate by way of mortgage, pledge, charge or other security.

Except as otherwise expressly provided by any law for the time being in force, goods whereof any article liable to duty under this Act forms a part or ingredient shall be chargeable with the full duty which would be payable on such goods if they were entirely composed of such article, or, if composed of more than one article liable to duty, then with the full duty which would be payable on such goods if they were entirely composed of the article charged with the highest rate of duty.

Power to fix tariff-values.

22. The Central Government may, from time to time, by notification in the Official Gazette, fix for the purpose of levying duties, tariff-values of any goods exported or imported by sea on which custom-duties are by law imposed,[2] and alter any such values fixed by any Tariff Act for the time being in force.

General power to exempt from customs-duties.

23. The Central Government may from time to time, by notification in the Official Gazette, exempt any goods imported into, or exported from, British India or into or from any specified port therein, from the whole or any part of the Customs duties leviable on such goods.

Power to authorise in special cases, exemption from duty.

[3][The Chief Customs-authority] may, [4][with the previous sanction of the Central Government] by special order in each case, exempt from the payment of duty, under circumstances of an exceptional nature, to be stated in such order, any goods on which customs-duties are leviable.

24. The Customs-collector may, subject to any general rules relating to the landing and shipping of passenger's baggage and the passing of the same through the custom-house, which may be made under section 75, pass free of duty any baggage in actual use, and for this purpose may determine, subject to any such rules, whether any goods shall be treated as baggage in actual use, or as goods subject to duty.

Re-imported articles of country produce.

25. If goods produced or manufactured in British India be imported into any customs-port from any foreign port, such goods shall be liable to all the duties, conditions and restrictions (if any) to which goods of the like kind and value not so produced or manufactured are liable on the first importation thereof :

Excise-duty on importation of certain country goods.

26. Any goods produced or manufactured in British India which have been exported therefrom, and on the exportation of which any drawback of excise has been received, shall, on being imported into any customs-port, be subjected, unless the [5][Chief Customs-officer] in any particular case otherwise directs by special order, to payment of excise duty, at the rate to which goods of the like kind and quality are liable at such port.

LEG. REF.

[1]The proviso which ran as follows was repealed by Act VIII of 1924 :—"Provided that no such duties shall be levied on goods belonging to the Government.".

All goods derelict, jetsam, flotsam, and wreck, brought or coming into any place in British India, shall be subject to the same duties, if any, to which goods of the like kind are for the time being subject on importation at any customs-port, and shall in other respects be dealt with as if they were imported from a foreign port, unless it be shown to the satisfaction of the Customs-collector that such goods are the produce or manufacture of any place from which they are entitled to be admitted duty free.

Goods derelict and wreck.

28. Provisions and stores produced or manufactured in British India, required for use on board of any vessel proceeding to any foreign port, may be shipped free of duty, whether of customs or excise, in such quantities as the Customs-collector determines with reference to the tonnage of the vessel, the numbers of the crew and passengers, and the length of the voyage on which the vessel is about to depart.

Country provisions and stores may be shipped free of duty.

Provided that no sum shall be so shipped on any vessel going on a voyage of less than thirty days' probable duration.

29. On the importation into, or exportation from, any customs-port of any goods, whether liable to duty or not, the owner of such goods shall, in his bill-of-entry, or shipping bill, as the case may be, state the real value, quantity and description of such goods to the best of his knowledge and belief and shall subscribe a declaration of the truth of such statement at the foot of such bill.

Owner to declare real value etc., of goods in bill-of-entry or shipping-bill.

In case of doubt, the Customs-collector may require any such owner or any other person in possession of any invoice, broker's note, policy of insurance or other document, whereby the real value, quantity or description of any such goods can be ascertained, to produce the same and to furnish any information relating to such value, quantity or description which it is in his power to furnish. And thereupon such person shall produce such document and furnish such information :

Power to require production of invoice, etc.

Provided that, if the owner makes and subscribes a declaration before the Customs-collector to the effect that he is unable, from want of full information, to state the real value or contents of any case, package or parcel of goods, then the Customs-collector shall permit him, previous to the entry thereof, (1) to open such case, package or parcel, and examine the contents in presence of an officer of Customs, or (2) to deposit such case, package or parcel in a public warehouse appointed under S. 15 without warehousing the same, pending the production of such information.

JURISDICTION TO DETERMINE REAL VALUE. —The jurisdiction to determine the real value of the goods is vested by the legislature in the Customs- Officer and it is well settled that he has conformed to the statutory provisions of the law in arriving at his decision, the Court cannot sit in appeal against it or re-try the question at issue. In such a case, the question of burden of proof hardly arises. 164 I.C. 583= 1936 S. 127=30 S.L.R. 304.

Sec. 30 (a).—The application of Cl. (a) of S. 30 does not depend upon any hypothesis to the effect that at the time and place of importation an indefinite amount of further goods added to the available supply has had effect upon the wholesale price. Ordinarily, at the time of making out the bill of entry there will not be an actual price relating to the goods themselves and complying with the requirements of Cl. (a). As a rule, therefore, the price appropriate to the goods under assessment will under the clause be deducted, if at all, from actual prices relating to other goods of like kind and quality. But if there is an actual price for the goods themselves at the like kind and quality are sold, or are capable of being sold, at the time and place of importation or exportation, as the case may be, without any abatement or deduction whatever, except (in the case of goods imported) of the amount of the duties payable on the importation thereof; or,

(b) where such price is not ascertainable, the cost at which goods of the like kind and quality could be delivered at such place without any abatement or deduction except as aforesaid.

time and place of importation and if it is a "wholesale cash price less trade discount", the clause is not inapplicable for want of sales of other goods. The goods under assessment may under Cl. (a) be considered as members of their own class even although at the time and place of importation there are no other members and the price obtained for them may correctly represent the price obtainable for goods of the like kind and quality at the time and place of importation. 65 I.A. 32=I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 249=1938 A.L.J. 87=1938 P.C. 15=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 161 (P.C.). See also 32 S.L.R. 87=1937 Sind. 293 ; 1936 Bom. 356. The words "time and place of importation" in sub-s. (a) of S. 30 must be given a reasonable construction. Plainly, time cannot refer to the precise moment of time at which the goods are imported, that is, unloaded from the ship. There must be a reasonable time in which a sale can take place. "Place of importation" cannot mean the exact spot of land on which the goods are landed whether on the wharf or on the shore. It must cover a wider area, namely, the place such as Madras, Bombay, Karachi, or elswhere, as the case may be, at which the goods are imported. The phrase "time and place of importation" must no doubt be considered in relation to the particular facts of any given case. In dealing with commodities, the market price of which may vary from day to day, one would have to take the price ruling on the day of importation in considering the price at which goods of like kind and quality are capable of being sold. 60 B. 551=38 Bom.L.R. 283=1936 Bom. 356. What the Court has to find under S. 30 (a) is a sale of the goods at a wholesale cash price, and it is not legitimate to dissect the actual price paid, deduct from it such portions as may be ascertained to represent something other than the price of the goods, e.g., the cost of service, and then say that the residue left is the wholesale cash price of the goods. 60 B. 551. The appellants, importers into India of cars issued from time to time a price list and the terms of business between them and the distributors of such cars, were that the retail price to be charged by the distributor to the public was that stated in the price list current at the time of arrival of the vehicles in India and the price payable by the distributor to the appellants was the same price less a certain discount. The distributor had to pay this price before obtaining delivery. Delivery was given by the appellants "free on rail," save in the case of the authorized dealers for the district of Bombay itself, viz., Ford Automobiles (India), Ltd., to whom delivery was made at their own warehouse in Bombay. The price mentioned in the price list was in all cases for a vehicle in running order, and the same was true of the contract between the appellants and the distributors. Held, that the appellants' price to their distributors was a wholesale price within the meaning of S. 30. It was a cash price. The cars were invoiced a few days before arrival of the ship and the price became fixed then and not before. The sales were therefore sales at the time and place of importation in every reasonable sense. Held, further, that the overhead charges had no bearing upon any matter arising under Cl. (a) of S. 30. 65 I.A. 52=I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 249=40 Bom.L.R. 269=1938 P.C. 15=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 161 (P.C.). See also 1936 Bom. 356. The word 'ascertainable' in Cl. (b) of S. 30 imports more than could be satisfied by the result of a mere estimate. On the other hand the language of the section—"or are capable of being sold"—does not exclude all possibility of arriving at the price defined by Cl. (a) upon the basis of an actual peice. though some adjustment may be needed to eliminate the difference, e.g., between cash and a month's credit. 65 I.A. 32=I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 249=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 161 (P.C.). Wholesale cash price—Meaning. 24 Bom.L.R. 198=67 I.C. 267=47 B. 174 ; 56 B. 313 (P.C.) The "wholesale cash price" under S. 30 (a) is the price current for staple articles, the amount of which, if not a subject of daily publication in the press, is easily ascertainable in the appropriate trade circles. A special low price allowed by the manufacturers in consideration of the importer purchasing a big lot is an exceptional one outside the ordinary channels of business and cannot represent the true cost at which goods of the like kind and quality could be delivered in India within the meaning of S. 30 (b). That cannot therefore be taken as the real value of the goods under S. 30. 30 S.L.R. 304.

Sec. 30 (b) applies when the wholesale price is not ascertainable. 30 S.L.R. 304 ; 56 B. 313 (P. C.). See also 60 B. 551=1936 B. 356, for object of this clause. In a prosecution of an importer of goods for abetment of cheating by causing a false declaration to be made of the real value of the goods as defined in S. 30 (b) of the Sea Customs Act, it is not sufficient to prove that the Customs Officers in fact applied S. 30 (b) of the Act, or that the importer sought to have the real value determined under S. 30 (b). It is incumbent on the prosecution to prove that those conditions were fulfilled which entitled the Customs-Officers to apply S. 30 (b) and not S. 30 (a). In other words, the prosecution must prove that the price mentioned in S. 30 (a) could not be ascertained. 46 C.W.N. 414. The mere fact that an importer paid a particular price for a particular goods is not sufficient to prove that that price is the real value for the purposes of S. 30 (b). It must Procedure where such goods are undervalued by owner.

32. If it appears that such goods are properly chargeable with a higher rate or amount of duty than that to which they would be subject according to the value thereof as stated in the bill of entry or shipping bill, such officer may detain such goods.

In every such case the detaining officer shall forthwith give notice in writing to the owner of the goods of their detention, and of the value thereof as estimated by him; and the Customs-collector shall, within two clear working days after such detention, or within such reasonable period as may with the consent of the parties be arranged, determine either to deliver such goods on payment of duty charged according to the entry of such owner, or to retain the same for the use of [1][the Central Government.]

If the goods be retained for the use of [1][the Central Government], the Customs-collector shall cause the full amount stated in the bill as their real value to be paid to the owner in full satisfaction for such goods in the same manner as if they had been transferred by ordinary sale, and shall, after due notice in the Official Gazette or some local newspaper, and without unnecessary delay, cause them to be put up to public auction in wholesale lots for cash on delivery.

If the Customs-collector deems the highest offer made at such sale to be inadequate, he may either adjourn the sale to some other day, to be notified as be shown that goods of the like kind and quality could not be delivered at that place at a lower price. Therefore, an offence of cheating by "causing a false declaration to be made of the real value" of goods cannot be made out against an importer, when all that is alleged against him is that he gave an estimate of the real value of the goods imported and furnished false evidence in support of that estimate. 46 C.W. N. 414.

Secs. 30, 31 and 32 : COURSES OPEN TO CUSTOMS OFFICER WHEN DECLARED VALUE IS NOT THE REAL VALUE.—The Sea Customs Act contemplates three procedures which a customs officer may adopt if he finds the declared value to be incorrect. He may proceed to fix the real value in the manner laid down by S. 30 and levy customs duty accordingly. He may, if he so wishes, detain the goods with the object of enabling the Collector of customs to decide whether the goods should be delivered to the importer on payment of duty in accordance with the declaration made by him, or to buy the goods. Lastly, the customs-officer duly authorized in that behalf may forfeit the goods and at the same time impose a penalty by way of fine as contemplated by S. 167 of the Act. 1936 Sind 127=30 S.L.R. 304. Ss 30 and 32 relate only to particular class of goods, non-tariff value goods, i.e., ad valorem goods. In the case of tariff-value goods, the assessment is under the general powers and the power to detain under the general power. I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 541 = 1940 Cal. 174.

Sec. 32 : CONSTRUCTION—OPTION TO BUY GOODS UNDER-VALUED—RIGHT OF OWNER OF GOODS TO ENFORCE PURCHASE.—S. 32 does not empower an importer to compel the Customs-Officer either to accept his declared value as correct, or if he challenges it, to buy the goods on behalf of Government at the declared value. The option lies with Government to buy the goods in fit cases and not with the importer. The use of the expression 'may' in the first part of S. 32 makes it abundantly clear that the option lies with Customs-Officer to detain the goods for the purpose of that section, if he so wishes. It is only when the Customs-Officer acts under that section that the procedure laid down in the rest of the section, comes into play. 164 I.C. 583=1936 Sind 127. The fact that S. 32, Sea Customs Act, refers to the delivery of goods detained by the Collector does not exclude the application of S. 415, I.P. Code, in appropriate cases when it is clear that the acts necessary to constitute an offence under that section and to attract its application exist. 32 S.L.R. 87=1937 Sind 293. S. 32 of the Sea Customs Act does not empower an importer to compel the Customs-Officer either to accept the declared value by him as correct, or, if he challenges it, to buy the goods for the Government at the declared value. To interpret the section in that way would be erroneous. 30 S.L.R. 304 =1936 Sind 127.

aforesaid, or buy in the goods, and without unnecessary delay dispose of them for the benefit of [1][the Central Government].

If the proceeds arising from such sale exceed the sum paid to the owner, together with (in the case of goods imported) the duty to which the goods are liable and all charges incurred by [1][the Central Government] in connection with them, a portion not exceeding one-half of the overplus shall, at the discretion of the Chief Officer of Customs, be payable to the officer who detected the undervaluation of the goods.

Nothing in this section shall prevent the Chief Officer of Customs, when he has reason to believe that any such undervaluation was solely the result of accident or error, from permitting the owner of the goods, on his application for that purpose, to amend such entry, on payment of such increased rate of duties on the excess of the amended over the original valuation, or on such other terms as the Chief Officer of Customs may determine.

33. If, on the first examination of any such goods under section 31, the owner thereof states in writing that such goods are, in consequence of damage sustained before delivery of the bill of entry, of value less than that stated in such bill, the Customs-collector, on being satisfied of the fact, may allow abatement of duty accordingly.

Abatement allowed on damaged goods.

Reduced duty how determined.

The reduced duty to be levied on such goods may be ascertained by either of the following methods, at the option of the owner :—

(a) the real value of such goods may be fixed on appraisement by an officer of Customs and the duty may be assessed on the value so fixed ; or

(b) the goods may, after due notice in the Official Gazette or some local newspaper, be sold by public auction at such time (within thirty days from the date of delivery of the bill of entry), and at such place, as the Customs-collector appoints ; and the duty may be assessed on the gross amount realised by such sale, without any abatement or deduction, except (in the case of goods imported) of so much as represents the duties payable on the importation thereof.

34. When any goods, the value of which has been fixed by law for the purpose of levying duties thereon, have, before delivery of the bill of entry, deteriorated to the extent of more than one-tenth of their value, the duty on such goods shall, if the owner thereof so desires, be assessed ad valorem.

Deterioration of tariff-value goods.

The real value of such goods shall be ascertained as provided in section 33; and the duty shall be assessed thereon.

[2][34-A. Where the Customs-collector is satisfied that any goods on which duties are levied on quantity and not on value, and which are of a kind to which the Central Government has, by notification in the Official Gazette, declared that the provisions of this section shall apply, have before delivery of the bill of entry deteriorated to the extent of more than one-tenth of their value, he may allow an abatement of duty proportionate to the extent of such deterioration.]

Abatement of duty on goods on which duty is levied on quantity.

35. No abatement of duty on account of [3][any deterioration] shall be allowed on wine, spirit or beer, or [3][save as provided by section 34-A] on any other articles on which duties are levied on quantity and not on value.

No abatement when duty is levied on quantity.

158. Before any coasting vessel departs from the port of lading, or, when there are more ports of lading than one, the first port of lading, the master shall fill in, sign and deliver to the Customs-collector a manifest in duplicate, containing a true specification of all goods to be carried in such vessel, in such form, and accompanied by such shipping bills or other documents, as may from time to time be prescribed by the Chief Customs-authority.

Coasting vessels to deliver manifest and obtain port-clearance before leaving port of lading.

If the Customs-collector sees no objection to the departure of the vessel, he shall retain the duplicate and return the original manifest, dated and signed by him, together with its accompaniments ; and such manifest shall be the port clearance of the vessel, unless, under the general orders of the Chief Customs-authority, a separate port-clearance be prescribed.

159. Within twenty-four hours after the arrival of any coasting vessel at any customs-port, whether intermediate or final and before any goods are there discharged, the manifest, together with the other documents referred to in section 158, shall be delivered to the Customs-collector, who shall note on the manifest the date of delivery.

Delivery of manifest, etc. on arrival.

If the vessel has touched at any foreign port between such port of arrival and her last preceding customs-port of departure, the master shall append to the manifest a declaration to that effect, and shall also indicate on the manifest the portions (if any) of the cargo therein described which have been discharged, and subjoin thereto a true specification of all goods shipped at such port.

If the customs-port of arrival be an intermediate port, and a portion only of the cargo is to be discharged thereat, the master shall likewise so deliver an extract from the manifest signed by him, relating to such portion, and the Customs-collector shall, after verifying such extract, return to him the original manifest and all documents accompanying it except those relating to such portion.

If in any case the cargo actually on board any coasting-vessel on her arrival at any customs-port does not, owing to short-shipment, re-landing or other cause, correspond with the specification thereof in the manifest returned to the master under the second class of section 158, such master shall, before delivery of such manifest under this section, note thereon the particulars of the difference.

The Customs-collector, when satisfied with the manifest and other documents, shall grant an order to break bulk.

Before any coasting-vessel departs from any customs port at which she has touched during her voyage, the master shall re-deliver the original manifest to the Customs-collector, after indicating thereon the portion (if any) of the cargo therein described which have been discharged. and subjoining thereto a true specification of all goods shipped at such port. He shall also deliver a duplicate, signed by him, of the specification so subjoined.

If the Customs-collector sees no objection to the departure of the vessel, he shall proceed as prescribed in the second clause of section 158.

161. The Customs-collector may, for sufficient reason, refuse port-clearance to any coasting-vessel declared to be bound to, or about to touch at, any customs-port, unless the owner or master gives a bond, with such security as the Customs-collector deems sufficient, for the production to the Customs-collector of a certificate from the proper officer of the port to which such vessel is said to be bound, of her arrival at such port within a reasonable time to be prescribed in each case by the Customs-collector.

Power to require bond before port-clearance is granted.

Discharge of cargo.

162. When permission has been granted by the Customs-collector for the discharge of cargo from any coasting-vessel—

(a) if the vessel has not touched at any intermediate foreign port in the course of her voyage, and has not on board any dutiable goods, the cargo may be forthwith landed and removed by the owner, without entry thereof at the custom-house and clearance for home consumption, but subject to such general check and control as the [1][Chief Customs-officer] may from time to time by rules prescribe;

(b) if the vessel has so touched at any such port, or has on board any such goods, such vessel shall be subject to all the provisions of Chapter VII of this Act relating to vessels arriving and such goods, and until such goods have been duly discharged all other goods on board shall be subject to the provisions of Chapter IX of this Act relating to goods imported.

Goods on coasting vessel, if excisable not to be unladen without permission.

163. If any of the goods on board of any coasting-vessel be subject to any excise-duty, they shall not be unladen without the permission of the proper officer of Excise.

Grant and revocation of general pass.

164. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained [2][the Chief Customs-officer may grant or] authorize the Customs-collector to grant a general pass, on any conditions which the [1][Chief Customs-officer] thinks expedient for the lading and clearance, and for the entry and unlading, of any coasting steam vessel at any ports of despatch or destination, or at any intermediate ports at which she touches for the purpose of receiving goods or passengers.

Such pass shall be valid throughout British India, or for such ports only as may be specified therein.

Any such general pass may be revoked by order of [1][the Chief Customs-officer] by whom the grant thereof [3][was made or authorized], by notice in writing under the hand of [1][the Chief Customs-officer], delivered to the master or to the owner of such steam vessel, or to any of the crew on board.

Rules respecting cargo-book to be kept by Masters of coasting vessels.

165. The Chief Customs-authority may direct that the master of any coasting-vessel which is square-rigged or propelled by steam shall keep, or cause to be kept, a cargo-book, stating the name of the master, the vessel, the port to which she belongs, and the port to which on each voyage she is bound.

At every port of lading such master shall enter, or cause to be entered, in such book, the name of such port and an account of all goods there taken on board of such vessel, with a description of the packages, and the quantities and description of the goods, contained therein or stowed loose, and the names of the respective shippers and consignees, in so far as such particulars are known to him.

At every port of discharge of any such goods such master shall enter, or cause to be entered, in such book the respective days on which such goods or any of them are delivered out of such vessel.

The respective times of departure from every port of lading, and of arrival at every port of discharge, shall in like manner be duly entered.

Every such master shall, on demand, produce his cargo book for the inspection of any officer of Customs, and such officer shall be at liberty to make any note or remark therein.

The deficiency must be in the quantity of the goods on board. There is nothing in the section to indicate that the measurement must be taken only on board the vessel and nowhere else. (c) up to confiscation of goods not exceeding fifty rupees in value, and imposition of penalty or increased duty not exceeding ten rupees, by such other subordinate officers of Customs as the [2][Chief Customs-authority] may, from time to time, empower in that behalf in virtue of their office :

LEG. REF.

[1]Inserted by Act XIV of 1922.
[2]Substituted by Act IV of 1914.

NOTES.

Sec. 182.—See 43 B. 221=21 Bom.L.R. 27=49 I.C. 427. Section is not exhaustive. 45 L. W. 394. Act contains no provision with regard to adjudication of confiscations and penalties. 24 Bom.L.R. 245=46 B. 732. See 1938 Mad. 608=I.L.R. 1938 M. 1040.

Provided that the [1][Chief Customs-authority] may, in the case of any officer performing the duties of a Customs-collector, limit his powers to those indicated in clause (b) or in clause (c) of this section, and may confer on any officer, by name or in virtue of his office, the powers indicated in clauses (a), (b) or (c) of this section.

Option to pay fine in lieu of confiscations.

183. Whenever confiscation is authorised by this Act, the officer adjudging it shall give the owner of the goods an option to pay in lieu of confiscation such fine as the officer thinks fit.

On confiscation, property to vest in Her Majesty.

184. When anything is confiscated under section 182, such thing shall thereupon vest in Her Majesty.

The officer adjudging confiscation shall take and hold possession of the thing confiscated and every officer of Police, on the requisition of such officer, shall assist him in taking and holding such possession.

Levy of penalty for failure to bring-to.

185. If any vessel actually departs without a port-clearance, or after failing to bring-to when required at any station appointed under section 17, the penalty to which the master of such vessel is liable may be adjudged by the Chief-Customs-officer of any Customs-port to which such vessel proceeds, or in which she is [2][* * * * *].

A certificate of such departure or failure to bring-to when required, purporting to be signed by the Chief Customs-officer of the port from which the vessel is stated to have so departed, shall be prima facie proof of the fact so certified.

Penalty under Act not to interfere with punishment under other law.

186. The award of any confiscation, penalty or increased rate of duty under this Act by an officer of Customs shall not prevent the infliction of any punishment to which the person affected thereby is liable under any other law.

Offences not specially provided for how tried.

187. All offences against this Act, other than those cognizable under section 182 by officers of Customs, may be tried summarily by a Magistrate.

NOTES.

Sec. 188.—If there be no legal adjudication of the matter in accordance with the Act, jurisdiction of the Civil Court is not ousted. 44 B. 221=21 Bom.L.R. 27=49 I.C. 427. Imposition of sea customs duties relates to 'a matter concerning revenue' within the meaning of the term in S. 106 (2) of the Government of India Act, 1935, and as such, the suit in the High Court questioning such imposition is barred. Such suit is also barred under Ss. 188 and 191, as the remedy given under these sections amounts to an ouster of the jurisdiction of Courts. The Act itself provides the remedy and the tribunal to decide disputes under the Act. 45 L.W. 394=1937 Mad. 536. The sole remedy open to those who are aggrieved by a decision or order for confiscation of goods passed by an Officer of Customs under the Sea Customs Act is the appeal to the Chief Customs authority provided by S. 188. The order is not liable to be challenged or impugned by any suit. 43 C.W.N. 445=I.L.R. (1939) 1 Cal. 257=1939 Cal. 763. See also 187 I.C. 542=3 Fed.L.J. (H.C.) 50. There is no reason for limiting the words "any decision or order passed . . . under this Act" in S. 188 to decisions or orders passed under S. 182 of the Act. They include decisions by an officer of customs as to the rate of duty applicable to particular goods, which necessarily involve the determination of the particular category in the tariff classification into which the goods fall. An order of an Assistant Collector of Customs assessing a consignment of betel nuts as boiled nuts subject to duty on a tariff value and not as raw nuts subject to duty ad valorem, is not an adjudication as to increased rate of duty under S. 182, but a decision as to the not inferior in rank to a Customs-collector and empowered in that behalf by name or in virtue of his office by [the Central Government].

Such authority or officer may thereupon make such further inquiry and pass such order as he thinks fit, confirming, altering or annulling the decision or order appealed against :

Provided that no such order in appeal shall have the effect of subjecting any person to any greater confiscation, penalty or rate of duty than has been adjudged against him in the original decision or order.

Every order passed in appeal under this section shall, subject to the power of revision conferred by section 191, be final.

Deposit, pending appeal, of duty demanded.

189. Where the decision or order appealed against relates to any duty or penalty leviable in respect of any goods, the owner of such goods, if desirous of appealing against such decision or order, shall, pending the appeal, deposit in the hands of the Customs-collector at the port where the dispute arises the amount demanded by the officer passing such decision or order.

When delivery of such goods to the owner thereof is withheld merely by reason of such amount not being paid, the Customs-collector shall, upon such deposit being made, cause such goods to be delivered to such owner.

If upon any such appeal it is decided that the whole or any portion of such amount was not leviable in respect of such goods, the Customs-collector shall return such amount or portion (as the case may be) to the owner of such goods on demand by such owner.

Power to remit penalty or confiscation.

190. If, upon consideration of the circumstances under which any penalty, increased rate of duty or confiscation has been adjudged under this Act by an officer of Customs, the Chief Customs-authority is of opinion that such penalty, increased rate or confiscation ought to be remitted in whole or in part, or commuted, such authority may remit the same or any portion thereof, or may, with the consent of the owner of any goods ordered to be confiscated, commute the order of confiscation to a penalty not exceeding the value of such goods.

Revision by the Central Government.

191. [1][The Central Government] may, on the application of any person aggrieved by any decision or order passed under this Act by any officer of Customs or Chief Customs authority, and from which no appeal lies, reverse or modify such decision or order.

Such an order if upheld in appeal under S. 188 and confirmed in revision under S. 191, excludes the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts to entertain a challenge of the merits of that decision. Goods on which penalty incurred not to be removed till payment.

192. When any fine, penalty or increased rate of duty is leviable under this Act, the goods in respect of which such fine, penalty or rate is leviable shall not be removed by the owner until such fine, penalty or rate is paid.

Other goods of person liable to fine or penalty may be detained.

If any person has become liable to any such fine, penalty or rate in respect of any goods, the Customs-collector may detain any other goods belonging to such person passing through the Custom-house until such fine, penalty or rate is paid.

Enforcement of payment of penalty.

193. When a penalty or increased rate of duty is adjudged against any person under this Act by any officer of Customs, such officer, if such penalty or increased rate be not paid, may levy the same by sale of any goods of the said person which may be in his charge or in the charge of any other officer of Customs.

When an officer of Customs who has adjudged a penalty or increased rate of duty against any person under this Act is unable to realize the unpaid amount thereof from such goods, such officer may notify in writing to any Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such person or any goods belonging to him may be, the name and residence of the said person and the amount of penalty or increased rate of duty unrecovered ; and such Magistrate shall thereupon proceed to enforce payment of the said amount in like manner as if such penalty or increased rate had been a fine inflicted by himself.

Every such sample shall, if practicable be at the option of the owner either restored to him, or sold and the proceeds accounted for to him.

NOTES.

Secs. 12 and 13.—Per Panckridge, J.—Ss. 12 and 13 of the Securities Act must be read together. The mere fact that there has been a dispute to which S. 13 applies, does not deprive S. 12 of its operation. It would be absurd to suppose that the existence of a dispute relieves the applicant from the obligation to deliver the promissory note and pay the prescribed fee. I. L.R. (1941) 1 Cal. 328=196 I.C. 48=45 C. W.N. 449=1941 Cal. 458.

Secs. 12 and 16 : CONSTRUCTION AND SCOPE —GOVERNMENT PROMISSORY NOTE WITH FORGED ENDORSEMENT—RENEWAL BY GOVERNMENT AND ISSUE OF NEW NOTE—EFFECT.—Under S. 12 a person claiming to be entitled to a Government promissory note is only entitled to renewal, amongst other things, on satisfying the prescribed officer of the justice of his claim, i.e., satisfying the prescribed officer that he is in fact entitled to the Government Promissory Note. The prescribed officer, therefore, is entitled to require evidence which satisfies him,—not merely evidence which might prove to a Court of Law that the title to the note was valid, but which satisfies the officer—and it is true to say that the officer cannot be regarded as exercising a merely ministerial act or duty. If he acts honestly and brings his judgment to bear on the case and does not act capriciously, if he says that he is not satisfied of the justice of the claim, no Court can compel him to issue a renewed note. When the Government issue a new note in renewal of a prior note, one of the endorsements on which is a forgery the renewed note constitutes a new and fresh contract, not a contract which is void or voidable, but a valid contract—between Government and the person to whom the note is issued, and is free from the infirmities of the old note, under S. 16 (1) of the Act. Government is not entitled to the return of the renewed note or the value thereof on the basis that it was issued without consideration or under a mistake of fact, or on the ground that the note has been negotiated by the person to whom it was issued. To say that the person to whom it governed by the Mitakshara law, that the promissory note formed part of the joint property of the family, and that the applicant is the managing or sole surviving male member of the family.

Explanation.—The expression "Hindu undivided family governed by the Mitakshara law" shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to include a Malabar tarwad.

Renewal of promissory notes in case of dispute as to title.

13. (1) Where there is a dispute as to the title to a Government promissory note in respect of which an application for renewal has been made, the prescribed [1][authority] may—

(a) where any party to the dispute has obtained a final decision from a Court of competent jurisdiction declaring him to be entitled to such note, issue a renewed note in favour of such party, or

(b) refuse to renew the note until such a decision has been obtained, or

(c) after such inquiry as is hereinafter provided and consideration of the result thereof, declare by order in writing which of the parties is in [2][its] opinion entitled to such note and may, after the expiration of three months from the date of such declaration, issue a renewed note in favour of such party in accordance with the provisions of section 12, unless within that period [3][it] has received notice that proceedings have been instituted by any person in a Court of competent jurisdiction for the purpose of establishing a title to such note.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this sub-section the expression 'final decision' means a decision which is not appealable or a decision which is appealable but against which no appeal has been filed within the period of limitation allowed by law.

(2) For the purpose of the inquiry referred to in sub-section (1), the prescribed [1][authority] may [4][direct one of its officers to] record, or may request the District Magistrate to record or to have recorded, the whole or any part of such evidence as the parties may produce. When such request has been made to the District Magistrate, such Magistrate may himself record or may direct any Magistrate of the first class subordinate to him, or any Magistrate of the second-class subordinate to him and empowered by general or special order of the was issued is bound to return it on the basis that it is not a good contract is inconsistent with the plain terms of the Act. It is clear that there is no failure of consideration in the case. The common law rule of indemnity, which the law normally implies, where one person acts upon the request of another, is a rule which affects obligations of a contractual nature between parties and must clearly yield to the expression of any contrary intention. The implication of such a covenant of indemnity is consistent with the provisions of the Act as to the renewal of a promissory note. No implied right of indemnity therefore exists in the case. 38 Bom.L.R. 1205=1937 B. 145.

Sec. 13. Per Panckridge, J.—The effect of S. 13 of the Securities Act is this: it relieves the prescribed authority of deciding on the merits of the dispute inter partes in a case to which the section applies. But the prescribed authority is still entitled to call upon the applicant to satisfy it of the justice of his claim from other points of view. I.L.R. (1941) 1 Cal. 328=45 C.W.N. 449=1941 Cal. 458. Where a Court of first instance has declared that the applicant is entitled to the Government promissory note for life only and the applicant is appealing against it claiming absolute ownership of the note, there is no "final decision" that the applicant is "entitled to" the note within the meaning of S. 13 of the Securities Act. The prescribed authority is therefore entitled to refuse to renew the note in the applicant's favour. I.L.R. (1941) 1 Cal. 328=45 C.W.N. 449=1941 Cal. 458. Per Derbyshire, C. J.—A person who is declared entitled to a Government promissory note for life only is not one "entitled to" the note within the meaning of S. 13 of the Securities Act. I.L.R. (1941) 1 Cal. 328=45 C.W.N. 449=1941 Cal. 458.

[1][Government] in this behalf, to record the evidence, and shall forward a copy thereof to the prescribed [2][authority].

Explanation.—For the purposes of this sub-section, the District Magistrate means the District Magistrate having jurisdiction in the place where interest on the promissory note is payable and, where interest is payable at a presidency-town, the Chief Presidency Magistrate, or at a place in a State in India, the Political Agent.

(3) [3][The officer of the prescribed authority] or any Magistrate acting under this section may, if he thinks fit, record evidence on oath.

Renewal of other securities.

14. Government securities other than those mentioned in sections 11 and 12 may be renewed in such circumstances and in such manner as may be prescribed.

Issue of converted, etc., securities.

15. (1) The prescribed [2][authority] may, subject to such conditions as may be prescribed, on the application of a person claiming to be entitled to a Government security or securities, on being satisfied of the justice of the claim and on delivery of the security or securities receipted in the prescribed manner and on payment of the prescribed fee, if any, convert, consolidate or sub-divide the security or securities, and issue to the applicant a new security or securities accordingly.

(2) The conversion, consolidation, or sub-division referred to in sub-section (1) may be into a security or securities of the same or different classes or of the same or different loans.

Liability in respect of promissory note renewed, etc.

16. (1) When a renewed Government promissory note has been issued under section 12, or a new Government promissory note has been issued upon conversion, consolidation or sub-division under section 15, in favour of any person, the note so issued shall be deemed to constitute a new contract between the Government and such person and all persons deriving title thereafter through him.

(2) No such renewal, conversion, consolidation or sub-division shall affect the rights as against the Government of any other person to the security or securities so renewed, converted, consolidated or sub-divided.

Discharge.

Immediate discharge in certain cases.

17. On payment by or on behalf of the Government to the holder of a bearer bond or other Government security payable to bearer of the amount expressed therein on or after the date when it becomes due, or on renewal of a bearer bond or other security payable to bearer under section 11, or on renewal of a Government promissory note under section 13, or on conversion, consolidation or sub-division of a bearer bond or other security payable to bearer under section 15, the Government shall be discharged in the same way and to the same extent as if such bearer bond, promissory note or other security were a promissory note payable to bearer :

NOTES.

Sec. 16.—See 38 Bom.L.R. 1205=1937 Bom. 145 cited under S. 12, supra. The holder of a renewed Government promissory note obtains a new promise from Government free from any equities or disputes which might have attached to the prior note. S. 16 of the Securities Act provides in terms that a renewed Government promissory note is to be deemed to constitute a new contract between the Government and the person to whom it is issued and all persons deriving title through him. 65 I.A. 286=42 C. W.N. 957=I.L.R. 1938 Bom. 502=1938 P.C. 191=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 169 (P.C.).

Provided that, in the case of a Government promissory note renewed under section 13, nothing in this section shall be deemed to bar a claim against the Government in respect of such note by any person who had no notice of the proceedings under that section, or who derives title through any such person.

18. Save as otherwise provided in this Act—

(i) on payment of the amount due on a Government security on or after the date on which payment becomes due, or

(ii) when a duplicate security has been issued under section 10, or

(iii) when a renewed security has been issued under section 12 or section 13, or a new security or securities has or have been issued upon conversion, consolidation or sub-division under section 15, the Government shall be discharged from all liability in respect of the security or securities so paid or in place of which a duplicate, renewed, or new security or securities has or have been issued—

(a) in the case of payment—after the lapse of six years from the date on which payment was due ;

(b) in the case of a duplicate security—after the lapse of six years from the date of the publication under sub-section (3) of section 10 of the list in which the security is first mentioned, or from the date of the last payment of interest on the original security, whichever date is later ;

(c) in the case of a renewed security or of a new security issued upon conversion, consolidation or sub-division—after the lapse of six years from the date of the issue thereof.

Discharge in respect of interest.

[1][18-A. Save as otherwise expressly provided in the terms of a Government security, no person shall be entitled to claim interest on any such security in respect of any period which has elapsed after the earliest date on which demand could have been made for the payment of the amount due on such security.]

Summary procedure in certain cases.

Procedure on death of holder of securities not exceeding an aggregate value of five thousand rupees.

19. (1) If within six months of the death of a person who was entitled to a Government security or securities (other than a security payable to bearer), the nominal or face value of which does not in the aggregate exceed five thousand rupees, probate of the will or letters of administration of the estate of such person or a certificate granted under the Succession Certificate Act, 1889, is not produced to the prescribed [2][authority], such [2][authority] may, after inquiry in the manner provided in sub-sections (2) and (3) of section 13, determine who is the person entitled to the security or securities or to administer the estate of the deceased, and may—

(a) in the case of any such security relating to a loan due for repayment, authorise payment of the amount due thereon to such person ; and

(b) in the case of any such security relating to a loan not due for repayment, authorise, in the case of a promissory note, the renewal of such promissory note in favour of such person, or, in the case of stock, the registration of the name of such person in substitution for the name of the deceased.

NOTES.

Sec. 18.—The effect of S. 18 of the Indian Securities Act is that even if the true owner of a promissory note has an enforceable claim against the Government according to the general law of limitation, he cannot enforce such payment after the lapse of six years from the date on which the payment is due under the promissory note. It does not extend the period of limitation up to the period of six years, if the person is otherwise disabled from suing because of the ordinary law of limitation. 1933 M. 376 =64 M.L.J. 172.

(2) Upon the payment or renewal of any promissory note in accordance with sub-section (1), the Government shall be discharged from all liability in respect of the note so paid or renewed; and any substitution of names made in accordance with clause (b) of sub-section (1), shall, for the purposes of any claim against the Government, be deemed to have effected a valid transfer of the stock in respect of which it was made.

(3) Any creditor or claimant against the estate of the deceased may recover his debt or claim out of money paid to any person under sub-section (1) and remaining in his hands unadministered in the same manner and to the same extent as if the said person had obtained letters of administration of the estate of the deceased, and nothing in this section shall affect any claim of an executor or administrator or other representative of the deceased against such person other than a claim to recover amounts lawfully paid by him in due course of administration of the estate of the deceased.

Payment in case of securities held by minors and lunatics.

20. Where a Government security stands in the name of or is held by a minor or a person who is insane and incapable of managing his affairs, the interest accruing thereon, or the capital sum payable in respect thereof on the maturity or discharge of the loan, shall, where, in the case of interest payable, the nominal value of the security, or in other cases the sum payable, does not exceed five thousand rupees, be paid in such manner as may be prescribed, and on any payment being so made, the Government shall, notwithstanding any provision of any enactment to the contrary, be discharged from all liability in respect thereof.

Indemnity.

Indemnity.

21. Notwithstanding anything in section 10, 12, 13 or 15, the prescribed [1][authority] may in any case arising under any of those sections—

(i) issue a duplicate or renewed security or convert, consolidate or sub-divide a security or securities upon the applicant giving the prescribed indemnity against the claims of all persons claiming under the original security or under the security or securities so renewed, converted, consolidated or sub-divided, as the case may be, or

(ii) refuse to issue a duplicate or renewed security or to convert, consolidate or sub-divide a security or securities unless such indemnity is given.

LEG. REF.

NOTES.

Sec. 21.—As a matter of construction the view cannot be accepted, that S. 21 of the Securities Act, has not merely the positive effect of giving the special right which it provides for, but has also the negative effect of cutting out the implied right of indemnity which undoubtedly existed in the repealed Act of 1886. A statute is prima facie to be construed as changing the law to no greater extent than its words or necessary intendment require. S. 21 was not in the earlier Act of 1886. If it had been intended by the insertion of that section in the Act of 1920 to abrogate the common law indemnity existing under the repealed Act the Legislature would it seems have used words clearly expressing that intention. There is no reason to justify reading in or implying such words. On the contrary S. 21 has to be construed as giving an added statutory right, which is different from and in no way inconsistent with the common law right. 65 I.A. 286=I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 502=1938 P.C. 191=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 169 (P.C.). A broker forged the indorsement of the holder of a Government promissory note and subsequently indorsed it for value to the Bank of India. The Bank obtained a renewal of it under S. 21 of the Securities Act. No security was taken from the Bank. Subsequently the holder of the original note sued the Secretary of State in conversion and obtained damages. In a suit by the Secretary of State against the Bank of India for indemnity against the loss it was held that he was entitled to be indemnified against the loss incurred as the Public Debt office had issued the renewed note only on the request of the Bank of India. The fact that no security was taken at the time of the renewal could not affect this right of indemnity. 65 I. A. 286=I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 502=48 L.W. 8=1938 P.C. 191=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 169 (P.C.).

It has been declared to be in force in the whole of British India, except as regards the Scheduled Districts, by S. 3 of the Laws Local Extent Act, 1874 (XV of 1874).

The position of members of the society is similar to that of the shareholders of a company. In order to redress a wrong done to the society or to recover moneys due to it, the action must prima facie be brought by the Society itself. Where the persons against whom the relief is sought themselves hold and control the majority and will not permit an action to be brought in the name of the society, the Courts will allow the members complaining to bring an action in their own names. But in such an action the plaintiffs cannot have a larger right to relief than the society itself would have if it were the plaintiff, and cannot complain of acts which are valid if done with the approval of the majority of the members or are capable of being confined by the majority. The cases in which the minority can maintain an action are confined to those in which the acts complained of are of a fraudulent character or beyond the powers of the society. 43 Bom.L.R. 562=1941 Bom. 312.

able purpose, or for any such purpose as is described in section 20 of this Act, may by subscribing their names to a memorandum of association and filing the same with the Registrar of Joint-stock Companies [1][* *] form themselves into a society under this Act.

Memorandum of association.

2. The memorandum of association shall contain the following things (that is to say)— the name of the society;

the objects of the society;

the names, addresses, and occupations of the governors, council, directors, committee or other governing body to whom, by the rules of the society, the management of its affairs is entrusted.

A copy of the rules and regulations of the society, certified to be a correct copy by not less than three of the members of the governing body, shall be filed with the memorandum of association.

Registration. Fees.

3. Upon such memorandum and certified copy being filed, the registrar shall certify under his hand that the society is registered under this Act. There shall be paid to the registrar for every such registration a fee of fifty rupees, or such smaller fee as the [2][Provincial Government] may, from time to time, direct; and all fees so paid shall be accounted for to the [2][Provincial Government].

Annual list of managing body to be filed.

4. Once in every year, on or before the fourteenth day succeeding the day on which, according to the rules of the society, the annual general meeting of the society is held, or, if the rules do not provide for an annual general meeting, in the month of January, a list shall be filed with the Registrar of Joint-stock Companies of the names, addresses and occupations of the governors, council, directors, committee or other governing body then entrusted with the management of the affairs of the society.

Property of society how vested.

5. The property, movable and immovable, belonging to a society registered under this Act, if not vested in trustees, shall be deemed to be vested, for the time being, in the governing body of such society, and in all proceedings, civil and criminal, may be described as the property of the governing body of such society by their proper title.

Suits by and against societies.

6. Every society registered under this Act may sue or be sued in the name of the president, chairman, or principal secretary, or trustees, as shall be determined by the rules and regulations of the society, and, in default of such determination, in the name of such person as shall be appointed by the governing body for the occasion:

NOTES.

—PROMISSORY NOTE IN FAVOUR OF—SUIT ON—MAINTAINABILITY.—Where the object of an institution is to help the cause of education from the income and interest arising out of trust fund, the institution has to be registered under this Act in order to enable it to acquire a juridical status. In the absence of non-registration under the Act, all the trustees in charge of the fund have alone a legal status. Therefore a promissory note if executed in favour of the institution, which has no juridical status, is void, and no suit can be instituted to enforce it on behalf of the institution. 151 I.C. 893=1934 N. 207.

Secs. 3 and 19.—Presumption that an association is duly registered arises not on the certificate of registration granted by the Registrar under S. 3, but on the copies of the Rules and Regulations and Memorandum certified under S. 19, which constitutes them prima facie evidence of the matters therein contained. 65 I.A. 106=I.L.R. Suits not to abate.

7. No suit or proceeding in any Civil Court shall abate or discontinue by reason of the person by or against whom such suit or proceedings shall have been brought or continued, dying or ceasing to fill the character in the name whereof he shall have sued or been sued, but the same suit or proceedings shall be continued in the name of or against the successor of such person.

Enforcement of judgment against society.

8. If a judgment shall be recovered against the person or officer named on behalf of the society, such judgment shall not be put in force against the property, movable or immovable, or against the body of such person or officer, but against the property of the society.

The application for execution shall set forth the judgment, the fact of the party against whom it shall have been recovered having sued or having been sued, as the case may be, on behalf of the society only, and shall require to have the judgment enforced against the property of the society.

Recovery of penalty accruing under bye-law.

9. Whenever by any bye-law duly made in accordance with the rules and regulations of the society, or, if the rules do not provide for the making of bye-laws, by any bye-law made at a general meeting of the members of the society convened for the purpose (for the making of which the concurrent votes of three-fifths of the members present at such meeting shall be necessary), any pecuniary penalty is imposed for the breach of any rule or bye-law of the society, such penalty, when accrued, may be recovered in any Court having jurisdiction where the defendant shall reside, or the society shall be situate, as the governing body thereof shall deem expedient.

Members liable to be sued as strangers.

10. Any member who may be in arrear of a subscription which, according to the rules of the society he is bound to pay, or who shall possess himself of or detain any property of the society in a manner or for a time contrary to such rules, or shall injure or destroy any property of the society, may be sued for such arrear or for the damage accruing from such detention, injury or destruction of property in the manner hereinbefore provided.

Recovery by successful defendant of costs adjudged.

But if the defendant shall be successful in any suit or other proceeding brought against him at the instance of the society, and shall be adjudged to recover his costs, he may elect to proceed to recover the same from the officer in whose name the suit shall be brought, or from the society, and in the latter case shall have process against the property of the said society in the manner above described.

Members guilty of offences punishable as strangers.

11. Any member of the society who shall steal, purloin or embezzle any money or other property, or wilfully and maliciously destroy or injure any property of such society, or shall forge any deed, bond, security for money, receipt, or other instrument, whereby the funds of the society may be exposed to loss, shall be subject to the same prosecution, and, if convicted, shall be liable to be punished in like manner as any person not a member would be subject and liable to in respect of the like offence.

Societies enabled to alter, extend or abridge their purposes.

12. Whenever it shall appear to the governing body of any society registered under this Act, which has been established for any particular purpose or purposes, that it is advisable to alter, extend or abridge such purpose to or for other purposes within the meaning of this Act, or to amalga-

NOTES.

Secs. 9 and 10.—Section 9 of the Act implies that in order to be recoverable in a Court of law, a penalty imposed by a society registered under the Act, must have been imposed in the manner, prescribed by the Act, and not otherwise that is to say, for breach of a bye-law duly made in accordance with the rules and regulations of the society, or, if the rules do not provide for the making of bye-laws, a bye-law made at a general meeting by the concurrent votes of three-fifths of the members present. The mere fact that certain rules framed by a Society before registration are lodged after Provision for dissolution of societies and adjustment of their affairs.

13. Any number not less than three-fifths of the members of any society may determine that it shall be dissolved, and thereupon it shall be dissolved forthwith, or at the time then agreed upon, and all necessary steps shall be taken for the disposal and settlement of the property of the society, its claims and liabilities, according to the rules of the said society applicable thereto, if any, and, if not, then as the governing body shall find expedient, provided that, in the event of any dispute arising among the said governing body or the members of the society, the adjustment of its affairs shall be referred to the principal Court of original civil jurisdiction of the district in which the chief building of the society is situate ; and the Court shall make such order in the matter as it shall deem requisite :

Assent required.

Provided that no society shall be dissolved unless three-fifths of the members shall have expressed a wish for such dissolution by their votes delivered in person, or by proxy, at a general meeting convened for the purpose :

THE INDIAN SOLDIERS (LITIGATION) ACT (IV OF 1925).

Year.	No.	Short title.	Amendment.
1925	IV	The Indian Soldiers (Litigation) Act, 1925.	Repealed in part, XII of 1927; Amended XIV of 1932, Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937.

The following is the Statement of Objects and Reasons appended to the Bill :—See Fort St. George Gazette, Part III, 23rd September, 1924, pp. 265-266.

In May, 1915, an ordinance was made and promulgated for the special protection in respect of civil and revenue litigation of Indian soldiers serving under war conditions. The ordinance was replaced in the first instance by an Act passed in 1915, and the provisions of that Act were re-enacted, with certain amendments, in the Indian Soldiers (Litigation) Act, 1918. The Act applies to Indian soldiers serving under war conditions and provides inter alia for the postponement in certain circumstances of civil and revenue proceedings in which an unrepresented Indian soldier is a party and for the deductions from periods during which they have been serving under war conditions. The Act applies to service under war conditions during the war and for six months thereafter, and to other services which are declared by the Governor-General in Council to be service under war conditions.

2. It was suggested that the protection required in these matters by Indian soldiers serving under war conditions was also required by Indian soldiers serving on garrison duty overseas and in certain areas in India. Local Governments and Administrations were accordingly consulted in regard to the working of the existing Act. They unanimously accepted the suggestion to extend its operation, and are of opinion that it has been found to be of real benefit to the absent Indian soldier. and that the hardship caused to the general public has been negligible. Certain of the authorities consulted were, however, of opinion that the Act should not apply to suits, appeals or applications to enforce a right of pre-emption nor to cases in which the interests of the soldier in the proceeding are either identical with or are adequately represented by another party to the proceeding. The former restriction on the application of the Act may be compared with the exception in S. 8 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1908, and the restriction was proposed because of the insecurity of tenure which is involved by the present law in such cases. This Bill has been prepared to give effect to these suggestions, and it has been considered expedient to provide for them by consolidating and amending the law on the subject.

would not render the society any the less a charitable society, if the purpose is one intended to benefit the public or a considerable portion of the public. The improvement of Islamic education and the rendering of pecuniary help to the poor musaffars, etc., are charitable purposes. When the society has this object also, the fact that one of the objects of the society is also to conduct the affairs of the mosque which does not involve the performance of any religious service by the members thereof cannot render the society a society formed for religious purposes, when it is found that the society concerns itself only with the management of the secular affairs of the institution. Such a society therefore would be a charitable society under the Act and its registration thereunder is perfectly legal and valid. There is nothing in Mahomedan Law to prevent such an incorporated society from performing the functions of a mutawalli of a mosque. If such a society holds the office of mutawalli and is in management of the mosque as such in derogation of the right of a person claiming to be mutawalli, for over 12 years, it acquires that right by prescription. If, on receipt of a notice under section 6, the prescribed authority certifies in the prescribed manner to the Court in which the proceeding is pending that the soldier in respect of whom the notice was given is serving under special conditions, and that a postponement of the proceeding in respect of the soldier is necessary in the interests of justice, the Court shall thereupon postpone the proceeding in respect of the soldier for the prescribed period, or, if no period has been prescribed, for such period as it thinks fit.

Court may proceed when no certificate received.

8. If, after issue of notice under section 6, the prescribed authority either certifies that the soldier is not serving under special conditions or that such postponement is not necessary, or fails to certify, in the case of a soldier resident in the district in which the Court is situate, within two months or, in any other case, within three months from the date of the issue of the notice that such postponement is necessary, the Court may, if it thinks fit, continue the proceeding.

Postponement of proceedings against Indian soldier on leave.

9. When any document purporting to be signed by the Commanding Officer of an Indian soldier who is a party to any proceeding is produced by or on behalf of the soldier before the Court in which the proceeding is pending and is to the effect that the soldier—

(b) is on sick leave for a period not exceeding three months, and is on the expiration of his leave to rejoin his unit with a view to proceeding on service under special conditions, the proceeding in respect of such soldier may, in any case such as is referred to in the proviso to section 6, and shall, in any other case, be postponed in the manner provided in section 7.

Power to set aside decrees and orders passed against an Indian soldier serving under war or special conditions.

10. (1) In any proceeding before a Court in which a decree or order has been passed against any Indian soldier whilst he was serving under war conditions or at any time after the 1st day of April, 1925, whilst he was serving under any special conditions, the soldier may apply to the Court which passed the decree or order for an order to set aside the same, and, if the Court, after giving an opportunity to the opposite party of being heard, is satisfied that the interests of justice require that the decree or order should be set aside as against the soldier, the Court shall, subject to such conditions, if any, as it thinks fit to impose, make an order accordingly.

NOTES.

Sec. 1: SCOPE OF ACT.—See U.B.R. (1892 1896), Vol. II, p. 338; 1 Ind. Jur. (N.S.) 290-d. A Hindu, by becoming a Brahmo, does not cease to be a Hindu. 26 C.W.N. 799=49 I.C. 1069=1923 C. 265. Where parties are married under this Act, succession is regulated by the personal law and not by the Succession Act. 1928 B. 74.

Sec. 2.—It is clear from S. 2 of the Special Marriage Act that two classes of persons only may be married under this Act, viz., (1), persons who do not profess any of the religions mention-Conditions upon which marriages under Act may be celebrated.

whom professes the Christian or the Jewish' or the Hindu or the Muhammadan, or the Parsi or the Buddhist, or the Sikh or the Jaina religion, [1][or between persons each of whom professes one or other of the following religions, that is to say, the Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh, or Jaina religion] upon the following conditions :—

(1) neither party must, at the time of the marriage, have a husband or wife living ;

(2) the man must have completed his age of eighteen years, and the woman her age of fourteen years according to the Gregorian calendar ;

(3) each party must, if he or she has not completed the age of twenty-one years, have obtained the consent of his or her father or guardian to the marriage ;

(4) the parties must not be related to each other in any degree of consanguinity or affinity which would, according to any law to which either of them is subject, render a marriage between them illegal.

1st Proviso.—No such law or custom, other than one relating to consanguinity or affinity, shall prevent them from marrying.

2nd Proviso.—No law or custom as to consanguinity shall prevent them from marrying, unless a relationship can be traced between the parties through some common ancestor, who stands to each of them in a nearer relationship than that of great-great-grandfather, or great-great-grandmother, or unless one of the parties is the lineal ancestor, or the brother or sister of some lineal ancestor, of the other.

Appointments of Marriage Registrars.

3. The Provincial Government may appoint one or more Registrars under this Act, either by name or as holding any office for the time being, for any portion of the territory subject to its administration. The officer so appointed shall be called " Registrar of Marriages under Act III of 1872 " and is hereinafter referred to as " the Registrar". The portion of territory for which any such officer is appointed shall be deemed his district.

One of the parties to intended marriage to give notice to Registrar.

4. When a marriage is intended to be solemnized under this Act, one of the parties must give notice in writing to the Registrar before whom it is to be solemnized.

The Registrar to whom such notice is given must be the Registrar of a District within which one at least of the parties to the marriage has resided for fourteen days before such notice is given.

Such notice may be in the form given in the first schedule to this Act.

Notice to be filed and copy entered in the Marriage Notice Book.

5. The Registrar shall file all such notices and keep them with the records of his office, and shall also forthwith enter a true copy of every such notice in a book to be for that purpose furnished to him by the [2][Provincial Government,] to be called the " Marriage Notice Book under Act III of 1872 " and such book shall be open at all reasonable times without fee, to all persons desirous of inspecting the same.

ed in the first part of that section, and (2) persons each of whom professes one or other of the four religions mentioned in the second part of that section. There cannot, therefore, be a marriage celebrated under this Act between a person who professes the Hindu religion and a person who does not profess any one or other of the following four religions, viz., the Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh or Jain religion. A suit to declare such a marriage null and void can be brought in the High Court in its ordinary original civil jurisdiction and need not be brought in its matrimonial jurisdiction. I.L.R. (1939) 1 Cal. 201 = 43 C.W.N. 215 = 1939 Cal. 544.

Sec. 3.—Where a Registrar is appointed to solemnise marriages between Arya Samajists, a solemnisation by such a Registrar of a marriage between parties neither of whom were Arya Samajists is invalid. I.L.R. (1940) All. 99 = 1940 A.L.J. 228 = 1940 All. 308 (F.B.).

Sec. 4.—See U.B.R. (1897-1901), Vol. II, p. 488.

Objection to marriage.

6. Fourteen days after notice of an intended marriage has been given under section 4, such marriage may be solemnized unless it has been previously objected to in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Any person may object to any such marriage on the ground that it would contravene some one or more of the conditions prescribed in clauses (1), (2), (3) or (4) of section 2.

The nature of the objection made shall be recorded in writing by the Registrar in the register, and shall, if necessary, be read over and explained to the person making the objection, and shall be signed by him or on his behalf.

Procedure on receipt of objection.

7. On receipt of such notice of objection, the Registrar shall not proceed to solemnize the marriage until the lapse of fourteen days from the receipt of such objection, if there be a Court of competent jurisdiction open at the time, or if there be no such Court open at the time, until the lapse of fourteen days from the opening of such Court.

Objector may file suit.

The person objecting to the intended marriage may file a suit in any Civil Court having local jurisdiction (other than a Court of Small Causes) for a declaratory decree, declaring that such marriage would contravene some one or more of the conditions prescribed in clauses (1), (2), (3) or (4) of section 2.

Certificate of filing of suit to be lodged with Registrar.

8. The officer before whom such suit is filed shall thereupon give the person presenting it a certificate to the effect that such suit has been filed. If such certificate be lodged with the Registrar within fourteen days from the receipt of notice of objection, if there be a Court of competent jurisdiction open at the time, or, if there be no such Court open at the time, within fourteen days of the opening of such Court, the marriage shall not be solemnized till the decision of such Court has been given and the period allowed by law for appeals from such decision has elapsed ; or, if there be an appeal from such decision, till the decision of the Appellate Court has been given.

If such certificate be not lodged in the manner and within the period prescribed in the last preceding paragraph, or if the decision of the Court be that such marriage would not contravene any one or more of the conditions prescribed in clauses (1), (2), (3) or (4) of section 2, such marriage may be solemnized.

If the decision of such Court be that the marriage in question would contravene any one or more of the conditions prescribed in clauses (1), (2), (3) or (4) of section 2, the marriage shall not be solemnized.

Court may fine when objection not reasonable.

9. Any Court in which any such suit as is referred to in section 7 is filed may, if it shall appear to it that the objection was not reasonable and bona fide, inflict a fine, not exceeding one thousand rupees, on the person objecting, and award it, or any part of it, to the parties to the intended marriage.

Declaration by parties and witnesses.

10. Before the marriage is solemnized, the parties and three witnesses shall, in the presence of the Registrar, sign a declaration in the form contained in the second schedule to this Act. If either party has not completed the age of twenty-one years, the declaration shall also be signed by his or her father or guardian, except in the case of a widow, and, in every case, it shall be countersigned by the Registrar.

NOTES.

Sec. 10.—See 19 C. 289. The words "when the parties are of full age" and the words "when the bridegroom is of full age and the bride minor" in Bengal Forms Nos. 1622 and 1623 respectively which have been adopted without the slightest legal justification in suppression of the statutory form are misleading inasmuch as a party may have attained the age of majority according to the personal law to which he or she is subject and still be under the age of 21 years and therefore incapable of contracting a marriage under the Act except with the father's or guardian's consent. A marriage between a bride below 21 years and a bridegroom over 20 years solemnised in Bengal Form No. 1622, without the bride's guardian's or father's consent is invalid. 1942 Cal. 42.

Marriage how to be solemnized.

11. The marriage shall be solemnized in the presence of the Registrar and of the three witnesses who signed the declaration. It may be solemnized in any form, provided that each party says to the other, in the presence and hearing of the Registrar and witnesses, "I, [A], take thee, [B], to be my lawful wife (or husband)".

Place where marriage may be solemnized.

12. The marriage may be celebrated either at the office of the Registrar or at such other place, within reasonable distance of the office of the Registrar, as the parties desire: Provided that the Provincial Government may prescribe the conditions under which such marriages may be solemnized at places other than the Registrar's office, and the additional fees to be paid thereupon.[1]

Certificate of marriage.

13. When the marriage has been solemnised, the Registrar shall enter a certificate thereof in a book to be kept by him for that purpose and to be called the "Marriage Certificate Book under Act III of 1872," in the form given in the third schedule to this Act, and such certificate shall be signed by the parties to the marriage and three witnesses.

Transmission of certified copies of entries in marriage certificate book to the Registrar-General of Births, Deaths, and Marriages.

[2][13-A. The Registrar shall send to the Registrar-General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories within which his district is situate, at such interval as the [2][Provincial Government] from time to time directs[3], a true copy certified by him, in such form as the [2][Provincial Government] from time to time prescribes, of all entries made by him in the said marriage certificate book since the last of such intervals.[4]]

Fees.

14. The Provincial Government shall prescribe the fees to be paid to the Registrar for the duties to be discharged by him under this Act.[5]

The Registrar may, if he think fit, demand payment of any such fee before the solemnization of the marriage or performance of any other duty in respect of which it is payable.

The said Marriage-Certificate Book shall at all reasonable times be open for inspection, and shall be admissible as evidence of the truth of the statements therein contained. Certified extracts therefrom shall on application be given by the Registrar on the payment to him by the applicant of a fee to be fixed by the Provincial Government for each such extract.

Penalty on married person marrying again under Act.

15. Every person who, being at the time married, procures a marriage of himself to be solemnized under this Act, shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 494 or section 495 of the Indian Penal Code, as the case may be; and the marriage so solemnized is void.

Punishment of bigamy.

16. Every person married under this Act who, during the lifetime of his or her wife or husband, contracts any other marriage, shall be subject to the penalties provided in sections

Indian Divorce Act to apply.

17. The Indian Divorce Act shall apply to all marriages contracted under this Act, and any such marriage may be declared null or dissolved in the manner therein provided, and for the causes therein mentioned, or on the ground that it contravenes some one or more of the conditions prescribed in clauses (1), (2), (3) or (4) of section 2 of this Act.

Law to apply to issue of marriages under Act.

18. The issue of marriages solemnized under this Act shall, if they marry under this Act, be deemed to be subject to the law to which their fathers were subject as to the prohibition of marriages by reason of consanguinity and affinity, and the provisos to section 2 of this Act shall apply to them.

Saving of marriages solemnized otherwise than under Act.

19. Nothing in this Act contained shall affect the validity of any marriage not solemnized under its provisions; nor shall this Act be deemed directly or indirectly to affect the validity of any mode of contracting marriage; but, if the validity of any such mode shall hereafter come into question before any Court, such question shall be decided as if this Act had not been passed.

NOTES.

Sec. 21.—The burden of proving that the declaration made by the deponent under the Act was false lies heavily upon the prosecution. 11 O.W.N. 404=1934 O. 155. The offence contemplated in S. 21 only deals with the declaration of a profession of want of belief in the Christian, Jewish, Hindu, Muhammadan, Parsi, Buddhist, Sikh or Jain religion at the time when the declaration is made. A person may be born to parents professing one of these religions and may even have been practising the tenets of one of them up to the time of his marriage, but if at the time when he contracts a marriage under the Act, he makes a declaration that he does not profess any of these religions, then it cannot be said against him that, because he was born in the Christian, Jewish, Hindu, Muhammadan, Parsi, Buddhist, Sikh or Jain religion, and had not formally renounced any of these religions before he made his declaration, he is guilty of an offence under S. 21 of the Specific Marriage Act, read with S. 199, Penal Code. The declaration does not amount to an abjuration for all purposes of personal law of the declarant, but merely as a statement for purposes of the Act itself. (49 C. 1069; 31 C. 11; 1928 B. 74 and 16 A. 212, Ref.). 11 O.W.N. 404=1934 O. 155.

Secs. 22 to 26.—SCOPE—IF RETROSPECTIVE—"WHO MARRIES"—EFFECT OF S. 24 added to the Special Marriage Act of 1872, by the amending Act of 1923, only applies to persons who marry under the Act subsequent to the amending Act. The words "who marries" in S. 24 clearly shows that the marriage contemplated is one after the date of the coming into force of the newly added S. 24. In other words, S. 24 cannot have any retrospective effect and will not apply to persons who solemnised their marriage under the Special Marriage Act before its amendment in 1923. 69 M.L.J. 81. Ss. 22 to 26, added by the Amendment Act (XXX of 1923), to the Special Marriage Act (1872), are not retrospective and do not affect the rights of offspring of marriages contracted under the old law of 1872; the Act is a substantive law affecting the status and rights of property. 15 P.L.T. 380=1934 P. 427. The words 'who marries" in S. 24 of the amended Special Marriage Act (1923), mean "who shall marry hereafter," namely from the date of the enactment which brought that section into existence, and cannot mean "who has married under the Act hereby amended." Therefore, a person who has married under the old

Rights of succession in certain cases of marriage under Act.

23. A person professing the Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina religion who marries under this Act shall have the same rights and be subject to the same disabilities in regard to any right of succession to any property as a person to whom the Caste Disabilities Removal Act, 1850, applies :

PRELIMINARY.

Short title

It extends to the whole of British India, except the Scheduled Districts as defined in Act No. XIV of 1874.[2]

NOTES.

Sec. 1: LOCAL EXTENT.—In the Sonthal Parganas, a prayer for the specific performance of a contract can be granted on principles of justice, equity, and good conscience. 40 I.C. 174=2 P.L.J. 379; 30 I.C. 365. See also 13 L. W. 591=63 I.C. 114; 152 I.C. 634=67 M.L.J. 635; 14 P. 249=16 P.L.T. 83=1935 P. 1; 17 Pat.L.T. 115=1936 P. 171; 1936 S. 119.

The Act is not exhaustive. Per Beaumont, C. J.—"I should be sorry to hold that the power of this Court, which is derived from the old Court of Chancery, to grant injunctions wherever just and convenient, as those words have been construed in England, has been taken away by an Act of Parliament". 33 Bom.L.R. 19=55 B. 659=1931 B. 151. A contract to be specifically enforced must be such that it might, at the time it was entered into, have been enforced by either of the parties against the other of them. 59 M. 942=1936 M. 564=70 M.L.J. 477. See also 42 C.W.N. 1090. Decree for specific performance is capable of execution by defendant as well as plaintiff. 24 Bom.L.R. 496=46 B. 990. See also 59 C. 501=36 C.W.N. 172=1932 C. 579; 64 M.L.J. 536=56 M. 796. Where, however, the first defendant had, in violation of his contract with the plaintiff, alienated parts of the property to the other defendants, he cannot in equity invoke the aid of the Court to compel the plaintiff to take a conveyance of his (the first defendant's) share alone or compel the other defendants against their consent to join in the conveyance to the plaintiff. 56 M. 796=1933 M. 386=64 M.L.J. 536. After a bargain of sale has been repudiated by the vendor, the purchaser claiming specific performance can, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, easily discharge the onus about readiness and willingness by simply showing that he is still ready and willing to carry out the bargain. 1939 N.L.J. 315=1939 Nag. 173. Where specific performance of a transfer of property is decreed, title to property relates back to the date of the agreement. 49 C. 495=1922 C. 412; see also 40 Bom.L.R. 545=1938 B. 357; 1938 A. 432. The mere fact that the contract proved is different from that set up in the plaint will not entail dismissal of a suit. 31 I.C. 1. Suit for—Right of either party to contract. 38 C.L.J. 177=1923 C. 524. A suit for specific perfermance may also ask for possession to be given to the plaintiff. 16 I.C. 988=22 C.L.J. 383. Specific performance which is not beneficial to a minor will not be decreed. 4 L. 408=1924 L. 181. See also 45 I.C. 192; 1937 All. 456; 1934 M. 703=67 M.L.J. 635. Where there is no consensus as to the terms of a contract a suit for specific performance of such a contract will not lie. 4 L. 408=1924 L. 181. See also 1934 M. 703=67 M.L.J. 635; 17 Pat.L.T. 277. (Agreement subject to assent of another being obtained); 1936 S. 26. There can be no mutuality in respect of what are known as "option contracts," until, at any rate, the party to whom the option is given has exercised the option. 1934 M. 703=67 M.L.J. 635; 118 I.C. 220=1929 S. 83. See also 56 M. 433=64 M.L.J. 354 (F.B.). A decree of specific peformance cannot be obtained in the case of unregistered contract of sale whith is compulsorily registrable. 67 I.C. 144=3 Lah.L.J. 173. See also 71 M.L.J. 641=1937 M. 22. Agreement to re-convey cannot be ignored as nudum pactum, and is one which is capable of being specifically enforced 1931 A.L.J. 571=1931 A. 113. See also 67 M.L.J 635=1934 M. 703. In a suit for specific performance the plaintiff has to allege and if the fact is traversed, he is required to prove a continuous readiness and willingness from the date of the contract to the time of the hearing to perform the contract on his part. The failure to make good the averment brings with it the inevitable dismissal of suit. 1930 P. 121; 45 C.W.N. 837. It is the duty of the plaintiff, before he can obtain relief by way of specific performance, to allege and prove that he was ready and willing to perform his part of the contract as it really was and not as he thought it to be. 136 I.C. 557=1932 L. 265. See also 39 Bom.L.R. 1166. (Duty of vendor to make out a marketable title.) If parties enter into an agreement for sale and the vendor makes certain representations as to his title, the conveyance which follows must be in conformity with the terms of the agreement. If that is so a Court decreeing specific perform-

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"obligation" includes every duty enforceable by law:

"trust" includes every species of express, implied or constructive fiduciary ownership:

"trustee" includes every person holding, expressly, by implication or constructively, a fiduciary character.

Illustrations.

(a) Z bequeaths land to A, "not doubting that he will pay thereout an annuity of Rs. 1,000 to B for his life." A accepts the bequest. A is a trustee within the meaning of this Act, for B, to the extent of the annuity.

(b) A is the legal, medical or spiritual adviser of B. By availing himself of his situation as such adviser, A gains some pecuniary advantage which might otherwise have accrued to B. A is a trustee, for B, within the meaning of this Act of such advantage.

(c) A, being B's banker, discloses for his own purpose the state of B's account. A is a trustee, within the meaning of this Act, for B, of the benefit gained by him by means of such disclosure.

(d) A, the mortgagee of certain leaseholds, renews the lease in his own name. A is a trustee, within the meaning of this Act, of the renewed lease, for those interested in the original lease.

(e) A, one of several partners, is employed to purchase goods for the firm. A, unknown to his co-partners, supplies them, at the market-price, with goods previously bought by himself when the price was lower, and thus makes a considerable profit. A is a trustee for his co-partners, within the meaning of this Act, of the profit so made.

(f) A, the manager of B's indigo-factory, becomes agent for C, a vendor of indigo-seed, and receives, without B's assent, commission on the seed purchased from C for the factory. A is a trustee, within the meaning of this Act, for B, of the commission so received.

(g) A buys certain land with notice that B has already contracted to buy it. A is a trustee, within the meaning of this Act, for B, of the land so bought.

(h) A buys land from B, having notice that C is in occupation of the land. A omits to make any inquiry as to the nature of C's interest therein. A is a trustee, within the meaning of this Act, for C, to the extent of that interest.

"Settlement" means any instrument (other than a will or codicil as defined by the Indian Succession Act) whereby the destination or devolution of successive interests in movable or immovable property is disposed of or is agreed to be disposed of:

ance of an agreement to sell, is bound to put the parties in the same situation in which they were on the date of the agreement. The recitals of representation in the sale deed must reflect the spirit of the agreement. 175 I.C. 761=1938 Nag. 411. In a case of specific performance by a purchaser the Court will not direct a conveyance unless the plaintiff will pay what is due. The Court can decree that and the Court will therefore in that case give relief; but if that which the plaintiff is to give on a bill for specific performance be something to be done at a future time and which the Court cannot enforce, the understood rule has always been that the Court in that case will never give relief. 1930 P. 121. See also 1936 Sind 119 (Contract comprising negative agreement). On passing an order recording a compromise under O. 23, R. 3, C. P. Code, the Court is to pass a decree not for the specific performance of the original contract but for the specific performance of the new contract to have the suit disposed of in a particular manner. But the analogy should not be carried far. There is one difference. While the Specific Relief Act gives the Court discretion to refuse specific performance of a contract, no such exception has been made in O. 23, R. 3. The specific performance of an agreement to end the suit by a compromise decree is different from specific performance of agreed acts to be performed after such decree, which the Court may or may not be in a position to supervise or enforce. If after a compromise decree is passed, the consenting party disobeys the decree, the decree-holder has his remedy under O. 21, R. 32 and where the contract is not specifically enforceable, the party may claim damages. 12 P. 359=1933 P. 306. Specific performance, suit for—Alternative prayer for refund of amount paid—Withdrawal of claim for specific performance—Damages could be awarded—Decree for refund with interest—Proper. 1939 A.L.J. 1107=1940 A. 41.

EXTENSION OF TIME.—Where in a suit for specific performance the Court grants a decree and directs the execution of a kobala on payment of a certain amount within a specified time, the Court has jurisdiction to grant time for the deposit of the balance of the consideration money in the event of its being satisfied after due enquiry that there had been some adequate reason for the party's failure to deposit the money within the time fixed. 37 C.W.N. 397=1933 C. 580.

REGISTRATION.—A plaintiff who has not presented his document for registration can maintain a suit either to get it registered or to compel his vendor and a third party to execute a new deed in his favour and register that new deed. The

OF SPECIFIC RELIEF.

OF RECOVERING POSSESSION OF PROPERTY.

(a) Possession of Immovable Property.

8. A person entitled to the possession of specific immovable property may recover it in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure.[1]

Recovery of specific immovable property.

9. If any person is dispossessed without his consent of immovable property otherwise than in due course of law, he or any person claiming through him may, by suit [2][* * *] recover possession thereof, notwithstanding any other title that may be set up in such suit.

Suit by person dispossessed of immovable property.

LEG. REF.

[1] See now the Code of Civil Procedure (Act V of 1908).

[2] The words "instituted within six months from the date of the dispossession" were repealed by the Amending Act (XII of 1891).

NOTES.

Registration Act does not touch or affect the equitable jurisdiction possessed by the Civil Courts to pass a decree for specific performance where circumstances exist entitling the plaintiff to such a decree. 21 Pat. 150.

Sec. 8.—See 20 C. 834 (P.C.) ; 33 A. 174=7 A.L.J. 1070 (F. B.).

Secs. 8 and 9.—A suit based on title under S. 8 of the Act should not be allowed to be changed into one under S. 9 in which the cause of action is not title but dispossession. But this should not be taken to mean that possession cannot be evidence of title or that a finding as to title based solely on evidence of possession is illegal. 1938 A.M.L.J. 54.

Sec. 9.—See as to tenancies in the Punjab, the Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), S. 51, P. and N.W. Code.

APPLICABILITY AND SCOPE.—The object of S. 9 is to discourage people from taking the law into their own hands, however good their title may be. 2 M.H.C.R. 313 ; 24 Bom.L.R. 768= 1922 B. 216 ; 58 C. 29=1931 C. 483 (2). The remedy by a possessory suit provided in S. 9 is a special remedy under the statute, the principle underlying it being that in a summary proceeding the order of which is not appealable the condition of possession before the inroad made upon a property without any process of law should be restored. A Court in a suit under S. 9 has no jurisdiction to pass a decree in favour of a plaintiff who claims an undivided share in a property from which he and his co-sharers were ousted. Such a possession is not contemplated by S. 9. 189 I.C. 878=1940 Pat. 193. See also 1940 All. 261. S. 9, is a special additional remedy which is available in certain circumstances but it in no way precludes the successful assertion of a possessory title in the ordinary way in a proper case, even though the suit is brought beyond the six months contemplated by that section. 173 I.C. 680=1937 Nag. 281. Suit for possession is maintainable also apart from the provisions of S. 9. 1927 M.W.N. 753. Suit on possessory title after a lapse of six months from the date of dispossession is maintainable independent of the provisions of the Act. 49 A. 91=1927 A. 526. S. 9 cannot be invoked unless the defendant has deprived the plaintiff of actual physical possession. The section has no application where the plaintiff is still in physical possession of the land and what is alleged is that the defendant has induced the stall-keepers to pay him the rent on market days instead of paying it to the plaintiff. The only relief that can be granted under the section is the restoration of physical possession. As the plaintiff has not lost that possession, there can be no question of restoration. 44 C.W.N. 895=1940 Cal. 464. See also 31 S.L.R. 28. Title suit and suit based on possessory title—Distinction is to be drawn between them—Possessory title is good against all but true owner—Title is no defence in suit under S. 9 but is conclusive in suits based on possessory title. 25 A.L.J. 857=1927 A. 669. A person who has obtained possession peacefully and has remained in undisturbed possession for a reasonable time prior to the dispossession complained of is certainly entitled to maintain a suit under S. 9. The possession required by the section cannot mean merely juridical possession or possession under a valid title; it includes possession that is at least excusable. A transferee from an occupancy tenant under a transfer which is not in accordance with law can nevertheless maintain a suit under S. 9, if he has been in undisturbed possession of the land prior to the dispossession. 20 N.L.J. 189=1937 Nag. 326. See also 1937 Nag. 281. Possession is sufficient evidence of right as against a trespasser. The plaintiff who proved possession for five years is entitled to recover possession from the defendant who dispossessed him and who proved neither title nor prior possession. 1931 M.W.N. 487. Where a purchaser in execution of a decree obtains possession and persons dispossessed file objections under O. 21, R. 100, C. P. Code, which are dismissed. the suit to establish the right to possession contemplated by O. 21, R. 103 is not one under S. 9. 1932 A.L.J. 812=1932 A. 703. All that the Court can do under S. 9 is to restore the plaintiffs to physical possession. It cannot direct the defendants to remove any structures which they have erected on the land or permit the plaintiffs to pull down the structures. In a suit under that section, the question of the title of the respective parties is not adjudicated upon and, therefore, it would be wrong to pass any order regarding the structures on the land. 44 C.W.N. 895=1940 Cal. 464. Decrees and orders under S. 9 were intended by the framers of the Act to be so far as possible final. Applications in revision are not in definite terms barred by the section, but it is clear that they are not to be lightly entertained. 8 O.W.N. 1341=1932 O. 39. See also 1938 A.L.J. 864=1938 All. 635.

SCOPE OF ENQUIRY.—In suits under S. 9, questions of title are irrelevant; the section was enacted to afford a summary remedy against persons who had taken the law into their own hands and had ejected those in possession of land otherwise than through process of law. 58 C. 29=1931 C. 483. See also 1940 Cal. 464; 40 L.W. 922=1935 M. 134; 116 I.C. 816=1929 A. 428; 1921 M.W.N. 437. In a suit under S. 9 the defendant will not be allowed to plead or to prove title in himself. 29 I.C. 210. See also 1927 M.W.N. 753. A claim for damages ought not to be joined with a claim for recovery of possession. 11 I.C. 38=8 A.L.J. 910. Prior peaceable possession furnishes a good title as against a mere trespasser. 50 C. 23. See also 27 I.C. 506=10 N.L.R. 188. Only possession and dispossession are to be proved by plaintiff and not title. 48 I.C. 433. See also 11 I.C. 38=8 A.L.J. 910; 20 C.W.N 773. The Court has no jurisdiction to go into the question of title in a possessory suit under S. 9. 18 I.C. 298=17 C.W.N. 501. In a suit under S. 9, a claim for damages cannot be combined with that for possession nor can the defendant be allowed to plead title in such a suit. (11 I.C. 38 and 29 I. C. 210, Foll.) 1939 Mar. L.R. 221 (Civ.). See also 1940 All. 41. In a suit under the section, neither the Court nor the defendant has any power to enlarge the scope of that suit or to treat it as if it were an ordinary suit resting on ground of title. 41 I.C. 974=23 O.C. 237. Where the plaint discloses a cause of action, the plaintiff is entitled to get a decree on the admission of the defence. 65 I.C. 644.

"SUIT".—An application in execution proceedings is included in the term 'suit' in S. 9 and therofore an appeal is not maintainable in respect of an order of the executing Court. 54 A. 777=1932 L. 416.

DISPOSSESSION IN DUE COURSE OF LAW.—A dispossession by a legal process or under provision of law which ought not to have been applied is not a dispossession in due course of law within S. 9. 18 I.C. 727; 11 I.C. 740=15 C.W.N. 956. A third person who dispossesses the landlord between one tenant's quitting and another tenant's coming in can be ejected under S. 9. 37 I.C. 20=9 Bur.L.T. 172.

"OTHERWISE THAN IN DUE COURSE OF LAW"—IF MEAN ILLEGALLY.—The words "otherwise than in due course of law" in S. 9, are not synonymous with the word "illegally". The phrase means "in the regular, normal process and effect of the law, operating on a matter which has been laid before a Court, Civil or criminal, for adjudication". It would ordinarily exclude self-help. 39 C.W.N. 394.

ORDERS UNDER CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE.—If a person prevented by an order under S. 144, is dispossessed, he can sue under S. 9. 64 I.C. 572. See also 43 I.C. 153=22 C.W.N. 931 (Order under S. 145, Cr. P. Code); 39 C.W.N. 394 (Order under S. 147, Cr. P. Code). Prior order under S. 145, Cr. P. Code—Whether operates as a bar—Decree passed in suit under Specific Relief Act—Remedy of aggrieved party. See 114 I.C. 543 (1)=1929 R. 21. See also 1936 R. 116.

INCORPOREAL RIGHTS.—This section takes out of the operation of the Act rights classed as "incorporeal rights" though they are "immovable property." 31 I.C. 450=20 C.W.N. 1158 (19 C. 544, Ref. to). See also 39 C.W.N. 394.

Nothing in this section shall bar any person from suing to establish his title to such property and to recover possession thereof.

No appeal shall lie from any order or decree passed in any suit instituted under this section, nor shall any review of any such order or decree be allowed.

temple—What is. 44 I.C. 497. Not only physical but constructive possession is sufficient to sustain a suit for possession under S. 9. Constructive possession goes with title. 48 I.C. 415. See also 16 L.W. 931=1922 M. 183.

JOINT POSSESSION.—The words of S. 9 do not refer to exclusive possession. A Court can pass a decree for joint possession in a suit under the section. I.L.R. (1940) All. 225=1940 A.L.J. 174=1940 All. 261. (29 M.L.J. 760 and 19 C.W.N. 120 not fol.) ; 19 C.W.N. 1117. See also 1940 Pat. 193 , 1941 N. 130.

SYMBOLICAL POSSERSSION.—Where plaintiff is not able to prove his title and alleges that symbolical possession only was with him, the suit must be dismissed. 21 I.C. 118. See also 18 O.C. 353=32 I.C. 202.

DISPOSSESSION.—The act of a person claiming a right of way over certain land, in passing over that land in exercise of that right does not amount to dispossession within the meaning of S. 9 so as to give the owner of the land a right of suit under the section. 39 C.W.N. 394.

PARTICULAR CASES—(a) LANDLORD AND TENANT. —S. 9 is not applicable to a suit by a tenant against the landlord for recovery of possession. 9 I.C. 751=14 O.C. 60. Whether dispossession of a tenant is an ouster of a landlord and the landlord can bring a possessory suit under S. 9. See 10 I.C. 455=15 C.W.N. 715. A landlord whose tenant has been dispossessed can bring a suit against a third party. 12 I.C. 190=5 S.L.R. 42. But see 22 N.L.R. 112, overruling 22 N.L.R. 30. See also 96 I.C. 251=1926 N. 472. An adhiar is very largely a tenant for the purpose of the Sp. Rel. Act. 31 I.C. 579=19 C.W.N. 1205. A suit under S. 9 by a dispossessed tenant to recover possession is not barred by the provisions of the Chota Nagpur Tenancy Act, S. 139. 13 C.L.J. 200=15 C.W.N. 387. It is unreasonable to permit an under-raiyat to be interfered with by a trespasser apart altogether from S. 9, merely because the lease from his landlord is for a longer term than the law permits. The fact that a person is in possession paying rent to his landlords is a sufficient interest in the property to enable him to recover it against the defendants, the defendants showing no title whatever, still less a better title. 118 I.C. 852 (1)=1929 C. 384. See also 1935 A.L.J. 813. Where the plaintiff who had been ejected by the defendant on the strength of one decree passed by the Revenue Court declaring the plaintiff to be a sub-tenant and therefore liable to ejectment sued in the Civil Court under S. 9, held, that the suit was not maintainable because the plaintiff had been ejected in due course of law. 53 A. 414=1931 A. 205. See also 40 L.W. 922=1935 M. 134. There is nothing in S. 9 to show that possession is confined to actual physical possession. In the case of a landlord and tenant the landlord is in possession through his tenant and the proper remedy where exclusive possession of immovable property is given to a tenant is for the tenant to file a suit for possession, but the landlord, if he desires to sue immediately on the possessory right, can sue in the name of the tenant and further, for an injury to the reversion, the landlord can sue in his own name. Where the tenant was dispossessed by a third party and he having refused to join the landlord in a suit for ejectment, the latter alone filed the suit and the tenant was impleaded as a party defendant, held, that the suit was maintainable. 51 B. 773=31 Bom.L.R. 1042. If a suit were barred under the Tenancy Act it would be immaterial whether a civil suit is brought under S. 9 of this Act or S. 9, C. P. Code. 53 A. 532=1931 All. 663.

(b) MASTER AND SERVANT.—The possession of a servant is that of his master and a Court has no jurisdiction to decree possession in a suit by a servant against his master. Archaka in a Hindu temple is in the position of a servant of the trustee. 1922 M.W.N. 422=16 L. W. 931.

(c) CO-OWNERS.—A man in joint possession is as much in physical possession of his share as the entire body of co-sharers are in physical possession of the whole. Such joint possession can be restored by the procedure under the section. 28 I.C. 570=19 C.W.N. 1117 ; 23 I.C. 618=19 C.W.N. 120 ; 44 I.C. 557. The plaint in a suit under S. 2 must aver previous possession and dispossession by the defendants otherwise than in due course of law within six months of the suit being brought, and should aver nothing else, and the only prayer in such a suit can be a prayer for the recovery of possession. The decree must either dismiss the suit or order the plaintiff to be put into possession by the defendant, such decree being based on previous possession and dispossession merely and not on title. 1940 Rang. L.R. 237=1940 Rang. 91. It may well be that a joint owner of property is still at the date of suit under S. 9, entitled to the property and would be given possession in a suit properly instituted for that purpose. But nevertheless it is open to one co-owner of property to oust the others and to obtain exclusive possession for himself. The title of others may not be extinguished when this is done, but if that ouster took place more than 6 months before the institution of the suit under S. 9, then for purposes of S. 9 that ouster would hold good. 193 I.C. 805=1941 N.L.J. 115=1941 Nag. 130. See also 1940 Pat. 193 ; 1940 All. 261. Co-owners—Suit by trespasser in possession—Other co-owners not parties, effect of. 18 N.L.R. 71. A suit under S. 9 is maintainable by one co-owner in possession of specific portions of survey numbers. 12 I.C. 190=5 S.L.R. 42.

(d) JOINT POSSESSION.—Joint possession cannot

Recovery of specific movable property.

10. A person entitled to the possession of specific movable property may recover the same in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure.[1]

Explanation 1.—A trustee may sue under this section for the possession of property to the beneficial interest in which the person for whom he is trustee is entitled.

Explanation 2.—A special or temporary right to the present possession of property is sufficient to support a suit under this section.

(e) MORTGAGE.—S. 9 does not apply to a suit wherein plaintiffs claim as mortgagees in possession and defendants plead redemption. 7 Bur. L.T. 10=23 I.C. 367; 93 I.C. 657=1926 N. 290.

(f) LICENSE.—A licensee of land, if dispossessed by a trespasser is entitled to maintain a suit under S. 9. 17 I.C. 469=15 O.C. 317.

(g) LEASE OF FERRY RIGHT.—The lessee of a public ferry under S. 8 of the Northern India Ferries Act is merely the lessee of the tolls of a public ferry. The public ferry remains in the possession of the public authorities and all that is left is a right to collect the tolls of that public ferry. Such a right to collect the tolls is in no way immovable property. Accordingly, the lessee of a public ferry has no right of suit under S. 9 of this Act. 1936 A.L.J. 1122=1936 A. 856.

(h) CLAIM FOR MESNE PROFITS.—Claim for mesne profits cannot be made in a suit under S. 9. 2 L.W. 157=30 M.L.J. 326; 102 I.C. 661 =1927 M. 722; 5 R. 123=1927 R. 142. See also 40 L.W. 922=1935 M. 134; 25 I.C. 802= 16 M.L.T. 190. A suit for possession under S. 9 is no bar to a subsequent suit for mesne profits. 46 I.C. 885.

(i) INSOLVENCY. — Adjudication of Hindu father—Sale of property—Obstruction by son—Removal of obstruction by Insolvency Court—Suit by son for possession—Maintainability. See 143 I.C. 833=1933 M. 609.

(j) TRESPASSER—Quaere: Whether a person, who is ab initio a trespasser and in whose favour no presumption under S. 110 of Evidence Act, can possibly arise, is entitled, though out of possession for more than six months, to a decree for restoration of his possession as against another trespasser. 1936 P. 602=18 Pat.L.T. 63. Where a person enters into possession lawfully under an alienation made by a Hindu widow, and is dispossessed by a third person, the person so dispossessed is entitled to restoration of possession on the principle that his ostensible title must be presumed to be a good title until displaced by some one having a better title, and on the principle that the alienation in his favour by the widow is in fact good and valid, unless and until the nearest reversioners elect to treat it as not binding upon them. 1936 P. 602=18 Pat.L.T. 63.

PARTIES.—It is not necessary that all dispossessed persons must be co-plaintiffs in a suit in ejectment against a trespasser. It is enough if they are parties either as plaintiffs or as defendants. 13 I.C. 125. See also 40 L.W. 277=1934 M. 588.

PRACTICE AND PLEADING.—Suit under the section, if vitiated by material irregularity, re-trial will be ordered. 28 P.W.R. 1912=13 I.C. 6. Seeking remedy by regular suit within six months does not alter nature of suit and does not turn suit into one under S. 9. 7 Bur.L.T. 10=23 I.C. 367.

JURISDICTION.—It cannot be said that it is only a Civil Court which can entertain a suit under S. 9. 53 A. 532=1931 A. 663.

RES JUDICATA—The decision in proceedings under S. 9 will operate as res judicata so as to bar a later suit for possession between the same parties. The judgment in the suit under S. 9 will be admissible in evidence in the subsequent suit. 60 C. 1171=37 C.W.N. 1148=1933 C. 923.

PLEADINGS.—See 1927 M. 1185; 197 I.C. 554; 1927 M.W.N. 753. Where a plaintiff bases his suit on title, he cannot be given a decree for possession under S. 9 even if he has been dispossessed within six months of the date of the suit. 1942 Pesh. 8.

APPEAL.—An order passed in execution of a decree under S. 9 is not appealable. 1923 L. 105. See also 45 C. 519=22 C.W.N. 446; 5 P. W.R. 1917=39 I.C. 379; 28 I.C. 282; 108 I.C. 385=1928 L. 539.

REVISION.—See 1938 A.L.J. 864=1938 All. 635. When a suit under S. 9 is decreed, the remedy of the defendant lies not in revision but in the institution of a suit for a declaration of the defendant's title and for possession. 156 I.C. 738=1934 A. 541. An order or decree passed under S. 9, Specific Relief Act, has not been made the subject of any appeal or review and although the High Court is not precluded from interfering with such orders in revision under S. 115, C. P. Code, such interference should be confined to cases of a very exceptional nature. 1941 O.W.N. 1237=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 1062.

REVIEW.—A decision passed forthwith in a suit under S. 9 is not open to review by S. 9 itself. 31 I.C. 307=2 L.W. 1067. See also 28 I.C. 282. But see 18 I.C. 298=17 C.W.N. 501.

REGULAR SUIT.—S. 9 is no bar to a suit for possession against a trespasser instituted beyond 6 months. 2 Pat.L.J. 280=39 I.C. 458; 2 Pat. L.J. 61=38 I.C. 797; 46 I.C. 885; 33 I.C. 167; 63 I.C. 809. See also 40 A. 637; 1935 O.W.N. 230=1935 O. 268.

(b) when compensation in money would not afford the claimant adequate relief for the loss of the thing claimed ;

(c) when it would be extremely difficult to ascertain the actual damage caused by its loss ;

OF THE SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE OF CONTRACTS.

(a) Contracts which may be specifically enforced.

Cases in which specific performance enforceable.

12. Except as otherwise provided in this Chapter, the specific performance of any contract may in the discretion of the Court be enforced—

NOTES.

=1923 A. 81 (Suit on invalid title). Suit for possession of land and crops—Decree—Removal of crops before execution—Subsequent suit for damages. See 41 A. 108=48 I.C. 422. Where the patnidar sued the darpatnidar for recovery of thoka, sheha, jamawasil and hastabud papers of the darpatnimehal on the basis of a registered contract and claimed in the alternative Rs. 100 as damages : Held, that the suit was not one for recovery of movables under S. 10, but one for special performance of an executory contract, not cognizable by S. C. Court and that a second appeal was competent. 59 C. 352=1932 C. 481.

SEC. 11.—To enable a person to obtain delivery of specific movable property by suit and enforce the decree, he should allege and prove facts which give him a right to compel the delivery of the specific movables under the provisions of S. 11. 39 M. 1=29 M.L.J. 342 (F.B.); see also 22 M. 478; 24 B. 458. Under S. 11 a person cannot be said to be in control of movable property when he can only obtain possession of it with the assistance of a Court of law. The word "control" in the section means control exercised when the property in question is in the physical possession of an agent or bailee who is reasonably certain to carry out the directions of the principal or bailor. 43 C.W.N. 903.

SEC. 12.—Reason of the rule in the section. 33 I.C. 323 (P.C.).

SCOPE OF SECTION.—In an action for specific performance the plaintiff has necessarily to prove the existence of a concluded contract between himself and the defendant and also that he was ready and willing at all material dates to perform his part of the contract. 15 P.L.T. 469=1934 P. 518. A purchaser may sue for specific performance and ask for an enquiry into the title;

(a) when the act agreed to be done is in the performance, wholly or partly, of a trust ;

(b) when there exists no standard for ascertaining the actual damage caused by non-performance of the act agreed to be done ;

(c) when the act agreed to be done is such that pecuniary compensation for its non-performance would not afford adequate relief ; or

(d) when it is probable that pecuniary compensation cannot be got for the non-performance of the act agreed to be done.

Explanation.—Unless and until the contrary is proved, the Court shall presume that the breach of a contract to transfer immovable property cannot be adequately relieved by compensation in money, and that the breach of a contract to transfer movable property can be thus relieved.

by the result of which he will be bound. 52 I.C. 971. Where compensation in money is an adequate relief to the plaintiff, a decree for specific performance of the contract should not be made. Proper decree in such cases would be one for damages which should be calculated on the price of the property at the date of the breach of the contract. 56 I.A. 280=1929 P.C. 190=57 M.L.J. 205 (P.C.). To award relief of specific performance is discretionary but it is not arbitrary. Where the plaintiff sought to enforce a contract intended for the more beneficial enjoyment of his property against the transferee of the other contracting party, held, that a decree for specific performance should be made. 133 I.C. 541. That alternative remedy is barred by time is no ground to grant specific relief in a proper case. 1933 A. 846=56 A. 142.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—Ordinarily a suit cannot be brought for specific performance of a contract to pay money. But the case of a vendor is an exception to the general rule and the Court will grant a decree for specific performance. 49 I.C. 385=35 M.L.J. 89. See also 2 Luck. 299 =1927 O. 55 ; 4 R. 297. A suit to recover the unpaid consideration for a mortgage is a suit for specific performance of an agreement to lend money on a mortgage and has been held not to lie. 37 P.R. 1918=45 I.C. 161. Payment of money under award is not a specific relief. 4 R. 227=1926 R. 198. Agreement to re-convey land is not one without consideration and can be specifically enforced. 129 I.C. 719=1931 A. 113. If a man promises to deliver land for an agreed price and fails to fulfil his promise, the Court can decree specific performance of the contract. 27 I.C. 732=8 Bur. L.T. 101. Where a defendant agreed to give land to plaintiff who has to help him in recovering it, held, the agreement can be specifically enforced because the breach of it could not be adequately compensated for by money. 1923 N. 47. Where a purchaser accepts an unregistered document, vendor is relieved from the duty of tendering a registered document. 108 I.C. 782=1928 M. 344. Injunction should not, as a rule, be granted where pecuniary compensation would give adequate relief. 11 I.C. 807=4 Bur.L.T. 165. A report of a jury constituted under S. 139, Cr. P. Code, does not amount to a contract between the parties and cannot be made a basis for a suit for specific performance. 38 I.C. 417=18 Cr.L.J. 305. In a case of a contract to transfer immovable property, money compensation cannot give adequate relief and explanation to S. 12 consequently applies. 125 I.C 169=7 O.W.N. 135. In proper cases a decree for specific performance of an agreement to grant a kanom can be passed. The principle that no decree could be made for specific performance of a contract to advance or take a loan will not apply to such a case. 55 M. 519=1932 M. 305=62 M.L.J. 525. See also 1929 M.W.N. 686=1929 M. 777. In a suit for specific performance of an agreement which contained a covenant to pass a sale-deed and also to deliver possession of the property, the plaintiff can also ask for possession of the property. 1932 B. 595=34 Bom.L.R. 1322. S. 77 of the Reg. Act does not provide the exclusive relief to the plaintiff who has paid consideration and earnest money to the defendant, who has promised the transfer to him of the immovable property. The mere failure of a suit under that section or its infructuous termination cannot operate as res judicata in a suit brought for the specific performance of the original contract and for recovery of possession of the immovable property. 54 A. 68=1932 A. 96. See also 1935 Pesh. 12. The Explanation to S. 12 makes it clear that unless and until the contrary is proved, the Court shall presume that the breach of a contract to transfer immovable property cannot be adequately relieved by compensation in money. Where the Court below exercises its discretion to grant specific relief, before a Court of appeal thinks of interfering with that discretion, it should come to the conclusion that the discretion was exercised by the Court below arbitrarily. 167 I.C. 657=1937 A. 161.

Sees. 12 and 22.—Indefiniteness of time to exercise option regarding relief may be ground for refusing specific performance. 56 A. 142= 1933 A.L.J. 1584=1933 A. 846.

Secs. 12 and 27-A.—An agreement to lease which does not create a present demise is not required to be in writing or registered, and can be oral and such an oral agreement can be specifically enforced under S. 12. S. 27-A which applies to a contract in writing does not operate as a bar to a claim for specific performance of the oral agreement. I.L.R. of clause (a)—

[1]A holds certain stock in trust for B, A wrongfully disposes of the stock. The law creates an obligation on A to restore the same quantity of stock to B and B may enforce specific performance of this obligation.

of clause (b)—

A agrees to buy, and B agrees to sell, a picture by a dead painter and two rare China vases. A may compel B specifically to perform this contract, for there is no standard for ascertaining the actual damage which would be caused by its non-performance.

of clause (c)—

A contracts with B to sell him a house for Rs. 1,000. B is entitled to a decree directing A to convey the house to him, he paying the purchase-money.

In consideration of being released from certain obligations imposed on it by its Act of Incorporation, a railway company contract with Z to make an archway through their railway to connect lands of Z severed by the railway, to construct a road between certain specified points, to pay a certain annual sum towards the maintenance of this road, and also to construct a siding and a wharf as specified in the contract. Z is entitled to have this contract specifically enforced, for his interest in its performance cannot be adequately compensated for by money; and the Court may appoint a proper person to superintend the construction of the archway, road, siding and wharf.

A contracts to sell, and B contracts to buy, a certain number of railway-shares of a particular description. A refuses to complete the sale. B may compel A specifically to perform this agreement, for the shares are limited in number and not always to be had in the market, and their possession carries with it the status of a shareholder, which cannot otherwise be procured.

A contracts with B to paint a picture for B, who agrees to pay therefor Rs. 1,000. The picture is painted. B is entitled to have it delivered to him on payment or tender of the Rs. 1,000.

of clause (d)—

A transfers without endorsement, but for valuable consideration, a promissory note to B. A becomes insolvent, and C is appointed his assignee. B may compel C to endorse the note, for C has succeeded to A's liabilities, and a decree for pecuniary compensation for not endorsing the note would be fruitless.

Contract of which the subject has partially ceased to exist.

13. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 56 of the Indian Contract Act, a contract is not wholly impossible of performance because a portion of its subject-matter, existing at its date, has ceased to exist at the time of the performance.

Illustrations.

(a) A contracts to sell a house to B for a lakh of rupees. The day after the contract is made the house is destroyed by a cyclone. B may be compelled to perform his part of the co ntract by paying the purchase-money.

(b) In consideration of a sum of money payable by B, A contracts to grant an annuity to B for B's life. The day after the contract has been made, B is thrown from his horse and killed. B's representative may be compelled to pay the purchase-money.

Specific performance of part of contract where part unperformed is small.

14. Where a party to a contract is unable to perform the whole of his part of it, but the part which must be left unperformed bears only a small proportion to the whole in value, and admits of compensation in money, the Court may, at the suit of either party, direct the specific performance of so much of the contract as can be performed, and award compensation in money for the deficiency.

Illustrations.

(a) A contracts to sell B a piece of land consisting of 100 bighas. It turns out that 98 bighas of the land belong to A, and the two remaining bighas to a stranger, who refuses to part with them. The two bighas are not necessary for the use or enjoyment of the 98 bighas, nor so important for such use or enjoyment that the loss of them may not be made good in money. A may be directed at the suit of B to convey to B the 98 bighas and to make compensation to him for not conveying the two remaining bighas: or B may be directed, at the suit of A, to pay to A, on receiving the conveyance and possession of the land, the stipulated purchase-money less a sum awarded as compensation for the deficiency.

(b) In a contract for the sale and purchase of a house and lands for two lakhs of rupees, it is agreed that part of the furniture should be taken at a valuation. The Court may direct specific performance of the contract notwithstanding the parties are unable to agree as to the valuation of the furniture, and may either have the furniture valued in the suit and include it in the decree for specific performance, or may confine its decree to the house.

NOTES.

Secs. 14 and 15: SCOPE OF SECTIONS.—Ss. 14 and 15 refer to cases where the inability to perform the whole contract was not contemplated

15. Where a party to a contract is unable to perform the whole of his part of it, and the part which must be left unperformed forms a considerable portion of the whole, or does not admit of compensation in money, he is not entitled to obtain a decree for specific performance. But the Court may, at the suit of the other party, direct the party in default to perform specifically so much of his part of the contract as he can perform, provided that the plaintiff relinquishes all claim to further performance, and all right to compensation either for the deficiency, or for the loss or damage sustained by him through the default of the defendant.

Specific performance of part of contract where part unperformed is large.

by the contracting parties ; they do not apply to the case where the obstacle to the full performance is known to the parties and no provision is made to meet it. 34 I.C. 461=12 N.L.R. 69. In exercising its jurisdiction as to specific performance, a Court of equity should look at the substance and not merely at the letter of the contract. 32 I.C. 47 (P.C.). Where the property agreed to be sold was clearly described by boundaries, number and area, but was found on measurement to be incorrect in area, the purchaser cannot claim specific performance with compensation for area by which the property was found to be less. 57 I.C. 957=22 Bom, L.R. 849. S. 14 holds good even where the deficiency in area is discovered after the execution of the conveyance and the vendee is entitled to compensation. 29 M.L.J. 122=29 I.C. 394. In cases where there is an agreement to sell but the agreement is silent as to the price, it is the duty of the Court while ordering specific performance to determine by itself or through a commissioner the price which should in reason be paid. 22 I.C. 517 =109 P.W.R. 1914.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—An agreement for the sale of a whole house may be enforced specifically to the extent of the vendor's share therein when it is found that he is only part owner of it. 22 I.C. 517=109 P.W.R. 1914; 42 I.C. 378=27 C.L.J. 611. See also 35 C.W.N. 40=131 I.C. 849=1931 C. 463. MINOR'S PROPERTY.—When a de facto guardian contracts with a third party for the sale of a minor's property, the Court will not, in the absence of sanction, direct the fulfilment of the contract as against the minors as this would amount to sanctioning a plain breach of trust on the part of the de facto guardian. 4 Pat.L.T. 553=1924 P. 81; 96 I.C. 949=1926 N. 493. As a rule the Court will not compel specific performance of a contract unless it can execute the whole contract. 1924 P. 81.

Secs. 14 to 17.—Ss. 14 to 17 constitute a complete code so far as specific performance of a part of a contract is concerned. 36 C.W.N. 1002. The law on the point of specific performance must be taken to have been codified by Ss. 14 to 17, and English authorities can only be resorted to for the purposes of explaining those sections. 33 C.W.N. 314=118 I.C. 849=1929 C. 380. Where a co-sharer professes to grant a lease of the entire estate in a property of which he held a share only, in the belief that the other party had already obtained the consent of the other co-sharer it cannot be deemed that there was a concluded contract, whereby the co-sharer undertook a binding obligation, on behalf of himself and the other co-sharer to obtain the lease of the property, and even though such co-sharer may have received the salami fixed, no suit for specific performance to execute a kabuliyat and give possession can lie against the entire body of the proprietors. 59 I.A. 47=59 C. 1025=62 M.L.J. 243 (P.C.). Where a contract for sale of an entire property is made by only one of the co-sharers of that property and the other co-sharers refuse to sell their shares, specific performance of the contract would not be enforced in part for the reason that there is obvious injustice in compelling the purchaser of the entirety to take undivided part or share of the property. 188 I.C. 383=42 P. L.R. 185=1940 Lah. 159.

Sec. 15.—S. 15 is enacted for the benefit of the purchaser and cannot operate to his detriment. It gives him an option to take only a fraction of the property contracted for on payment of the full stipulated price, and if he declines to do so, he cannot be deprived of the statutory purchaser's lien under S. 55 (6) (b) of the T. P. Act. 1929 M. 189=56 M.L.J. 99. It is open to the plaintiff in a suit for specific performance of a contract to relinquish his claim to any part of the property in suit on the conditions specified in S. 15 at any time before the suit is finally decided by the Court of appeal. 119 I.C. 491. Where certain of the co-sharers granted a lease of the entire estate to the plaintiff but no amalnama was executed because the other co-sharers refused to join and thereupon the plaintiff sued for a declaratory decree as to the lease with consequential relief as to possession, held that it was not a suit for specific per-

It turns out that 50 bighas of the land belong to A, and the other 50 bighas to a stranger, who refuses to part with them. A cannot obtain a decree against B for the specific performance of the contract; but if B is willing to pay the price agreed upon, and to take the 50 bighas which belong to A, waiving all right to compensation either for the deficiency or for loss sustained by him through A's neglect or default, B is entitled to a decree directing A to convey those 50 bighas to him on payment of the purchase-money.

(b) A contracts to sell to B an estate with a house and garden for a lakh of rupees. The garden is important for the enjoyment of the house. It turns out that A is unable to convey the garden. A cannot obtain a decree against B for the specific performance of the contract, but if B is willing to pay the price agreed upon and to take the estate and house without the garden, waiving all right to compensation either for the deficiency or for loss sustained by him through A's neglect or default. B is entitled to a decree directing A to convey the house to him on payment of the purchase-money.

Specific performance of independent part of contract.

16. When a part of a contract which, taken by itself, can and ought to be specifically performed, stands on a separate and independent footing from another part of the same contract which cannot or ought not to be specifically performed, the Court may direct specific performance of the former part.

formance and that S. 15 had no application. 33 C.W.N. 314=1929 C. 380. See also 1940 Lah. 159. Where a person is jointly interested in an estate with another person, and purports to deal with the entirety, specific performance will not be granted against him as to his share. But that is only if the contract is indivisible and the question whether the contract was divisible or not is essentially one of fact. Where an agent without authority contracted to sell to the plaintiff the shares of five co-sharers, three of whom ratified the contract and the others refused and it was clear that each party treated his share as separate and distinct, there is no impediment in law to a decree being granted to the plaintiff in respect of the shares of such of the co-sharers who ratified the agent's contract. 36 C.W.N. 1002=1933 C. 98. Where vendor agrees to sell certain property to vendee, but he is not legally entitled to sell whole of the property, the vendee can claim specific performance of contract in respect of so much of the property as is legally saleable by vendor provided the vendee consents to pay the full price. 1927 L. 773=102 I.C. 755. See also 89 I.C. 422=1926 L. 136; 1926 C. 744=91 I.C. 517; 35 C.W.N. 40=131 I.C. 849=1931 Cal. 463.

Secs. 15 and 18: SCOPE AND APPLICATION.—S. 15 applies only before the contract has been executed, but if it has been performed by the execution of sale-deed and delivery of possession, the rights of the parties are governed by S. 55 of the T. P. Act. 45 I.C. 669. Right to specific performance—Act does not apply after performance of contract. 4 N.L.J. 221. Where there is no completed contract between the parties, a Court cannot decree specific performance. 65 I.C. 594.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—Where a person who is jointly interested in an estate with another person deals with the entire property, specific performance will not be granted against him as to his share, the plaintiff's remedy being generally only by way of damages. 21 I.C. 528=18 C. L.J. 344. See also 20 I.C. 247=11 A.L.J. 456; 1 I.C. 892=16 C.W.N. 93; 38 M. 1187=26 I.C. 983. But see 1913 M.W.N. 995, infra. One member of a joint Hindu family cannot agree to sell joint property without the consent of the others and such an agreement, if made, cannot be specifically enforced. 20 I.C. 247=11 A.L.J. 456. But in a suit for specific performance of a contract for the sale of joint family property by the father, it is open to the Court to grant a decree as regards the share of the father alone. 1913 M.W.N. 995=21 I.C. 778. Specific performance of a contract to sell land by a manager of a joint Hindu family, which is binding on the other members, cannot be granted under S. 15 as against the whole property, but can be granted only against the share of the alienor and that too on payment of the whole consideration agreed upon. 44 M. 605=41 M.L.J. 129 (F.B.). See also 42 I.C. 378; 29 I.C. 628=13 A.L.J. 739. Where the manager of a joint Hindu family, contracted to sell family lands and the contract was not binding on the other members, specific performance could not be decreed even against the manager. 37 M. 387=15 I.C. 623. Specific performance of a part of the contract affecting some of the properties in an undivided Hindu family cannot be ordered under S. 17, but in a case falling under S. 15, the Court can grant part performance. 37 M. 403=22 M.L.J. 257. Contract to sell—Pardanashin woman—No independent advice—Consideration inadequate—Straitened circumstances—Contract if can be enforced. 13 I.C. 879=16 C.W.N. 247. Where after an agreement to sell two plots of lands, it was discovered that one of them belonged to the vendor's wife, the vendee can claim performance of so much of the contract as related to the vendor's own plot with a proportionate abatement in the price settled upon. 50 C. 700=27 C.W.N. 693.

Sec. 16.—S. 16 of the Specific Relief Act does not stand isolated but is part of a group of sections, namely, Ss. 14 to 17, which are both positive and negative and which together constitute a complete code within the terms of which relief of the character in question must be brought if it is to be granted at all. To understand the full significance of S. 16, it must be read with the other Ss. 14, 15 and 17. 45 L.W. 693=1937 M. 596. The shares of the coparceners are not separate and therefore S. 16 cannot apply to a case where specific performance

17. The Court shall not direct the specific performance of a part of a contract except in cases coming under one or other of the three last preceding sections.

Purchaser's rights against vendor with imperfect title.

18. Where a person contracts to sell or let certain property, having only an imperfect title thereto, the purchaser or lessee (except as otherwise provided by this Chapter) has the following rights :—

(a) if the vendor or lessor has subsequently to the sale or lease acquired any interest in the property, the purchaser or lessee may compel him to make good the contract out of such interest ;

(b) where the concurrence of other persons is necessary to validate the title, and they are bound to convey at the vendor's or lessor's request, the purchaser or lessee may compel him to procure such concurrence ;

(c) where the vendor professes to sell unincumbered property, but the property is mortgaged for an amount not exceeding the purchase-money, and the vendor has in fact only a right to redeem it, the purchaser may compel him to redeem the mortgage and to obtain a conveyance from the mortgagee ;

(d) where the vendor or lessor sues for specific performance of the contract, and the suit is dismissed on the ground of his imperfect title, the defendant has a right to a return of his deposit (if any) with interest thereon, to his costs of the suit, and to a lien for such deposit, interest and costs on the interest of the vendor or lessor in the property agreed to be sold or let.

Where the defendant contracted to sell a certain plot of land to the plaintiff but subsequently sold part of the plot to a bona fide purchaser for value, and there is nothing in the contract to suggest that part of it stands on a separate and independent footing from another port, the Court cannot direct the defendant to convey the remainder of the property to the plaintiff, S. 16 being inapplicable to the case. 66 C.L.J. 1=1938 C. 234.

Secs. 16 and 17: SCOPE OF SECTIONS.—See 104 I.C. 192.

Secs. 17 and 18.—[See also notes under S. 15.] —Where the plaintiff called upon the defendant to perform a contract different from the real agreement between them, he cannot claim performance thereof. 51 I.C. 13=29 C.L.J. 256. A Court cannot sanction a transaction devoid of any legal effect, nor can it compel a party to do an act the effect of which would be to compel a third party to bring a suit. 37 M. 403 =22 M.L.J. 257. On this section, see also 32 C.W.N. 1163=55 C. 1181.

Sec. 18: REASON OF THE RULE IN THE SECTION.—In cases of specific performance, a Court of Equity looks at the substance and not merely at the letter of contract. 32 I.C. 47 (P.C.). In an agreement by defendant to transfer inter alia cultivating rights in sir lands, there is an implied covenant on his part to do all things necessary to effectuate such transfer including an application to the Revenue Officer to sanction it. The Court has jurisdiction to enforce specific performance of such agreement by requiring defendant to apply to Revenue Officer. 57 I.A. 333=58 C. 692=60 M.L.J. 223 (P.C.). A sale of a reversionary right of succession, though at the time of the sale it does not affect a transfer of property, gives rise to a right which the Court will enforce when the inheritance falls into possession. Secs. 18 (d).—S. 18 (d) ought not to be interpreted as depriving the Court of any discretion in the matter of costs if the vendor's suit for specific performance is dismissed on the ground of imperfect title. It would be unreasonable to hold that S. 18 (d) lays down an absolute rule, independent of the conduct of the purchasers as defendants in the course of the suit for specific performance. S. 35, C. P. Code, clearly enables the Court to award costs in the light of the conduct of the parties in the suit, Power to award compensation in certain cases.

19. Any person suing for the specific performance of a contract may also ask for compensation for its breach, either in addition to, or in substitution for, such performance.

If in any such suit the Court decides that specific performance ought not to be granted, but that there is a contract between the parties which has been broken by the defendant and that the plaintiff is entitled to compensation for that breach, it shall award him compensation accordingly.

NOTES.

1940 M.W.N. 14=1940 Mad. 739. Prima facie a purchaser is entitled under S. 18 (d) to interest on the sum paid by him as advance when the vendor's title is imperfect and not free from doubt; and when there is nothing in his conduct to disentitle him to the same he must be awarded interest. 1940 M.W.N. 14=1940 Mad. 739.

Secs. 18 and 25.—S. 18 lays down certain rights which the purchaser or the lessee of a property has against the vendor or lessor who having an imperfect title thereto, contracts to sell or let. It does not make the contract invalid. Where, therefore, a lessee who has no right to sub-lease without the consent of the lessor enters into a contract to sub-lease without such consent, there is no reason why the contract cannot be specifically enforced if the lessee obtains the concurrence of his lessor when called upon to do so by the sub-lessee or by the Court. An objection that the lessee is not entitled to claim specific performance of the contract to sub-lease as he did not obtain the consent of the lessor for granting a sub-lease cannot, therefore, be raised for the first time in second appeal. 42 C.W.N. 97=I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 563=1938 Cal. 136.

Sec. 19.—Suit for specific performance and damages in the alternative—Plaintiff debarring himself by his action from obtaining specific performance at the hearing—Compensation cannot be awarded. 1926 P.C. 208 (1926 B. 189, affirmed) ; see also 152 I.C. 552=1934 Rang. 160 ; 18 N.L.J. 76 ; 46 Mys.H.C. In a suit for specific performance of an agreement, it is always possible for the Court, if it does not think fit to enforce the agreement specifically to award damages in lieu of enforcement even if not directly claimed in the plaint. 157 I.C. 26. On this section see also 1926 C. 1041 ; 1926 M. 173 ; 1937 Sind 263. The doctrine of mutuality which was one of the defences in English Law to an action for specific performance has been deliberately left out from the Specific Relief Act by the Legislature and it is not applicable to India. 118 I.C. 220=1929 Sind 83 ; see also 152 I.C. 634=67 M.L.J. 635=1934 Mad. 703. Where in a suit for specific performance of an agreement to reconvey the lands to the plaintiff, the purchase money had been deposited in Court but the defendant refused to receive the money and convey the lands. Held, that in granting a decree for specific performance, the Court may award the plaintiff mesne profits by way of compensation for breach of contract under the third paragraph of S. 19 and that, on the other hand, the defendant having improperly refused to receive the money, was not entitled to any interest thereon. 1933 M.W.N. 869; see also 152 I.C. 552=1934 Rang. 160. Where in a suit filed by a purchaser for specific performance of a contract for sale of an entire property entered into by a co-sharer, and in the alternative for damages, the plaintiff recognising that the contract is incapable of being carried out as the co-sharers who are not parties to the contract refuse to sell their shares of the property confines his claim to one for damages only, his claim can be decreed. The rule that when a party has declined to accept specific performance, he becomes disentitled to claim compensation as an additional or alternative relief, has no application in such circumstances. 188 I.C. 383=42 P.L.R. 185=1940 Lah. 159. The word "compensation" used in S. 19 should be understood in the sense of damages contemplated in S. 73 of the Contract Act. As S. 73, Contract Act, says the damages are to be awarded as compensation for any loss or damage arising naturally in the usual course of things from the breach of contract. Where, therefore, on a breach of contract of sale by the vendor, the vendee as a result of a compromise with the subsequent purchaser obtains more than he deserves, the Court would be exercising its discretion rightly in refusing to award to him any more sum as damages as against the vendor, even though the contract with the vendee provides for the return of the earnest money by the vendor besides damages. It appeared however that the purchasers had agreed to obtain the necessary consent but owing to certain dealings between the vendors and the lessors the consent was not forthcoming and meanwhile the purchasers gave notice repudiating the contract. The purchasers having sued for the recovery of the price, the defendants claimed specific performance. Held, that the vendor's failure to obtain sanction deprived them of their right to claim specific performance and that the purchasers were entitled to recover the purchase-money paid by them. 34 Bom.L.R. 1629. See also 1939 M. 547=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 436.

Secs. 19 and 21 (b).—A contract by a lessee

If in any such suit the Court decides that specific performance ought to be granted, but that it is not sufficient to satisfy the justice of the case, and that some compensation for breach of the contract should also be made to the plaintiff, it shall award him such compensation accordingly.

Compensation awarded under this section may be assessed in such manner as the Court may direct.

Explanation.—The circumstance that the contract has become incapable of specific performance does not preclude the Court from exercising the jurisdiction conferred by this section.

A contracts to sell a hundred maunds of rice to B. B brings a suit to compel A to perform the contract or to pay compensation. The Court is of opinion that A has made a valid contract and has broken it, without excuse, to the injury of B, but that specific performance is not the proper remedy. It shall award to B such compensation as it deems just.

of the third paragraph—

A contracts with B to sell him a house for Rs. 1,000, the price to be paid and the possession given on the 1st January, 1877. A fails to perform his part of the contract, and B brings his suit for specific performance and compensation, which is decided in his favour on the 1st January, 1878. The decree may, besides ordering specific performance, award to B compensation for any loss which he has sustained by A's refusal.

of the Explanation—

A, a purchaser, sues B, his vendor, for specific performance of a contract for the sale of a patent. Before the hearing of the suit the patent expires. The Court may award A compensation for the non-performance of the contract, and may, if necessary, amend the plaint for that purpose.

A sues for the specific performance of a resolution passed by the directors of a public company, under which he was entitled to have a certain number of shares allotted to him, and for compensation for the non-performance of the resolution. All the shares had been allotted before the institution of the suit. The Court may, under this section, award A compensation for the non-performance.

Liquidation of damages not a bar to specific performance.

20. A contract, otherwise proper to be specifically enforced, may be thus enforced, though a sum be named in it as the amount to be paid in case of its breach, and the party in default is willing to pay the same.

Illustration.

A contracts to grant B an under-lease of property held by A under C, and that he will apply to C for a licence necessary to the validity of the under-lease, and that, if the licence is not procured. A will pay B Rs. 10,000. A refuses to apply for the licence and offers to pay B the Rs. 10,000. B is nevertheless entitled to have the contract specifically enforced if C consents to give the licence.

Contracts not specifically enforceable.

21. The following contracts cannot be specifically enforced :—

to prepare and file a set of Jama Wasil bahi papers with the lessor every year falls under S. 21 (b), and cannot be specifically enforced. 42 I.C. 521.

Sec. 20.—It cannot be said that a party to an agreement of sale cannot enforce specific performance of the contract merely because there is provision for payment of damages under the agreement. 1931 L. 227=12 L. 328. Agreement to return the earnest money and pay damages if a contract of a sale is broken does not preclude a suit for specific performance being instituted by the vendee. 4 L. 327=1924 L. 151.

Sec. 21 : SCOPE AND APPLICATION OF SECTION.—Specific performance of an agreement to lease cannot be decreed if the date from which the term is to run is not fixed either expressly or impliedly. 39 M.L.J. 329=57 I.C. 626 (P. C.). As to circumstances justifying refusal of specific performance, see 1941 Rang. 177 (Hire purchase agreement). A document which is merely an agreement to enter into a contract cannot be specifically enforced. 50 I.C. 403=21 Bom.L.R. 302. Formal document not executed where the parties agree to the execution of a formal lease the draft of which is to be approved by them—Specific performance can be decreed though the draft is not drawn up. 46 C. 771=23 C.W.N. 563. Specific performance of an agreement to sell land against a subsequent purchaser, where the latter is entitled to a right of pre-emption against the person seeking to enforce the agreement for sale cannot be enforced. 122 I.C. 740=1930 A. 166. Specific performance can be refused on the ground of delay. 1933 R. 149. So also where other and more appropriate remedy is open to the plaintiff. 1933 Rang. 149. Where in a suit a compromise is arrived at between the parties whereby allotment of shares is agreed to be made on reference to two vakils, the agreement in substance amounts to one for submission to arbitration and such a contract cannot be specifically enforced under the section. The exceptions to this rule in S. 21 apply to those cases in which a submission to arbitration is a bar to a suit with regard to any subject which the parties have agreed to refer. 1937 P.W.N. 51=1937 Pat.

(b) a contract which runs into such minute or numerous details, or which is so dependent on the personal qualifications or volition of the parties, or otherwise from its nature is such, that the Court cannot enforce specific performance of its material terms;

(c) a contract the terms of which the Court cannot find with reasonable certainty;

NOTES.

232. Specific performance of a contract of lease cannot be decreed, if no date is fixed in the contract for delivery of possession. 189 I.C. 418 =42 P.L.R. 194=1940 Lah. 225. Although a Secretary of the District Board may establish that he has been wrongfully dismissed, still, assuming that he has established that point, he is not entitled to the remedy of injunction or of specific performance. He cannot get the temporary injunction for restraining the Board from enforcing its resolution. 56 A. 573=1934 A.L.J. 368=1934 All. 101.

Sec. 21 (a).—Suit to recover money payable under a bond or contract is not one for specific performance; it is one for compensation for breach of contract. 19 I.C. 376=6 S.L.R. 148. A contract under which a sum of money had been agreed to be paid but was not paid cannot be specifically enforced. It is open to the promisee to sue the promisor for the recovery of damages on account of the failure of the promisor to perform his part of the contract. 1934 A.L.J. 713=1934 All. 449; 1934 All. 448=1934 A.L.J. 773; 1935 A.L.J. 429. A contract to lend or borrow money on a mortgage will not be specifically enforced at the instance of the lender or borrower. 43 C. 59=19 C.W.N. 1332. See also 12 I.C. 952=8 A.L.J. 1282. A suit will not generally lie for specific performance of a contract to pay money. 49 I.C. 385=35 M.L. J. 89. Suit for payment of balance of mortgage money does not lie. 41 M. 959=49 I.C. 291= 35 M.L.J. 489. Specific performance cannot be compelled where compensation is the adequate remedy. 131 I.C. 599=1931 A. 40. But see 1933 L. 1, infra. The principle that no suit to specifically enforce a contract to lend money is maintainable does not apply to the case of an usufructuary mortgage in which a portion of the consideration is left with the mortgagee to pay off the creditors of the mortgagor and on failure of the mortgagee so to do, the mortgagor sues to recover the amount held in trust for him. Nor is the failure of the mortgagee to obtain possession through no fault of the mortgagor any defence to the action. 33 P.L.R. 1085=1933 L. 1. Where the defendant, on pressure put by the plaintiff to repay the amount due to him under the promissory notes or to furnish security by way of mortgage, handed over the title deeds of certain properties and also wrote that, if the amount is not paid without much delay, he will execute a mortgage deed on stamp paper. Held, that on the failure of the defendant to repay the amount, the plaintiff was entitled to a decree for specific performance of the contract to grant the mortgage of the properties. 1935 M. 560. Sec. 21 (b).—If the performance depends upon volition of a person not a party to the suit, a decree for specific performance should not be granted. 101 I.C. 654=1927 N. 233. A promise, contained in an ordinary power of attorney that it will not be revoked except on certain grounds is the same as a contract to keep a servant on hire and is not specifically enforceable. 121 I.C. 598=1930 M. 231. It is well settled that a contract of personal service cannot be specifically enforced. Neither affirmative nor negative covenants between an employer and an employee will be enforced at the instance of either. A contract to employ in service as a medical adviser or a legal adviser is a contract for personal service and under S. 21 (b) is not specifically enforceable. The fact that the employer is a company makes no difference in this respect. If the employer terminates the services of the employee on unreasonable or illegal grounds, the remedy of the aggrieved employee is to sue for damages and not for specific performance. 46 Mys.H.C.R. 125=19 Mys.L.J. 1. See also 1940 Lah. 243 (managing director of company). By Ss. 21 (b) and 56 (f), an injunction cannot be granted to prevent the breach of a contract to employ certain people. 1933 L. 203=14 L. 330. Court will not make an order, the effect of which is to enforce specifically any contract of personal service. 36 Bom. L.R. 907=59 B. 218=1934 B. 427. A contract for the preparation of a set of account papers relating to the darpatni mehal is one of which the Court cannot, from its very nature, enforce Specific performance. 59 C. 352=1932 C. 481. In this clause, see also 100 I.C. 399.

Sec. 21 (c).—Incomplete contract cannot be enforced. 24 Bom.L.R. 466=1922 B. 404. The Court will not enforce a contract the terms of which are uncertain. 32 I.C. 53=20 C.W.N. 66 (F.B.). If the essential terms of a contract are settled, the contract may well be regarded as complete and concluded and may be enforced or specifically performed, either as consisting of those terms only or together with such other terms and conditions as may be regarded as being usual in contracts of that description. 36 C.W.N. 1108. Where the plaintiff has asked for specific performance of an agreement and the claim is excessive he may be allowed to succeed on the basis of an alternative claim for a more limited right. 10 I.C. 503=14 C.L. J. 627. In the absence of complete agreement between the parties as to the essential terms of the contract of lease, the latter cannot be specifically enforced. 18 I.C. 911=149 P.L.R. 1913. Where the terms of certain agreement being indefinite, the plaintiff would not be able to obtain specific performance of such an agreement in case of its breach by the defendant but the defendant had wholly performed his part of the agreement: Held, that the plaintiff's possible

Discretion as to decreeing specific performance.

22. The jurisdiction to decree specific performance is discretionary, and the Court is not bound to grant such relief merely because it is lawful to do so; but the discretion of the Court is not arbitrary but sound and reasonable, guided by judicial principles and capable of correction by a Court of appeal.

The following are cases in which the Court may properly exercise a discretion not to decree specific performance :—

I. Where the circumstances under which a contract is made are such as to give the plaintiff an unfair advantage over the defendant, though there may be no fraud or misrepresentation on the plaintiff's part.

Sec. 22 : SCOPE OF SECTION.—40 B. 69=17 Bom.L.R, 303; 1933 M. 736=65 M.L.J. 491. Specific performance being one which is discretionary and a relief which isgranted where parties come to Court with clean hands, circumstances which would render a transaction unfair and avoidable as a fraudulent preference would materially influence the Court in decreeing specific performance. Contracts enforceable against the insolvent at the date of his insolvency would be enforceable against the O. R. in whom the properties vest by reason of insolvency. 1928 M.W. N. 617=1928 M. 860. Sse also 113 I.C. 129 (what contracts are enforceable against a receiver). When a plaintiff has alleged a contract of which he seeks specific performance and fails to establish it, the Court will not make a decree for Specific performance of a different contract. 29 I.C. 989=19 C.W.N. 933. The Court will not decree specific performance of an act which the defendant is not in a position to perform. 43 C.W.N. 903. The granting of sp. performance is purely discretionary and Courts in so doing generally apply equitable considerations and not merely look at the terms of the contract. 22 I. C. 910=18 C.W.N. 689. See also 13 I.C. 637= 16 C.L.J. 119; 1941 O.W.N. 265=1941 O. 324. The relief of specific performance is an equitable relief lying in the discretion of Court, and a plaintiff who sets up a false case cannot expect a Court of Equity to grant him such relief 1937 M.W.N. 1158. Where specific performance is sought to be enforced against a subsequent purchaser who has got a right of preemption, the Court should, in the exercise of its discretion under S. 22 refuse to decree specific performance. 198 I.C. 890. The circumstances stated in S. 22 are illustrative, not exhaustive. 10 I.C. 503=14 C.L.J. 627. A contract, which although not illegal, is detrimental to the public welfare, should not be enforced in equity. 10 I.C. 503. To protect the land from floods, it is neceesary for its owner to maintain an expensive embankment. B does not know of this circumstance and A conceals it from him. Specific performance of the contract should be refused to A.

(d) A's property is put up to auction. B requests C, A's attorney, to bid for him. C does this inadvertently and in good faith. The persons present, seeing the vendor's attorney bidding, think that he is a mere puffer and cease to compete. The lot is knocked down to B at a low price. Specific performance of the contract should be refused to B.

Mere delay is not a ground for refusing relief to the plaintiff if there has been no change in the status quo since the contract; but where the conduct of the plaintiff is such that though it does not amount to abandonment but shows waiver or acquiescence, especially when inaction on his part induces the defendant to change his position, the plaintiff ought not to be allowed any relief. 36 C.W.N. 285=1932 C. 493. See also 1933 A.L.J. 1584=1933 All. 846; 44 L.W. 749=71 M.L.J. 599; 117 I.C. 225=1929 L. 679. (e) A is entitled to some land under his father's will on condition that if he sells it within twenty-five years, half the purchase money shall go to B. A, forgetting the condition, contracts, before the expiration of the twenty-five years, to sell the land to C. Here the enforcement of the contract would operate so harshly on A, that the Court will not compel its specific performance in favour of C.

(f) A and B, trustees, join their beneficiary, C, in a contract to sell the trust-estate to D, and personally agree to exonerate the estate from heavy incumbrances to which it is subject. The purchase money is not nearly enough to discharge those incumbrances, though, at the date of the contract, the vendors believed it to be sufficient. Specific performance of the contract should be refused to D.

(g) A, the owner of an estate, contracts to sell it to B, and stipulates that he, A, shall not be obliged to define its boundary. The estate really comprises a valuable property, not known to either to be part of it. Specific performance of the contract should be refused to B unless he waives his claim to the unknown property.

(h) A contracts with B to sell him certain land, and to make a road to it from a certain railway-station. It is found afterwards that A cannot make the road without exposing himself to litigation. Specific performance of the part of the contract relating to the road should be refused to B, even though it may be held that he is entitled to specific performance of the rest with compensation for loss of the road.

(i) A, a lessee of mines contracts with B, his lessor that at any time during the continuance of the lease B may give notice of his desire to take the machinery and plant used in and about the mines, and that he shall have the articles specified in his notice delivered to him at a valuation on the expiry of the lease. Such a contract might be most injurious to the lessee's business, and specific performance of it should be refused to B.

(j) A contracts to buy certain land from B. The contract is silent as to access to the land. No right of way to it can be shown to exist. Specific performance of the contract should be refused to B.

(k) A contracts with B to buy from B's manufactory and not elsewhere all the goods of a certain class used by A in his trade. The Court cannot compel B to supply the goods, but if he does not supply them, A may be ruined, unless he is allowed to buy them elsewhere. Specific performance of the contract should be refused to B.

The following is a case in which the Court may properly exercise a discretion to decree specific performance :—

III. Where the plaintiff has done substantial acts or suffered losses in consequence of a contract capable of specific performance.

The word 'any' in S. 23 indicates one out of a number of persons more than two. Where one or more co-contractors want to enforce specific performance of the contract against the will of the others, they can do so under S. 23 of the Act. It is not necessary therefore that all the co-contractors should be arrayed on the same side for obtaining specific performance of contract. It is enough if all persons who are parties to the contract are before the Court. Where one of the co-contracting vendees refuses to join in the sale to be executed in their favour jointly, and the other contracting vendees bring a suit for specific performance of the contract, the suit being one to enforce the original contract as a whole, there is no variation in the contract and the suit is not one to enforce the contract piecemeal. The other willing co-contracting vendees have a right to sue for specific performance of the contract even though one of the co-contractors refuses to join them in the sale. I.L.R. (1938) Nag. 41=1937 Nag. 186. In a suit for specific performance it is not a valid defence that the person who entered into contract has no beneficial interest but is a benamidar. 29 I. titled to execute the decree. 59 C. 501=1932 C. 579. Where a person has only a personal interest which he cannot assign, his assignee can in no sense be regarded as his representative as to be entitled to obtain specific performance under S. 23 (b). 1930 A.L.J. 799=1930 A. 101. See also 191 I.C. 139. A contract is ordinarily assignable, and under S. 23 (b) specific performance of a contract may be obtained by the representative in interest of any party thereto, excepting in cases where any personal quality of such party is a material ingredient in the contract or where the contract provides that the interest shall not be assigned. Where on a sale the vendor obtains an agreement from the vendee to reconvey the property on certain terms and he assigns that right to obtain reconveyance to his own daughter the vendee is bound to reconvey on her complying with the conditions and is not entitled to demand further money for doing something which he was bound to do. 1942 N.L.J. 322. In a contract for sale, learning, skill, etc., of a party thereto is not a material ingredient. Such a contract can therefore be assigned and it can be enforced by the representative in interest of a party in absence of any agreement to the contrary. 27 A.L.J. 1196 =1929 A. 817. Where a contract between A and B is broken by B, but is such as its specific performance can be obtained by A, the right that A possesses is not a mere right to sue but a right to get specific performance, which can be validly assigned and the assignee can enforce the contract specifically against B. Where a person sells his land or house to another person and the latter enters into a contract to convey the property back to the vendor or his heirs, the right to obtain a reconveyance from the vendee or his heirs is ordinarily assignable even to a stranger who can enforce it by a suit. But where the intention of the parties is that the vendor or his heirs alone should be given the right of repurchasing the property, the assignee outside the family cannot enforce the contract specifically. Sec. 23 (c).—There is neither principle nor authority which would justify a Court in holding that there can be no compromise of doubtful claims between members of the same family, falling under S. 23 (c) unless it is between all the members of the family. S. 23 (c) was specifically designed to meet such cases as where senior members of a family compromise a dispute regarding the rights both of themselves and of the other members of their respective branches. 21 Pat. 377=1942 P. W.N. 149. Rowland, J.—S. 23 (c) was not reconcilable with the rule in Tweddle v. Atkinson, and where the two conflict, the statute [S. 23 (c)] must prevail. 21 Pat. 377=1942 P.W.N. 149. A in the character of agent for B enters into an agreement with C to buy C's house. A is in reality acting, not as agent for B but on his own account. A cannot enforce specific performance of this contract.

A contracts to sell B a house and to become tenant thereof for a term of fourteen years from the date of the sale at a specified yearly rent. A becomes insolvent. Neither he nor his assignee can enforce specific performance of the contract.

A contracts to sell B a house and garden in which there are ornamental trees, a material element in the value of the property as a residence. A, without B's consent, fells the trees. A cannot enforce specific performance of the contract.

A, holding land under a contract with B for a lease commits waste, or treats the land in an unhusbandlike manner. A cannot enforce specific performance of the contract.

A contracts to let, and B contracts to take, an unfinished house B contracting to finish the house and the lease to contain covenants on the part of A to keep the house in repair. B finishes the house in a very defective manner ; he cannot enforce the contract specifically though A and B may sue each other for compensation for breach of it.

A contracts to let, and B contracts to take, a house for a specified term at a specified rent. B refuses to perform the contract. A thereupon sues for, and obtains, compensation for the breach. A cannot obtain the specifi performance of the contract.

ance will be granted if the plaintiff cannot complete the agreement by doing what remained to be done under it by him. 43 C. 990=43 I. A. 108=31 M.L.J. 248 (P.C.). Plaintiff must show readiness to do his part of the contract up to decree—English law is also the same. 55 I.A. 360=52 B. 597. In a bilateral contract, the party repudiating his part of the contract cannot enforce it. 24 I.C. 53. See also 3 O.W.N. 884=1927 O. 12. The onus lies on the plaintiff to prove that he was ready to perform his part of the contract. 9 I.C. 243. On this section, see also 20 L.W. 884=1924 P.C. 233; 3 P. 698. If on the purchaser refusing to complete the contract, the vendor forfeits the earnest money paid by him and rejects his offer to tender documents, the acts of the vendor may amount to an expression of intention to rescind the contract and exclude pro tanto the idea of specific performance but do not disentitle him to relief by specific performance under S. 24 (b) and (c) of the Specific Relief Act. There is no "incapacity" to perform within the meaning of S. 24 (b), where the vendor had already performed his part of the contract by putting the purchaser into possession of the property and nothing remained but the matter of executing the conveyance. Nor can the vendor be deemed to have "chosen his remedy and obtained satisfaction" within the meaning of S. 24 (c) under this clause, mere choice of remedy is no bar to an action for specific performance if satisfaction has not been obtained. Sec. 24 Ill. (a).—A contract to be specifically enforced by the Court must be mutual, that is to say, such that it might, at the time it was entered into, have been enforced by either of the parties against the other of them. A guardian's contract for sale or purchase on behalf of the minor is not enforceable by or against the minor. A contract for sale of immovable property is purely of a personal character and as no personal liability can be imposed on the minor, it follows that the minor cannot be compelled to perform such a contract. The purchaser cannot claim compensation from the minor for the breach of the contract. If that is so, S. 25-A debars the purchaser from claiming the relief of specific performance against the minor. I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 55=1939 Nag. 265.

Sec. 25.—A buyer of immovable property is not bound to complete the sale if there are defects in the property or in the title to the property which are material and also latent, that is to say, not discoverable by the exercise of ordinary care or if the title is not free from doubt. A vendor, who had himself purchased the property from a Hindu widow in possession under her husband's will which was unsigned and unattested and the construction of which was open to reasonable doubt as to whether it created an absolute estate or only a limited

(a) who, knowing himself not to have any title to the property, has contracted to sell or let the same ;

(b) who, though he entered into the contract believing that he had a good title to the property, cannot, at the time fixed by the parties or by the Court for the completion of the sale or letting, give the purchaser or lessee a title free from reasonable doubt ;

(c) who, previous to entering into the contract, has made a settlement (though not founded on any valuable consideration) of the subject-matter of the contract.

Illustrations.

(a) A, without C's authority, contracts to sell to B an estate which A knows to belong to C, A cannot enforce specific performance of this contract, even though C is willing to confirm it.

(b) A bequeaths his land to trustees, declaring that they may sell it with the consent in writing of B. B gives a general prospective assent in writing to any sale which the trustees may make. The trustees then enter into a contract with C to sell him the land. C refuses to carry out the contract. The trustees cannot specifically enforce this contract as in the absence of B's consent to the particular sale to C, the title which they can give C is, as the law stands, not free from reasonabl doubt.

(c) A, being in possession of certain land, contracts to sell it to Z. On enquiry it turns out that A claims the land as heir of B, who left the country several years before, and is generally believed to be dead, but of whose death there is no sufficient proof. A cannot compel Z specifically to perform the contract.

(d) A, out of natural love and affection, makes a settlement of certain property on his brothers and their issue, and afterwards enters into a contract to sell the property to a stranger. A cannot enforce specific performance of this contract so as to override the settlement and thus prejudice the interests of the persons claiming under it.

estate, cannot be said to have made out his title beyond reasonable doubt; the vendee is therefore entitled to repudiate the agreement, which consequently cannot be specifically enforced. 59 B. 83=36 Bom.L.R. 1041=1935 B. 16. Title free from reasonable doubt: 33 Bom.L.R. 1377. A "title free from reasonable doubt." means a marketable title which can at all times be forced upon an unwilling purchaser. The vendee can enforce specific performance of a contract to sell, even though he is not in possession of the sale-deed, provided he is able to prove the terms of his agreement. 137 I.C. 41=1932 L. 276. Sec. 25 (b) expressly lays down the test to be applied in determining whether the vendor is able to convey a title free from doubt, and it is not safe to attempt to paraphrase it. When a vendor's title depends not upon a question of law but upon proof of a disputed fact, that fact must be proved, and if the vendor does not prove it, he cannot be held to have made out a good title. The mere fact of knowledge on the purchaser's part of earlier transactions relating to the source and the nature of the vendor's title would not disentitle the purchaser to insist upon proof of the vendor's title unless he had agreed to limit the nature of the inquiry into title or had agreed to accept whatever title the vendor had. 1940 M.W.N. 14 =A.I.R. 1940. Sec. 26: SCOPE OF.—12 C. 152. The plaintiff in a suit for specific performance must show

(a) where by fraud or mistake of fact the contract of which performance is sought is in terms different from that which the defendant supposed it to be when he entered into it ;

(b) where by fraud, mistake of fact, or surprise the defendant entered into the contract under a reasonable misapprehension as to its effect as between himself and the plaintiff ;

(c) where the defendant, knowing the terms of the contract and understanding its effect, has entered into it relying upon some misrepresentation by the plaintiff, or upon some stipulation on the plaintiff's part, which adds to the contract, but which he refuses to fulfil ;

(a) A, B and C sign a writing by which they purport to contract each to enter into a bond to D for Rs. 1,000. In a suit by D, to make A, B and C separately liable each to the extent of Rs. 1,000 they prove that the word " each " was inserted by mistake ; that the intention was that they should give a joint bond for Rs. 1,000. D can obtain the performance sought only with the variation thus set up.

(b) A sues B to compel specific performance of a contract in writing to buy a dwelling-house. B proves that he assumed that the contract included an adjoining yard, and the contract was so framed as to leave it doubtful whether the yard was so included or not. The Court will refuse to enforce the contract, except with the variation set up by B.

(c) A contracts in writing to let to B a wharf, together with a strip of A's land delineated in a map. Before signing the contract, B proposed orally that he should be at liberty to substitute for the strip mentioned in the contract another strip of A's land of the same dimensions, and to this A expressly assented. B then signed the written contract. A cannot obtain specific performance of the written contract, except with the variation set up by B.

(d) A and B enter into negotiations for the purpose of securing land for B for his life, with remainder to his issue. They execute a contract, the terms of which are found to confer an absolute ownership on B. The contract so framed cannot be specifically enforced.

(e) A contracts in writing to let a house to B, for a certain term, at the rent of Rs. 100 per month, putting it first into tenantable repair. The house turns out to be not worth repairing ; so, with B's consent, A pulls it down and erects a new house in its place : B contracting orally to pay rent at Rs. 120 per mensem. B then sues to enforce specific performance of the contract in writing. He cannot enforce it except with the variations made by the subsequent oral contract.

OF THE RECTIFICATION OF INSTRUMENTS.

When instrument may be rectified.

31. When, through fraud or a mutual mistake of the parties, a contract or other instrument in writing does not truly express their intention, either party, or his representative in interest, may institute a suit to have the instrument rectified ; and if the Court find it clearly proved that there has been fraud or mistake in framing the instrument, and ascertain the real intention of the parties in executing the same, the Court may in its discretion rectify the instrument so as to express that intention, so far as this can be done without prejudice to rights acquired by third persons in good faith and for value.

Sec. 31.—There are two limits to the rectification of an instrument: (1) when third parties have acquired rights in good faith and for value; (2) when a decree has been obtained upon an unrectified instrument and that decree has been executed and the money or property concerned has been recovered. 136 I.C. 850=1932 M. 275=62 M.L.J. 350. Presumption as to intent of parties.

32. For the purpose of rectifying a contract in writing the Court must be satisfied that all the parties thereto intended to make an equitable and conscientious agreement.

Principles of rectification.

33. In rectifying a written instrument, the Court may inquire what the instrument was intended to mean, and what were intended to be its legal consequences, and is not confined to the enquiry what the language of the instrument was intended to be.

Specific enforcement of rectified contract.

34. A contract in writing may be first rectified and then, if the plaintiff has so prayed in his plaint and the Court thinks fit, specifically enforced.

Illustration.

A contracts in writing to pay his attorney, B, a fixed sum in lieu of costs. The contract contains mistakes as to the name and rights of the client, which, if construed strictly, would exclude B from all rights under it. B is entitled, if the Court thinks fit, to have it rectified, and to an order for payment of the sum as if at the time of its execution it had expressed the intention of the parties.
